Retail food prices in the United States as reported to the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics showed a decrease of slightly more than 1 and 1 half per cent on January 15, 1930, when compared with December 15, 1929, and an increase of about one half of one per cent since January 15, 1929.

Thin, Pale, Weak

"I HAD been through a bad spell of sickness which left me very weak," says Mrs. Virginia Spruce, of Stapleton, Va. "I was pale and felt lifeless, and my strength did not return.

"I spent most of my time on the bed. I was very nervous, and the least thing upset me. I did not have strength enough to lift a broom. At times I would have bad headaches, which would hurt me until I could hardly see.

"Someone asked me why I did not try Cardui. I had read of it, so I thought I would see what it would do for me. It was really remarkable how I came out. My strength returned, and my health was better than it had been in years. I gained in weight about ten pounds. My color was good, and I ceased to suffer from headaches. I have told my friends about Cardui because I was benefited after taking it."

TAB TRAYWICK HURT IN WRECK

Last Wednesday night Mr. Tab Traywick was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital for treatment of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Early in the night Mr. Traywick and Mr. Roy Foshee came to the hospital to bring Mrs. Foshee, who was a daughter of Mr. Traywick. As they were going back to Mr. Traywick's home in Mr. Foshee's car, the accident happened, and Mr. Traywick was severely cut about the face and neck.

MULLINS WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

An event of unusual historic interest in Clanton's social life was the celebration of the Golden Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Isaac Mullins at their lovely home on Main Street Tuesday, February 25th from four to six, and seven to nine.

The guests were received by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, and ushered to the receiving line by Mrs. J. Watts Moore.

The bride was handsomely gowned in black crepe romaine with which she wore a shoulder corsage of yellow freezias. The groom wore a boutanniere of yellow also.

The living room was artistically decorated in masses of claudius pernetr roses, yellow jonquils and carnations attractively arranged in silver baskets and bowls. Under the chandalier hung a golden wedding bell symbolic of the fifty years of health and happiness enjoyed by the popular couple.

Mrs. N. S. Johnson presided over the bridal book, in which were written the names of all the relatives and friends enjoying the happy occasion with them.

An interesting feature of the occasion was the room in which were displayed the heirlooms of the family. Consisting of a spinning wheel 75 years old, hand woven coverlets, counterpanes and blankets, eighty-five yars old, a bread tray which has been in use for six generations, the old family clock, still ticking, which has ticked away their fifty years together, an old vegetable dish the young man bought the day before he was married, three old family bibles, an old album, the bed, dresser, and chair with which the young "Issac and Rebekkah" started their career.

In the dinning room the color motif was repeated in the decorations and beautiful appointments. The dinning table with its covering of lace over yellow satin was centered with a huge bowl of graceful snapdragons in rich shades of yellow and gold. Silver copports held yellow mints and tall burning tapers which made a pretty effect. Dainty yellow sandwiches and cakes further carried out the golden idea.

Mrs. James Hugh Jones and Mrs. Arthur Johnson served from a silver urn. Others assisting in serving were: Mrs. Frank Callen, Mrs. Hance Alred, Mrs. Grady Broadhead, Mrs. Oscar Jones, Miss Bettie Mullins.

Music was furnished during the evening by Mrs. William Huddleston, Mrs. Colquitt Majure, Mrs. Frank Callen, Miss Madelyn Orr, and Mr. Charles Moore.

Fifty years ago the longings of a love romance became a reality when Kinion and Sarah Ann Wells gave their beautiful daughter, Sarah Alice, into the loving care of William Issac Mullins, son the Reverend James Arthur and Carrizada Mullins. They were married in Verbena, Alabama, by Judge Jefferson Faulkner of Montgomery. Isaac's Rebekkah of old could not have been more beautiful nor more loyal and faithful to her lover than has been Sarah Alice to the William Isaac of this sketch.

A red-haired, red-blooded Irishman of courage, determination, and unlimited energy took his "Rebakkah" immediately to the rolling hills and green valleys of the Mullins settlement, near Mt. Zion Baptist Church, where they spent a busy, happy honeymoon dreaming over fate's future for their long voyage together.

After one and one-half years their dreams visualized larger opportunities, and they moved to Kincheon where they engaged in ginning, milling, farming and the mercantile business for the next ten years with considerable success. It was in these years that William Isaac found his cue or bent in life in the mercantile business. "Still achieving, still pursueing," still dreaming, still visualizing, they saw a fair little town of promise, Clanton, to which they moved in the spring of 1893. Here, too, "still schieving, still pursuing," they have wrought life's work and done it well. "Laboring and waiting," they have lived to see their early dreams and aspirations in the full fruition of material success, a Christian home, and six noble sons and daughters who "Rise up and call them blessed."

Enjoying the celebration with them were all the children, J. R. Mullins, Mrs. Emma Mullins Moore, Mrs. Nell Mullins Gowan, William K. Mullins, Mrs. Kathleen Mullins DeRamus, and Frank A. Mullins. Ten of the thirteen grand children, one great-grand son, daughters-in-law, Sons-in-law, sisters, cousins, kindred, and a large host of friends in Clanton, Chilton County, and the State at large.

Among the out of town relatives and relatives who attended the funeral of Mr. J. C. Jones Monday were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mauk and Mr. and Mrs. Davis, of Birmingham; Mr. Fred Solomon of Solomon Brothers, Montgomery; Mr. Tom Jones of Dothan; Mr. Jim Mullins of Birmingham; Messrs. Burton and Leon Mullins of Dothan.

HOME-COMING DAY IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Mayor Thomas P. Stoney of Charleston, South Carolina, has proclaimed April 10-13, as the joint celebration of the 250th anniversary of the official settlement of Charleston on its present site and the 260th celebration of the founding of the province of Carolina under the lords proprietors.

In a letter, to Eric Hart, Mayor of Clanton, the chief executive of Charleston after expressing the wish that his honor and his citizens may find it expedient to visit Charleston during the joint celebration, which falls concurrently with Charleston's famous garden season, sends out a call to all South Carolinians and to Charlestonians in particular, who may be residing in this city to return for a general "home-coming" on this occassion.

Charleston was first settled on the west bank of the Ashley River by English colonists under William Sayle in April, 1670, and in 1680 the settlement was officially changed to Oyster Point on the southern extremity of the peninsula which is now the present site of Charleston.

DEATH CALL TO TWO JUDGES ON THE SAME DAY

President Hoover Proclaims Thirty-Day Mourning Period For Taft

Washington, March 8. — William Howard Taft and Edward Terry Sanford, who sat together on the bench of the Supreme Court for 7 years, died within five hours of each other Saturday.

At the age of 72, the former chief justice had been seriously ill for 5 weeks. Aged 64, the associated justice was stricken less than 3 hours before the end.

Of late, while Mr. Taft's death seemed imminent, Mr. Sanford would call at his residence before 8 o'clock in the morning to learn how his dear friend had spent the night. His face would lighten up with a smile if the word was encouraging, but he would walk away downcast if the outlook was unfavorable. Little had any of the friends of them both dreamed that the younger would go first.

President Hoover Saturday night officially announced the death of William Howard Taft, in a proclamation calling upon the nation to observe a 30-day period of mourning with flags at half staff.

The proclamation follows:

"To the people of the United States of America:

It becomes my sad duty to announce officially the death of William Howard Taft, which occurred at his home in the city of Washington, on the 8th day of March, 1930, at 5:15 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Mr. Taft's service to our country has been of rare distinction and was marked by a purity of patriotism, a lofty disinterestedness, and a devotion to the best interests of the nation that deserve and will ever command the grateful memory of his countrymen. His career was almost unique in the wide range of official duty: as judge, as solicitor general, governor general of the Philippines, secretary of war, president of the United States, and finally chief justice.

"His private life was characterized by a simplicity of virtue that won for him a place in the affection of his fellow countrymen rarely equalled by any man. In public and in private life he set a shining example, and his death will be mourned throughout the land.

"As an expression of the public's sorrow, it is ordered that the flags of the White House and of the several departmental buildings be displayed at half-staff for a period of 30 days, and that suitable military and naval honors under orders of the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy may be rendered on the day of the funeral.

"Done at the city of Washington on this 8th day of March, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and fifty-fourth."

"Signed: Herbert Hoover."

OWENS GIRL DEAD

Lillian Opheliah Owens, age 22, daughter of J. R. (Bob) Owens, of near Shiloh, died at the family home Monday, March 10th, following a lingering illness. The remains were buried at Pleasant Grove on Tuesday, Martin in charge. Rev. W. P. Lowery conducted the funeral.

The deceased young lady is survived by her father and mother, two brothers and four sisters.

Young Man Seen "Making Faces"

In a neighboring town recently, a young man was seen staring at a number of local busines men in that city and "making faces" while observing them.

Numerous citizens were aroused and sensed the possibility of a deranged mind. They immediately investigated the record of this young man and found that there was nothing wrong.

He was merely Jack Douglas, young Southern cartoonist, engaged by the paper in that community to make a series of cartoons of local business men, and that was his method of "making faces." He was sketching them from life.

So, should some of the citizens of Clanton observe some young man observing their facial expressions in an inquisitive manner, don't be alarmed; it is only The Union-Banner cartoonist doing his daily dozen.

Fire That Burns Without Smoking

Another New Wrinkle Has Been Figured Out By Leo Thompson

Some weeks ago the soot from Leo Thompson's Laundry smoke stack was pretty bad. It got a way of settling on everything in the neighborhood and causing a good deal of smears and splotches. We never said anything about it, because we didn't think it would amount to anything.

But Leo must have noticed it. Anyway he got busy and fixed up his boiler so it burns without smoke and soot. Or rather, we should say it burns up the smoke and soot along with the coal.

The principle employed is an old one, but the manner in which Mr. Thompson worked it out is unique. By the use of an old gasoline motor with a feeding device to put the coal into the furnace and a blower to furnish the necessary draft of air, the coal is fed in under the fire and worked up through the grates. In this way the smoke is formed under the crest of the fire and as it rises through the embers it is consumed. As a result there is no soot or smoke to be seen coming from the top of the smoke stask.

The whole works is operated by a one-horse power electric motor. It was designed by Mr. Thompson and built by his brother. Besides giving to the laundry a much better heating service, the new trick is worth while for the fact that it has eliminated the smoke and soot blowing over the business section of town.

WILLIE SHAW IS BACK IN THE RACE AGAIN

Mr. Willie Shaw is back in the race for Commissioner of the First District, this time he is in to stay. When he made his first announcement he failed to certify his candidacy in the proper manner. As stated by him last week, he withdrew in order to have a clean place to start over.

This week his name appears in the cadidate column, and all the requirements of the law have been fulfilled. Mr. Shaw says he expects to make a hard fight for the office, and the voters of the county will have a chance to look him over between now and the date of the primary on August 12.

The candidate is the son of Mr. W. H. Shaw, who was commissioner of Chilton County several years ago. He lives at the old place of his father north of Jemison.

HOMES WRECKED BY WIND STORM

Twister Hit At Mrs. Green Foshee's With Terrible Consequences

The homes of Mrs. Green Foshee and Mr. W. A. Brown, on the Kincheon Road about three miles from Clanton, were completely wrecked by a cyclone which struck that neighborhood about two o'clock last Friday morning. The two homes, which were about a hundred yards apart, were thoroughly demolished. The walls were torn asunder, chimneys blown down, the roofs scattered all about the place. Parts of the buildings and contents were scattered over a field nearby.

By a strange and mysterious circumstance which it is impossible to understand, not a single occupant of the homes was hurt. To view the terrible wreckage of the places, one would say it is impossible for people to be in such a mess and not get hurt.

Mr. Brown, who had sensed the coming of the storm, had gotten out of bed and gone to the room where his children were sleeping. He took them one under each arm, and hovered close in the corner of the room. When the crash came, it was as quick as a stroke of lightning, he said. His narrative of how the walls fell about him and the roof was wafted away was thoroughly hair raising.

The path of the storm extended in a northearsterly direction and struck again at the Bud Alred place where a barn was wrecked. Futher on in that direction a garage was destroyed at the section houses where Mr. W. A. Edwards lives. A garage at L. D. Popwell's was crushed and a part of the top of his house blown away.

STATE DRY OFFICERS HAVE BUSY WEEK END

26 Stills Destroyed in Six Counties During the Past Week

Montgomery, March 8.—State law enforcement officers operating in six counties destroyed 25 stills, 16,644 gallons of beer, 49 gallons of whisky and arrested five persons for violating the prohibition law, they reported to Chief Walter K. McAdory today. The raids were made during the week of March 3rd.

Tuscaloosa county yielded the biggest amount of contraband. Officers reported the capture of 8 distilling outfits and 7,000 gallons of beer.

WILLIS WRITES TO VOTERS ABOUT SHERIFF'S DUTIES

Republican Candidate Outlines Ideas For Discharging Law

To the whole people of Chilton County:

I said in my former announcement in The Union-Banner that I would express myself as to the duties of the sheriff. I believe in the first place, that it is the duty of a sheriff to be clean himself and to have the meekness about him to go among his fellow men to execute the law and to deal with them as he would like to be dealt with. I believe it the duty of a sheriff when he goes out to execute the law, although he may be approaching criminals, it is his duty to go to them like they were white, for the very best people become criminals sometimes. The worst criminals that we commonly have in our county will very easily submit to him by being dealt with in this way. I do not think it is the duty of the Sheriff to go up against his fellow men the first thing with the butt-end of a "forty five," without a just cause, because he has the authority in his hands. I do not believe it the duty of a Sheriff to shoot people in the back unless they have warrants to that effect, but I do believe that when a man has the misfortune to be caught a criminal of law and the Sheriff takes the stand against that man it is the duty of the Sheriff then and there to swear the truth and nothing but the truth.

Now, my friends, as to my high, and long, and educated experiences along the line of Sheriff work, it may not be so long as some of them but I have had quite a little experience along that line of work and I do believe that with what experience I have that I am fully able to make the ballance of my record as I go. For I do think that good, hard common sense and sound judgement is the biggest thing, anyhow.

Now, my friends, ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls, I am not using anything in my letter with a sling toward anybody. I am only expressing myself as I said I would do.

Friends, I will say this much more. I think that I am plenty stout and able and competent to handle this office with fairness and squareness to the whole people. And, now in conclusion, to those who do not know me, I want you to inquire of me among my friends and neighbors who do know me, and then if you become satisfied that I am worthy of the job that I am asking for, and that I deserve it, then I ask you to give me your careful consideration. I will appreciate whatever you do for me.

So with these remarks,
We have no fear;
Vote for me,
And we will go from here.
I am, your friend,
J. M. (Tug) Willis.

SHAW BACK IN RACE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Citizen of First District Running on the Republican Ticket.

By an error in my former announcement as candidate for County Commissioner for District Number One, subject to the action of the Republican primary to be held August 12th, 1930, in my failing to properly file my announcement from a legal standpoint, I withdrew my announcement last week. Having compiled with law in such cases, I have again filed my announcement for this office according to law, and will appreciate your support and consideration.—W. G. Shaw.

The place will keep open house on those days, and every visitor will be shown through the plant. It will be interesting to see through the place, and to have explained to you the may things that are done to make signs of different kinds.

The James Sigh Shop is one of the best looking places of business in Clanton. Its appearance is always neat and attractive. We have often heard visitors to Clanton make the statement that they were surprised to find such an up-to-date sign business in a twon of this size.

Along with the celebration of National Sign Week, Mr. James is also celebrating his fifth anniversary in business here. He started in business in Clanton five years ago in a little back room with a dab of paint and a worn out brush. From the very start he let everybody know that he meant business. His patronage began to grow, and has continued to grow every year.

Now he has a business that it not confined to Clanton alone. You can find James Highway Bulletins all over Alabama. And they are always of the highest class in workmanship. Every sign that James puts up looks good. And he keeps it looking good by a system of patrol and maintenance that carries him on regular rounds of his territory to see that his signs stay put where he puts them. Frank James takes an interest in the upbuilding of this community. He is a believer in the doctrine that as the community grows and prospers, busines will do likewise, and he is game enough to believe that where there is business floating around, he can get his share of it.

Busines men of this territory have a special invitation to visit the James place Friday and Saturday. There will be on display every kind of sign, and you will not be asked to buy anything. This is a show and visitors will be expected to see things.

EILAND HOUSE BURNED LAST THURSDAY

The house on the place of Charley Eiland, near the home Dr. Mastin, was destroyed by fire at noon last Thursday. The Eiland house was occupied by Mrs. Callie Price, sister of Mr. Eiland. She had moved into the house only two days before the fire.

A report from Mr. Eiland states that the house was completely destroyed, and only a few minor items of household goods were saved. Mrs. Price is the widow of the late Jim Price. She had just come here from Montgomery.

NEGRO KILLED AT VERBENA

Scott Taylor Cut To Death By Another Negro, Willie Broomsey

A deadly encounter between two negroes at Verbena in the wee small hours of last Sunday morning, resulted in the instant death of Scott Taylor. The other party to the affray, and the murderer of Taylor was Willie Broomsey, a negro railroad section hand. Both lived at Verbena.

It was brought out in the preliminary trial Tuesday that the two negries got into a dispute over a sum of two-bits, one claiming that the other did not give him the proper change. In the scrap that followed Broomsey drew a long dirk, or hunting knife, and the first pass he made at Taylor the blade was sunk deep into the lower part of his neck. As they grappled and fought each of the men received other cuts and wounds. Whey they let go of each other, Taylor is said to have staggered about fifteen feet away and fell dead.

The preliminary trial of Willie Broomsey was held Tuesday before Judge H. M. Simpson, of the Justice Court of Chilton County at Clanton. Only one witness, Julia Reed, a negro woman, was heard by the Court. The defendant was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $750 bond.

"Nurse," said an amorous patient, "I'm in love with you. I don't want to get well."

"Cheer up, you won't," she assured him, "the doctor's in love with me, too, and he saw you kiss me this morning." — The Southern Lumber Journal.

Survey Will Soon Be Made To Determine Exact Location

Chilton County is more than ever now in the middle of the fight for the location of the million dollar Veterans Hospital which is to be built in Alabam by the United States Government. The hospitalization board of the Veterans Bureau has selected an area 75 miles in diameter in which the proposed hospital will be located. The center of this area is about two miles southeast of Jemison in Chilton County.

Announcing the decision of the hospital board in selecting the area, Senator Hugo Black on last Friday afternoon wired The Union-Banner as Follows:

"Federal Hospital Board announced today selection of general area in which new veterans hospital will be located. Territority comprises a 75-mile radius from what is said to be state center of population, namely, two miles east by south of Jemison, Chilton County. This includes your section. Board engineer will make survey of area soon, and later subcommittee of hospital board will likely visit area to determine exact location."

Of course, the fact remains that the hospital may be located anywhere within this prescribed 75-mile radius. There are many towns in this area that are pulling for it. Birminghan, Montgomery, Selma, Tuscaloosa, Talladega, Anniston, Calera, Clanton, and several other smaller places are understood to be preparing to submit bids and offers of a location for the institution.

Clanton has some two or three places in soak and ready to offer the officials of the hospital board when they get here to survey the area. We understand that Thorsby, Jemison, Verbena, Maplesville, Stanton, also have something to offer.

It is indeed good news that the center of the hospital area was placed right here in Chilton County. It makes us feel like we have a mighty bood chance to grab off the plum when the final show-down comes.

TAFT GIVEN LAST RITES BY NATION

Eventful Mortal Journey Ends As Sodden Soil Claims His Body

Washington, March 11—Under rain-sodden soil of wooded glade, lonely in its peace and isolation, William Howard Taft lay Tuesday night, the long, eventful story of his mortal journey ended.

At his feet a dozen yards away down the gently sloping hillside, towers an ancient and mighty oak. Through its leafless limbs, thrilling now with stir of the coming Spring the far lights of Washington gleam dimly toward that restful sylvan nook in Arlington Nathional Cemetery, where he sleeps in eternal fellowship with other great dead.

There is an old highway that passes just below, where the busy traffic of the workaday world ebbs and flows. Beyond that comes the wide, quiet sweep of the Potomac.

President Asks For Agricultural Fund

Legge Declares U. S. Interests Are Unprotected in Collapse of Grain Company

Washington, March 8.—President Hoover today asked congress to appropriate $100,000,000 to be immediately available as a part of the $500,000,000 revolving fund authorized under the agricultural marketing act.

This sum is in addition to the $150,000,000 already authorized for the farm board by congress.

The presidentiol communication was addressed to Speaker Longworth. It said that the time had arrived when further funds were needed by the board.

"TURKEY WILD" A LOSING GAME

The man who invented the phrase "wild goose chase" could just as well have substituted a turkey for a goose so far as the popular impression of the latter bird is concerned. Most farmers still believe that the turkey is wild and is never happy unless he can have the run of the place. There are lot of superstitious beliefs about turkeys and this one in particular has a good foundation. The wild turkey is a native of North America. They were discovered in New England by our colonists and taken to Europe. In early days they were forest birds and fed on nuts, berries, and the other natural food of the woods. In spite of this early history of the turkey it is not known that they are gentle by nature and can be made very domestic if trained in the right way. The farmer who says he cannot raise turkeys because he has no trees on his place is still thinking of the stories he read of the Pilgrim Fathers and their hunting parties.

Experience has proven that the turkey can be raised in confinement with the same success as the chicken. Many breeders, for instance, have used artificial incubation, brooding and confinement of turkeys for several years with exellent results. The reason for this is very clear when you consider that the main drawback to turkey raising is the disease called Blackhead. When ever the turkey flock is allowed to run at will it mixes with the chickens and it goes on to ground that is contaminated with the Blackhead germs. The first and foremost warning is to never let your chickens and turkeys mix.

The reason turkey raising has held up at all is the price the markets pay. Time and again breeders have found that by loosing 50 per cent. of the flock they still make money. When you consider how easy it is to reduce these looses to from 10 to 20 per cent. it is not surprising that many farmers are turning to turkeys who a few years ago swore that they would never get into the business again.

Under the confinement the turkeys can be kept on fresh soil and the food regulated. Young turkeys especially have big appetites and if allowed to run and eat without restriction, will have difficulty pulling through.

Turkeys are creatures of habit and environment. If you use natural or artificial means of incubation you have the poults under easy control from the start. Your brooding methods can be as simple or as elaborate as you want. Use a brooder house so as to keep the poults away from the hens. This is the only safe plan as to guard against blackhead infection. A portable brooding house will allow you to move frequently on to new ground. Once they are past the danger stage they may be put into fenced yards same as chicks.

As one authority has stated it the platform of successful turkey raising is clean feed, and clean water and clean range. All three of these can be enforced when raising turkeys in confinement.

There are so many examples of farmers on adjoining lands raising turkeys under the two plans that I have no hesisation in recommending confinement. It is not unusual to raise 90 per cent. of the hatch in confinement with neighbors next door loosing from 35 to 80 per cent. under the old plan. Another advantage of yarding is that the young turkeys are not run to death.

ISABELLA SCHOOL NEWS

The other day I happened to sit in the ninth grade English class, and they were having a symposium, so they said—if you know what that is; I'm sure I don't. Well, any way, they were discussing the qualities that they liked in each other. They worked it out pretty well too. At any rate, here are the results:

Qualities for Girls

(a)—Kindness to people and to animals, especially to children and to old people.
(b)—Honesty in all things, including their feelings toward boys.
(c)—Friendliness to every one—boys and girls alike.
(e)—Politeness, especially to older people.
(f)—Neatness in dress and surroundings. These boys say they despise goudy, conspicuous dress in girls, and they don't like a girl who is too lazy to keep her surroundings neat.
(g)—Not flirtatious.
(g)—Sportsmanlike in the places where sportsmanship is needed; but this does not include "utching" the show, the dinner or the nut sundae. These boys hold that a boy has no business taking a girl to dinner or to the show unless he's able to pay for it; and they don't like for the girl to offer, even if the girl works.
(i)—Clean speech. The boy may use slang, but he says that does not mean he likes to hear it from girls.
(j)—Clean, frank, wholesome attitude toward life and its duties.
(k)—Intelligent and alert. "Dumb Doras" have lost their day however beautiful they are.

Qualities for Boys

(d)—Kindness to all people and to animals.
(f)—Ability to see the difference between a joke and embarassment and to act accordingly.
(h)—Not sloppy or profane.
(i)—Not loud in public, either in speech, laughter or actions.
(j)—Politeness to all people, especially to girls and older people.
(k)—Not given to flattering people. These girls say they despise any flattery from boys. Sincere admiration is all right, but not flattery.
(n)—Doesn't try to be cute.
(o)—High ideals for living. This point includes an absolutely clean, moral character.

The following stories were selected by the Junior I pupils as being the best written, in which a group of words in spelling were to be used. The words are in black-face type:

"A HIKE" (By Jewell Williams)

One beautiful Tuesday morning in February our class decided to go to the country and spend the day. The hardest question we had to decide was what we should wear. All the girls wore white knicker suits.

Jack Jones, the president of our Class, said we could easily get to his log hut which he had built among the tall, beautiful tree, though it was an hour and forty five minutes hike after we left the highway. We all thought Jack was a dear for making this offer.

We had no trouble in finding the cabin, but it took us two hours to get there, because we were too busy picking flowers, kodaking and enjoying the scenery, to hurry.

The hut was much prettier than Jack could describe to us. We could feel the cool breeze, hear the birds, and see the pretty lake in the distance. We asked Jack how he ever found such a pretty spot. We were sure he could not have found it by accident. He said: "I can't tell you except I heard my uncle talk about the lake with the fish in it. One day I came here to look for the lake and I decided to spend all my vacations here. I soon built this cabin." To us the place seemed a dream.

Our chaperon turned us loose to do anything we wanted to do. Some climbed trees; some fished.

Late that afternoon a storm came up and we had to spend the night in the cabin. We had lots of fun cooking our supper. We stayed awake late telling stories, but we finally went to sleep on our beds of leaves. When we awoke it was Wednesday morning. We had nothing to eat, so we could not spend another day, but returned home. That was the best vacation from school that we ever had.

"THE PICNIC"

(By Jessie Mae Hedden)

Last Tuesday, February 18th, our teacher told us we would go on a picnic the next day, which would be Wednesday.

We were very busy Tuesday making plans for what we were going to do. The place was in the country not far from our school. Forty of us went.

Wednesday morning came too slowly. We could hardly wait to leave. We were about two hours getting there.

By the river was a little hut built on a rock. There were many flowers among the trees and grass.

Even though we took our bathing suits, we were afraid to go in; because if we threw our clothes on the limbs, they might lose off.

One of the girls climbed a tree; she was caught in a limb and then turned loose. She fell in the river, but we didn't have much trouble getting her out.

We started for home at four o'clock. We asked our teacher if she would take us back the next day. She said: "Why dear, you know we can't come back tomorrow. That would be too much picnic."

The boys and girls closed a very successful basket ball season last week. We played Vermont twice and won both times. The score of the girls' first game was 27 to 7; the second was 14 to 9. The scores of the boys' games were 19 to 16 and 19 to 17 in Isabella's favor. The boys are enthusiastically entering into baseball and the girls into tennis and baseball.

The faculty is putting on a play Saturday night, March 15th. The play is "The Hoodoo" and promises to be very good. Be sure to see it.

Mr. Charles L. Davis was born January 27, 1858. He was married to Miss Honneycutt, some fifty year ago, and lived with her until her death some thirty years ago. Mr. Davis died March 3, at seven o'clock after a long spell of sickness. It being two months since he has been able to be out of the house. Mr. Davis leaves to mourn his death 3 sons and two daughters. Besides these there are a number of grandchildren, and scores of friends, for all who knew him loved him. As the old proverb says: "To know him was to love him."

He was buried Tuesday afternoon at the Collins Chapel cemetery.

C. M. T. C. QUOTAS BEING FILLED UP VERY FAST

Major S. R. Tupper, U. S. Army Birmingham, officer in charge of Citizens' Military Training Camps enrollment in Alabama, has announced that twenty-five conties have filled their quoto of young men for attendance at these camps and that applications have been received from all but nine counties.

Actual enrollment of applicants began on March 1 and will continue until the state quota is filled. Major Tupper expects to fill the quota by March 16. Completed applications, totaling seventy four per cent of the quota, have already been received in his office. After the quota has been filled late applications may be accepted as alternates.

Any young man of acceptable character and between the ages of 17 and 24 may apply for these camps. If he can pass the required physical examination and is of good moral character, as certified to by a reputable citizen, who knows him, he may attend these camps.

Those who attend these camps are no more likely to be called to the colors in time of war than any other man. However, if they volunteer or are selected, they are more likely to secure rapid advancement and be able to serve their country more effectively. Military training is not the primary object. The training at these camps stressed citizenship, Self, reliance, initiative, good fellowship and how to work and play hard and effectively. The moral and religious influences are kept at a high standard.

All necessary expenses covering transportation, camp facilities, food, clothing, laundry, medical examinations and attendance and services of instructors is furished free by the government.

BOOTLEGGERS, WHISKY VS. MODERN PHYSICAL NEEDS

Be not drunken with wine, wherein there is riot.—Eph. 5:18. Be not among winebibbers, for the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty, and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags.—Prov. 23:20-21.

You and I are living in a day that demands sturdy eyes, clear brains, and bodies that can stand much punishment. In every profession and in every line of business tremendous strides are being made. Above the noise can be heard the call: "Continue to move forward." We cannot go backward nor stand still. Give us more keen thinkers—more men and women of action. This is no age for the sluggard—the person whose sensibilities have been dulled will soon find himself lost in the crowd. Only the finest minds and the strongest bodies can carry on the immense program that has already secured such a big start. Some people have called this the industrial age, some the motor age—one of the most heartless known to mankind. Perhaps, but we are in the very midst of it just the same.

Can any of us afford to take up a practice that is certain to hurt our chances for success in our chosen profession? Could we deliberately do something that we knew would make the struggle a thousand times more difficult? One of the reasons that you will find so many young people letting themselves slip into the habit of taking an occasional drink in these days is that they have not gone to the trouble to investigate the effects of alcohol on the human system. All of us know that a person who is under the influence of any kind of stimulant is a person who does things contrary to his own true nature. The question is often asked of a man who drinks: "What does he do when he gets drunk?" The question is a confession that drink has some sort of a peculiar effect on a person who uses it. Does he have a desire to fight? Does he want to steal; treat his family in a cruel way; does he neglect his business; does he make himself ridiculous in the streets? By the use of alcohol we, to some extent abandon the use of those higher qualities which distinguish men from brutes. The ability to refrain from unworthy or brutal acts is definitely reduced by the action of alcohol.

Dr. Hoven Emerson, noted specialist of New York, says: "Up to the present time no form of test of physical exertion or of nervous or mental effort has been found which shows as good performance when any—even the smallest amount of alcohol has been used, as when the person, tissue or function tested has been under condition free from alcohol. Apply the test as you will—to the distance, endurance, or speed of marching men, to athletes in competition to the muscle of the eye or hand; to acuteness of vision, to tenacity of memory, to accuracy or to endurance. Where alcohol is used there is always a lower level of service of body or brain, or both.

All men will agree that drink causes a person to be false to his true self; it is a stimulant that invariably calls for an apology and its effects are finished. Any honest investigation that one may make will convince you that alcohol has no part in the life of one who is desirous of living a clean, useful life in his own community. Every year more and more scientific men are agreeing on the terrific waste of the human system by the use of all stimulating drinks. Drink and character are far from being equal. There is scarcely a day that the newspapers do not tell of some tragedy that has been brought on by drink. An automobile wreck in which a number have been killed and maimed, a broken home, a revolting crime—always with the same excuse: "I didn't know what I was doing. Drink had blinded all my sensibilities."

Where can we place the blame? Is it the fault of the community that is not awake to the fact that liquor is being sold in open violation of the law, or the bootlegger who sells it, or the consumer who buys it? Personally I point the accusing finger at the buyer. Before he even thought of going into some miserable dive and purchasing a quantity of the stuff, he was acquainted with all of the facts. He knew that when he drank a certain amount of it his mind would go blank. He had read and had others tell him of the change that comes over a person when under the influence of it; in other words, it was not as if he had suddenly come across some strong liquor the effects of which he knew nothing about. Temperance facts and liquor facts are known in every humble home in America today. The excuse, "I didn't know what I was doing," is no longer an excuse. A great many people are partly to blame when a liquor crime is committed, but the major responsibility rests on the individual who, in spite of a thousand warnings, pours the vile stuff into his body.

Now is the time for boys and girls of America to settle the drink question once and for all. A firm stand today makes temptations tomorrow out of the question. Enter the portals of life with a mind and a body arat contain no ugly stain. You must be in full possession of all your faculties at all times if you would make your mark and fill your place well in this fast age, so full of disappointment and opposition. We need young men and women today who will refuse to laugh at drinking jokes, who will not be afraid to condemn those who are trying to get rich by selling vile liquor, who will acquaint themselves with the real facts concerning the effects of alcohol on the human system and who will be courageous enough to give these facts publicity. We have had enough of the weakling who stands by and giggles when the subject of hooch is mentioned.

You cannot put something into your system that you know injures you mentally and physically without losing part of your self-respect; you cannot look lightly on the laws of your country, making it possible for men to gain their living in an illegal manner, without losing part of your self-respect. And your self-respect is the thing you should guard with all the zealous energy you possess. If you see others who are hurting themselves and their country in this way, and doing it thoughtlessly, you owe it to yourself and to them and to your community to acquaint them with certain facts, for the facts can always be had with the least bit of exertion.

And now that you are standing in the open doorway that faces your career in life, making the choice that will determine your worth to your self and your country, will you throw in your lot with the best citizens of the entire country—the men and women who are the backbone of our social order? Or will you choose to help pull down our country into the dregs by supporting the bootlegger, the law-breaker, the criminal? Very soon you are going to have to make the choice. Resolve to get on the right side of the temperance question from now on. Courageous fighters are needed today just as much as they were needed ten years ago. One big word can be written around the history of all the liquor traffic; it is LOSS,—loss of character, loss of position, loss of money, loss of self-respect.

Can you afford to have anything to do with an enterprise that demands this sort of sacrifice? I say no; a thousand times no. Remember that Jesus said on one occasion that "Wine is a mocker; strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."—E. L. Glasscock, Jemison, Ala.

Better Give Her the Air

Mrs. Smithers was explaining the routine to the new cook.

"We lunch precisely at one on Wednesday," she said, " as on that day we always go for a spin in the car at two."

"Very well mum," replied the cook, "but I shall have to leave the washin' up till we gets back again!"—Leicester Mercury.

Lesson for March 16

THE PARABLES OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:24-52.

GOLDEN TEXT—The kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Whole World for Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The World for Christ.

The things set forth in these parables only apply to the church in the measure that they permeate that body by virtue of its being formed within this period. It should be observed that they set forth the "mysteries" of the kingdom.

I. The Wheat and Tares (vv. 24-30, cf. 36-43).

1. The sowers. The sower of the good seed is the Son of Man (v. 37), and the sower of the tares is the devil (v. 39).

2. The growing crops (v. 26).

There is a striking resemblance in the growing crops. The chief peril of the devil is that he transforms himself into an angel of light (II Cor. 11:14, 15).

3. The harvests (v. 30).

There comes a time when the fruit of the crop shall be gathered. The separation is made by the angels under the direction of the Son of Man. For the tares there is a furnace of fire. For the wheat there is the Lord's garner.

II. The Mustard Seed (vv. 31, 32).

1. Its unimportant beginning (v. 1).

It begins as the least of all seeds. Not only was Christ, the King, of humble parentage, but His disciples were unlettered fishermen. Likewise, through the centuries, not many wise and not many noble have been called.

2. Its vigorous growth (v. 32).

Though small in its inception, the work inaugurated by Christ has become mighty in power.

3. Its lodging capacity (v. 32).

The birds which find lodgment in the tree do not represent the children of men who find safety and salvation in the church, but the predatory beings who have found shelter in the church, though they are no part of it.

III. The Leavened Meal (v. 33).

1. The meal in Scripture means something nutritious and wholesome.

2. The woman.

The woman is the administrator of the home. Her responsibility is to take the bread provided by the head of the home and prepare and distribute it to the children. It means then that the woman, the administrator, has introduced false doctrine and thus corrupted the children's bread.

3. The leaven.

In Scripture, leaven is invariably a type of evil (Ex. 12:15; Matt. 16:6, 12; I Cor. 5:6-8; Gal. 5:8, 9). It means that in this age the truth of God would be corrupted by worldliness and unbelief.

IV. The Hid Treasure (v. 44).

1. The field (v. 38). Christ's own interpretion makes this the world.

2. The treasure. The treasure means Israel (Ps. 135:4, Deut. 7:6-8).

3. The purchaser. No one but the Son of God had sufficient resources to buy the world (John 3:16).

4. The purchase price. This was the precious blood of Jesus Christ, God's beloved Son (I Pet. 1:13, 19).

V. The Merchantman Seeking Pearls (vv. 45, 46).

1. The merchantman is Christ. The Son of Man has come to seek and save that which was lost (Luke 19:10).

2. The purchase price. Christ impoverished Himself (Phil. 2:68) to purchase the one pearl of great price (Eph. 5:25).

3. The pearl of great price. This is the church (Col. 1:18).

VI. The Dragnet (vv. 47-50).

1. The sea. The sea in Scripture denotes peoples or multitudes (Dan. 7:3; Rev. 17:15).

2. The dragnet. The dragnet cast into the sea means the sowing of the seed by the Son of Man.

3. The dragnet drawn to the shore when full means that when God's purpose for the present age is full, account will be taken of the results.

4. The separation made by the angels. This will take place at the end of the age.

5. The destiny of the bad fish. The angels shall sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire where there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

The Bravest Men

Our bravest men are often those of whom the world hears the least. Life to them is a constant struggle. They meet their obstacles every day and pass them in silence.—Presbyterian Record.

Mr. John C. Page and Mr. J. O. Turner have a business proposition that ought to be of interest to a number of people of this section of the country. These gentlemen are buying green pine cord wood for the Gulf States Paper Corporation, at Tuscaloosa, and paying $3.00 a cord loaded on freight cars.

The wood must be all green pine, not less than 4 inches at the small end and if over 10 inches at the big end, the pieces must be split.

Mr. Page or Mr. Turner will be glad to furnish detailed specifications to anyone who may be interested in this proposition. They say they want to buy as much as one hundred car loads a month. They will buy it only in car loads, loaded on freight cars. Wood may be loaded on L. & N. or M. & O. Railroads.

MRS. FRAZIER DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Mariah Louise Frazier, age 71, died at her home last Friday at noon. She died suddenly. The remains were buried Saturday morning in the Clanton cemetery. Funeral services were held at the home by Rev. P. A. Lynch.

For the past several years Mrs. Frazier has been living in a little house near the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Miller. She is survived by one son and three or four daughters.

Price of Economy

Mr. Portland wanted his portrait painted, but the artist asked fo ra fee of $200. "I couldn't think of paying more than $100," said Mr. Portland. "Very good," said the artist; "but I shall have to make the portrait look more like you."—Children's Newspaper.

TO SWEEP UNSAFE CARS FROM SOUTHERN ROADS

Sixty-nine thousand unfit automobiles will be removed from the highways of the South during this year, in an effort which is part of a national Highway Safety Plan undertaken by various companies in the automobile industry, as announced by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The program will involve the expenditure of appraximately $2,600,000 in the Southern States. Nationally, the motor companies plan to scrap 400,000 old automobiles in 1930, at a cost of about $15,000,000.

The number of cars which it is estimated will be scrapped in each of the Southern States is as follows: Virginia, 6,060; North Carolina, 6,640; South Carolina, 3,240; Georgia, 4,260; Florida, 3,960; Alabama, 5,490; Louisiana, 4,490; Mississippi, 3,760; Tennessee, 5,860; Arkansas, 3,620; Texas, 21,210.

The program is characterized as "perhaps the greatest single safety move in industrial history," by Alvan Macauley, president of the Automobile Chamber, and former chairman of its Street Traffic Committee.

"This widespread experiment will strike right at the heart of the unsafe vehicle problem by eliminating a hugh block of those cars which are in the poorest condition," says Mr. Macauley.

One of the hazards of the highway situation has been the rattle-trap car which keeps re-appearing on the road after it has presumably been sent to the discard. The aim of this program is to guarantee the actual scrapping of the vehicle. The plan will be worked out by each company participating, in line with its general sales policies and the volume of its production.

R. H. Grant is chairman of the committee which planned this program. Other members include: C. H. Bliss, J. E. Fields, Paul G. Hoffman, H. W. Peters, Courtney Johnson, Edward S. Jordan.

ISABELLA F. F. A.

The Isabella chapter of the Future Farmers met in the agricultural building Monday night, March 10th, and rendered an interesting program. We have changed the meeting date to every other Monday night.

Mr. Vernon LeCroy, our president, gave a very interesting talk on the origination of the club. He explained how and why the club was organized and its growth to the present day.

Mr. Earle Thomas, our local adviser, and Mr. J. D. Griffin, one of our honorary members, gave us some interesting tips on things we could do to help make our chapter stronger.

At our last meeting we elected Miss Teresa Pullen as an honorary member to our chapter. We are very fortunate in getting her as such, because Miss Pullen is the State Clerical secretary of F. F. A., and the only lady in the State eligible to be an honorary member of F. F. A.

We are also very fortunate in getting Mr. Stapp, our county agent, as an honorary member, and we want him to come to our meetings as often as he can. We will announce other honorary members later.

Our charter from the Alabama Association has just been received and we hope to have it framed up in the agricultural building in a few days. Jemison F. F. A. will receive their charter in a few days, and the Isabella chapter wants to see in the paper something of what they are doing.

The Farmers Hardware Company in Clanton is letting Isabella school have the use of a radio receiving set this week. The F. F. A. boys are to see that the set is cared for while we have its use, and the program will be sponsored under their supervision.

We have this week been working on our program of beautifying the school grounds by setting out shrubbery. We hope to have as pretty a school campus is any in the county. —Reporter.

THE FAMILY NEXT DOOR

THINK OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE IN TERMS OF TOMORROW

Ultimate cost is as important as first cost in the purchase of an automobile

WHEN you purchase an automobile you are making an investment of a considerable amount of money. It is essential, therefore, that you give careful thought to the best selection and know what you are getting for your automobile dollars.

The first cost is important because it may mean an immediate, satisfactory saving. Of equal importance is the ultimate cost after thousands of miles of service. This ultimate cost is the true measure of automobile value.

THE first cost of the new Ford is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were sacrificed later through high charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, does business on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company. His discount or commission is twenty-five to fifty per cent lower than that of any other automobile dealer. You gain because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

The difference in selling cost, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, amounts to at least $50 to $75 on each car. This is as important as economies in production in keeping down the price you pay for the new Ford.

THE low ultimate cost of the new Ford is the result of sound design, quality of material and unusual care in manufacturing. Friction and wear are reduced by the accuracy with which each part is made and assembled.

These factors combine to decrease the cost of operation and add months and years to the useful life of the car. The good performance and low yearly depreciation of the new Ford are indicative of the enduring quality built into it at the factory.

SERVICE charges are on the same fair, economical basis as the making and selling of the car and replacement parts are always available at low prices through all Ford dealers. In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost.

Think in terms of tomorrow, therefore, when you purchase an automobile. For tomorrow will reveal its true worth.

WRIGHT-VEAZEY BAND OF ISABELLA ENTERTAINED

On Saturday night, March 8th, Miss Inez Wright entertained at a social honoring the Wright-Veazey band. Composing this band are Messrs. Hollis, Wesley and Arville Wright, R. C. James and Fred L. Veazey. Music was enjoyed until 8:00 o'clock, and then the band went to Jemison to the Fiddlers Convention. Arville Wright won second prize. At 10 o'clock the hostess was assisted by Mrs. J. P. Nix, Mrs. B. C. Adair, Mrs. Hunter Rascoe, Mrs. Carl McCarthy and Mrs. Thomas Cost in serving punch with whipped cream. The band then returned and music was enjoyed until a late hour.

The mother of these boys told of an incident that might be of some help to someone, so I will pass it on: One Saturday night during the month of January this band was invited to a musical entertainment at a home, and when they arrived at this home they were carried to another. Starting their music and playing three or four pieces, the crowd began to dance. The little boy that plays the violin walked out of the room with it, and two of the other boys with their instruments went with him, and wouldn't play another piece.

Thank God, for such boys, who will stand for the things that are right, and for their fathers and mothers who are rearing them. What a world we would have and churches is we had more men who would stand by and for the laws of God.

Mr. Charlie Alvin Williams was an employee of the Dixie Construction Company, holding a position with the company for seven years, being located both in Alabama and in South Carolina. At the time of his death he had been in Waterloo, S. C. about a month.

He was instantly killed March 3 at 8 o'clock a.m., when a pole which he was climbing broke about eight inches under the ground and fell with him. The boys who worked with him did all they could to save his life, but God saw fit to take him away. The last word that Charlie spoke was to call "Bill Walker," but Bill could not hold the pole; so it fell to the ground and killed him.

Charlie was a kind, loving young man. He was 29 years old; he gained the friendship of everyone he knew. He was very kind and considerate of his mother and father, or anyone else in time of need.

Mr. Lloyd Teel, one of the boys he worked with, accompanied his body back to his home. It arrived at Clanton March 4th at 10:10 a.m., and the remains were laid to rest at Shiloh cemetery March 5th, Martin in charge of the body. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. T. J. Deason.

It greatly grieved us to hear of the passing on of this precious boy; he was so wonderful in all his loving ways and thoughts, that his good works commenced here will continue to grow and remain a loving monument to his virtues and beauty.

He is survivid by his father and mother, one sister, Elmae, and two brothers, Bob and John. A host of other relatives and friends are left to mourn after him.

May the One Who comforts and sstains all be ever with them through this vale of tears. The sweet spirit of Charlie, on March 3rd, found its way into the portals of heaven and into the presence of his Saviour and loved ones who were waiting to welcore his soul to its heavenly home.

Yes, Charlie lies sleeping beneath the green sod; as roses are blooming and sweet flowers nod.

His tenderness lingers through life's dreary hours; and the lessons that he taught are the sweetest flowers.

We miss him oh so much, but he is transplanted to a more glorious home there to await the coming of those he loved and who loved him.

The angels kissed the loving eyes of him, and closed the white fringed keeper.

The pulseless breast is now at rest; God keep the silent sleeper. But let's not think of his death—just waiting over yonder; in that fair land with loving hand, we'll see his sweet smiles again some day. His promise still rings true.

Charlie, we are still watching over you and love you so tenderly; so do not grieve but bravely go on as He would have you do, until the happy day when we shall meet Charlie again.—A true lover of Charlie, Alta Belle Vinson.

The Species Was Not Yet Extinct

BY WAY of a beginning, it is incumbent to me to explain that the negroes of the coast of South Carolina and Georgia have a distinctive patois which differs radically from the speech of members of their own race up country. "Gullah talk," as it is called, has but one gender—the masculine. Everything—a man, a woman, a bull, a cow—is "he." "Where" is "w'ar," "though" is "do," etc., etc.

With this bit of explanation, we may proceed. An Englishman, desirous of killing some big game during his visit to America, accepted an invitation to visit a plantation owner on one of the sea islands lying below Charleston. In honor of the visitor a deer drive was arranged. The Britisher, chaperoned by an old negro man, was assigned to a "stand" on one of the best "runs." Beforehand he had been told to shoot only at bucks, as the does and the fawns enjoyed protection.

Presently, to the ears of the nervous Englishman where he crouched with his black companion in a thicket, came the sound of the hounds' baying. The dogs had found a fresh scent. They were drawing nearer and nearer.

Fifty yards away, across an open glade, a darting patch of tawny brown showed in the undergrowth. The Englishman fired, and a convulsive thumping in the underbrush told him he had not missed.

The old negro left his covert and ran forward to see what it was that had been shot.

"Did I kill him?" called the excited amateur.

"Yeah, boss. You kill 'im," answered the darky, as he bent over the stricken game. Then, seeing that the fallen animal had no horns, he added: "'E a doe do'."

At this moment the host hurried up the trail, having heard the shot from his place of ambush a hundred yards or so away.

"Any luck?" he called out as he approached.

"Oh, yes," answered the Britisher, exultantly. "I thought I saw a deer and dropped it, but your black fellow yonder has just told me that it is a dodo—a creature which I thought was entirely extinct. Lucky, eh, what?"

WHAT IS SELF-RISING FLOUR?

This is a question often asked by women—just what is self-rising flour? From what is it made and what are the advantages in using it?

Well, first of all, self-rising flour is a soft wheat flour to which the miller adds pure monocalcium phosphate and bicarbonate of soda, which is really baking powder, and salt for seasoning. So it is after all a ready prepared or pre-leavened flour.

Using self-rising flour in the home three times each day has many advantages. The greatest thing about it is its dependability. In fact, self-rising flour gives the only source of a uniform biscuit 365 times a year. Do not add baking soda or baking powder to it.

When a woman mixes soda and buttermilk, she has no way to tell accurately about the acidity of the butter milk without taking it to a laboratory, and if she wants to have a first-class biscuit, the soda and buttermilk must neutralize each other. In the self-rising flour the leavening is accurately proportioned by weight and on a basis of a minimum, whereas, the other way is usually a maximum and guess work at that.

Self-rising flour is economical for all baking purposes. In addition to the saving in the purchase of baking powder, soda and salt, it also saves eggs. The leavening is so generally distributed that it does not require so many eggs. In the original recipe for the standard 1-2-3-4 butter cake, four eggs are required if using plain flour. Substituting self-rising flour in the same formula requires only two eggs. Use one egg to every one and a half cupfuls of self-rising flour.

You can take any of your own favorite cake recipes and change it into a self-rising flour recipe.

Use one whole egg or two egg whites to each one and a half cupfuls of flour, and add one tablespoonful of liquid for each egg omitted from the original recipe. Omit all baking powder and soda. Do no unnecessary beating. Do not let batter stand after mixing. Bake at the correct temperature.

The most common mistake in baking cakes is in having too hot an oven. Keep the oven at 350 degrees F.

Umbrellas Up!—The audience became melted down, tears flowed freely from the eyes of the bishop and all over the audience.

LESSONS WE ARE TO OBSERVE AND DO IN A WORLD WORK FOR CHRIST

To me the book of Judges contains some of the most interesting chapters in the Old Testament. They are interesting and helpful to us and yet I fear we do not study them as much as we should. This morning we study this narrative up to the four apostasies: to Chushanrishathaim, king of Mesopotamia, to the Moabites, to the Canaanites, to the Midianites.

There is a very striking thought here when we read that the Midianites were as grasshoppers for the multitude, both they and their camels were without number. This is the only place in the Bible which speaks of camels without number. So we find that God chose somebody to judge the Israelites and to deliver them out of their sore oppression He chose the most insigificant seeming characters men that could not use themselves to great advantage. This man Gideon who was called to deliver the children from the hand of the Midianites was just sitting under an oak in Ophrah by the winepress threshing wheat that he might hide it from the Midianites.

An angel came and told him that he had work to do for the Lord in that of delivering Israel from the Midianites. Gideon said, "O I am just here threshing wheat that I may hide it so the Midianites won't get it." But the angel of the Lord said, "Gideon, haste not, for the Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valour." That is he was called to the greatest work of any man in the book of judges and yet he was just called from a simple threshing floor. And Gideon did this work for the Lord. Men who are going to do things for God will do them, and not just talk about what they are going to do, or what could and should be done. If we hesitate in making up our mind's to do God's work the devil is certain to appeal to us in some undermining way.

Dow Ophrah was in Samaria. Gideon loved those people and desired to deliver them and once set out to do so. He had thirty two thousand men and O what a lesson there is in the reduction of his army by the Lord for you and for me. The Lord said, "Gideon, you have too many men. This is none other than a spiritual undertaking and must so be accomplished. You just ask the men of the army to tell you if they fear battle, and all that answers in the affirmative send them back home as they would like." This Gideon did and twenty-two thousand went back to their homes, leaving only ten thousand.

God looked down upon the ten thousand and said to Gideon, "Yet there are too many men. I am afraid you will become conceited, have the big-head and boast of what Gideon's army hath done." So now the test comes. My friends, I believe this test rests on the church to-day just as it did then on Gideon's army. "I want you to take these 10 thousand men down to cross this little creek, and the men that stop to drink and kneel down to do so you send home, but those that lap the water with their tongue like a dog lappeth shalt thou take with thee to gain the great victory over the Midianites. And so we find Gideon with only three hundred men going north to battle, The sword of the Lord and of Gideon.

Then the Lord said unto Midian, "Take the three hundred men and go down upon the Midianites and sweep them out, for I have delivered the host of Midian unto thine hand." So went Gideon foreward against the Midianites and the Amalakites and all the children of the east which were in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude, and their camels without number, as the sands of the seaside for multitude. This battle of Gideon was one of the greatest of all time. It is really superior in strategy to the fall of Jerico under Joshua. The point we must note right here is Gideon's attitude towards God when he captured and routed the Midianites. We fed him, using the same expresion which Joshua used in the capture of Jerico when he says, "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon."

Gideon, like Joshua was determined to put God first and to see God's hand in the victory above all the rest. He was determined to see God first. So, studying Gideon's victory over the Midianites I wish to say that in visiting in Palestine one sees the very place where Gideon fought and also the place where he crossed over the Jordan in his invasion. I think that the Albany Bridge which played such a important role in the World War is right where Gideon and his three hundred men crossed.

Next we are introduced to Abimelech the son of Gideon. He it was who sent to Shechem, a place where the devil has been rampant from time immemorial. It is right here in the 9th chapter of Judges we find a illustration that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. Abimelech had won the crown of judge of Israel by scheming in the most awful manner. It is really one of the blackest pages of Israel's history. He had all of his father's sons killed but one escaped. This was Jotham, who helped to wreak a revenge upon Abimelech.

Then we read of Tola, who is just mentioned as used by God to judge Israel twenty-three years. It is a great thing to be used by God. That is just what we want during the month of March. We want to be used by God more than we have ever been used before, that we may build up Christ's kingdom. We just want to pray God to show us how to build up His kingdom, and then to obey Him implicitly in the work. It should be a month of self-denial, Bible reading, Bible study, and heart-searching on your part and mine.

The next judge mentioned is Jair, and we would say this office was the error of his life. He had thirty sons, yet there is not a thing mentioned about one of them being used of God, not a thing about their faithfulness even over the thirty cities which were given them. Oh how sad, yet we see men, women today who are not used of God in His great plan. They are not used because they are not willing to be used.

Now these deliverers and judges of Israel were types of Christ, first in that they were deliverers of God's people from the snare of the wicked, and second, they were types of Christ in that they were enemies of sin, and thirdly they were types of Christ in that many of them died for Christ's sake.

The next judge was Izban who is introduced to us as the ancestress of Christ. This man Izban no doubt was in Bethlehem at the time of Boaz and Ruth, He might have attended the marriage of Boaz and Ruth. Looking down the history of his life he said, "When I die bury me in Bethlehem, so he was buried in Bethlehem. We notice that this is the first time Bethlehem, Ephratah, is mentioned.

We are next introduced to a man of a black mark affair. But God erased that black mark, and yet so many fall over that black mark. His name was Jephtah. One striking thing is that he was one of the tribe of Judah, and was called by God to do his work. God told him that he wanted him to be able to deliver his people who had been proved.

Now just here is a lesson for Birmingham, in Alabama, for every state in the Union, and for the whole world. Certainly it is a letter for the Church. Jepthah won those victories unto God. Of course he could not do anything without God. The church is weak in that it depends upon the flesh and not upon God enough. This is displeasing to God. He wants to be the light and life of the church, the most holy thing on earth.

Now Jephthah promised God that if He would give him that victory he would offer for a sacrifice the first that would come forth from his home to meet him on his return home from the battle. This was ignorance which is the greatest enemy to the progress to the church. I would not say he did wrong. There is something about these things that appeal to us. No doubt he thought a lamb would meet him first, but his daughter met him. Certainly this brings to us the idea of truthfulness among his people. America needs to pattern such truthfulness. There are business lies, church lies, marriage lies and every other kind of lie. If men and women were so careful in their marriage vows as were those old judges and patriarchs there would be less divorce crime in America. No regard for the truth is the cause of laxity in marriage relationships. O the sacredness of this lesson. I am not going to say that Jephahad did right in this act, but I do say he thought he did right. It is said that the people in a little island off the coast of Japan pierce a vein and sign their legal contracts conveying the idea of truthfulness, which we need to know and observe.

Mt. Pleasant Junior High School

We have gathered some interesting facts about the Mt. Pleasant Junior High School, to bring to our readers along with the above picture of the new school building.

The new building was completed October 29, 1929, at a cost of approximately $12,000. The contractor in charge of construction was Mr. Ed F. Emerson, of Birmingham.

There are six large class rooms, with an office and library. Four of the class rooms have been fully equipped at a cost of $1,300. The library contains about 150 volumes of standard works of English and American literature.

Mt. Pleasant School is located three miles north of Clanton, on the old Birmingham Highway. The present building takes the place of the old one which was destroyed by fire December 28, 1928. Littlejohn School was consolidated with Mt. Pleasant five years ago.

The present enrollment of students is a little less than 200. A larger enrollment is expected for next year, as there is a possibility that Cross Roads School will be consolidated with Mt. Pleasant.

The first school at Mt. Pleasant was a two-room structure built 28 years ago. It was later made into a three-room bulding. Five years ago the fourth room was added, making it a Junior High School. The new building is electrically equipped. This was done because in the course of a short time it is hoped that the rural electric service of Alabama Power Company will be available in the community.

There are five acres of land with the building and for use of school purposes. The land was donated to the school by Mrs. Katie Eiland and Mr. Monroe Foshee. The back part of the school property is covered by a beautiful pine grove.

Modern jacketed heaters have been installed in all the rooms. Plans are being made to sod the front grounds and make the appearance much more beautiful.

There are 69 families represented in the school. Eighty-one pupils are transported to and from school by busses.

There is a large athletic field on the campus, and the students are given the regulation amount of athletic diversion. The 1929-30 boys basketball team played 11 games winning 8 and losing 3.

The Parent-Teachers Association is thoroughly organized and active in support of the interests of the school. Recently they held a chicken supper which netted over $60.

The faculty of the school for the present session is as follows: R. B. Johnson,, principal, Junior High instructor; Miss Hester Hall, intermediate; Miss Olys Bean, intermediate; Miss Ethel Gentry, primary.

The board of trustees is composed of three of the outstanding citizens of the community, namely: Ben Duke, chairman; Quincy Littlejohn, and John Cost.

The building committee which had charge of the initial planning for the new building was composed of Monroe Foshee, chairman; W. B. Crowe, C. N. Eiland, J. D. Price.

There are six Junior III students who will graduate at the close of the session this spring. They are Maurice Hodgens, class president; Welby Cooper, Pauline Eiland, Theodore Littlejohn, Naurice Foshee, Waylon Collins.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

New Orleans, La., March 11.—The 1,100-foot Mandeville Wharf, heavily stored with cargo of the Munsen Steamship Line, was consumed by flame late Tuesday and the steamship Munaries, of the same line, was seriously damaged.

The fire marshal estimated the loss at approximately $1,000,000. It started under the floor of the wharf and spread rapidly through the stock of staves, lumber, coffee, sugar and linseed oil. Shortly after the flames shot through the roof two loud explosions were heard, believed to be oil casks bursting.

The Munaries, tied alongside the wharf, quickly vaught fire, and despite efforts of the crew and two fire tugs, the flames spread over the ship.

15 SHOT, OTHERS HURT IN RIOT AT HOSIERY MILL

Mill Worker Fires Into Mob of 600 Howling Men and Women.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—Between 25 and 30 men and women were injured Tuesday night, about 15 of them suffering from gunshot wounds, after an attack by a mob of 600 striking hosiery workers on the home of Peter Marpone, a strike-breaker, in the hosiery mill district here.

Marpone, confronted by a howling mob of men and women armed with bricks, clubs and pistols, opened the front door of his house and fired into the crowd with a shotgun.

The crowd broke and ran, 10 or 12 men and women being severely injured when they were trampled underfoot. Others had been struck by the shot from Marpone's gun.

A short time later, after the mob of strikers had dispersed, a squad of policemen and a police ambulance arrived. The injured were picked up from the street and taken to four hospitals in the ambulance and in private cars.

Police then started to enter Marpone's house to arrest him. A crowd of fellow strikebreakers had gathered however, and fought off the police. It was understood there was no shooting in the second disturbance.

Marpone was in his house with his two daughters, Josephine and Nancy, when the mob of strikers approached.

The injured men and women were taken to the Episcopal, Northwestern, Temple and St. Mary's Hospitals.

Birmingham, Ala., March 12.—The state, county and municipal taxes paid by Alabama Power Company and its associates in Alabama in 1929 were almost double the amount of such taxes paid by these companies in 1926, Thomas W. Martin, president of the company, stated here Friday.

A total of $1,869,412.41 was paid by the Power Company and its associated companies during the year into the treasuries of the state, 61 of the 67 counties, and 157 municipalities, based on assessments against their properties as of October 1st, 1928, Mr. Martin said. The sum was collected in the form of ad valorem, franchise, license and numerous other forms of assessments for the privilege of doing business in Alabama. The amount paid by Alabama Power Company represented nearly 10 per cent of its gross receipts, or 10 per cent of each customer's service bill, and averaged over $5,000 per day.

Commenting on the increase in taxes paid by the Power Company and its associates, Mr. Martin said: "This year-by-year increase in taxes is a serious problem in connection with the company's continued expansion and in relation to its electric rates to homes and industries, as well as to the location of new industries in the State. In particular, the tendency of municipalities to levy ever-increasing license taxes upon business may have a deterrent effect upon municipal growth. We therefore wish to invite thoughtful consideration to this situation.

"Alabama Power Company is one of the State's largest tax payers, and is thus one of the largest contributors to the cause of education in Alabama. Of the $1,869,412.41 collected by state, county and municipal authorities in 1929, more than $847,000 found its way directly into funds for the benefit of education. In addition, a substantial part of the sum paid into the general fund of the State is appropriated for educational purposes."

"MA" WILLIAMS

Mrs. Williams has been chief cook (but not bottle washer) at The Dixie Cafe for three years. During that time she has been on the job 12 hours a day, seven days a week, and outside of her regular annual vacation she has not lost over 5 days time. Besides her cooking at the Cafe, she looks after her duties at home.

Made by Whitewater Flour Mills Co.
Whitewater, Kansas

Mrs. Williams uses Whitewater Rose Plain Flour for all her baking at the Dixie Cafe. On an average she bakes 15 pies a day, besides the biscuits, cakes, and pastries which she cooks regularly.

Under direction of Mrs. Williams for the past three years the cuisine of the Dixie Cafe has become famous all over Alabama. Mr. L. D. Easterling, proprietor of the Dixie, says that he has many patrons who tell him that they drive all the way from Birmingham, Montgomery, Selma, and other places, just to get some of those good hot biscuits. It is a fact, as most anybody knows, that a good hot biscuit in a cafe is a rare thing. No wonder that a cafe that serves good biscuits like the Dixie should gain a wide reputation.

Mrs. Williams declares that any cook can depend on WHITEWATER ROSE FLOUR to stand the most rigid test and produce the very best results. For a flour to have such an unqualified endorsement as that which Mrs. Williams gives to WHITEWATER ROSE means that it is indeed a very good flour.

STATE CAPITOL News

Forty-eight counties have already reported county-wide plans for the fight against adult illiteracy, which is being carried on intensively with a view to showing as great a reduction as possible in the state's percent of illiteracy which the 1930 census is taken. The Alabama Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, organized February 11, has received highly gratifying responses from over the state to its appeal for the making of a literate Alabama. The forty-eight counties which have taken action in this work are: Autauga, Bibb, Bullock, Chambers, Cherokee, Chilton, Choctaw, Clarke, Clay, Cleburne, Coffee, Colbert, Conecuh, Cullman, Dale, Dallas, DeKalb, Elmore, Escambia, Etowah, Geneva, Greene, Hale, Henry, Houston, Jackson, Jefferson, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Limestone, Lowndes, Madison, Marengo, Mobile, Montgomery, Perry, Pickens, Pike, Randolph, Russell, Sumter, Talladega, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa, Walker, and Wilcox. In some of these counties the campaign is already under way, while a few will be unable to understand it until summer, but have already announced their intention of doing so, and have applied for State aid. Active cooperation in the illiteracy drive is also being received from the cities of Attalla, Alabama City, Bessemer, Birmingham, Decatur, Demopolis, Dothan, Eufaula, Mobile, Ozark, Russellville, Selma and Sheffield.

In the eight year period, 1920-28, illiteracy among white children of the State decreased 43 per cent and among colored chuldren 36.1 percent. Figures on the decrease in adult illiteracy will not be available until the 1930 census, but the reduction is expected to be great. Since 1915 approximately 88,000 adult illiterates have been taught in the state. The work has progressed with particular rapidity since the 1927 Legislature, which put through a constructive program for education all along the line, and among other phases of expansion, made additional provision for the drive against illiteracy.

Governor Bibb Graves, in a recent proclamation urged young men of the state to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the Citizens Military Training Camps to be held this summer, June 13th to July 12th, inclusive, at Fort McClellan, Alabama, Fort Barrancas, Florida, Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, and Fort Bragg, North Carolina. The Governor pointed out the beneficial effect of this training in teaching respect for discipline and the value of team work, and impressing the individual with his obligations and responsibilities as a citizen, as well as promoting physical development.

Farmers are urged to unite for mutual benefit by William Green, president of American Federation of Labor, in a recent address in Montgomery. President Green called attention to the common interests of agriculture and industry, and declared that farmers should unite, as industry has already done, and present their demands for proper consideration of the nation. President Green stressed the fact that organized labor is strongly opposed to communism, and stands for upholding the Constitution of the United States. The Labor Chief spoke to a capicity audience here, and was welcomed to Alabama by Governor Graves, as the guest of the State.

Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the Department of Game and Fisheries, is distributing copies of a bird day bulletin which he has just published for use of the teachers of the state in preparing a program for bird day, which will be observed Friday, March 14th. It is an attractive publication with a cover depicting various birds found within the state, the cover being the work of "Spang" of the Montgomery Advertiser. The publication is much different from the bird day books formerly issued by the Department of Game and Fisheries. The old books carried principally the description of birds, colored pictures of some of them. These however, were published at great expense and as material of this nature is now available to the public at so much less than it costs the Department to produce it, such material has been excluded.

Articles of bird migration, classification of birds, ways of attracting birds, and the value of birds are included in the publication. A special feature is a list of the three hundred twenty-five birds found in Alabama. It is arranged according to families, from "Birds of Alabama" published by Mr. Quinn in 1924, after the first state survey made by the Bureau of Biological survey at Washington. The bulletins are being sent directly to county and city superintendents of education with the request that they be delivered to the teachers working under their supervision.

FOREST FIRE REPORT FOR ENTIRE STATE

Montgomery, Ala., March 10.—For the first time in history an annual loss of less than a million acres of forest land burned over in Alabama has occurred. The year 1929 witnessed damaged by fire to but approximately two and eight-tenths per cent of the twenty-three million acres of woodland in the state, according to the compilations of the State Commission of Forestry.

The total number of fires amounted to 18,348. The total area burned over was about 644,411 acres. Lightning caused 8 fires, railroads 357, lumbering 2,397, brush burning 8,371, camp fires 379, smokers 3,801, incendiaries 2,011, while 1,024 were the result of miscellaneous causes.

Fires burning one-quarter acres or less numbered 464, those more than one quarter and less than 10 acres numbered 8,101, while 9,783 fires were ten acres or more in extent.

The proportion of forest land burned in the organized forestral districts, comprising the areas of greater hazard, was about two and one-tenth per cent, while in the unorganized territority, consisting of the localities of more scattered tracts of woodland and lower hazard, it amounted to approximately three and seven-tenths per cent.

In terms of one person per fire, it is estimated that 10,207 persons engaged in fighting fires without compensation from the state. Of these 7,377 were farmers and stockmen, 224 were railroad employees, 1,982 were lumbermen's employees, while other volunteers numbered 624. Private equipment was used in fire suppression to a hire value of $507.89. The total money value of volunteer fire fighting efforts on the part of landowners and others is estimated at $6,512.88. In addition to these contributions, the state and federal governments expended $66,213.05, making a recorded total of $89,364.96 expended in forest fire protection, or less than four-tenths of one cent per acre.

The comparatively low forest fire damage sustained by the state during 1929 was due very largely to the excessive rainfall, although increased alertness on the part of landowners and wider adoption of forestral practices were important factors. As usual most of the fire damage was sustained during the winter months when the periods of rainfall are alternated with exceedingly dry westerly or northerly winds.

IN MEMORY OF CHARLEY WILLIAMS

On March 3, death taken our loving brother and son. Charley was a loving brother and son. Oh, how we miss him. He was always smiling and looked on the bright side of life. It was hard to give Charley up, for we all always loved him. He was a kind and faithful brother and son. It won't be long till we all will meet him in heaven. We know Charley has gone to rest, the thing we all want to do is live so we can meet him over there. No sorrow will be there. We cannot understand these things, though we feel it more than we can all bear. Charley was so young, and a noble young man, he had friends everywhere he went. Everybody who knew him could not help but love him, he was so loving and kind. He always loved everybody he met.

Charley leaves a vacant place at home, he will be sadly missed by his dear old father and mother and brothers and sister. Charley leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother, two brothers and one sister.

"I suffered with rheumatic pains for 25 years. Everything I ate disagreed with me. I was almost continually having nervous headaches, my whole system seemed poisoned, and I was generally weakened and run down. Nothing helped me until I started Sargon. Now, my appetite is fine and every rheumatic pain is gone. My whole system is strengthened and toned up and nervous headaches never bother me any more. Sargon pills ended my constipation and regulated me perfectly."—Benjamin F. Young, 111 Hunt Street, Montgomery, Alabama.

CHEVROLET USED CAR SALES EXCEEDS PREVIOUS RECORD

Detroit, Mich., March 10.—An indication of the rapid expansion of the used car market and an assurance of a brightening business was revealed in an announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company today that winter sales of used cars by the nation-wide Chevrolet dealer organization are exceeding by more than twenty five per cent the best previous winter record.

Despite the extremely cold and stormy weather in the northern states in January and adverse weather conditions in some other sections, sales of used cars by Chevrolet dealers during the month totaled 60,000 cars as compared with the January record of 48,000 established last year.

A quickening of general business and unusually mild weather in February assured a new record for that month even though final figures for the last ten days of the month are not yet available. Reports from dealers for the first twenty days of February show an increase of 54.4 per cent over the corresponding period of February last year. During the first twenty days of February 1920, the Chevrolet dealer organization sold 58,922 used cars, nearly equaling in 20 days the record month of January. The stature of the February achievement may be further appreciated by a comparison of this figure with 38,176 used cars sold during the corresponding period of February last year.

In commenting on the achievement, officials pointed out that it was made possible through the public conference that has been built up by Chevrolet dealers through the general policy of offering for sale only dependable merchandise. They explain that through the widespread use of the red tag "with an O. K. that counts," prospective used car buyers are assured that every vital part of the car has been properly reconditioned and put in shape to offer thousands of miles of unused transportation.

Alred's Garden Guide
FOR MARCH

If you overlooked planting anything in your garden in February, attend to it this month. Examine your seed beds closely, and if anything has failed to come up, you should re-seed at once. All the most delicate seeds can be sown this month, as the atmosphere will be mild and pleasant and they will germinate freely.

BEANS—Plant all varieties of bush and pole beans this month. The best variety of Snap Pole Beans for the South is Kentuckey Wonder, Crease Back, and Nancy Davis.

LIMA or BUTTER BEANS—Plant these toward the end of March. We recommend the Ideal Pole Lima, and Fordhook Bush Lima.

CABBAGE—The late varieties can be sown yet. Your early sowings should be large enough to plant out this month. Select the largest and strongest plants.

CORN—Plant for first crop Adams Early and Perkins Early. Follow with Golden Bantam and Country Gentleman. For green roasting ears Snowflake and Golden Dent are favorites in the South.

CUCUMBER—Make a general planting. Select Perfection Early White Spine, and Long Green. If you wish only one sort, select the former, and make a small planting each month until August.

PEAS—If sown now, they should be planted deep. A crop thus planted will produce more abundantly and longer. Select the wrinkled varieties.

Late in the evening the guests went to Upchurch Drug Store where delicious refreshments were served.

Dr. S. J. Ezell at Assembly Last Wednesday

We were pleasantly surprised Wednesday morning by a visit from Dr. Ezell. Our entire chapel period was given over to him. As he had not been with us for some time, we listened to his talk with more than usual interest and eagerness.

Dr. Ezell took as his theme the beauty of life, using as a basis the 9 Phalm. His talk was an educational and inspiring one. Among other things, he showed us just how we should use our time most profitably. Few of us realize how precious to ourselves is our profunctory attitude toward time. We are inclined to waste our time in frivolities. Dr. Ezell gave us a new inspiration and determination to make our minutes worth while. One simple verse from the selection which he read left its life-long impression with us: "So tach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." Again Dr. Ezell said: "We have only a short time on earth to serve God and humanity." We must remember this, and ever apply our hearts unto wisdom and our hands unto good deeds.

Besides this noble talk we are also very grateful to Dr. Ezell for his interest and kindness in offering his assistance to any students who are interested in our debating contest that will come off before long.

"Bettie Lou" Rehearsals

WOULD YOU KNOW ONE IF YOU SAW IT?

If you ever came face to face with a germ, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a germ, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to be as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny germs can get into your blood streams through the smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisoning, and many more dangerous and perhaps fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers—washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

REUNION SERVICE AT WALNUT CREEK GREAT SUCCESS

The reunion and home-coming service at Walnut Creek Church last Sunday was a great success. A large number of the older members were present, as were many others from neighboring churches. A large part of the number of older members came from great distances to take part in the service. Following is given the program, as it was taken up:

Morning Session

Opening, at 10 o'clock. First song by Jesse Baker, with Miss Edna Wyatt at the piano. First prayer, by Rev. T. J. Deason. Rev. F. A. Gibson, superannuated minister of the Methodist Protestant Church, read off the old songs in the old fashioned way. The present pastor of Walnut Creek Church, Rev. P. A. Lynch, made the welcome address; response was made, in the form of short talks, by Rev. C. D. Messer, Rev. F. A. Gibson, Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, Rev. T. J. Deason of Baptist faith, and Rev. Harry B. Calentine of the Foursquare Church at Clanton. Rev. Messer, who was pastor of Walnut Creek Church 39 years ago, made the first talk, telling of those who started in the King's way in the old days, and urging the younger generation to follow them faithfully. Rev. F. A. Gibson followed him, relating the life and history of the church. The old song, "Come, Thou Fount," was sung.

The meeting was turned over to Rev. Gibson, who read the 23rd Psalm as introductory passage, followed by the song, "Amazing Grace." Rev. Gibson began his sermon, using as his text a portion of the Scripture given in Job 14—"Man, born of woman, is of few days, and full of trouble." He preached a wonderful sermon, and there were not many dry eyes in the house. Following the sermon, prayer by Bro. John Hayes, and the old song, "Dunbar," was sung. Dismissed for dinner at 12:00 o'clock.

The Dinner

The dinner spread is worthy of special note itself. A long table had been built under the trees near the church, and this was literally packed with good things to eat. Walnut Creek community has always been noted for its liberal dinner spreads, and this was one of the best. Not near all of the good things to eat could find space on the large table. At least as much was carried back to the homes as was needed to feed the great crowd. It was truly a great feast, and greatly enjoyed. Pictures were made of the table, and crowd. Also, pictures were made of all ministers in attendance, of which there were eight.

Afternoon Session

The meeting was called to order at 1:20 p. m., and the song, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder" was sung, while the congregation was being seated. The old song, "How Firm a Foundation" was sung. Prayer, by Bro. John Baker. Rev. Gibson read for introductory passage 25th Psalm. Next was an old fashioned praise service, and a touching one, hearing the faithful old soldiers of the Cross as they related their experiences along life's rugged way. After a song, a proposition was made that all who desired to be better servants of the Master shake hands with Rev. Honeycutt and Rev. Messer; this was truly a touching moment, and it is believed that everyone present felt the Divine power of old time religion. Everybody sang "Old Time Religion."

Just before closing, Rev. Honeycutt asked that all who knew when the change came in their lives rise to their feet; a great crowd rose, bringing expressions of joyful shouts upon their bright faces.

The meeting closed by singing "Bye and Bye." Dismissed by Bro. T. J. Deason.

This was truly a great occasion for young and old. Many former members from far and near were present, and all seemed to enjoy the day. The old folks seemed glad to meet with ones whom they had known in years long past, and with whom they had not met in years.

Ministers present were: Revs. P. A. Lynch, R. M. Honeycutt, Jno. L. Smith, T. J. Deason, F. A. Gibson, C. D. Messer, Harry B. Calentine, and C. C. Martin.—C. C. Martin.

NINE-TENTHS PREVENTABLE

Nine-tenths of all diseases of the American people can be traced direct to constipation, doctors say. Constipation throws into the system poisons which taint and weaken every organ of the body and make them easy victims for any germs which attack them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and financial losses. Herbine, the good old vegetable cathartic, will prevent constipation in a natural way. Get a bottle today from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

THE VERBENA FIDDLERS CONVENTION

The ninth annual fiddlers convention held in Verbena last Friday night will go down in memory as the very best one ever held there. Always good, the conventions in Verbena, have attracted large numbers of fiddlers and accompanists from the neighboring counties, as well as listeners from points afar. It remained for this one just held to attract the largest numbers of artists of the rosined bow ever to participate, and perhaps the best fiddling ever in these parts was in evidence. Threatening weather just at dusk deterred many who had intended coming, from being present. However, the auditorium was comfortably filled by an appreciative audience which was regaled with a varied program from eight till twelvé o'clock.

The Parent-Teachers Association, under whose auspices the affair was staged, were well repaid for their efforts in bringing such a splendid musical attraction to their community, as well by the benefit realized for the schools as by the realization of having provided a splendid evening of entertainment for those present. And the Association wishes to thank the press of this county and other counties, and the business men and public spirited citizens of this and neighboring communities for their cooperation in the advertising and furnishing of prizes for the convention.

The first prize, $10 in cash, was won by W. H. Denison, who certainly wielded a smooth bow. The second prize was won by Amerine Vance. Other fiddlers winning prizes were: R. A. Johnson, Jim Courtney, Samuel Watkins, Arville Wright, Adam Courtney, Zeb Mims, J. C. Price, Barney Adams, Irion Howell, Renzy Blalock, B. W. Hopper, Joe Grooms, J. V. Simms, R. A. Willis, H. Lowery, R. A. Sanders, E. B. Vance, J. B. Guy, Hollis Wright, V. R. Vance, Kermit Lowery, E. D. Dawson, Herman Lowery. First prize for orchestra was won by Messrs, Price, Blalock, Howell and Dawson. First prize in hog calling was won by Renzie Blalock. Among those who were excellent seconds were Edward Harmon, Howell, Paul and Claud Dawson, Herman Clark, and also some of the fiddlers. An interesting feature was the fact that one fiddler, Mr. B. W. Hopper, is eighty-nine years old, and another, Arville Wright, twelve years old. The judges selected by the fiddlers were B. B. Scott, J. R. Griffin, T. N. Howard.

The prizes were as follows:

$10, $5 for orchestra, $2.50 for hog calling. The cash was donated by the P.-T. A., S. L. Gibson, Floyd Irving, C. D. Hughes and J. S. Howard. Other prizes were as follows, with the giver's name following: Hat, by estate of D. I. Deramus; shirt and tie, by Gulledge Bros.; setting fine white leghorn eggs, H. W. Davis; sack flour, S. D. Williams; $1.50 in trade, Moores Drug Store; tobacco humidor, W. W. Fox; can of tobacco, Alred Drug Co., shaving mirror, Upchurch Drug Co., pound of coffee, W. T. Patterson; Syrup, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Strock; bucket honey, Verbena Service Station; flashlight,, Howard Bros. Garage; haircut and shave, Verbena Barber Shop; pair of socks, Broadheads; suit pressed, Powell's Pressing Shop; pair garters, Elmore's; tie, H. T. Williams; other cash prizes P.-T. A.

NATURE THOUGHT OF EVERYTHING

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle, and can be bought from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

NEXT SUNDAY'S PROGRAM AT FOURSQUARE GOSPEL CHURCH

The entire Foursquare Gospel membership attended the reunion at Walnut Creek last Sunday. On Sunday night, Pastor Calentine gave an illustration message, "What's in The Box?" Which was quite interesting.

The program for next Sunday is as follows: 10:00 a.m.—Sunday School; 11:00 a. m.—Missionary message; 6:30 p. m.—Crusaders; 7:30 p. m.—Evangelistic message, "But One." You are invited to all services.—J. Matt Johnson.

MORE than $78,000,000 will be disbursed by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company this year to operate and maintain the telephone system and care for the growth in the nine Southeastern states.

Of this large sum $35,000,000 is new money and will be needed for additions and replacements. It means that approximately 50,000 new telephones will be added and that the long distance system will be greatly enlarged and improved.

The remaining $43,000,000 will be required for operating and maintaining the service and practically all of it will remain at home in the 900 cities in which the company operates.

This enormous expenditure indicates confidence in the commercial and industrial growth of the Southeast and is a fulfillment of the Bell System policy of furnishing comprehensive, efficient service, at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

One of the most significant signs of the times is the steady increase in taxes, in spite of all of the efforts through publicity and other agencies to ease the burden of taxation. According to the figures prepared by the National Industrial Conference Board and made public a short time ago the total amount of taxes collected by the federal, state and local governments in the United State for the fiscal year ended in 1928 amounted to $9,289,000,000, as against $9,059,000,000 in the year previous.

According to this report, taxes have been increasing steadily since 1923, when they amounted to something over seven and a quarter billions, and the significiant fact is that this increase has been in spite of the successful efforts of the federal government to decrease federal taxes, and despite the efforts to create public sentiment for a curtailment of state and local taxes. Federal taxes collected in 1928 were lower than those collected in 1927 but state and local taxes were higher. Ror instance, in 1928 the state governments collected taxes in the sum of $1,465,000,000 as against $1,355,000,000 in 1927 and the local governments in the United States collected 4,630,000,000 in 1928 as against 4,367,000000 in the year before.

But as the Industrial Conference Board points out, this does not tell all of the story of our government expense, and of the burdens assumed by the people through taxation. While, in the long run, increases in taxes and public expenditures go hand in hand, municipalities and states in recent years have been resorting more and more to loans. These loans have a tendency to create a disparity between expenditures and tax collection and of course finally have to be paid off with money collected from the taxpayers. The figures show that a total of $12,179,000,000 was expended by the federal, state and local government in the fiscal year 1927 while the receipts from taxation were only a little more than $9,0000,000,000. This means that three billions more were spent than collected in taxes. The bill will have to be paid sooner or later, and, of course, the greater the loans, the greater the burden when the inevitable pay day rolls around. And it is to be remembered that this money has been borrowed by the state and local governments as the federal gevernments made no new loans during this time.

The situation is one which should be carefully studied by the taxpayers of the local community, because, after all, it is the local taxes which show the big burden of increase. In the fiscal year 1927 the latest for which complete figures are available, the reports of the National Industrial Conference Board show that the local governments incurred 53 per cent of all governmental expenditures and collected but 48.2 per cent of all the taxes while the state governments' share of the public expense was 13.6 per cent but the states collected 15 per cent of the total taxes collected that year. The federal gevernment incurred 33.4 per cent of expenses of all the taxes.

It would seem therefore that the most fertile field for a study of possible tax reform is in the local units of gevornment which spend the most money, collect the most taxes but at the same time incur the most of the bonded indebtedness. Public imprvements are essential at all times, and certainly at present there is no disposition to discourage public expenditures which are necessary. The tax problem, however, is one which is always with us, and each year it becomes necessary that we give it more careful study. Necessary public expenditure is legitimate and proper, but inefficient handling of the people's money by local governments is certainly not to be tolerated.

WHERE FARM RELIEF MUST COME FROM

Any farm relief worthy of the name must come from the farmer himself, in the opinion of agricultural authorities, with govermental agencies ranking a poor second-best in any real improvement of the farm situation. Experts agree that increased efficiency on the part of the farmer himself will go furthest towards improving rural conditions.

There are certain basic principles which must be followed if a farmer is to succeed as he should. The first of these is that a great share of the products used by the farm family should be produced at home; second, that the farm land should not be robbed year after year, but should be kept up and improved; and third, that the farmer should keep livestock and grow more than one cash crop.

Failure to realize to the fullest upon certain inherent advantages of farm life is depriving many farmers of a large share of the ready cash which their fellow farmers are securing each year: Profits from the farm poultry flock is one of these things, to cite an outstanding example.

Farmers in some sections of the country have been educated to the point where they are making each hen on the farm pay a net profit of between $1.50 and $2.50 a year. Many farmers, however, overlook this valuable source of income leaving it to their wives as a "pin money" proposition.

Improvement of farm poultry stock principally by taking advantage of a greatly improved hatchery product, has made possible large profits from poultry activities in recent years. This is particularly so since leading hatcheries of the country united to operate under the slogan. "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," to insure profit-producing stock and fair dealings.

This same condition exists in many lines of farming, although the ever-increasing faith which farmers are placing in the advice of their agricultural agents and agricultural colleges, is doing much to increase their efficiency. This is particularly the case in respect to more efficient marketing, which is one of the greatest problems which the farmer must face.

Scientist declares that many animals laugh. Well, why shouldn't they? They don't have any easy payments to meet.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Hard times? Nope! Not yet. Have you heard anybody talking about the hard times? If so, who was it? Just consider this. About this time of the year we always hear the same old story—hard times! Can't see but that it's about the same old disgruntled crowd doing their little griping stunt all over again.

However, it's said that history repeats itself. If so, we'll see more goods of every kind sold this year than the year before. After all, what is there that should cause times to be harder than usual?

In about two or three weeks you'll begin to see fertilizer hauled out to the farms so fast they won't even take time to put it in a warehouse—just haul direct from the railroad cars. That won't look so much like hard times.

Honest, it's just that way folks. Just about this time of the year, a few merchants go to belly-achin' about the hard times, and how many of the farmers are riding in automobiles when they ought to be walking, and lots of things like that.

The chorus is taken up by a few others, farmers and others, and before you can say "skillibooch" we have our yearly hard time chant going full blast. It's the same old story—the same old hokum—the same old line, without which a few chronic pessimists (of which every community has a few) would feel out of place.

But don't let it get you, too. It's just the cold March winds blowing in when it seems like we ought to have corn peeping out of the ground. Now, don't understand us to be shooting the Christian Scientist's line, but times are just pretty much what you make 'em.

If you put on a long face and go out to hunting hard times, you'll find them. Too, if you brighten up, and look at the coming year through rose-colored glasses, you can't help but see the bright side of things. It's all the way you look at it.

And, by the way, that's another thing that athletics in the schools is doing a lot to help. Our best coaches will not have on their teams a man who is all the time giving up. If you go into the game in that spirit, you're beaten before you begin.

You've been to games of this kind. A good looking, snappy, confident team has it all over the opponent who feels that he hasn't a chance. If things look a little blue, just dig in and fight a little harder.

Ever been to a baseball game and seen a rally put on? That's the best way of illustrating this point we can think of, right now. Let's take the last game of the world series baseball games of 1929 for the lesson.

Philadelphia had already won the first two games, Chicago the third, and Philadelphia the fourth (by the greatest rally ever seen in baseball). Came the fifth game. The Philadelphians had been "stood on their heads" for eight innings of hair-raising besaball, and the Cubs were leading them 2 to 0 on entering the ninth and last frame of the contest. Beaten? In figures—yes! In spirit—no!

The first man went out, easy. The second came up—fighting—with all to gain and nothing to lose—and singled. The next got it into his coco that if that man could hit, he could too. And, how! Right over the fence for a home run, which tied the score. But that wasn't enough.

And here is what we want to show you. A winning spirit came over that team at bat, while just the opposite crept over the Chicago team. The next man took a big swing—connected—for a double. A dangerous batter came up, and the Cub pitcher showed the beaten team's spirit—he walked FOXX. The next man felt very confident as he came to bat with the $50,000 winning run perched on second base.

If he had felt that he couldn't hit, maybe he wouldn't have. But he felt that if the others could do so well, he could, too. And, he did! A stinging hit sent the winning run across and gave Philadelphia the championship. "Connie" Mack, manager of the Philadelphia team, said later that that game was won on spirit alone.

Excuse us if we have been a little lengthy in trying to bring out our point. But it's just like that. Everybody is. If a dog finds a snake in the grass, he worries him until Mr. Snake starts crawling away—then the dog gets busy, and pretty soon there "ain't no" snake.

Take a lesson from the dog. If hard times is your "snake-in-the-grass," keep on scrapping him and trying to feel that you have the best of the fight, and when the hard times spirit is whipped, there won't be any hard times.

Somebody else sends in a report on the POT. From away over in Coosa County comes word that Mr. Varner reads and likes the POT. Let 'em come—good or bad. We like to hear cheering words as well as the next one, and if there be any criticism, we'll take our rebuke standing up.

Warming up a little, now. A little more like we have had some of—let us have time to get little cotton up to where the leaves look like som many of the new size dollar bills—that'll help this old hard times feeling. By that time the chronic pessimists will be too busy fannin' flies to keep up the old hard times movement, and it will die it's usual death. It always does!

In closing, the next feller you hear squawking about hard times, just notice who he is. Then, think back and see if you can't remember that he nearly always has come out with the same old squeal. Ask him to just tell you WHY the times are going to be so hard. That'll settle him.

There's a silver lining to every cloud, no matter how black. Just remember that in the meantime, too. It's there—look for it, and you'll find it. If you don't look for it, naturally you can't see anything but the cloud.

THE TELEPHONE SCIENCE

Marvels of the telephone science are the dial central office apparatus which operates without human attention. Complicated, delicately adjusted machinery takes the dialed call and connects the caller with his party, unaided by human hands. Alarm signals inform the company if anything goes wrong. Otherwise, the offices are visited only every few weeks by inspectors.

Painstaking laboratory science that has developed machinery to such a point of perfection as this, is a major factor in the development of the telephone industry.

DENIED TARIFF WALL, SHOE PAYROLL FALLS

Refusal of the Senate to impose any duty on imported boots and shoes has had quick repercussion in the Massachusetts shoe industry. Wage reductions are now the subject of discustions between employers and workers. That this is not a one-sided discussion is indicated by news that the United Shoe Workers of Lynn, while declaring proposed wage cuts to be too drastic, say they are willing to make a new arrangement with the manufactures.

Until recently American shoe manufacturers have not had much competition from abroad, and so shoes have been left on the free list. Czechoslovakia has changed all this. That country has gone into the shoe business on American production lines and with its low wages has become a serious competitor in the American market. In 1928 Czecholslovakian shoes exported to the United States tripled in both quantity and value over 1927. We have no figures yet to show what the increase was in 1929, but it was probably no less, judging from the hurdling growth of boot and shoe imports to the United States since 1921.

The situation must be serious when the workers grant that a wage cut is necessary.— San Francisco Chroncle.

PENALTY OF HIGH TAXES

A gentemen who for many years has spent his summers in this community and owns much property in the town of New London recently made a remark that could well be taken as a text for a good sermon to all citizens. The statement referred to was: "A low tax rate is the best advertisement a town can have." People with money to invest in country estates are usually of the kind that are prudent and reckon the cost of upkeep of every venture they enter into. It is usually because of this disposition that they possess money to spend.

No matter how much a person is impressed with the location if the tax rate is excessively high good judgment will make him seek another place. For the year 1929 the town of New London received approximately $50,000 in taxes and of this amount fully ten per cent came from what can be termed distinctly summer property. At present the tax rate in New London, though not the lowest compares favorably with other towns in the state.—New London Highlander.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

There are lots of fellows yet who haven't forgotten the olden days. Last Thursday morning a friend of mine from Florida came in on Number Two. As I came up the back alley with his suit case, no less than half a dozen of my buddies stuck their heads around corners and out of side doors and with somewhat hushed voices said: "Say, did you call me?" I thought of Bill Simpson in the negro minstrel when he had just got back from a Florida fishing trip with something in a suit case for Vic Heard.

Clanton is really a Saturday town. I never saw so many folks as were here last Saturday. And automobiles, oh my goodness. Every spot big enough to park a flivver was filled up and running over. Looked to me like they were buying quite a lot of things too. Busines sis what our merchants are craving right now. They ought to get a lot of trade out of a crowd like that last Saturday.

Here is something on the chain store racket that I think is worthy of serious consideration, especially on the part of the home-town or independent merchant. It is quoted from a recent advertisement of the Parisian Company of Birmingham, in a newspaper of that city:

"A friendly tip to Our Fellow Merchants: At the present, public opinion is very favorable to home merchants. It is needless to quote reasons. You know them—so does the public. In the long run, however, the public will trade with those stores that can give the best service and values. Those stores that are depending only on public sentiment alone are building their houses on sand—they will fall as soon as sentiment recedes and the economic factor takes its place. While you have public opinion in your favor, what are you doing to hold it? Mr. Merchant, that's the greatest question you have had put before you. Are you preparing to give the public as good service and as low prices as they can obtain in any other store? If you do, Mr. Home Merchant, you will succeed and prosper. If not, the chain store will grow stronger than ever, and sentiment will not stop them."

The question of competition between the chain stores and the independent merchants presents a problem that will never be solved by the kind of foolishness that comes from W. K. Henderson and others of this type. That will help swing public sentiment in favor of the home-town merchant. It has already done so. But it will not last. The Henderson racket will recede as time goes on. It will get old. Then the economic factor will rise and take its place. While you have public opinion in your favor, Mr. Home Merchant, you had better get your feet on solid rock.

Vatchel Lindsey uses one of the principal business corners of the town as a parking place for his street cleaning implements. There are half a dozen brooms, rakes, hoes, and shovels that always spend Sunday by the bench on Marion Gore's corner. What would be your guess as the reason Vatchel parks his tools in this particular spot?

Clanton is grateful to Senator Hugo Black for the promptness with which he communicated the news of the Veterans Hospital decision to us last week. Within a few hours after the decision of the hospital board on the area in which the hospital will be located, Senator Black had wired the good news to several people in Clanton.

"Chilton County, the Heart of Alabama." That has always been a fine-sounding slogan to me. The decision of the veterans hospital board at Washington in placing the center of the hospital area in Chilton County goes to show that Chilton County, as the heart of Alabama, is becoming known far beyond the reaches of our own State. Chilton County is, by nature, the best situated county in Alabama. This section of Alabama is going to become great in the eyes of the world, in spite of everything.

I heard Monday that Judge George H. Stewart, of Coosa County, died Suddenly Sunday. That is another exceptionally good man gone the way of all things earthly. I was intimately asscociated with Judge Stewart in 1916, when he was elected Probate Judge of Coosa County. He was not a politician. If he had been, I think he would have continued to be Probate Judge of Coosa County more than one term. He was a big hearted, clean, honest, and straightforward fellow. I dare say the people of Coosa County will say now that they never had a better man than George Stewart as Probate Judge of their county.

The people of Coosa County wanted George Stewart to run for Probate Judge in 1916. He disliked politics, and would not consent to let himself be put in the race. He was afraid his political campaign would bring offense in some way to friends he had on the opposite side of the political fence. His heart was tender and loving toward everyone, regardless of politics. Henry Pond and I rode in a buggy from Rockford to Weogufka to see Mr. Stewart and insist that he get into the race. It was certain that he would be elected. We found him in his field above the Cross Roads directing a group of hands sowing oats. We fired a stump to counteract the chilling spring breeze, and began to warm up to the subject of our mission. It took us hours to do the job, but before we left, we had secured the consent of Mr. Stewart to run for Probate Judge. He made the race, was elected, and filled the office for six years with credit to himself and honor to his county.

OUR HIGHWAY CIVILIZATION

Paved, all-year-round highways have done much to remove country and state barriers and link the nation closer together.

Fifty years ago it was not common for a person to be born, live and die without traveling a hundred miles from his community. Now, due to the automobile and good roads, we can travel hundreds of miles in a day. The entire nation can be crossed in a week.

The result has been a lessening of sectional jealousies and misunderstandings and more frequent and friendly social and commercial contacts between people of different states. Provincial America is no more.

Unfortunately, the farmer has, to a great extent, been left out of the picture. The average farm road is still at the mercy of rain and snow. It is often a succession of ruts and mud holes. It is a barrier between the farmer and his market.

Road building programs should provide for an adequate mileage of feeder or farm-to-market roads. Year-round, efficient, long-wearing surfaces can be constructed at a low cost and without excessive maintainance expense. Good roads are the principal thing necessary to place agriculture on an equal footing with other great industries.

County Farm Agent's Notes

LITTLE COTTON BIG PRICE BIG CROP LOW PRICE

Alabama farmers are wondering about their cotton income for this year. Last year promised cash profits, but it did not keep its promise. The result is that cotton is selling below the government loan price of 15.64 cents a pound middling basis. The market has recently slumped a full cent, with a weak draggy prospect.

There is one main cause for this present low price of cotton, according to Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture—overproduction— in other words too much cotton and too little purchase money in the world. Like a stone thrown into a pond, the price had to sink.

Naturally, there is but one thing that will raise the price of cotton—a small crop acreage this year. Could it be known today that the acreage would drop off ten per cent this year, the price of December cotton would jump tomorrow.

SHORT STAPLE COTTON A CURSE

Quality always beats quantity, especially in cotton production. In 1929, 92 per cent of the cotton crop in Alabama was 7-8 or shorter in length. This short staple cotton is untenderable on contracts. When sold it is at a pentlty. Alabama farmers lose heavily each year because of their short staple cotton. Cotton sold through the farm bureau is sold on the basis of grade and staple, thus bringing the full price to the farmer. Alabama seems to be at the foot of the ladder with short inferior staple cotton, according to Cary William in charge of cotton for the federal farm board.

A BIG COTTON CROP BAD AS FIRE

A big cotton crop this year means a very low price. It means that the farm board cannot help the farmer to any degree. Europe and Asia are raising more and more of the better staple of cotton. The U. S. is raising more and more of the short staple. There can be but one result of this great mistake. Southern farmers will face bankruptcy, eventually.

RANDOLPH PLACES BIG CHICK ORDER

Wedowee, Ala., March 10.—The cooperative purchasing idea is rapidly gaining favor among Randolph County farmers. Evidence of this is presented in a report by L. M. Hollingsworth, county agent.

Farmers of the county placed the largest order for baby chicks that has been made since they began cooperative purchasing. It calls for 25,000 chicks. At the end of Feb. orders had been booked for 815 tons of fertilizer, 55 bushels of soybeans and 25 tons of poultry feed.

FERTILIZER MOVEMENT BEHIND PREVIOUS YEARS

Fertilizer movement from March 1, to March 8, totalled 50,500 tons, according to figures by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture at Montgomery. Figures for the past three years are appended showing that this year is behind the last two years in movement of fertilizer to date. Figures given by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner, are as follows:

Oct. 1, 1927 to March 8, 1928—316,500 tons.
Oct. 1, 1928 to March 8, 1929—237,200 tons.
Oct. 1, 1929 to March 8, 1930—224,500 tons.

HENS AND COWS GAIN IN ESCAMBIA COUNTY

Brewton, Ala., March 10.—Unusual interest in poultry and dairying is being manifested by farmers of Escambia County. In line with a state-wide program, Escambia bankers are fostering 35 new dairy projects. Farmers plan to grow feed as recommended by dairy department at Auburn and the banks will help buy the cows after the feed has been produced.

Evidence of interest in poultry is given by H. H. Williamson, county agent, who reports that the demand for brooder and brooder house plans is greater this year than ever before. Eighteen units have been constructed according to Auburn plans.

Williamson also reports that demonstrations with Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch are better than in previous years. These will be turned under soon, he said.

RURAL FACTS

Home-grown feed is the basis of successful dairying.

Spend the extra time to make your 1930 census report accurate.

Hot breakfast cereal is more nourishing if made with milk instead of water.

Cheese is an excellent meat subtitute because it is rich in protein and fat and contains calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin A.

Milk, butter, and other dairy products are superior foods because of the vitamins they contain, A. D. Burke, head dairyman, Auburn.

As they plant their fields some, think of their home grounds, and realize that flowers, shrubs, and a well-kept lawn add to the attractiveness.

More butter, by three million pounds, moved out of storage in the United States in January this year than in January last year. But there is still 60 million pounds in storage as compared with million pounds on February 1, 1929.

In America, the older connotation of education as something severe, even repellently severe, is maintained.—H. A. Overstree.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LAURA EDWARDS

On March 4th, 1930, the death angel came and took from this world of sorrow, my loving step-mother, and my fathers' wife, whom we loved so much, and every one who knew her loved her. She was always kind to everybody and ready to do any thing for any one. She will be so badly missed by all who knew her, especially at home, there is no one to fill her place there. She leaves a husband and 9 children, 3 boys by her first husband, George Hayes. They are: Mack, Sam, and Oscar Hayes. And, two children by her second husband, Gladys, 11 years old, Willie Charles, the baby, 3 years old, and 4 step children of her second husbands'. Mrs. E. E. Williams, Mrs. Richard Popwell, Mr. Archie Lee Edwards, Miss Eula Mae Edwards.

We all cannot thank our friends and neighbors enough for theor kindness and for what the help given us during her illness and death. They were so kind to us all. All was done for her that loving hands could do but all was in vain, but we understand she has gone to rest in a better world above. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. When it comes our time nothing can keep us here.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. S. Hand and Rev. A. E. Trice at Highland, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. J. Mell Martin in charge, he also went to Montgomery and got her Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock. She died in the Hilman Hospital. She peacefully sleeps in the city of the dead, awaiting the coming resurrection time, when all all loved ones and friends again meet to part no more. May the Lord bless everyone in that home and help them in time of need. I want to say again we cannot thank the people enough for what they helped us. Her step-daughter, Mrs. E. E. Williams.

Birmingham, March 5.—Oscar H. Wells, president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, has been elected a director of Alabama Power Company, Thomas W. Martin, president, announced here today.

Mr. Wells's first association with the power industry in Alabama was as a director of Southeastern Power & Light Company in 1924. He has since served continuously as a member of the board of the Southeastern Company and with the recent merger of that organization with the constituent units of the Commonwealth & Southern group, Mr. Wells will continue his interest in the power situation in Alabama as a director of Alabama Power Company.

Other Alabama directors of the Power Company are: Richard M. Hobbie, Montgomery; D. P. Bestor, Jr., and Theo K. Jackson, Mobile; E. C. Melvin, Selma; R. A. Mitchell, Gadsden; Frank M. Moody, Tuscaloosa; J. E. Z. Riley, Ozark; L. H. Sessions, Enterprise; R. D. Thomas, Eufaula; W. H. Weatherly, Anniston; and W. H. Hassinger, R. I. Ingalls, Thomas W. Martin, E. A. Yates and O. G. Thurlow, Birmingham.

TACKY PARTY AT THORSBY

If you want to have some fun you had better be present at Miss Sallye Thompson's Friday evening, March 21st, at 7:00 o'clock sharp. All those who are not dressed tacky must pay a quarter, and those that are will be charged only a dime. The proceeds will go for the new church. Everybody come.—Ruth Champion 2t

FARMERS TO TURN COVER CROPS SOON

Auburn, Ala., March 10.—It will soon be time for Alabama farmers to start turning under the crops of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas which now furnish a green blanket and act as soil building agencies on thousands of acres of land. As this approaches, Director M. J. Funchess of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Auburn, gives out information on when legumes should be turned.

It is not necessary to wait until the vetch or peas is in full bloom, he said. Turn when enough growth has been made to pay. When a square 10 feet by 10 feet taken in the average vetch in the field will cut 13 pounds of green matter, the equivalent in nitrogen to that of 300 pounds of nitrate of soda has already been stored. Austrian winter peas should weigh slightly more per square—around 16 pounds.

Corn and cotton will be planted on most of the land now growing legumes. In this connection, F. S. Arant, assistant entomologist at Auburn, gives suggestions based on recent experimental date. The sounthern corn root worm is a serious pest of corn plant after winter legumes or on bottom lands, said Mr. Grant. The high infestation on legume plots following turning March 15 indicates it is not safe to plant corn within four weeks from this date of turning.

Since the agronomy department at Auburn has found that corn following legumes turned March 15 produces smaller yields than planting after later turnings, and since the greatest injury from rootworms occurs the last of March and the first of April, it is of Auburn. The infestation records indicate that it is safe to plant corn in the latitudes of Auburn three weeks after turning legumes April 1. The records indicate further that it is safe to plant corn two weeks after turning legumes April 15. In either case it is advisable after turning in order to destroy the larvse's food supply.

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children.

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation.

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache.

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

Premiums for Good Fiber

"In view of the complaint that American cotton is not meeting the world's demand for good staple lengths as satisfactorily as it formerly did, the evidence that improvement is possible has obvious importance. It should also facilitate the payment of adequate premiums for superior fiber. Heretofore the practice has been to assemble cotton in even running lots at central points rather than at points of origin. This has entailed the payment of flat prices at country markets, with the result that the grower of superior cotton has been penalized unjustly."—W. M. Jardine, former Secretary of Agriculture.

Beat Boll Worm with V-C

The boll worm is a cannibal, so the wise farmer plants a small plot of late corn to have it just silking and tasseling as bait when the field corn dries, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The moth stops on the trap corn and the larvae eat one another heartily. Only a few are left to go after the cotton—which probably has been fertilized with V-C and has developed such hard bolls that the surviving worms do very little damage.

"We have a large list of customers who have used V-C several years and are thoroughly satisfied. Quality and mechanical condition make V-C easy to sell."—W. R. Thrasher & Bros., Dealer, Barwick, Ga.

All This Is Extra

Cotton seeds now produce refined oils, synthetic stearin, soap and soap powders, nitroglycerine, roof paint, writing paper, nitrocellulose, smokeless powder, gun cotton, lacquers, artificial leather, celluloid, rayon, photographic films, sausage casings, pyralin toilet ware, furfural, carbo-hydrates and potash, according to Major T. P. Walker, Commercial Solvents Co., Terre Haute, Ind. And the cotton plant is used in bleaching, dyeing, printing, waterproofing and mercerization.

A standard way of calling fertilizer grades has been agreed on by one association after another, and now it is unanimous. The new uniform practice is to call nitrogen first, superphosphate second, and potash third. What used to be called an 8-4-4 in Georgia, for example, is now a 4-8-4 and is identified that way anywhere.

The Truth for Everybody

"The idea seems to be widespread in some sections that Government crop reports hurt farmers by placing information in the hands of speculators. The big buyers have their own sources of information, and if they can keep facts to themselves they have an advantage. A farmer is often badly misled by judging the whole crop by conditions in his locality. As long as crops are grown in the open and the roads are free, experienced crop observers can form rather close estimates. If the crop-reporting system were abolished, the farmers would be the principal losers."—W. F. Callander, Yearbook of Agriculture.

A CLEAR SKIN comes from within

Lack of appetite, loss of strength, skin eruptions, that "tired feeling" and other human ills may be due to a lack of red-cells in your blood.

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"My despair was so great I could have cried. The good cheer and merry happiness of others only mocked at my condition. I had begun to wonder why life could be so cruel. No appetite. No strength. Skin blemishes always embarrassed me. Aches and pains coursed through my body. I wanted to restore my health and live. What was I to do? . . . happily the day came and I found the right road to Health when a friend recommended S.S.S."

You may be one of the thousands with a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run-down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments. It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

C. A. C. 33—NORWOOD 20

The Clanton Athletic Club basket ball team coasted to an easy victory over the Norwood (Birmingham) team Tuesday night on the local court, the final score being 33 to 20. The locals played a kind of "cat-and-mouse" game for three quarters of the way, and the affair took on a practice game aspect when Clanton really began to try. Norwood led the way for the first three quarters, and were ahead, 18 to 15, when the last quarter began. Then the locals' "wrecking crew" really settled down to business and at the end had pulled away to the score mentioned.

These two teams have met once before this season, the result being Clanton's game, 52 to 18.

There was nothing spectacular about the game, as the locals were not forced to extend themselves to win. Coach Green, of Chilton County High School, refereed the game.

RIVER TRAFFIC IS SUBJECT OF STUDY BY BUSINESS MEN

Alabama Leaders Meet In Governor's Office To Hear Report

Business men and civic leaders from all parts of Alabama were in the governor's office today to hear the formal report of Theodore Brent, of New Orleans, traffic expert, who directed a tonnage survey of the Coosa and Alabama Rivers.

Delegations from Mobile, Montgomery, Gadsden, Selma and other cities and towns on the two waterways were present. Among them were Senator John Craft, Mobile, a prime mover in the undertaking.

Findings of the survey will be laid before the proper congressional committees with the request that appropriation be made for a federal engineers' survey of potentalities of the two systems. It is hoped to establish barge service from Rome, Georgia to Mobile as a feeder service for the Mississippi-Warrior barge line, leaders in the movement said.

The Mississippi Valley association, interested primarily in development of a waterway, has aligned its influence to secure federal recognition of the potentalities of navigation on the Coosa and Alabama Rivers.

Present to hear the report are members of the committee appointed by the cities lying on the two systems. They are Thad Holt, Birminham, representing the Alabama Industrial Board; W. H. Butler, Gadsden; C. F. Varn, Anniston; H. H. Frazier, Slema; Elkin Hohenberg, Wetumpka; Harry T. Hartwell, Mobile; W. H. Foster, Rome Georgia; M. M. Caskie, Montgomery, and Lachland McLeary, St. Louis, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Improvement association.

In a statement to Judge Heflin Mrs. Cooley declared that she was innocent of murder, and stated that she shot her husband in self defense.

During each program of the Coca-Cola Topnotchers, Grantland Rice and the guest celebrity of the evening will discuss the most timely sport topics in an unconventional and interesting way. Burglars Here Again Last Friday Night

Watches Stolen From Alred, Razors Taken From Barber Shop

Some time during last Friday night burglars made another break in Clanton. They entered the Alred Drug Store through the sky light and carried away about $300 worth of fine watches. A similar entry was made into Newt Gray's Barber Shop on the same night, where eleven razors were stolen.

No trace of the burglars was found until Sunday morning Hance Alred noticed in a Montgomery paper where a boy had been arrested in that city and was found to be in possession of some jewelry.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Alred went to Montgomery to investigate the young man, and found that the jewelry he possessed was that which had been taken from his store Friday night. Mr. Alred came back to Clanton and swore out a warrant for the arrest of the man, and Deputy Sheriff George Murrah went to Montgomery Sunday night and brought him back to Clanton. He is still in jail.

The young man gave his name as James L. Keller, age 16. He made a confession to Mr. Alred and officers, stating that he and a companion whose name he did not know, went into his store and the barber shop here Friday night.

Keller said he was in Clanton and met up with the other boy at the depot. He says the other boy proposed that they go in together and rob the stores, and he joined in the pact. Before they had completed their job as they had outlined, Keller said the other fellow got cold feet and slipped away, catching a train toward Birmingham, carrying with him the razors.

The gay singing,, snappy lines, sparkling costumes and pretty chorus girls make it a blaze of color.

The coach, Mrs. Rlua Coft has worked untiringly, and this attraction will surely add one more number to her long list of sucesses.

Farmers Turning To Long Staple

Auburn, Ala., March 17.—To satisfy market requirement farmers are making an effort to improve the quality of cotton produced on Alabama farms. The big demand, according to J. C. Lower extension aronomist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is for tons of one-inch staple.

To meet this demand the experiment station at Auburn has been searching for a varity which is a high yielder of a staple of this length. In recent years variety tests in north Alabama have reversed that D. P. L. 4-8 is a leader in production and also produces the desired staple. This variety has also been a leader in central Alabama variety tests but not in South Alabama where soil is infested with wilt.

Along with it Cook 1627 meets the requirements and is also a high yielder. On sandy soil where wilt exists Cook 307-6 is a leader. Consequently county farm agents are emphasizing these varietie. If they can succeed in making them the accepted varieties over the state millions of dollars will be added to the value of the cotton crop produced each year, said Mr. Lower.

Already 6,000 bushels of the Cook 1627 variety have been planted among Colbert County farmers, a report from County Agent John Yarbrough reveals. Many of these seed were produced within the county and have been exchanged among neighbors. Others have been shipped from outside growers.

Similar work is in progress with D. P. L. 4-8 variety in Calhoun, Etowah, St. Clair, Jackson, Madison, Limestone, Lauderdale, and Franklin Counties.

A few years ago Franklin County farmers began growing D. P. L. 4-8 and are enthasiastic about it, County Agent J. D. Wood reports.

DIED AT HOSPITAL HERE

Mrs. Lanie Atkinson ,age 17, wife of Euell C. Atkinson of Jemison, died at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton last Thursday night. She was a daughter of T. M. Davenport of Jemison.

Martin's ambulance was called to bring the suffering woman to the hospital, but her condition was recognized as hopeless as soon as the hospital was reached.

The body was prepared for burial by Martin and carried back to the home of her father. She was buried at Oak Grove Friday. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Davis of Union Grove.

Dief Talks About A New Goodyear

"Thousands of car owners have felt the need of a tire of heavier than average construction at a moderate price," says Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, manager of Dief's Service Station, of Clanton, Alabama.

"For the requirements of those doing a lot of driving over rutty roads, where the added security of extra plies is essential, but where moderate price is likewise essential, The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, has developed a real "Big Brother" to its "Pathfinder" which has met with unanimous approval of the users demanding quality at popular prices."

This new line of genuine heavy duty six ply tires is heavier, huskier, finer in appearance, with extra mileage, and bears the name "Heavy Duty Goodyear Pathfinder."

"This new product," concluded Mr. Diefenderfer, "is backed by the experience of the largest rubber company in the industry which has built more tires—millions more—than any other manufacturer."

Walter E. Martin

There are some things that words will not describe. The fragrance of the most delicious flower cannot be expressed in words. In love, silence is often more eloquent than words. either have words ever been sufficient to describe the horrors of war. So, words are but clumsy tools with which we try in vain to express our sorrow and offer our sympathy in such hours as death.

In every art, as in music, painting, oratory, etc., some have risen to perfection and fame, but in giving expression to our feeling of sorrow, sympathy and to our own loss in the going away of such a man as Walter E. Martin, we will find ourselves utterly incompetent. We know of only one who has competently met such an hour, that is Christ—He was the Criterion of character of Walter E. Martin and every other true Klansman. Such expressions as "He that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out," Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest and ye shall find rest for your soul, for my yoke is easy and my burden light," "He that believeth on me, though he were dead, shall live again and he that liveth and believeth on me shall never die." Walter E. Martin believed and lived.

Many beautiful words might be used in describing Bro. Martin's life but I can think of no more appropriate tribute to pay him than that which was paid the apostle Stephen, "He was a good man." His life was absolutely spent in unselfish service for others and that is all that really counts in the end. "He that would be greatest among you let him be servant of all."

Whereas, Walter E. Martin, who for a number of years was an officer in our local Klan and who served one term as Great Kli-Graph of the State, has gone from among us, and

Whereas, we shall miss his smiles, his council and the influence of his Godly life; therefore be it

Resolved; First, that we, his fellow Klansmen, have lost one of our best and truest friends, and one of our most efficient and faithful officers and members of the local Klavern;

Second, that we make a saronger effort to follow our Criterian, as he did;

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and that a copy be sent his bereaved family, one to the office of the Grand Dragon and one to the local papers for publication.—Central Klan No. 35, Realm of Alabama.

Dief Is Hopeful Of Berry Outlook

Expects Car Shipments To Begin Here By the 20th of April

"If we have no more freezes, and the weather in general continues to behave itself in a decent way, I think we will begin to ship strawberries from Clanton by the 20th of April," said Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer in an interview Tuesday afternoon.

Continuing, Dief said we shipped the first car of berries on April 12 last year, and the crop will be one or two weeks later this year. There were some ripe berries by the 6th of April last year.

According to estimates of Mr. Diefenderfer, there have been between 75 and 100 acres of new berry plants put out in the Clanton Association this year. These of course will not bear fruit to any appreciable extent the first year.

There are 55 acres of berries in the Prattville District. Representatives of the Prattville growers have asked that they be allowed to ship from Clanton this year. They expect to bring their berries here by truck.

Mr. Diefenderfer will have charge of the marketing of berries at Clanton and Jemison.

Three Houses Burn At Lay Dam Tuesday

Homes of Crit Jones, Bill Murphy And Club House Destroyed

The Clanton Fire Department received a hurry call from Lay Dam last Tuesday afternoon. A hot water tank exploded in the home of Crit Jones, and as the house was lined with some kind of composition ceiling fire swept all through the house like a flash. Before help could be summoned, the house was afire all over. Nothing was saved from the Jones home except the insurance papers which someone had presence of mind to secure before being forced from the building by the smoke and flame.

The home of Willie Murphy caught from the Jones house, but practically everything of household goods were saved, as well as all equipment in what is know as the "club house," where all the unmarried men at Lay Dam sleep, which also burned.

The call came too late for the fire-fighting equipment to do much good, but the way the big truck scampered out to Lay Dam and down to the edge of the water was very impressive. However, someone had left the "booster" tank on the fire truck empty, and quite a little time was lost in filling this. Once filled, the truck showed that it is a very efficient piece of machinery, shooting a powerful stream into the ruins which quickly extinguished the flames.

Several homes were in danger for some time, as the street at this point is very narrow. By keeping water running down the sides of these houses, however, the damage was confined to three houses grouped closely together.

C. A. C. WILL PLAY SOUTHERN DAIRY SATURDAY NIGHT

Two of the Best Teams In the State To Meet Here Again

The Clanton Athletic Club basket ball team has had a wonderful season, playing 29 games, of which they have lost but two, and both of these to the Southern Dairies team of Birmingham. That's a mighty good record for any team in any kind of sport, anywhere. The locals have met and conquered some of the best teams in Alabama. Indeed, it has been the desire of the management to secure nothing but the best at all times, although the opposition may have failed to live up to its record on a few occasions. At any rate, what we want to tell you here is, we are going to have one more game, and it's bound to be a corker.

Just to show you that the locals really try to pick the hardest, they will meet Southern Dairies again next Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock on the local court at Maddox warehouse. If you are present then and there you will see two of the best basket ball teams in Alabama. And, what a game it's sure to be.

You know what Clanton has. You know a team must be good to win 27 out of 29 games in a season. And, you know how those boys are going to fight to avenge the defeats handed them by the "Milkmen" already this season. They have been practicing hard for this game, and will go in fighting to win from the very first toss-up.

And, by the way, you know these same "Milkmen" must be good to hand a club like Clanton's the two lickings they have already given them. They're going to try just as hard to keep up the great name they have built for themselves in the Birmingham district, as well as to keep their slate clean so far as Clanton is concerned. It's going to be a great scrap! And—how! Be there! Remember, it's at 8:00 o'clock sharp, at Maddox Warehouse, Saturday night, March 22.

BUD THOMAS BURIED AT POPWELL CEMETERY

Enjoys Best Health In 25 Years

DAVID S. BEEKMAN

"At the age of 79 years I am still active in business and I attribute my entire present good health, energy and vitality to the benefits I derived from Sargon. I actually believe this wonderful medicine has added years to my life.

"For five years my health had been failing steadily. My nerves were all to pieces, and I hardly knew what a sound night's sleep meant.

"Since taking the Sargon treatment I feel as well and strong as I was 25 years ago. I have a fine appetite, sleep good, and constipation, billiousness and dizzy spells are things of the past."—David S. Beekman, 528 Kearney St. San Francisco, California.

Lesson for March 23

JESUS TEACHING AND HEALING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:53-16:12. (Print Matthew 15:21-31)

GOLDEN TEXT—Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Kindness to a Stranger.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Kindness to a Stranger.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Faith that Wins.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Faith Tested and Triumphant.

The material embraced in this section of Scripture is too abundant to attempt to cover in one lesson, therefore selection should be made in keeping with the lesson topic.

I. Without Honor in One's Own Country (13:54-58).

Jesus shared the common fate of men—unacknowledged in His own country. Even His own brothers did not believe on Him till after His resurrection (John 7:3-8; cf. Acts 1:14). Familiarity has a paralyzing effect, and at times breeds contempt. Because of unbelief only a limited work could be done there.

II. Jesus Healing the Multitude (14:13, 14).

1. He retired to the desert (v. 13).

The news of the cruel death of John the Baptist brought grief to the Master's heart, and He withdrew to a place of quietness to commune with His Father. The best thing to do in time of sorrow is to flee into the presence of God. Jesus accepted John's death as typical of His own.

2. Followed by the people (v. 13).

He could not be concealed. The peoples' interest was such that they followed Him on foot. Where Jesus is, the multitude gathers.

3. Jesus healing the sick (v. 14).

Although the rulers had broken with Him, He did not abandon His work. He continued to preach and work for the good of those who would hear. Though desperate and hopeless cases were brought to Him, nothing was found too hard for Him. The peoples' great need excited His sympathy. He is just the same today.

III. Jesus Healing the Daughter of the Woman at Canaan (Matt. 15:21-31).

The first twenty-one verses of this chapter should be considered in connection with this topic. The force of the lesson can only be seen in contrast with the failure of the people. Verses 1-20 represent the apostasy of Israel and her rejection of the Savior. In sharp contrast, we see in the healing of this woman, salvation typically going forth to the Gentiles.

Her daughter was grievously vexed with a devil. The sufferings of the mother were perhaps as intense as those of the child. This Gentile woman had doubtless heard of the fame of Jesus. His power to heal had come to her notice and many times she longed for Him to come her way that her daughter might be healed. Now that He was in her neighborhood she came straightway to Him. Let parents be encouraged to bring their children to Jesus, even though they be demon-possessed.

2. The woman's fervent appeal for help (vv. 22-25).

She fell at His feet and pled for mercy. She besought Him to cast the devil out. Her appeal may be considered as a model prayer.

(1) She was sincere and earnest. (2) The prayer was brief and definite. (3) It was personal and humble. (4) It was believing and persistent.

3. The woman's faith rewarded (vv. 26-28).

(1) The Lord's apparent refusal (v. 23). He answered her not a word. The reason for His silence was that He was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This woman was a stranger to the Covenant people. Her appeal was on the wrong basis. She addressed Him as the Son of David, which only a child of the kingdom had a right to do. She must come in the right way. (2) The woman's quick response (vv. 25-27). As soon as she perceived the difficulty, she worshiped Him as Lord and cried for help. While only the Israelite could approach Him as the Son of David, all could come to Him and own Him as Lord. She willingly took her place as a Gentile "dog," recognizing that salvation is of the Jews. (3) The glorious issue of her faith (v. 28). She received more than she asked. Her daughter was healed at once and the instruction she received was worth much to her. She goes down in history with the Savior's commendation of her faith.

Life Needs a Good Pattern

Remember how swiftly the shuttle flies and how a broken thread may mar the fabric. Remember that without a good pattern, all weaving is to no purpose; take much thought, therefore, as to the pattern of a good life and be greatly instructed by that life which is the exemplar for us all.—Gaius Glenn Atkins.

BLACKHEAD THE TURKEY RAISERS' BUGABOO

Strictest Measures May be Necessary to Prevent This Scourage in Flock

The bugabee to turkey raising is that dread disease Blackhead. The name itself is misleading, for it does not describe a symptom. In other words the head of the turkey does not necessarily turn dark or black.

First we must get clearly in mind that there is no cure for blackhead. That is a hard thing to say, but it is true nevertheless. Someone bobs up every day with a new "cure" and we are glad so much interest is being manifested in the subject. The day will come perhaps when a real cure will be found. But right now we are interested in a far more valuable movement, that of preventing blackhead. For after all prevention is the best cure in the world.

Blackhead is an infectious disease. It is cured by a germ that affects the liver and the blind gut or caeca. If you have a microscope that will magnify several hundred times you may see that germ. But you don't need glasses even to see its effect, which is more important.

Young turks are most susceptile, although it affects the grown as well. The germ enters with the food and is found in infected ground, where droppings from birds that have had blackhead or droppings from chickens, contaminate the soil.

The blackhead germ attacks the liver first and from the diseased tissues of the liver these germs pass through the bile duct and into the intestines, from whence it completes its deadly circuit by returning to mother earth via the droppings.

It takes from ten days to two weeks for the disease to show itself after infection. The greatest source of danger of course is for the young turkeys to run with chickens or to be exposed to older birds from flocks that have had the disease, and on ground that has been contaminated. That is about as close to turkey suicide as you can come.

But even on fresh ground, if the young birds are allowed to be with the older birds that are infected the danger may be almost as great. Young turkeys have ravenous appetites. They pick at everything in sight. Fresh contaminated droppings contain the blackhead germ in its livest, most dangerous stage.

To show you how insidous the disease is, turkeys have been known to contract blackhead when placed with incubator chicks. Infected ground that has been plowed and seeded has been known to carry the lurking danger. Hens are carriers of the parasite and when allowed to roam with turkeys may infect them. Your boots will carry the germ from infected ground into the new, fresh yard.

It is easy to spot the first appearance of the disease in a flock if you are at all observant. When poults appear lazy and lag behind the rest of the flock, look out. They are not lazy at all, but ailing. As this weakness grows they take on a droopy appearance. They walk with slow, measured tread, head down and wings carelessly dangling. Loss of appetite and weight are the inevitable results.

In the adult turkey the symptoms are practically the same except that they do not appear as quickly as in the young birds. And they die in a few days after you note they have it.

Put your flocks on clean, uncontaminated ground, clear away from your other poultry yards. Above all keep your turkeys away from your chickens. Don't make the mistake, for instance, of building your brooder house with cement floor so that it can't be moved. You want that brooder house as far away from the farm buildings as possible. It's a splendid thing to give growing turks a change of ground and pasturage every few weeks. Alfalfa, sweet clover, or a plot of rape that is away out on the farm is the finest thing in the world to prevent blackhead during these dangerous early growing weeks.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

"A VISIT IN THE LAND OF MOAB AND BETHLEHEM EPHRATAH IN JUDEA"

The beautiful book of Ruth with its historical setting in the land of Moab and also the Bethlehem-Ephratah in the land of Judea should be read in connection with the first half of the book of Judges. It really presents an inspiring picture of Isreal at that time, the events covering a period of ten years. We also think of it as a story of peace and beauty, and the most thrilling love story in all history. But it occurred amid the struggle for supremacy, chaos, and great confussion.

Standing on the banks of the Jordan right opposite Gilgal or Jericho as I did two years ago you look to the right as you face the sunset and your eyes fall on Moab. Truthfully that land appears desolate. I am not sure how many acres it contains, but to me it seemed to be an open rolling country to the hills of Gilead. The inhaup to the hills of Gilead. The inhabitants are mentioned in connection with Lot and his daughters, founders of the Moabitish people. The Moabites did not seem to know anything about the worship of our loving Father. They are just there as the descendents of Moab.

That land maybe includes the birthplace and the going to heaven place of Elijah. You remember that Gilead is mentioned so many times in the book of Judges. The Amorites captured Gilead from the hand of the Moabites, and afterwards it was conquered by the Israelites. Also we read that the Moabites united with the Midianites in opposing the Israelites on their march to Canaan. Ehud one of the Judges mentioned in the previous book was a left-handed man yet he gained a great victory over Eglon king of Moab.

Saul and David fought against Moab successfully. But we are interested in the study of the land of Moab and its inhabitants at the time of the book of Ruth. The people are idolatrous. The gods spoken about were the heathern gods of the Moabties and not our God. In this country we are introduced to the character named Ruth a beautiful Moabitess maiden who lovingly went forward in the ordinary tasks and responsibilities of life after a great sorrow in her life and the life of her mother-in-law to whom she was inseparably devoted.

The next place we visit in studying this book of Ruth was Bethlehem-Ephratah in the land of Judea about four and a half miles from Jerusalem. The characters mentioned in this book from the place where God-worshipped Jews named Naomi, and her husband, Elimelich, and their two sons Mahlon and Chilion. In passing we are to remember that this Bethlehem-Ephratah is situated along the oldest highway in the woorld. It was along this highway that Abram and Sarai and others traveled. Elimelech and Naomi traveled along it with their two sons on the account of a famine in Bethlehem to the land of Moab a heathern country across th Jordan.

Along this highway from Jerusalem to Bethlehem you see those same historic hills of Palestine. Along this road Mary and Joseph walked the day before Christ was born. Near the gate you see a well, known in the Old Testament history as the well of Bethlehm, no doubt from which the Bethlehemites drank water to satisfy their thirst. Our minds can't leave Ebimelech and Naomi Mahlon and Chilion. The young lads must have been about fifteen years old or perhaps older when they went to Moab. No doubt Mahlon and Chilion made good crops and had plenty to live upon. They were associated with Moabitess maidens and married two good women known in history as Ruth and Orpah.

But Elimelech and his sons had to finish their work on earth in this heathen country. They died and were buried there. We can say they were Jews buried on Gentile ground. After a stay of about eleven years in Moab and the death of her husband and two sons Naomi heard that the crops in Bethlehem-Ephratah were better. Naomi decided to go back to her old home in Bethlehem. Her daughters-in-law who loved her much and had no doubt been with her since their husbands' deaths did not want to be separated from her. She impressed upon their minds the all importance of remaining true and loyal to God, but at the same time tells them to go back to their own heathen country and heathen haunts to live. She stops to beg God to bless them for being so kind to her.

But the daughters-in-law insisted that they go with her. She says, "But why will ye go with me? Go back to your own kindred." But right here Ruth in that heathen Gentile company made one of the greatest decisions ever made. She speaks it in such words as these: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God: where thou diest, I will die, and there will I be buried: the Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."

This was a decision for God and his law and worship and service on the part of this beautiful Gentile maiden. In your imagination you can see these two women crossing, no doubt wading, the Jordan. They may have crossed where their ancestors crossed before them near Ai, Bethel, Jericho or Gilgal. You are impressed with Ruth's decision to go back and worship in the home of her mother-in-law. I see these humble servants of God as they walk by Jerusalem. Reaching Bethlehem-Ephratah Naomi is welcomed by her old friends.

Like many of us, Naomi's life was so bitter that she expressed it to her friends. She said, "Don't call me Naomi (the meaning of which is delightful) but call me Mara (bitter) because the Lord hath dealt bitterly with me." Someone has divided the book of Ruth into four divisions: first Ruth's decision; second, Ruth's service; third, Ruth's resting; fourth, Ruth's reward. In the 4th chapter we see Ruth serving in the fields of Boaz, a kinsman of Naomi. I saw those fields two years ago. They are to the east of the cooperate limits of Bethlehem. They are called the hills of the shepherds. On these hills David kept his father's sheep. On these the angels announced to the shepherds the birth of God's son. Those shepherds might have been related to the people who gleaned there in the time of Ruth. Boaz sought Ruth's hand and she laid down her sheathes and became his loving, devoted wife, sharing his home and wealth in Bethlehem of Judea. Thus she became on the human side the Gentile ancestress of Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the world.

The Iron Horse of Progress

In order to appreciate the railroads to the fullest extent, the public must know them as bringers of civilization and progress; must be actively conscious of what they are and what they are doing for this country and all its citizens.

Far-reaching, all-penetrating, dependable arteries of travel and transportation spreading throughout the land; pioneers in promoting industrial development and sectional progress; consumers of vast quantities of the country's major products; vital factors in all activities of trade and commerce. That's what the railroads are.

Furnishing with increasing efficiency the most essential form of transportation service in existence; keeping abreast—often ahead—of the times by spending huge sums in improving their properties to meet the public demand;* paying in taxes several hundred million dollars annually in support of governmental and other public requirements. That's what the railroads are doing.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad last week attained its eightieth birthday. From a little strip of track 185 miles long, three-quarters of a century ago, it has grown progressively with the South until to-day it operates over 5,000 miles of road in thirteen states. Such a long record of service and usefulness testifies as to what the L. & N. is and what it is doing in helping the territory it serves. And, as it enters its eighty-first year, it hopes to be of even greater value by providing better and better service. To this end, it requests the continued cooperation of its host of patrons and friends.

L. & N. passenger representatives will consider it a privilege and a pleasure to assist you in the planning of your vacation or business trips. They will gladly quote fares, provide resort literature, give reliable information as to train schedules and, if you desire, make advance Pullman reservations, arrange for tickets, and assist in various ways in formulating travel plans.

FROM L. H. BEAN

Dear Editor; Union Banner,-

Please allow me space in your paper to say just a few words in regard to the one mill tax. This election is to be held April 8th, 1930. I want to say that I oppose this tax and here is my reason. Time has adjusted the conditions of our country. The war is gone and the war prices are gone. All classes of labor except the teachers have had to take a cut in wages, and the farmer has taken the biggest cut of them all. Just look at the prices the farmers produce are pracically below production to-day. Then how can we stand more tax. Its true we need to remedy our schools but we sannot do it by voting on more taxes. Let the school bunch take the same cut in wages from the County Super-six down, that the poor farmer has to take; the teacher is no better than the farmer. I have been told that we have some 2x4 school teachers who get $275 per month, and that stands undisputed to-day that $275 will place you two principals in your high school. If you had the proper board to handle your money, $137.50 per month is good wages for a teacher under these panic conditions. Now Mr. Voter just meet me at the poles on April the 8th, and we will give them a prescription for the future. If Brother Lawrence would let his conscience be his guide he will vote against the one mill tax on April the 8th. But when a preacher gets in politics he is gone for we know that from the past.

This bunch is worse than buzzards. A buzzard wil lwait until you die and your carcass begins to smell, but this bunch will eat on you while you are alive and walking around.

Now post yourself on this election; you was badly misled in the last three-mill tax election. These elections mean more taxes and nothing else. Don't let them confuse you with the opportunity schools, they use this to confuse the voters and to carry their points. This election will affect every tax payer in the county so come out on April the 8th and help us snow it under.

When I say school bunch I mean the Super-six they sup up all the money and cry for more. Now what I have said has been with a good spirit and no ill will comes to anyone. I just want to beat this one-mill tax.

I am yours for better schools, better times, and less taxes.—L. H. Bean, Jemison, Alabama.

The increasing importance of women in industry is indicated by the fact that one out of every five persons gainfully employed in the United States is a woman, and the ratio is constantly increasing, Merle Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business, declared in a radio address.

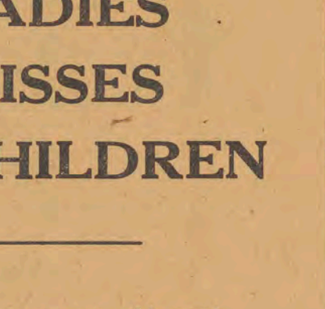
CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES NEW SERVICE POLICY

Detroit, March 18.—The Chevrolet Motor Company today announces a new and broader service policy. Any Chevrolet owner, experiencing defective workmanship or material on a Chevrolet car under the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, is invited to call upon any authorized Chevrolet dealer in the United States or Canada where the work will be done at no cost to him.

The plan, known as the Owner's Service Policy, is now in effect in the 10,000 authorized Chevrolet service stations in the United tates, operating under the general supervision of the 52 Chevrolet branch offices.



The new policy takes the form of a written agreement given the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the new car is delivered. It puts down in plain, understandable language the greater service protection to which every Chevrolet owner is now entitled. Briefly, it offers the following provisions:

1. Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition — thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage. This includes checking and adjusting the brakes, tappets, timing, generator, carburetor, clutch pedal, and steering gear; tightening all body bolts, tightening all motor bolts; testing and filling battery and checking the oil in the transmission and rear axle. The dealer assumes no responsibility for previous adjustments when they have been made in service stations other than his own.

3. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every thousand miles thereafter so long as the car is in operation.

4. Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective, either in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, provided such parts or labor are not required because of accident or mechanical abuse. This includes both parts and labor. This provision will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. Accordingly, the Chevrolet owner may change its residence, or travel to any part of the country with the full asurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will give him complete protection.

In all Chevrolet dealer's service stations there are employed skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet service schools. These stations equipped with specially designed tools and machinery, developed exclusively for Chevrolet servicing. The factory issues the assurance too that each carries at all times a complete stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts; and the rates are standard flat rates including both parts and labor, and are the lowest in the industry on many service and repair operations.

In order to meet the requirements of its expanding commercial car business, the Chevrolet Motor Company today announces a roadster delivery model to supplement its present commercial car line. The new product is now in production and deliveries to dealers have been under way for several days.

Designed to satisfy the needs of every variety of pick-up work the roadster delivery makes an added form of transportation available to the users of commercial cars and provides some features new to this field.

Powered by the six cylinder valve-in-head Chevrolet engine the roadster delivery has all the advantages of Chevrolet passenger car comfort, economy and dependability, according to officials. It has internal-expanding brakes on all four wheels; an easy ball bearing steering mechanism and a bigger, sturdier rear axle.

Extra large carrying capacity has been provided through the use of the full length channel steel frame and four unusually long semi-elliptic springs. It allows for the use of a 66 inch loading space, without excessive overhanging. It is a full 45 inches wide, fourteen inches high and 24 cubic feet in capacity.

From a convenience standpoint, the roadster delivery offers exceptionally wide doors, equipped with snugly fitting side curtains that open and close with the doors as single units.

A wide selection of steel slip-on boxes has been provided to meet the varying requirements of pick-up service. The new Chevrolet roadster delivery is listed at $440 f.o.b., factory, Flint, Michigan, with pick-up box extra.

NEW CLEARANCE CAR

A queer looking car is now riding the rails of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and will be in evidence on its tracks all during March and April, perhaps longer. The Louisville and Nashville Employee's Magazine for March described the contraption as a "clearance car."

The clearance car is an ordinary flat car equipped with caboose trucks on which have been built two wooden frames. One frame extends above the car floor and has 57 wooden arms; the other frame suspends from the car floor and has 22 arms. These arms are so constructed that obstructions on either side of or above the track will push each one back until it clears the obstruction After passing a section of track on which there are possible obstructions such as buildings along the side, tunnels, bridges, etc., the position of the arms is charted and authetic information is provided from which the railroad people may determine the maximum height and width of a load to pass that point safely.

The car left Louisville, Ky., on March 3, and measurements will be taken on all main tracks, terminal tracks and important branches north of Montgomery, Alabama. The car was designed especially for this work by the L & N's engineering department.

While we are not directly interested in the schools, but indirectly we are. So we would contend for the children in the rural schools to have the same means of transportation as those in the high schools. Yes, we get the rural children out of the mud, and rain as well as those in the high schools. It would build up the morals of the children in the county even if the term was shortened. The results would probably be as good as they are now.

FORD AGAIN TAKES THE LEAD

The extent to which the Ford Motor Company has regained its position as the outstanding factor in the automobile business is reflected in the registration of automobiles in Alabama in January.

During that month 1,344 Fords were registered in this state, 46.99 per cent of the total registration of all makes.

Three years ago the Ford Motor Company ceased the production of Model T cars and for nearly a year its plants were closed while they were being overhauled incident to the introduction of the Model A. Meanwhile other makes of cars absorbed much of the Ford market and it was a question in the industry whether the new Ford could attain the leadership once held by the so-called "flivver."

The Model A, however, instantly became popular and for months the factory was unable to keep up with the demand.

With the introduction of the new body types for passenger cars last December and the offering of an improved AA truck chassis early this year, the company has gradually increased its production notwithstanding generally adverse business conditions.

FORD IMMERSED 12 DAYS RUNS UNDER OWN POWER

After 12 days immersion in 15 feet of water under the ice of Fernan Lake, not far from Spokane, Washington, a Ford coupe, owned by the municipality was recently recovered and driven back to the city under its own power.

City officials were driving the car across the lake when it plunged thru a thin layer of ice. They scrambled to safety, but before any attempt could be made to retrieve the Ford, it was necessary to wait until the ice hardened sufficiently to support the lifting apparatus.

After the car had been raised by a derrick, the water was drained from the body, crankcase and fuel tank. It was towed two miles to a Ford dealer in Couer d'Alene, Idaho, where a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed. Then supplied with fresh gasoline and oil, the car was driven 35 miles to Spokane.

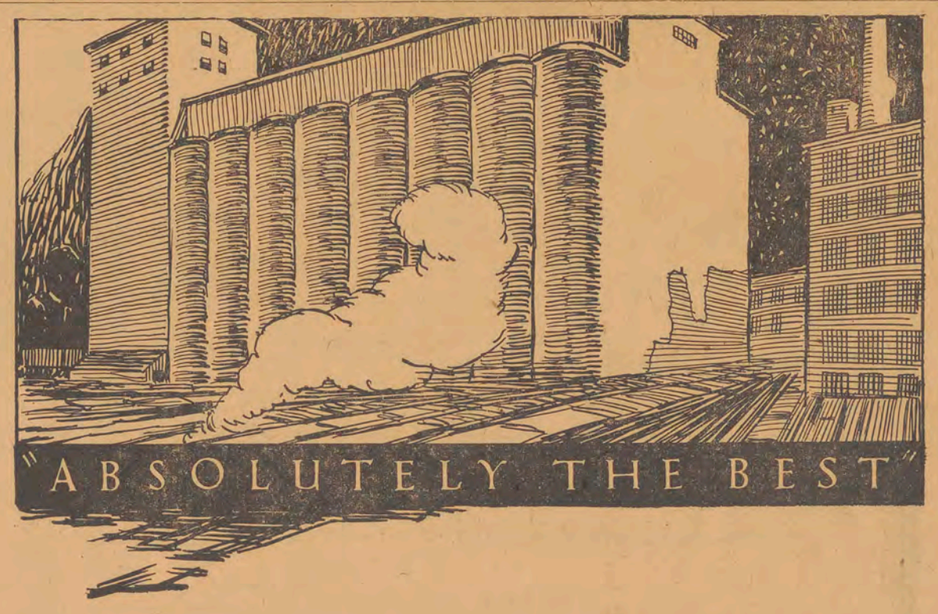
CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager



A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

County Farm Agent's Notes

POULTRYMEN PLACE EGGS IN COLD STORAGE

Montgomery, Ala., March 17.—During the first week of March poultrymen of 20 counties in Alabama placed 7,500 dozen eggs in cold storage under the cooperation plan of the Farm Bureau and the Extension Service, reports J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist of the Extension Service, who said that the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is advancing, through the various county farm bureaus of the state, 20 cents per dozen when the ggs are received in storage.

Mr. Sylvest reports that poultrymen are manifesting more interest in the project this year than ever before. He said that letters are received each day from poultrymen asking for details as to how to store their eggs and draw the 20 cents per dozen advance. This interest is being manifested because of the low price of eggs, which ranges all the way from 15 to 20 cents per dozen, varying in different sections of the state.

FARMERS DRAWING 15.64 CENTS PER POUND

Montgomery, Ala., March 17.—To enable the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association to continue advancing 15.64 cents per pound, middling basis, 7-8 to 1 inch staple to Alabama producers who pool their cotton the Board of Directors of the Cotton Association in session at Montgomery, March 12, approved a $1,500,000 loan from the Federal Farm Board. This is to supplement the $2,000,000 loan which the board made to the association some months ago.

Allen Northington, general manager of the Cotton Association, says that where a member places his cotton in the annual pool and is advanced 15.64 cents middling basis there will be no margin call on the member in case of decline in the market, and if the cotton should eventually sell for less than 15.64 cents per pound there will be no loss to the members. If the cotton should sell for more than 15.64 cents plus handling charges and expnses the members will get the benefit of same.

When in Montgomery the Board of Directors of the Cotton Association declared there never was a time when it paid farmers better to belong to a cooperative association for marketing of their cotton than it does this year, and that farmers should adjust their cotton acreage during 1930 by producing, as far as possible, the food for the family, the feed for the livestock, and to have at least one cash crop besides cotton.

Through the use of American cotton the British Empire Cotton Corporation has improved the staple of the India crop to the point where two-fifths to one-half of India's total production is good 7-8 inch or better.

MORE AND BETTER CORN IS NEEDED IN ALABAMA

Alabama needs more and better corn, according to F. W. Gist, statistician for the State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery. In support of this statement it was shown that only 78 bushels out of every 100 grown last year was fit to sell. The remainder was "nubbins." This is a great percentage of "poor corn" which is largely a loss.

According to records of the Department, the average yield of corn in Alabama is 15 bushels per acre. Therefore, with a waste of three and three-tenths bushels per acre, Alabama produced only an average of eleven and seven-tenths bushels of corn per acre. This small yield cannot be considered profitable.

ALABAMA HENS SHELLING OUT

Alabama hens are shelling out eggs at the rate of 48 per hundred hens every day in February. In other words, if you have an average flock of 100 hens, they should have laid 95 dozen eggs in February, which is the shortest month in the year.

STATE FARM LABOR PLENTIFUL

Alabama farm labor bears a ratio of 116 compared with 106 at this time last year. The depressed conditions in cities have caused many laborers and city residents to return to the farm in the opinion of Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture.

WINTER OATS SUFFER LITTLE INJURY

Winter oats came through with less frost damage than usual and bear promise of a better crop. The average of oats and other winter cover and pasture crops is on the increase.

FARM FINANCES AND FERTILIZER

Reports have reached Commissioner Storrs that in many regions money is not being advanced to farmers as freely as in other years. This tightness in financial circles is nationwide. Alabama farmers to date are finding it difficult to secure advances for as much fertilizer as in former years.

It is still too early to draw any definite conclusion regarding cotton acreage as indicated by tonnage of fertilizer sold to date. Each sack of fertilizer bears a tag issued by the State Department of Agriculture, and in this way W. B. Griffin, chief clerk, is able to announce weekly over WAPI the exact tonnage sold. This information is broadcast at 12:40 p. m. each Saturday.

$100,000 LOAN ASKED

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation reports that he has asked the Federal Farm Board to make a $100,000 loan to the Alabama Farm Burean Cotton Association which may in turn use this as additional capital finance for the Alabama Farm Bureau Credit Corporation in order that the Credit Corporation may render a greater service in production to organized farmers of Alabama. "We are hopeful that this will be worked out if possible in time ti help farmers this year," he said.

44 CARS POULTRY BRINGS $145,200

Montgomery, Ala., March 17.—Within the past eight weeks Alabama farmers have sold 44 carloads of poultry cooperatively for which they have received approximately $145,200 reports J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist of the Extension Service, Auburn, who is in charge of these sales. Some 17,600 farmers sold poultry to these farm bureau cars. Five other cars are loading this week.

Counties in which the cars have been include Houston, Lamar, Marion, Geneva, Covington, Wilcox, Clarke, Conecuh, Butler, Escambia, Coffee, Henry, Dale, Elmore, Macon, Lee, Barbour, Pike, Crenshaw, Colbert, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Clay, Randolph, Chilton, Tallapoosa, Coosa, Calhoun, Cleburne, Shelby, Aatauga, Franklin, Walker, Monroe, Dallas, Choctaw, Sumpter, Blount, Etawah, Marshall, Winston, Baldwin, St. Clair, and Fayette.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau comments: "Reports coming from all over the state indicate that the poultry cars are of untold value in promoting the poultry industry of the state. By marketing their poultry cooperatively farmers are assured prices in line with the leading markets of the country, and the man or woman with one chicken gets just as good price as those with a large number of birds. Some counties are this year loading their first cooperative poultry cars and are well pleased."

Nurse Tells How CARDUI Helped Her

MRS. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes:

"I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can.

"I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

Dusting by Airplane

In 1927 about 500,000 acres of cotton fields were dusted with weevil poison by airplanes. A still larger acreage, not yet figured, was dusted in 1928 and 1929, according to the Yearbook of Agriculture. The cost is no more than that of other methods, commercial companies do it under contract per acre, the work is done faster, it can be done no matter how wet and soggy the fields are, and it is an influence in making whole communities fight the weevil together. When our winter comes, the planes and fliers are sent to South America, and they put in another summer season of work down there.

Quality Commands Market

"The best assurance of a favorable market status for any community of cotton growers is to be found in the regular production of fiber of good quality. Present conditions tend to impress that on the minds of growers and to promote compliance with it. Unquestionably, we may expect significant changes in the cotton-growing industry."—*W. M. Maybe it's the spring weather that makes a mule pull, or maybe it's the slap of a line and the sound of some stout language behind him—but this picture from the V-C billboards takes the position that it's the V-C.

Old Pete checks up before he starts, says the picture, and sees the V-C bags lined up across the field. Then he thinks to himself, in mule language, "Well, everything is all right. We might as well get going, for I've plowed this field too many times with a V-C crop to have any notion we can take our time from this on. Your Pa and me learned we had to hurry to keep ahead of that fertilizer—so come on, Son, let's show 'em how to do some distributing!"

Communities Can Act

"Farmers will grow good cotton if they can sell it for more than poor cotton. Selling at flat prices is the commercial millstone. How farmers are to get more for producing the better cotton is the crucial question of cotton improvement. The individual cannot change the system, but communities of producers acting together can obtain better treatment."—O. F. COOK, Yearbook of Agriculture.

Among the optimists let's put down the old lady who said "I've just got two teeth left, but thank goodness they hit," and the town drunkard with "I may be blind in one eye, but I can still blink," and the farmer who thinks he can fool his crop with the cheapest fertilizer he can buy.

HIGH GRADES ARE BEST

"The first essential is to know what fertilizer is needed. The second is to buy high-grade goods always in preference to low-grade goods. What the farmer wants is plant food, and high-grade goods supply more plant food for a dollar than low-grade goods. Manufacturers put out low-grade goods only to meet the demand for a cheap price per ton."—Florida, An Industrial Survey.

REFUGE

Owing to the beautiful weather Sunday our services were enthusiastical throughout the day. The Sunday School lesson on the parables was fine. As usual our pastor gave to us two masterful sermons. We are grateful for the way that our envelope system, which the church adopted is proving. Members who haven't received any of the envelopes and would like to do so, the church has plenty on hand, just call for them. The envelopes are duplex, giving place for pastor's salary, missions, or any thing else desired. We believe it will prove to be one of the best plans ever adopted at this place.

SAVINGS PASSBOOKS SOUGHT BY CROOKS

Use Them to Steal Money by Forged Slips — Should Be Guarded as Carefully as Cash.

Continual vigilance in safeguarding savings pass books, as well as blank and cancelled checks, against theft by crooks, who use this material in forgery operations, is urged on bank customers by James E. Baum, Deputy Manager of the American Bankers Association, in charge of its Protective Department. This department is continually vigilant in promoting means, both among bankers and the general public, to thwart the operation of bank crooks. It annually investigates hundreds of crimes against banks and is responsible for the majority of arrests among this class of criminals.

"In a large majority of cases of forgeries on checks or savings withdrawal orders investigated by the American Bankers Association, stolen blank checks or savings pass books were the forgers' chief stock in trade," Mr. Baum says. "In many instances the temptation presented through the careless handling by depositors of cancelled or blank checks or pass books so that they fell into the hands of others was the immediate stimulus for hitherto honest people to commit their first criminal offense."

Banks should educate their depositors to exert the same degree of care in handling these instruments and to avoid leaving them about unguarded as they exercise in respect to actual money because they represent money, he declares.

For dealing with the bank robbery situation, Mr. Baum recommends the use of electrical alarms actuated by any tampering with the wires or mechanism and also wider adoption of the plan of state police forces now employed in a few states, declaring that last year in seven eastern states where state police forces were maintained there were only 20 bank holdups as against 164 similar attacks perpetrated against banks in five states in the central and far west, where banks are denied the advantages of the speedy and coordinated action given by statewide police forces.

"The records of the American Bankers Association Protective Department reveal that for many years the odds in favor of state police protection have been at least 8 to 1 when measured by the experience of banks in states where efficient police protection is missing in the rural districts," he says.

THE THINKER LEADS MODERN PROGRESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

THE greatest need of the world today is interpreters of our times—modern Daniels in agriculture, finance, politics, industry — who can see through the fog and haze that enshroud our difficult problems and advise, instruct, and influence those who are either indifferent or limited in their perceptions.

John G. Lonsdale

Through the thinker and the interpreter, unknown situations are disclosed or puzzling conditions explained in logical light. The American people are so constituted that they can meet and combat any situation once it is known and understood. It is the unknown that comes like the thief in the night and brings disaster.

Some one has defined prosperity as something the business men create for the politicians to take credit for. But America's present-day prosperity can be defined as a product resulting from the business man's ability to study and to interpret. Huge corporations maintain research staffs and special bureaus to interpret the times for them. Disaster looms in the offing for any industry that goes blithely on its way day after day without due regard to significant trends in trade and business.

Keeping Up With Change

Leaders of finance have discovered that they cannot remain passive in an age when all the rest of the world is in a transitional stage. The modern banker not only must know about the changing styles in other lines of business, but above all must be alert to the transformations which are taking place in his own. He must be a man of keener broader vision, because the order of the day is for larger units of service. Mergers and consolidations have taken place in great numbers. We now talk of billions where a few years ago we talked of millions.

We have only begun our changes. What disposition is to be made of the many problems that they bring will depend in large measure upon our leaders, upon the students and the interpreters who can read accurately the signs of the times, so that we may base future actions and hopes upon their wisdom. The quickest way to go to the top is to go to the bottom of things, and let us hope that among them will be found many who will not only aspire to leadership but will be successful in reaching their goal.

Her husband did not like the selection, but being a tactful fellow, he was far too wise to declare his objections.

"Splendid," he said cheerfully. "The first girl I ever loved was called Euphrosyne, and the name will revive pleasant memories."

There was a brief period of silence then, "We'll call her Elizabeth, after my mother," said the young wife firmly.

THE QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

Leadership and success, in a general way, are synonyimous. They are both founded upon simple codes of thought and action, upon the realization that he who wins the laurels must be a doer, not a waiter, that application of energy, not time or luck, is what counts most. A rabbit's foot is a poor substitute for horse sense.

John G. Lonsdale

Both success and leadership, if they be of the highest quality, are the result of service to humanity. Service has been aptly described as "the supreme commitment of life." Analyze the lives and times of all great leaders of history and you will find that those whose names are enshrined in the hearts of their countrymen are those who sought to render a needed service to the populace.

Leadership, like success, need not, however, be international or national to achieve great results. There is room for each of us to be a leader in his community, in his work, in his church, and in various organizations.

One of the indispensable qualities of leadership is the ability to persist steadfastly in the face of discouragements. If George Washington had not possessed the quality of persistence, he and his soldiers would never have survived the hunger and privations which were theirs at Valley Forge.

We have too many young men and young women these days saying a job cannot be done. Too many spend their time explaining why a thing can't be done, instead of saying, with firm resolve, that it can be done, and then going out and doing it. Anything that ought to be done is capable of being done. And anything worth doing at all is worth doing well. The fellow who handles a little job in a big way is always on the road to greater fields.

BANKERS STUDY CHAIN BANKING

The Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association has been specifically instructed by the general convention of the association to study and report on chain and group banking developments, and also on the proposal of the Comptroller of the Currency for an extension of branch banking in the national banking system, to permit those banks to conduct branches in the trade areas surrounding their locations.

R. S. Hecht, President Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans, Louisiana, is chairman of the commission. The members are: George E. Roberts, Vice President National City Bank, New York, N. Y., vice chairman; Nathan Adams, President American Exchange National Bank, Dallas, Texas; Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio; Frank W. Blair, Chairman of Board Union Trust Company, Detroit, Michigan; Walter W. Head, President Foreman-State National Bank, Chicago; W. D. Longyear, Vice Pesident Security-First National Bank, Los Angeles, California; Walter S. McLucas, Chairman of Board Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, Missouri; Max B. Nahm, Vice President Citizens National Bank, Bowling Green, Kentucky; Melvin A. Traylor, President First National Bank, Chicago; Paul M. Warburg, Chairman of Board International Acceptance Bank, New York, N. Y.; O. Howard Wolfe, Cashier Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Gurden Edwards, American Bankers Association, New York City, secretary.

A survey showing the extent to which chain and group banking has developed in the United States has been made and issued in booklet form by the American Bankers Association of New York City.

SECTIONS WHERE SAVINGS DECREASED

A regional analysis of the drop in the nation's savings deposits in banks, as recently reported by the American Bankers Association's Savings Bank Division in its annual compilation for 1929 showing the first recession in national savings in the twenty years during which it has published this data, reveals that all sections except the New England and the Pacific States groups recorded losses.

The published figures showed that on June 29, 1929, the total savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States stood at $28,217,656,000, which was $195,305,000 below the similar total for 1928, when there was an increase of $2,300,000,000.

The regional analysis by state groups discloses, however, that the six New England states as a group gained more than $88,800,000 in savings and 152,984 in savings depositors, while the seven Pacific states as a group gained over $79,000,000 in deposits and nearly 278,000 in number of depositors. The gains in these two sections, however, were smaller than the gains recorded there for 1928. The sections which showed losses are the Middle Atlantic States, Southern States, East Central States and the West Central States.

Charleston, S. C., 29 N., Alex St.
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Rob. Williams,
Clanton, Alabama:
Dear Friends:

It is with sad hearts that we write to you, because death has taken from us one of the very best friends we have ever had, and that dear friend was your son, C. A. Williams.

Mr. Williams and my husband, L. A. Padleng, have known each other for six years. I met him shortly after my marriage; then years ago as he was working in the high line camp near Newton, Ala.

To know him was to love him, because of his bright personality and his willingness to be a true friend to his fellowman. We shall miss his smiles and cheerful greetings.

He was ill in the Roper hospital here last summer; he continued to "jolly" us all and look on the bright side of life.

He was a frequent guest in our home to dine and chat away the evenings. Life is short, so it won't be long until we shall all meet him over there. Asking God to help you bear your burden and bless you.—Yours sincerely, L. A. Padleng and wife.

Allendale, S. C. March 4.
My dear Mr. Williams:

You do not know me, but I have known your son, and as I read the acount of his sad death I cannot refrain from writing to you.

Mr. Williams boarded with me two falls ago, and last summer he was working near here. One Sunday he dropped in to see us; said he always felt at home at my house and just came in to see us. We liked him so much and he was such a nice young man. Did he go home this past Christmas? He told me that he was going to spend the holidays with you. I hope he did. When I saw him in the summer I had no idea that his end was so near. You have my sympathy and love, from Mrs. A. C. Dunbar, Allendale, S. C.

My Favorite Stories
by Irvin S. Cobb

The Matrimonial Shopper

MY FRIEND, V. V. McNitt, head of a big syndicate, is himself of Scotch ancestry and he is responsible for this story of a man from the land of his forbears.

A young Scotchman, methodical, painstaking, and sincere, as so many of his race are, had been a bachelor of long standing. Since coming to this country he had saved his money until now he felt he was qualified properly to support a domestic establishment. One day he went to a friend.

"I've about decided to get married," he said. "In fact, I'm looking around now for a wife."

"Where are you looking?" asked his friend.

"I'll tell you," said the Scot. "It's my belief that the girls who work as clerks in the big department stores here in New York are mighty fine types. As a rule, they are well dressed and tidy and good looking and have nice ways. They must be self-reliant or they wouldn't be working. They have to be intelligent or they couldn't hold their jobs. They know how to make a dollar go a long distance or they couldn't dress as well as they do on the modest wages most of them get.

My notion is this: On pretext of wanting to buy something, I am going to tour the big shops until I see a girl behind a counter who seems to fill my requirements. Then I'm going to find out her name and make private inquiries as to her character and disposition, and if she answers all the requirements I'll secure an introduction to her and if she seems to like me I'm going to ask her to marry me."

Six months went by. The cautious Scot and the man to whom he had confided his plan of campaign met again. The latter thought his friend looked rather careworn and unhappy.

"How are you getting along?"

"Well," said the Scot, "I'm a married man, if that's what you mean."

"Well, did you follow the scheme you had in mind—I mean the one you told me about the last time I saw you?"

"Yes, I married a girl that worked at Macy's."

"Congratulations. How's everything getting along?"

The Scot fetched a small sigh.

"Sometimes," he said, "I can't help thinking that maybe I might have done better at Gimbel's."

POSEY M. CLECKLER ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER

There is another entrant into the Republican primary race for Commissioner of the First District of Chilton County. The name of the candidate is Posey M. Cleckler, of Beat 12.

We do not know Mr. Cleckler personally, but a little inquiry concerning him reveals that he is a well-known and very popular man in the northeastern part of the County. One man made the statement to us that the only thing he knew about Mr. Cleckler was that he knows how to build roads and bridges. That is one of the most important duties of a county commissioner.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 13

Health of this community is very good at present.

Bro. J. C. Thomas filled his regular appointment at this place, and delivered a most excellent sermon. His discourse was Christ' own words: "I am the door by which if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall go in and out and find pasture. John 10:9.

The service was conducted by Bro. R. M. Honeycutt, with and earnest and most forcible and intertaining respond, "Be ye doers of the Word, and not hearers only." James 1:22. The service was well attended and seemed to be enjoyed by all.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely, and our B. Y. P. U. is doing well. And, too, we must say a few words of comment regarding Mrs. Haggard, who has recently moved into this community from Birmingham. She is a real Sunday School worker and teacher, and B. Y. P. U. worker as well. She has a welcome place in our community.

As we failed to see anything in last week's issue regarding our last Second Sunday Singing, we must say that it was a real success and was well attended by different classes from other communities, too numerous to mention. But, however, we must say that they were all the welcome guests of Providence and we certainly invite your coming again. And don't forget the 2nd Sunday evening is our regular singing evening.—W. F. Thompson.

All Wrought Up Over Nothing

Didn't sleep last night; too much work; the children are fretful; the Boss is cranky; Mrs. DeVere didn't invite you to her party.

Ordinarily you don't mind any of these things, but today they are simply unbearable. You are nervous, that's why.

Did you ever try Dr. Miles' Nervine? Just two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of water will quiet your over-taxed nerves and bring you a feeling of calm and peace.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is now made in two forms—Liquid and Effervescent Tablet. Both are the same therapeutically.

RELIEF OR YOUR MONEY BACK

JUST LIKE AN OSTRICH

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easily, which you can get at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

SINGING ORGANIZED AT FLOYD

A singing society was organized at Floyd last Sunday afternoon, and J. M. Williams was elected president. We also had some good singing; directors were: J. M. Williams, Hubb Burkhalter and Dennis Culpepper; organists were: Mrs. J. M. Williams and Mr. Culpepper. We did not have so many directors, but the singing was good.

We invite all singers to meet with us next second Sunday afternoon and bring your 1930 Showalter books; and also come for Sunday school and preaching. We have preaching every second Sunday and singing in the afternoon.

So, don't forget to come and help us out the second Sunday afternoon in April.—P. H. Headley, Secy.

DOCTORS DISAGREE

When children are irritable and peevish, grind their teeth and sleep restlessly, have digestive pains and disturbances, lack of appetite, and have itching eyes, nose and fingers, doctors will not always agree that they are suffering from worms. Many mothers too, will not believe that their carefully brought up children can have worms. The fact remains that these symptoms will yield, in a great majority of cases, to a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, the sure expellant of round and pin worms. If your child has any of these symptoms, try this harmless, old fashioned remedy, which you can get at 35c a bottle from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

UNION GROVE FARMERS SHOW IDTEREST IN EVENING SCHOOL

The evening school at Union Grove on poultry is proving of considerable interest to the farmers and wives of farmers there. The work is progressing nicely.

An experience meeting on brooding baby chicks, led by Mrs. A. P. Robinson, Mrs. S. Y. Dorminey, Mrs. G. L. Glass, Mrs. Martin and Mr. Wade proved very interesting and beneficial.

Mr. Frank Mastin of Thorsby gave a demonstration using birds at the home of Mr. Pomp Robinson, on treating poultry for worms.

Mr. J. P. Montgomery, who is conducting the school, gave a demonstration on culing poultry.

The school is conducted on Tuesday and Friday evenings of each week except when demonstrations are held. The demonstrations are held at the home of one of the members generally about one o'clock in the afternoon.

There is quite an interest in marketing just now. At the present prices the farmers are advised to have their eggs put in cold storage with the Farm Bureau. In that way they may draw 20 cents per dozen on their eggs and get the advantage of any advance in prices later on.

The purpose of this evening school is to build up a permanent poultry enterprise with farmers desiring this type of farm work. The chief aims will be along the lnes of the most economical production of eggs and of better marketing methods.

All interested in poultry are invited to attend these meetings and demonstrations.

JACKSON WRITES IN FAVOR OF WILLIS

Dear Editor:

Will you allow me a little space to say a few words in regard to what Mr. J. M. (Tug) Willis had to say in regard to how he would handle the Sheriff's office, if he was elected. I admire a man of that spirit. There are so many people who think that when they hold an office, especially the Sheriff's office, they should be boss instead of a servant. I wish every person in America could have read the piece in the Post last Thursday in regard to how an officer treated his subjects which were being transferred from Birmingham jail to Kilby prison. It was called the cattle car. It appears to me that the time has come when the more cruel an officer is the more he is honored by a certain class. May God give us men, especially officers with a human spirit, and not a beastly one. Give us big-hearted men. Give us men of strong minds and great hearts. True faith and ready hands. Men whom the lust of office does not thrill. Men whom the spoil of office cannot buy. Men who possess opinions and will. Men who will not deceive and lie.—Respectively, J. H. Jackson.

CHESTNUT CREEK SINGING

Our singing society met last Sunday with a large crowd. Singing was called to order by chairman, Prof. L. T. Grant; prayer by Bro. L. M. Nichols. Directors for the afternoon were: W. M. Devaughn, O. A. Boswell, Archie Devaughn, R. T. Grant, W. F. Gilliland, S. M. Yates, and I. D. Huett.

We also had some quartets rendered by W. M. Devaughn, Archie Devaughn, Mrs. Lena Mae Hancock and Mrs. L. M. Nichols, which were greatly enjoyed be everyone present.

We were very glad to have the visiting singers with us, and invite them back again.

The date for the singing was changed to the first Sunday afternoon in each month; and everybody is invited to come, especially all singers and all who love music. Remember the change to the first Sunday; everybody come and bring your new song books.—I. D. Huett, Secretary.

GLASS IN FORD SAVED LIVES OF POLICEMEN

Two policemen in Terra Haute, Ind., probably owe their lives to the shatterproof glass in the windshield of their Model A Ford. In a gun battle with a trio of bandits, four direct hits were made on the Ford, two of them on the windshield. The two bullets were imbedded in the glass.

Judge Reynolds went over to Columbiana last Saturday and made a speech at the meeting of the Republican Executive of Shelby County.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. New, all you have to do to be sure that these dreaful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone, in a size to fit your needs, and purse, from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

You can feel the rejuvenating effect S.S.S. brings the body by the increase of red-blood cells

A clear, smooth, lovely skin enhances personal attractiveness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. More happiness and friends may depend upon it.

YOUR popularity may depend upon a clear, smooth, lovely skin. It is the accepted way of telling the degree of health a person possesses. Naturally a skin which bespeaks health attracts.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and promotes smooth, clear skin.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to infection and disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. promotes healthy body building. It increases the number of red-blood-cells. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Alred's Garden Guide
FOR MARCH

If you overlooked planting anything in your garden in February, attend to it this month. Examine your seed beds closely, and if anything has failed to come up, you should re-seed at once. All the most delicate seeds can be sown this month, as the atmosphere will be mild and pleasant and they will germinate freely.

BEANS—Plant all varieties of bush and pole beans this month. The best variety of Snap Pole Beans for the South is Kentuckey Wonder, Crease Back, and Nancy Davis.

LIMA or BUTTER BEANS—Plant these toward the end of March. We recommend the Ideal Pole Lima, and Fordhook Bush Lima.

CABBAGE—The late varieties can be sown yet. Your early sowings should be large enough to plant out this month. Select the largest and strongest plants.

CORN—Plant for first crop Adams Early and Perkins Early. Follow with Golden Bantam and Country Gentleman. For green roasting ears Snowflake and Golden Dent are favorites in the South.

CUCUMBER—Make a general planting. Select Perfection Early White Spine, and Long Green. If you wish only one sort, select the former, and make a small planting each month until August.

PEAS—If sown now, they should be planted deep. A crop thus planted will produce more abundantly and longer. Select the wrinkled varieties.

Chevrolet announces A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LANIE ATKINSON

On March 13, 1930, Mrs. Lanie Atkinson, (Davenport) laid her burdens down and crossed the mystic stream over into that great beyond.

She died in the Central Alabama Hospital. All was done for her, that doctors, nurses, and loving hands could do, but God saw fit in his tender mercy to call her home. She leaves to mourn for her a husband, father, mother, two brothers, one sister and a half-sister and a host of relatives and friends. Weep not dear relatives, for we know that she has paid the debt that we all must pay. We know that she is through with all her suffering, and is now on that happy golden shore, there to dwell in joy for ever more.

Lanie found peace with her saviour several years ago, and joined the Baptist Church at Oak Grove, and she has been a loyal helper for her master ever since.

While her stay on earth she sought her Saviour's grace and loved his precious name, so now she sees his blessed face and stands before the lamb. She is safe in the arms of Jesus. She is safe on his gentle breast. There by his love, over shaded sweetly, she is at rest, safe from coroding care, safe from the world's temptations. Sin cannot harm her then. We know her task on earth is done and her victory has been won.

God took her home, it was his will, but in our hearts she lingers still. Weep not for her dear husband, and parents, for one of God's days every dark cloud hiding the sunlight of heavenly grave, he will remove. And face to face we shall see her, if we will only live the life like she lived. We will see the one that we love so dear, who is now in glory.

Our darling, she has left us. Her smile we will see no more. Our hearts are filled with sadness as no time can heal the sore. We often think of you dear Lanie, when we are alone, for memory is the only thing that life can call its own.

She was laid to rest in Oak Grove cemetery, two miles north of Jemison. Preacher Davis conducted the funeral services with Martin in charge.—One who loved her.

Mr. Emmett C. Powell, foreman of the mechanical department of the Decatur Daily, at Decatur, Alabama, was a visitor to Clanton Sunday and Monday. Mr. Powell formerly lived here and was connected with The Union-Banner before going to Decatur.

FREIGHT RATE MAKING

Joseph G. Kerr ,assistant to Vice President, traffic, of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, in an article in the L & N Employees Magazine for March, explains some of the problems of freight rate making.

According to Kerr, an army of several thousand skilled railroad men are daily engaged in the business of keeping the freight rate structure current; changing rates to meet conditions and to keep traffic moving with ever increasing efficiency.

Railroad rates, Mr. Kerr avers, must not only be just and reasonable, but they must be sufficient to pay operating expenses and taxes and a fair return on the investment. There is no hard and fast rule to be followed in the making of rates. They must be made to suit the varied conditions and must be free of unjust discrimination. The value of the traffic handled, its volume, weight, bulk, the degree of hazard it involves, risk of loss and damage, and type of carrying equipment required are some of the elements to be considered in fixing rates. The importance of the commodity, and the economic and commercial conditions also must be reflected in producing a rate on each commodity representing its fair share of the transportation burden.

Mr. Kerr explains that rates cannot be treated singly, but must be treated in relation to the whole structure. Thus, an individual rate might, in the light of local conditions seem unfair, but when considered as a part of the whole scheme be recognized as just and reasonable.

Music Appreciation Appreciates Radio Lectures

For the first time in the history of our school we are being taught a class over the radio. This comes from Station W A P I in Birmingham, with Miss Marie Finney as the teacher. We all enjoy this music very much. It is an appreciation of folk lore songs that arise out of the every day experiences of the people of Russia, Italy, Switzerland, and other countries of Europe. Some South folklore songs are interpreted for us also. The main thought all the way through is "What do we See in Music?"

OUR MERCHANT MARINE

It is a most evident fact to any one who has thought about it that in two of three factors of sea power the United States is immensely outclassed by Great Britain. Where naval bases are concerned we have very few, and where the merchant marine is concerned we are in ratio of one to two. We have not complete equality with Great Britain in auxiliary naval vessels, but there is the possibility that this will be attained at London.

In order to realize how weak we are in merchant marine vessels it seems pertinent at this time to glance at some of the Shipping Board figures. They show that the United States has the second largest fleet of ocean-going merchant vessels, with a total tonnage of 9,673,627, and that the British are first with a total tonnage of 17,683,755. Of ships displacing 15,000 tons and over, the British have 85 and we have 13. As fourteen knots is likely to be the convoy speed in future wars, it is interesting to observe that we have 106 vessels capable of a speed of fourteen knots or over and that the British have 445 vessels of this class. Large, fast ships can, of course, be converted into cruisers carrying 6-inch guns in a number suited to their individual design, whereas smaller and slower ships continue the important of those essential materials which are the sinews of war.

What is the outlook for the attainment of equality in this highly important division of sea power? How long, for instance, would it take us, building at our present maximum rate, to catch up with the British? The answer to this question, based on the theory that no old yards are reopened or that no new yards are started, is perhaps best found in the fact that the present yearly output of American shipyards is about 1,000,000 gross tons for passenger ships, combination ships, tankers and smaller vessels. According to the last Lloyd's Great Britain has under construction at present 1,444,355 tons. The real answer to the question of "How long?" is that we are in the position of a small dog chasing the British rabbit, with the rabbit gaining all the time. In other words, Great Britain will be gaining yearly and at infinity will be much farther ahead of us than she is now. If we are to catch up—and we should catch up—we must increase our building capacity.—New York Herald-Tribune.

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

The Boston Transcript recently in an interesting editorial pointed out that a new party movement in the United States seems to develop about every sixteen years and that one is therefore about due. Figuring from 1928, the Transcript points out that sixteen years before that date we had the Progressive or Bull Moose movement which played havoc with Republican affairs for a few years. That was in 1912, and sixteen years before that occasion there was the Free Silver movement which played havoc with the Democratic Party. Sixteen years before the rise of Bryan, in 1880, the Transcript points out, came the Greenback Party "which reached its high water mark with 308,000 votes for James B. Weaver, of Iowa." The Transcript ignores the LaFollette third party movement in 1924, coming twelve years after the Progressive insurgency, probably on the theory that it created scarcely a ripple on the political surface.

If history repeats itself it is true that a new party movement is about due, and we hear mutterings from every side that a new "Liberal" party is about in the making. We are told that the end of the Republican and Democratic organizations is near and that there is to be a new alignment. But the trouble is that it will be hard to get the people interested to agree on what constitutes "Liberalism." Perhaps never before have there been so many cross-currents in American politics. For instance in the effete East, "Liberalism" means the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, or at least a return to "Light wines and beers." In the West, Liberalism means something entirely different, an adherence in fact to the principles of LaFollette, and Norris and other "Progressive" senators. But the Eastern Liberals while "liberal" so far as liquor is concerned, are for the most part conservative in economic policies. As a general thing they favor a high tariff and noninterference by the government in private business. Government control or ownership of utilities is anathema to them.

On the other hand the Western and Southern liberals are generally dry. The Eastern "liberals" would call the Western "liberals decided unliberal on the liquor question. Who in fact is more militantly dry in the senate than Mr. Brookhart, of Iowa, one of the leaders of the Western liberals who are directly opposed to the political leaders of the East who call themselves "liberals" because they oppose the federal policy of prohibition.

It is therefore going to be more than a little difficult to create a "Liberal" party from all of the elements of the country who are at this time declaring themselves liberal. For it will have to be admitted that on no question are the leaders of divided opinion more bitterly divided than on the question of prohibition. A great many of our political students are beginning to believe that the time will come when the United States will have two major parties, one of which shall be wholly liberal in political thought and the other wholly conservative. But so long as there are other questions dividing the people it is a little difficult to see how this is going to be brought about.

This does not mean of course that the Republican and Democratic parties, as effective political organizations, may not be destroyed. But the probability is not that a truly radical and truly conservative party will take their places, but that our political organizations will degenerate into a multitude of political blocs each seeking to put over some selfish program at the expense of the rest of the country. When that time comes the fundamental principles of constitutional government in America will indeed be in danger.

JUGGLING WITH NAMES

In working with the list of some twenty-five hundred names, which constitutes the active and expired subscribers of The Union-Banner, we continually find funny things about the names—their relations to each other, likeness, unlikeness, etc. But not often will the thing that happened last Tuesday noon be repeated.

Willie Mims of Concord on Clanton Route 1 came in and subscribed for the paper, and within five minutes time we got a subscription from another Willie Mims living at Maplesville. Of course, neither knew that the other was subscribing.

There is nothing funny about this incident, other than it would probably never happen again in a life time.

COLONIAL SCHOOLS WERE DIFFERENT

As we look out upon our modern brick and stone school houses with up-to-date class rooms, laboratories, and gymnasiums, it is difficult to realize the improvement in our educational system since the days when the United States became a nation. The old time school master usually had teaching as a side line and his regular vocation might have been any of a half dozen trades or professions. It is not generally known that schools were first established in the colonies only to teach the young to read the Bible. The secular advantages of education were not realized until later.

The lot of the colonial school teacher was even less happy than that of Gilbert and Sulivan's policeman, judging from the duties listed for his permanence in a seventeenth century New England "Town Book." The activities with which the unfortunate schoolmaster was charged are as folows: to act as court messenger; to serve summonses; to conduct certain ceremonial services in his church; to lead the Sunday choir; to ring the bell for public worship; to dig graves; to take charge of school; to perform other occasional duties.

In many cases the teacher was an indentured servant who had sold his freedom for a period of years in order to pay for his passage to America. Such men usually served only one family, and of course, received no pay. George Washington's father is said to have kept an indentured servant in his household as tutor.

Women were not formally recognized as teachers until after the Revolution and did not become numerous until a much later date. The socalled "Dame Schools" were little more than day nurseries in which a mother amused her own children and those of her heighbor while attending to her own housework.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

"Consistency, thou art a jewel." Did you ever hear that old saying? If a jewel is something rare and valuable, then consistency must be a jewel. And you don't have to go any further than right here in your own yard to find the best example of it you ever heard of, too.

We refer to the great fight that has been waged by local independent merchants against the chain stores and the like, and, all the while, these same scrapping merchants have been having goods shipped to them out of Montgomery and Birmingham via the several motor transportation trucks operated by the various truck lines between these two cities.

This would not seem so curious were it not for the fact that one of the strongest arguments used so far has been that "chain stores don't build schools, roads, and the like; all they do is take from the community—they never put anything out in the town to help build it up."

Now! Let's think this matter over. There may be several reasons why a man should trade with his home merchant. Granted! But, for every argument put forth to this effect, we'll use the argument, very much stronger, in setting forth the contention that the railroad should be used in preference to motor transportation lines.

What's the argument? Safety? Speed? Economy? Accommodation? These are the main features to be considered. If there are others, they will, in some way, come under one or the other of these heads. And, the railroad's service can present facts and figures to convince the most skeptic that their case is the strongest.

In the first place, before we mention any of the features above, we want to have this to say. The railroad is an indispensable foundation of the growth of ANY community in which it may operate; the truck transport line is a parasite!

Our space this week will be taken up in general comment on this controversy, but next week we expect to have the cold figures to back up everything we may say this week. In this day, one must be able to prove what he says—we can do it—and WILL!

SAFETY? Take this home to yourself. Where would you feel safest—on a bus, made of wood and steel, piloted by a man who is susceptible to any one of many things which might cause him to wreck the bus, so putting your life in danger, or on a steel railway coach, mounted on steel rails and guided by those rails, and with an elaborate array of automatic safety devices on guard for your protection every second that you are a passenger?

SAFETY? Tires burst! Brakes fail! Human brains fail to "click" at times! Any number of things COULD happen. Certainly, nearly anything could happen to a train as could happen to a truck. But, should they happen, to which had you rather trust your life and property—the frail truck or the staunch steel railway car? Just ask yourself that question. Then answer for yourself.

SPEED? It is true that we live in a fast age. But, there should be only so much speed in delivery of the carrier as is consistent with safety. A train can get you or your goods delivered to any point practically as quick as the motor line—sometimes quicker. The very argument that a motor bus makes quicker delivery is a dead give-way on the subject of safety. There can be only a certain speed that is consistent with safety. To go beyond that is criminal.

ECONOMY? WE have on hand NOW evidence to prove that in at least two instances within the past few days, Clanton merchants have found that there is really no comparison in rates (freight) between the transport lines and railroads. Freight rates of the two vary all way from a few cents more per 100 pounds from Birmingham, to, in some cases, exactly doubled rates. All rates on which we have information at this time favor railroad usage.

ECONOMY? Is it economical to have a shipment made from Birmingham to Clanton by truck at a rate of 46 cents per 100 pounds, when the railroad will haul the same article for 23 cents per 100 pounds? No? Well, that's the case exactly in one instance, at least. How many more there may be like it would take too much space to set out.

Passenger rates are practically the same. It would give the situation away too quick for the passenger rate to vary as much as the freight rate. And, too, if such excessive charges were made in passenger service, in a few days there would be no bus passenger service, and the people MIGHT begin to look into the freight rates when they found there was so much difference in the passenger rates. Just a fence to hide behind, that's all.

ACCOMMODATION? Sure, the truck will bring freight to your store door. It is the only way they have of making up to a merchant for the excessive charge he is asked to pay. But be sure you are there, on the spot, to take in your goods. If you should happen to be closed —well, we just don't know what WOULD happen.

On the other hand, if your goods arrive, by railway, at night or during a thunder-storm, the railroad has a good, dry building in which to store them until such time as you may call for them. Would you rather have your goods hauled in a dry box car, or in an open truck with a tarpaulin thrown over it? And had you rather ride on a good, safe steel rail or on a slippery pavement?

And, then, again, let's take up that argument the home merchants harp on so much—TAXES. Who builds the railroads? Who builds the highways? The railroads build their own road-beds, and help to build the highways by their taxes. The little taxes the motor transportation lines pay is but a drop in a water tank by the side of the railroad company's taxes.

Consider all that has been said above, Weigh it in your mind. You KNOW, without proof, what is best for those concerned in such a matter. Why not back up your good judgement with your patronage, be it great or small.

We hope we have driven our argument in solidly. We hope we have set you to thinking, if nothing more, on the situation. By application of your own good sense and sound judgment there can be but one conclusion you can arrive at in thinking on the matter.

If we have driven the nails of our contention through, this week, we expect, as stated above, to be able to clinch the points with figures—and, as we open this POT with an old saying, so will we close it. Here 'tis! We'll prove by figures—and "figures don't lie!" Ever hear that?—JACK.

CONVICT ESCAPES FROM TRANSFER TRUCK

Loaded into a state transfer wagon as if they were cattle, 21 state convicts left Birmingham for Kilby prison late Wednesday afternoon in the custody of Gerald Wilkinson, transfer agent.

The state recognizes no color line when it is transferring prisoners. Thursday afternoon 13 negroes and eight white men were loaded into a small truck.

The 21 prisoners filled it to overflowing, there was not room for the men to move their legs.

After Wilkinson had packed his truck with 21 men, all handcuffed together, he tried to force another one inside, but it was impossible.

When the transfer agent had sandwiched the men into the truck, he still had three prisoners who must go.

He loaded these prisoners into the front seat of the truck, and put one on the running board.

While he was filling his truck with gas and oil at a filling station on First Avenue, and 23rd Street, one of them, Frank Moore, slipped away. Although he had escaped from Kilby several weeks ago, Moore was not handcuffed as were the other prisoners.

The trucks are not built for comfort. There are three heavy wood boards about nine inches wide on the inside of the truck for prisoners to sit on. The boards take up about half of the space, and the remainder is for the prisoners' feet.

Wednesday afternoon the prisoners were complaining of the handcuffs hurting their arms because of the crowded conditions. Others protested that there was not room for all of them in the truck, and asked for another trip.

Wilkinson had crowded them in until it was almost impossible to lock the steel door at the back of the car.

While the truck was being filled with gas and oil, the convicts asked for a drink of water. Finally the negro truck driver, a convict trusty, filled an old lard bucket and passed it inside.

He did not give them a cup or dipper, but told them to drink out of the dirty bucket. One of the white men took a small sip, and two of the negroes took a drink, but the others went thirsty.

Crowded into a corner in the midst of the negroes was an 18-year-old youth. His crime was forging a check for $5.

Some time ago, a private car made the trip to Kilby, bearing a convicted bank president. He had embezzled thousands of dollars.

It was reported at the courthouse Thursday that the Jefferson county grand jury would investigate the manner in which prisoners were transferred from the Jefferson County jail to Kilby prison by state officials, when members of the jury learned that white men and negro men were crowded together in a small truck.—by Lewey Robinson in the Birmingham Post. The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

Just a little bit of printers ink goes a long ways. Last Sunday Hance Alred saw a squib in The Montgomery Advertiser telling about a boy being arrested in Montgomery with some jewelry in his possession. Having been visited by some unknown party Friday night before, by which visit the Alred Drug Company was minus $300 worth of watches, the little news item at once caught the eye of Mr. Alred. Sunday afternoon he went to Montgomery and visited the young man who was in jail. Examination of the jewelry in his possession disclosed the fact that it was the same things taken from the Alred Drug Store Friday night. The rest of the story is related in the news item which appears elsewhere in this paper. Again we are reminded that it pays to advertise. When you put your message in a newspaper there is no telling when or where it will end.

There are a few business establishments in Clanton which have made this town known far and wide. One of these is the Dixie Cafe. An example is "Ma" William's biscuits. I was coming out of Atlanta on a train last year. I began talking with a man who was one of the officials of a big cotton mill plant at Montgomery. When he found out I was from Clanton, he said: "You folks have the best cafe I know of anywhere in Alabama. It is the only cafe I have ever found where you can get a good hot biscuit every time you go there. A number of times I have taken my family and driven up to Clanton for supper or dinner at the Dixie Cafe."

Rev. Ernest L. Davis, pastor of the Baptist Church at Fort Payne, stopped over in Clanton Monday night to have his automobile repaired. He was on his way to Troy to fill an engagement with a Lyceum Company. In addition to his regular work at his church in Fort Payne every Sunday and Sunday night, Rev. Davis has traveled about fifty thousand miles in his Ford car during the past twenty weeks, filling his lyceum engagements on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights of each week.

The men of Clanton are warned to look out for the membership campaign that is to be put on by the Mens Class of the Clanton Baptist Church in the next few weeks. Get into the game boys. The racket will wind up with something interesting to you. Besides, you will enjoy going to the mens class every Sunday morning for an hour.

You ought to see some of the faces made by Jack Douglas the last few days. You will get to see them too. They will start in The Union-Banner about the first of next month. Mr. Douglas is an expert cartoonist. Imagine him drawing a pen picture of Fenn Jones, J. O. Turner, Glenn Moore, Jess Baker, and a number of other Clanton business men. Our readers are going to get a good kick out of the Jack Douglas cartoons, and the personal mention of the subjects of his sketches.

We enjoyed a little re-union of printers at The Union-Banner office Monday. Emmett Powell of Decatur and Brock Wells of Selma both happened up at the same time. These two fellows got their start in the printing business at The Union-Banner office, and we are proud of the success they have attained at the trade since they went out into the world on their own hooks.

Business sure does interfere with a fellow's fishing at this time of the year. I wish business was not so all-fired important anyhow. But it is, and there is nothing I can do about it but work and listen to the yarns that the fellows spin when they come back from the lakes.

Hambone said Monday night: "Hit mought be hahd fuh a rich man to git to heb'n but it sho pes easy fuh him to git on de bod'd o' deacons." Now, how is that one, doctor? First thought would mail it to you; but later decided I would put it in the column so all of us could have a laugh over it.

I believe this burglar business has gone far enough to justify a little investigation by the night policeman occasionally during the small hours of the morning. Don't reckon Lee Smith has heard anything about his cigaretts. And the razors are still missing, so far as we can learn. Alred's watches have come back. So has the man who stole them. He is in jail.

If a brick weighs ten pounds and half a brick, how much does a brick and a half weigh? Please refer your answer to Coos Neighbors at Alred's Drug Store.

Ivy Blalock says he has often experienced that peculiar feeling of disappointment that comes to a fellow when he gets up to help his wife cook breakfast and finds that the coffee, sugar, or lard is out. But he declares it was a new sensation for him to come down to the barber shop all primed to shave the first customer, and find, after he had him all lathered up, that there was not a razor in the house.

A New York man stole an accordian and was given life imprisonment, it being his fourth offense. Now if they will let him take it along with him he can have plenty of opportunity to practice the Prisoner's Song.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. The car leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used-car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

STATE CAPITOL News

Development of the Alabama-Coosa water route from Rome, Ga., to Mobile received a boost at a meeting March 14th of the traffic survey committee of which Governor Graves is chairman, held in the office of the Governor. At the meeting Theodore Brent, traffic expert, reported as entirely feasible the operation of a barge service from Rome to Mobile. Mr. Brent's report listed a potential annual tonnage of 1,417,000 tons easily estimable on which the saving to the public would be $1.10 a ton, or about $1,542,000; while including freight which could not be computed at the time the report was compiled, it was estimated that the annual saving would reach $2,000,000. The rate schedule suggested in the survey would produce an annual revenue of $4,791,000, which it was declared would pay 20 per cent interest on the investment after taking care of all expenses, maintenance, overhead and depreciation. It was estimated that the physical equipment would cost approximately $7,500,000.

Governor Graves some time ago launched the active campaign for development of the Coosa-Alabama waterway which has received the hearty support of Alabama and Georgia business interests. The assistance of the powerful Mississippi Valley Association has been secured, and the association is waging an active fight to bring about the development. A meeting of the East Coast Gulf Division of the Association has been tentatively fixed for May 30th at Montgomery. United States Engineer L. E. Lyons, reported at the meeting March 14th that the government's part of the survey is being actively pushed and that a report will be ready for congress by December 1st. At the May meeting the complete survey will be given to the public and plans completed for an energetic presentation to Congress to secure final adoption of the plan for a nine-foot channel from Rome to Mobile.

The meeting of the traffic survey committee was attended by Governor Graves, Chairman, Thad Holt, Birmingham, Director of the Alabama Industrial Development Board, W. H. Butler, Gadsden; F. C. Varn, Anniston; H. H. Frazier, Selma; Elkan Hohenburg, Wetumpka; Mayor Harry T. Hartwell, Mobile; W. H. Foster, Rome, Ga.; M. M. Caskie, Montgomery; Lachlan McLeay, St. Louis, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Association; Senator John Craft, Mobile; Fred Crampton, Montgomery; and Charlie Moffett, president of the State Board of Administration.

Mr. Brant was assigned to make the survey on which he reported to the committee, by the Mississippi Valley Association last August. His favorable report is regarded as another step toward the goal of a water route from Rome to the Gulf, which would be of tremendous economic benefit to a large area of Alabama and part of Georgia.

Two new toll bridges built by the State Bridge Corporation under authority of an act of the last Legislature have been recently opened to traffic—the Gorgas Bridge over the Tombigbee at Epes, and the Bankhead Bridge at Riverside over the Coosa. Fifteen such bridges will be built, the number now open to traffic being four—the Milner Bridge at Cochrane, over the Coosa having been opened some time ago. The next bridge to be opened will be the Pelham Bridge over the Coosa at Cedar Bluff, probably by April 1st, and the Comer Bridge over the Tennessee at Scottsboro will be opened shortly thereafter.

The South should be the industrial center of the nation, Governor Graves declared in an address before the annual Industrial Conference of the Southern Division of the American Mining Congress at Little Rock, Arkansas, March 11th. Governor Graves stated that this section is righer in industrial resources than any other part of the country. He suggested formation of a council of industrial leaders to cooperate with the various States in promoting Southern development.

Capital circles were interested in the news recently received that President Hoover had approved the bill of Congressman Lister Hill to reimburse the State of Alabama the sum of $1,660,000 expended in rebuilding federal aid roads and bridges wrecked by the destructive floods which swept South Alabama a year ago. The floods caused tremendous damage to the State's highway system, and the action of the federal government in helping make good the loss was highly gratifying in State official circles.

Legal onslaughts on the validity of Alabama's sales tax on cigars and cigarettes have proven fruitless after being carried to the court of last resort. The United States Supreme Court in a recent decision, which was one of the first to be prepared by Chief Justice Hughes after taking office, declined to review the previous decision of the Alabama Supreme

Daddy-Long-Legs

Orphan Annie has won our hearts, she is alone in the world and meets it like a game little sport. If you can imagine Orphan Annie grown up, you will have a fairly good picture of Judy. But you can see Judy, you can hear her, you can follow her fight cor a chance to live and grow like other girls. Orphan Annie has Daddy Warbucks, but she has difficulty in hanging on to him. Orphan Judy has Daddy-Long-Legs, but he refuses to become anything more than shaddow on the wall.

Does anyone doubt the ability of teachers to do anything but teach? Come and see them act! All of the faculty of Thorsby Institute, with the help of Lola Gerald, Earl Leary, and students at the Institute and public school, have worked for months to prepare the play, Daddy-Long-Legs, which will be the third number of the annual lyceum course. Did you enjoy the other lyceum numbers? This is going to be the most interesting of all. Watch Miss Arthur wring your heart with sympathy for Judy Abbott. Miss Leech proves to us how an orphan asylum should be run. You will want to adopt some of the orphans when you see Conradine Pate, Mary Frank Smith, Juanita Each, Myradine Martin, Marie Each, and Ralph Pate. Your choice will be a nice quiet little girl rather than Freddie. Mr. and Mrs. Butler and Mr. Sutlive as trustees, make you glad you are not an orphan. Some trustees can be guardian angels, proven by Miss Fairbanks. Another trustee hides a warm heart behind a cynical manner, so don't let Mr. Maddox deceive you with has sarcasm. He'll be different later. His good old nurse, Miss Stoddard, brought him up properly, and training counts. If you want to know how college girls act when company comes, just watch Miss Klingelhoefer and Miss Gerald. They might show you how to fall in love too. Earl Leary is another who is experienced in affairs of the heart, but his chief accomplishment is in growing a real mustache. In case you have never met a true, blue blooded aristocrat, don't miss seeing Miss Thoroman. At last Mr. Butler is going to live up to his name and Mr. Sutlive has the opportunity to prove his efficiency. Anything Miss Jenkins undertakes she does properly, so study her technique in her latest job. Olean Hybert is taking lessons from her.

Four acts of fun and suspense will show you the inside working of an orphan asylum, a college girls' dormitory home, a New England "Sitting Room," and the library of a descendant of the "very superior monkeys with beautiful silky hair and extra long tails."

Don't miss "Daddy-Long-Legs" at Thorsby Institute, Saturday night, March 22, at 7:30. Tickets for adults 50c, students and children 35c.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hawkins and Mrs. Lula Hawkins of Birmingham were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bosworth on Sunday last.

The Ladies Guild will meet next week, Thursday March 27 with Mrs. C. C. Petersen.

Mr. H. V. Sutlive, Morris Craft and father made a trip to Birmingham last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Thompson of Birmingham spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Thornburg.

CHARLIE A. WILLIAMS

Age 29, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams

On march 3rd the death angel visited and called our loving son and brother to a better home. All was done for him that loving hands could do but all in vain; but understand, he is not dead in reality but just passed over to that sweet home to await our coming, where there will be no parting nor sad farewell. We shall miss him to testify in loving remembrance to the place he held in our hearts. God wanted him and He called him to live on high.

We miss him, yes we mill him; his place can never be filled. But with joy and gladness in our hearts we will meet him some day.

It is God's will that we must die to make us fit for that home on high, for when God calleth we must go.

He is now peacefully sleeping in the silent city of the dead, awaiting the resurrection morning when all loved ones and friends shall again be united to part no more. Written by his cousin, Mrs. Mattie Wilkins.

THE USEFUL WAFFLE

When in doubt, have waffles. The ingredients are staples on hand in every household. The uses of the waffle run the course of breakfast, lunch, the impromptu tea party, dinner or supper. There is no food more adapatable, none more variable in its uses, none quicker and easier of production, than the waffle.

The breakfast waffle is never wasted Capacity reached, the batter that is left can be put away in the refrigerator, and used again at lunch or at the light supper in the evening, and, still better, at the impromptu afternoon tea.

Breakfast waffles are served with butter and sugar, or butter and sirup, with bacon or with sausage, depending on the likes and dislikes of the waffle-fed family. There are varieties in even the breakfast use of the useful waffle.

For lunch or the impromptu afternoon collation, jam or jelly or marmalade can be used instead of butter, and for creamed chicken or sea food, the waffle makes an ideal base at supper time. The useful waffle is adaptable to any circumstance or to any taste.

CLANTON BANKERS ATTENDING MEETING IN ATLANTA

Mr. H. G. Heflin, Cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank, and H. S. Shaw and W. L. Popwell, directors of the same, together with J. C. Page and E. E. Upchurch, cashier and president, respectively, of the First National Bank of Clanton, are in Atlanta this week. These bankers are attending a meeting of the Southern Conference of the American Bankers Association. The meeting will be devoted to a discussion of subjects relating to bank management and policies.

HOSPITAL ENGINEER IS MAKING SURVEY OF SITES

Mr. Warren, an enginerr of the Veterans Bureau has arrived in Alabama for the purpose of looking over the proposed sites for the new geverenmont hospital. An invitation has been extended to him to make Clanton his headquarters while he is conducting his survey of the area.

It is not yet known when he will be in Chilton County, but it is probable that he will be here in a few days.

City Council Places Concrete Walk In Front of School Building

Chilton County High School, students and faculty are deeply indebted to the City Council of Clanton for paving a walk from the front steps to the street.

This meets a long felt need on our campus, besides it adds to the appearance of the school 100 per cent. This is a progressive step on the part of our City, and we shall always feel indebted to them for their interest in our behalf.

KNOW YOUR TOWN IS KIWANIS SUBJECT

The subject of the Kiwanis Club program for today (Thursday) is "Know Your Town." Frank P. James and his committee on publicity have charge of the program. Mr. James tells us that he has gathered together a big load of information about Clanton and Clanton business activities which will be told to the Club by someone who will be selected to make the speech of the occasion. Perhaps the subject will be divided and presented by different members of the Club.

There is a large amount of business done in Clanton in the course of a year's time. It is perhaps much more than one can visualize in a merely casual thought on the subject. It is a unique idea of the publicity committee to present this subject, and no doubt it will prove to be very highly interesting.

The Union-Banner expects to take extensive notes of the program and will give to our readers a story on the subject next week.

Montgomery Girl Is Winner In Contest

Aileen Pierson is First, Mae Burnett Second, In the March Contest.

Miss Aileen Pierson, of Montgomery, won the finals for the Alabama Power Company in the National Employees Speaking Contest sponsored by the National Electric Light Association in a spirited meeting of six contestants at the auditorium of the General Office Building at Birmingham on March 11.

A high order of competition was afforded by the other finalists, Misses Nancy Humphrey, Lucile Luttrell, and Mae Burnette, Mrs. Annie D. Drake, and H. S. St. John, Miss Burnette being awarded second place.

No other utility in the State having conducted contests, Miss Pierson was designated to represent Alabama in the Public Speaking Contest of the Southern Division, N. E. L. A., to be held at the Augusta Convention, April 15-17, where she will compete with representatives of the States of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Flordia, and Tennessee. Miss Burnette was appointed alternate.

The final contest was conducted before an audience of employees and officials which filled the auditorium, Robert H. Mangum, Assistant Manager, Investment Department, and State Chairman, Public Speaking Committee, N. E. L. A., acting as Chairman of the meeting.—Powergrams.

Miss Pierson has a number of close friends at Mitchell Dam, where she very often visits and spends her week ends. She is a close friend of Miss Ethel Cagle of Mitchell Dam, and is always accorded high social honors on her visits to this Chilton County plant of the Alabama Power Company.

CLUB BOYS WILL HAVE RALLY HERE FRIDAY

The annual rally of the 4-H Club Boys of Chilton County will be held at the courthouse in Clanton on Friday of this week. Mr. T. A. Sims, of Auburn, club leader for the State, will be present, and will take an active part in directing the program for the day.

It is expected that there will be about 275 club boys from all parts of the county in attendance. County agent, C. E. Stapp, will have charge of the program for the day. In addition to some important instruction relative to their work, the boys will be given some kind of entertainment during the day.

TOM SCOTT HERE MONDAY

Tom Scott, of Montgomery, was in Clanton Monday on business for the State Tax Commission. "Yes, I am busy all the time now," said Mr. Scott. "I have to work hard and make a good showing in order to justify myself in the peculiar and unusual circumstances of a Republican working for a Democratic State adminstration in Alabama.

Come to think of it, since Mr. Scott mentioned it, that is a very unusual thing for a Republican to have a job with the Democratic State adminstration in Alabama. Guess we can dismiss that subject by saying that it is one more of the funny political vagaries that began to happen in the 1928 campaign.

Who Is It?

Of course you will know who it is—that is if you have ever stayed around Clanton very long. You couldn't have stayed around here very long and failed to learn something about the gent pictured above. And once you've known him you couldn't forget him, even if Jack Douglass hadn't made such a great job of drawing his picture as he did.

On top of that, after all our scheming to make it a guess as to who it is, Jack had to go and "bust right out" and pretty near tell you before we could get him stopped.

We are giving this as a kind of prelude to the series of advertisements we will carry for the next twenty weeks. The Union-Banner will run a full-page advertisement each week for twenty weeks, featuring some one of the subscribers to the advertising plan, and running a regular size advertisement for each of the other subscribers to it. Each week it will be a different man or business that is featured, until all have had their "big week."

Mr. Jack Douglass, an accomplished artist, has been in Clanton several days, making sketches of the different business men who are in on the advertising. We have everything in readiness to begin to "shoot the works" next week. The first page advertisement will appear April 3. This little spiel is just to get our readers' eyes all peeled, get the old ball to rolling, and get everybody's curiosity aroused as to "who will be next."

When you get your Union-Banner next week, turn to the co-operative full-page advertisement, and "look 'em over." Read all the advertisements, and then, when in need of goods or service in the advertisers' lines, see them first!

Old Folks Expecting Great Day Sunday

Entire Day Will Be Used For Religious Worship and Experience.

A number of older people and preachers are anticipating a great day at Friendship next Sunday. The fact that some associational work will be done in the afternoon does not mean that the service will be taken away from the old people, but everyone present will be given all the time he wants to talk about his religious experiences in days past, and if anybody wants to say something about the present day needs of the churches and the Association, he will be permitted to do so; but no one will be confined to this subject.

Mr. W. J. Billingsley, Clerk of the Chilton County Association said Monday: "We want it distinctly understood that the service at Friendship next Sunday belongs to the older people and ministers just as was originally planned. No fixed program is planned by the executive committee, but we simply aim to worship with the older people and all have a good old-time religious revival together."

Several of the older folks who were invited, and some who attended this service last year, have already passed on to the Great Beyond. Among them are: Uncle Dock Wells, Squire E. Waldrop, Jack Vines, T. L. Robinson and Uncle Bob Miller.

All the older people and ministers have a special invitation to be present at Friendship the fifth Sunday. The day will be yours to be used as you see fit. Bring your dinner and let's spend the day together in service to God.

If you don't receive a personal invitation, come on any way, for you will be more than welcome.

American Legion Has New Interest

Fine Meeting Held Monday Night. Will Meet Regularly.

The meeting of Porter Plier Post of the American Legion was held at the courthouse in Clanton Monday night. This was pronounced the best meeting in the history of the Post.

For the past two weeks there was conducted an attendance contest between two sides of the membership. The Group headed by E. W. Clenner carried off the honors by having the greatest number present Monday night. The winning group was award a set-up by the losing side.

The meeting Monday night was featured by some very interesting addresses by visiting Legionaries. George Grant, of Troy, State Commander of the American Legion, was present, and made the principal address. C. B. Simms, of Montgomery State Adjutant, made a most entertaining talk.

The Montgomery Post of the Legion was represented by Joe Reed, who has charge of the service department of his Post. Mr. Reed made a talk on the subject of service. He invited the members of the Clanton Post to visit the club rooms of the Montgomery Post when they are in the Capital City.

Ex-soldiers here are highly enthused over the prospects for keeping the local post alive and functioning. The future of the organization now looks better and more promising than in its history.

Mrs. Lucien C. Duncan of Birmingham spent last week-end in Clanton with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Crumpton.

JOSEPH E. COBB CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

The fifth candidate for Commissioner of the First District was announced last Saturday when the name of Joseph E. Cobb of Beat 2 was added to the list.

Mr. Cobb was a candidate for this office several years ago, making the race against T. J. Dorminey. He will be remembered by the people of the county, practically all of the voters having had an opportunity to get acquainted with him in his former race.

Mr. Cobb is considered to be thoroughly competent to fill the important office of County Commissioner. He is a farmer who is recognized as in every way worthy and qualified for the place.

As it stands now the following are the candidates for Commissioner of the First District: John Bean, present commissioner, John Martin, Willie Shaw, P. M. Cleckler, and Joseph E. Cobb.

Goal Not Reached In The Chest Fund

Impossible To Render Help In Every Case Asked For.

There are constant calls upon the Chest for help. The goal has not been reached but the continued assistance that comes in adds joy and happiness of those who are in great need. With the many calls, it is impossible to do as much in each case as needed on account of so many calls. On the other hand, there are some cases when investigated, prove un-worthy of help and it is the desire to use the funds where most needed.

Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer last week sent clothing valued at $1.75, Mrs. Powers, clothing valued at $1.00, Mrs. John Holland clothing valued at $2.00, Mrs. J. C. Baldwin clothing valued at $60.00, Mr. Tommy Maddox has been sending 4 pecks of meal at each time for needy families. In this way it is kept fresh and comes in very handy.

Mrs. Kelley, Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. Burnett recently made eight (8) baby dresses for babies without clothing.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto me, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

FOURSQUARE EVANGELIST TO BE HERE OVER WEEK END

Mrs. Anna L. Benton, Foursquare Evangelist, of Los Angeles, will be here over the week end, to hold a series of meetings at the local Foursquare church. She comes here from Macon, Georgia, where she has held meetings. Mrs. Benton comes to the local church recommended by authorities of Angelus Temple, at Los Angeles. She will preach at 7:30 p. m., on Friday night and Saturday night, March 28th and 29th, Sunday morning, March 30, at 11:00 a. m., and Sunday night at 7:30.

The message Sunday night will be an illustrated one—"The Seven Crises of the World," and is expected to be quite interesting. The Foursquare church takes this method of inviting you to be present at all the services, but a special invitation is extended for the Sunday night message.—J. Matt Johnson.

NEW MEMBERS OF CLANTON CAMP W. O. W.

One of the largest classes of new members ever received in this section was given the Protection Degree of Woodcraft at the regular meeting of Clanton Camp No. 322 W. O. W. held Monday night. The large hall was filled to its capacity with members in attendance from every section of the county including visitors from the camps at Thorsby, Jemison, Stanton, Moro, and Plantersville. Eric Hart, Mayor of Clanton and Consul Commander of the local camp, presided at the meeting. The impressive degree work was put on by a selected set of officers assisted by John N. Cochran, state worker, of Florence, who is also directing the membership campaign.

The next meeting of the camp will be held Monday night, April 7th, when another class of members will be introduced. A committee consisting of W. H. Sartor, G. C. Harris, and O. O. Roper was appointed to prepare refreshments to be served on the above date. All members of the W. O. W. in this section are cordially invited to attend.

SENATORS WILL PROBE SPEECH OF KENNAMER

Gadsden Speech In 1928 May Be a Stumbling Block At This Time.

Washington, March 25.—If District Attorney Charles B. Kennamer, Birmingham had not made a political speech at Gadsden in July, 1928 when he attacked Alfred E. Smith's presidential aspirations because he was a Roman Catholic, Kennamer might by this time have been confirmed in his renomination as district attorney.

But owing to the speech and because the judiciary committee of the Senate wants to know all about it his renomination has been held up and a sub-committee is going to probe the matter to the bottom.

The sub-committee consists of Senators Herbert, Republican of Rhode Island, Gillet, Republican of Massachusetts and Stephens, Democrat, of Mississippi.

Kennamer's renomination was sent to senate some time ago by President Hoover and was about to be approved by judiciary committee when complaints relating to the religious issue arising out of the last campaign in Alabama, were transmitted to committee by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana.

Not only Kennamer but O. D. Street Republican national committeeman, candidate for vacant federal judgship in middle district, is involved in protests against reappointment of Kennamer, which were lodged with Senator Walsh by Alabama citizens.

Moreover the same widely distributed statement by Street on the religious question, made in answer to newspaper comment during the 1928 campaign, which has cast its shadow over Street's candidacy for the judgeship, now lays its threatening over Kennamer's hopes of reappointment.

Robert L. Sullivan, a Republican of Russelville, Alabama, is chief complainant against Kennamer. He wired Senator Walsh recently to have district attorney's confirmation held up till he could be heard from, and declaring Kennamer does not represent the body of Republicans in Alabama and should not be reappointed.

Sullivan wrote Walsh that Kennamer and Street live side by side in Guntersville and "are one and the same stripe." He says in his letter:

"During the last campaign Kennamer made a mean and dirty speech at Gadsden, Alabama. I thought I could send you a paper with a full speech in it. When I called at the Birmingham News for this speech, I found all copies of this speech destroyed. I have some references and comments on this speech which I have saved and herewith hand to you. You can see from them the kind and character of a man he is.

"The Republican party of Alabama does not feel this way and we should not be forced to have a federal appointment over us of this kind, caliber and character. This same Kennamer, who made this speech is the present U. S. attorney. He has been nominated for another term. He and Street are working for each other, each trying to get the other appointed, Street for federal judge and Kennamer for attorney again.

"Herewith hand you a circular letter sent out by Street which was received by Walsh from J. P. Kohn of Montgomery, Alabama who tells Senator Walsh that altho it is not apparent from his name, he is a Catholic and considers Kennamer more objectionable than Street.

Senator Herbert, chairman of the sub-committee, states that the complaints will be gone into and that he is writing Kennamer for full account and Photostatic copy of speech which has been criticized.

Just what Kennamer did say in that controversial speech has always been a matter of dispute but apparently this time he has got to explain it to the senatorial committee.

It is understood that no charges affecting Kennamer's fitness to remain as district attorney had been laid before the committee until these appeared. Neither Senator Heflin nor Black, altho stating they would prefer a Democrat for the job, have opposed him while he has recieved many endorsements of his record.

For some time it has been common gossip that the main obstacle to Street's appointment to the late judge Clayton's berth, has been the campaign referred to.

Co-ops to Market Cotton

By delivering cotton to a state co-operative cotton marketing association instead of selling it in the open market, the grower now can get almost the present local selling price as an immediate advance from his association. When the cotton is finally sold, the grower has reasonable expectation of an additional amount. The success of the plan depends entirely on the farmers themselves, says J. A. Evans, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Must Make a Profit

Every man to his trade. Some men make good farmers, some are cut out for the law, others are natural-born doctors, and so on.

Anybody can open a store and buy and sell things—for a while. There is no law against anybody's trying to be a merchant. But there are some mighty hard and fast laws against keeping on being a merchant, and they're not all on the statute books either.

These laws are just as strict as any others. One of them says that if a merchant gives away his profits, the sheriff will get him. If he gives away just part of his profits at a time, all he does is put the sheriff off.

V-C dealers, with honest goods at honest prices, have their profits in their hands when V-C delivers the fertilizer to them. If they keep these profits, they keep on being V-C dealers. If they give these profits away, even to their best friends, the time will come when they can't survive—and that's our loss, and yours, and theirs.

Cotton Picker Coming

Bait for Boll Weevil

The Department of Agriculture thinks the boll weevil smells her way to the cotton field—and therefore it is planning ways to trick her.

"The odorous principle of the cotton plant has been studied," says the Secretary of Agriculture. "This principle has been isolated, and the compound can probably be made synthetically. Here is a possible means of furnishing bait for boll weevils which may have considerable importance."

Sounds like a joke, but it is far from being that. Maybe two or three years from now we'll be spreading empty V-C sacks on frames, with a little of this "principle" in the bottom, and when a sack gets full of weevils all we'll have to do will be to haul it away and get rid of them.

FARMER CAN REDUCE ACREAGE AND INCREASE PROFIT

Farmers are being urged by many agricultural leaders to reduce their acreage of cotton in 1930 in order to reduce the danger of a large cotton surplus. As cotton is the main and in many cases the only cash crop of the southern farmer, some will be reluctant to reduce their cotton acreage for fear of reducing their cash profit.

It is possible for the farmer to reduce his acreage in cotton and make more profit on the crop, and this is especially true when a low price must be accepted for the crop.

Agricultural experiment stations in all parts of the South have shown that by concentrating on fewer acres, and producing higher yields, greater profit can be obtained. In a recent circular prepared by P. H. Kime, of the agronomy department of the North Carolina Experiment Station, attention was called to the importance of keeping cost of production of lint under 16 cents per pound. This can be done by using only the best cotton lands and increasing the average acre yield. Producing eight bales on ten acres will be more profitable than producing ten bales on 20 acres.

Results of experiments in Mississippi reported by C. B. Anders, of the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station, point in the same direction. Mr. Anders stated that on some lands of Mississippi a farmer may reduce his acreage one-fourth to one-third if he raises his application of fertilizer from 300 pounds up to 600 pounds per acre, and without increasing his investment obtain the same profit. These statements indicate that the farmer can cut his cotton acreage, as some are advising him to do, and by increasing his yield per acre on the smaller number of acres, he is in position to make an even greater profit on his crop.

ALL-STRING ORCHESTRA NEW DANCE SENSATION

Coca-Cola Topnotchers Score Emphatic Radio Hit.

Admitting that it was a difficult matter to develop anything new and unusual in the rendering of dance music, Mr. Willie Jones, local manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, states that the response of the public to the program of the Coca-Cola Topnotchers has surpassed all expectations.

"Every piece they play," he said, "must be especially arranged for them, for there isn't a brass instrument in the whole orchestra. It is a 31-piece, all-string outfit without even a 'sax,' and under the direction of Len Joy, of Victor recording fame. The result is that the screen and the stage hits are given a really wonderful new effect, for nothing comes over the air as well as stringed instruments. The harmony is perfect."

Besides this unusual dance music, the Coca-Cola Topnotchers feature Grantland Rice, famous sports editor, and a different celebrity each week in the field of athletics. Graham McNamee announces this unusual program eevry Wednesday evening at nine-thirty over Station WAPI, Birmingham.

GOOD PASTURES FURNISHES CHEAP SOURCE OF FEED

Prices of dairy products, particularly butter, have been reduced during the last few months, and some southern farmers who have recently begun to milk cows or who have expanded their dairy operations are discouraged. While the general outlook for dairying is not porticularly bright, it does not mean that the progress in dairying made in the South during recent years is of little or no value and that the farmers should give up their cows.

The situation does call for better handling of cows, culling out the low producers so that only cows that make good use of feed are kept, and growing more economically-produced feed. A 15-bushel crop of corn, a one-half or three-fourths ton crop of cowpea or soy bean hay or a broomsedge pasture is not economically-produced feed. Higher yields per acre of better quality feedstuff must be produced in order to have cheap feed for livestock.

A good pasture is probably the source of cheapest feed for cows, and will go a long way toward making cows more profitable during the next few years. A good pasture cannot be developed overnight, for in many cases re-seeding, liming and fertilization will be necessary, and where needed, these will be profitable and may well be adopted.

For immediate results on an established 600 pounds per acre of a fertilizer analyzing 4 to 8 per cent nitrogen, 8 to 12 per cent phosphoric acid and 4 to 8 per cent potash, depending upon the nature of the soil, should give good results.

Immediate top-dressing of the established sods will give more early pasturage so that the cows may have plenty of good pasture to help them produce more milk before the low prices anticipated during the normal grass season must be accepted.

The popular belief that baby chicks should be starved for the first 48 to 72 hours to prevent bowel trouble has finally given away to scientific knowledge. It is now known that early feeding is not harmful. However, neither does delayed feeding seem to be harmful.

County Farm Agent's Notes

CO-OP BUYING REACHES NEARLY FOUR MILLION

Auburn, Ala., March 24.—Cooperative purchases made by Alabama farmers in 1929 reached a total of $3,767,690.53. The purchases included seed, fertilizers, insecticides, and miscellaneous supplies entering into production. Fertilizer led the list among cooperative purchases, and seed came second, with winter legume seed leading in seed purchases.

This figure is revealed by Director L. N. Duncan of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in his report just submitted to President Bradford Knapp and the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Director Duncan arrived at this figure by combining the reports of District Agents J. T. High, R. G. Arnold, and Emmett Eizemore, who compiled reports from the 63 county agents. They are not engaged in the business side of agriculture but serve in an advisory capacity, Professor explained.

The records show that 50,735 farmers participated in cooperative buying during 1929. They bought 87,501 tons of fertilizer, 6,098 tons of basic phosphate which was used as fertilizer, 1,522,767 pounds of hairy vetch and Austrian pea seed, and miscellaneous products on a smaller scale. The buying was done through county farm bureaus and the State Farm Board with offices in Montgomery.

At the same time, cooperative selling was done on a larger scale, cotton leading in this selling because it is the leading cash crop produced by Alabama farmers. Poultry and livestock are next. During the year county agents assisted in selling 1,986,610 pounds of poultry in carlots on the cooperative plan.

Director Duncan said that the extension marketing specialists, J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest, gave general direction to the sale of these products. The business was cleared through the State Farm Bureau office. In cooperative selling 33,168 farmers participated.

U. S. FORMULA FOR WHITEWASH GIVEN

Auburn, Ala., March 24.—A cheap way to protect property and improve its appearance is to apply whitewash, say specialists of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The most common and easily prepared formula, they say, is one recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is called weather-proof whitewash for use on the exterior of buildings, fences, and elsewhere.

The whitewash is made as follows: "Slake 62 pounds or one bushel of quick lime with 12 gallons of water; dissolve 2 pounds common table salt and 1 pound sulphate of zinc in 2 gallons of boiling water; pour the salt mixture into the lime mixture and add 2 gallons of skimmen milk and mix thoroughly."

A pound of cheap bar soap dissolved in a gallon of boiling water and added to five gallons of thick whitewash will give a somewhat glossy finish to the completed job. Alum added to a lime whitewash at the rate of on ounce to a gallon increases its adhesive qualities. Molasses added at the rate of one pint to five gallons of whitewash makes the lime more soluble and causes it to penetrate the wood.

CO-OP SALES MOUNT IN NORTH ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., March 24.—The Cooperative method of selling is stimulating the poultry business in North Alabama, as indicated by reports received by J. T. High, district agent, Extensive Service, Alabama Polytchnic Institute. Loads of poultry in seven North Alabama counties for cooperative sale the second week in March amounted to 100,000 pounds, reports showed. The counties were Colbert, Lauderdale, Lamar, Franklin, Fayette, Marion, and Walker. The sales were made in seven carloads; and the average car brings $3,300 at prices now being received.

FARM FACTS

Government officials estimate that there are 5,000 farms of less than 3 acres in this country to which individuals gave their entire time last year.

Instead of illuminating a room with one central glaring light try to concentrate the light where it is needed; it gives soft coloring and more homelike atmosphere.

The thin woman should religiously avoid perpendicular lines, sleeveless dresses, pointed necklines, long, narrow skirts, and black costumes, all of which tend to accentuate the angles in one's figure and cause one to appear tall and thin.

INCUBATOR TAKING PLACE OF HEN IN HATCHING CHICKS

Mechanical substitutes for the fluffy old mother hen are fast crowding the faithful old biddy off her nest on farms throughout the country, according to reports sent to the United States Departmnet of Agriculture by the crop correspondents of the bureau of agriculture economics. Only 43 per cent of all chickens raised are still hatched under hens, the report indicates.

It is worthy of note that in those sections where farm poultry flocks have reached their highest efficiency as profit producers, incubator chicks are used in far greater proportion. In the north-eastern, central western and far western states, where poultry is an important source of farm income, the farm flocks are being raised in a more scientific manner, and incubator-hatched chicks are in the majority. In the South where farm poultry it not a major source of farm income, a large share of the flocks are grown from hen hatched chicks.

This finding of the department of agriculture coincides with the reports from the contest conducted last year by hatcheries which operate under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits." Every one of 41,000 letters from farmers throughout the nation told of profits from farm flocks, after they had started using the hatchery product.

Reasons for this are quite apparent, when the history of the poultry industry through the past few years is reviewed. Continued flock improvement by the hatcherymen has made available hens with average laying capacity. Farmers have discovered that a comparatively small investment will bring a proportionately large return, provided, of course, proper methods and a fair amount of attention are given their flocks.

Sanitation, observance of proper feeding methods, and attention to the poultry and egg markets, are essentials of profitable poultry raising with which farmers are becoming familiar, often under the tutelage of the hatcheries from which chicks are purchased.

MORE PROFIT FROM STRAWBERRIES

Strawberries are one of the agricultural commodities for which the outlook for prices is fairly satisfactory. The grower who has a strawberry acreage can afford to make a real effort to produce a large quantity of quality berries.

Experiments have shown "that when moisture and temperature are not limiting factors, the number of flower clusters, and size of berries are dependent upon nutrient conditions within the plant the preceding fall and winter and they are practically independent of soil fertility conditions during the spring and after time of fruiting." Although this statement indicates that spring fertilization has little effect on number of blooms, it has been found in other experiments that spring applications of fertilizer do result in better setting of the blooms and in increased size of the berries. An early spring application of emplete fertilizer is advisable, in order to secure largest marketable crop from buds now formed. This treatment should be followed by additional fertilizer after the crop has been picked and the beds re-worked.

FROM BEAT 11 VOTER

Jut a few lines from Beat No. 11. I will say to the voters of this county, boys, the time is close by to go to the polls and say more taxes or not more taxes. Gentlemen, it looks like that the school board can'e be satisfied; so come to the polls and vote this tax down.

I hope to see the day when we can elect men who will do the things right in our county—I hope to see the day when we can have schools that will be taught and not half so much baseball and picture making instead of learning to read and write. We have got the sorriest schools we have ever had in this county, from all reports. I want to see the day when we can choose our teachers to teach our schools instead of the board saying who shall teach them. I hope that the representatives will repeal this law and give us a chance to say who shall and who shall not.

Gentlemen, I say to repeal the law of exemption from poll tax and make everyone subject pay as they once did. Don't listen to the board and teachers. Come on out the 8th of April and let's knock the mills out of our county and look for someone to grind our meal. So don't stay away from the polls; lose a little time and come and vote this tax out again.—John S. Dennis, Clanton, R. 1, Box 38.

CHEVROLET WINS SWEEPST'K'S

Los Angeles, March 23.—Completing against a field of 41 other entrants, a 1930 Chevrolet six-cylinder coach, driven by Mrs. Paul A. Lawrence of Los Angeles, won the sweepstakes and first place in its class in the annual Gilmore Blue-Green Economy run here February 14th.

Every type of road and grade was encountered in the run that covered 20 miles between Los Angeles and the Wrightwood mountains. Mrs. Lawrence's Chevrolet demonstrated its economical operation over a course that included city traffic, country roads and mountain stretches along a circitous route rising from sea level to an elevation of 6,000 feet.

To win the event, the Chevrolet coach traveled 36.71 ton-miles to the gallon of gasoline, averaging 20.5 miles to the gallon for the 200 miles traversed. The total weight of the Chevrolet coach, with Mrs. Lawfour passengers, was 3,530 pounds. No oil and water were used during the run.

The economy test was staged under the supervision of the American Automobile Association, sanction number 2,306 and was limited to stock cars. Six classes of cars were represented among the 42 entries. The Chevrolet coah, with Mrs. Lawrence at the wheel, not only won first place in its class, but, in addition, won the sweepsstakes for all classes.

FARMERS TURNING TO LONG STAPLE COTTON

Auburn, Ala., March, 24—Special To satisfy market requirements farmers are making an effort to improve the quality of cotton produced on Alabama farms. The big demand, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is for cotton of one inch staple.

To meet this demand the experiment station at Auburn has been searching for a variety which is a high yielder of a staple of this length. In recent years variety tests in north Alabama have revealed that D. P. L. 4-8 is a leader in production and also produces the desireable staple. This variety has also been a leader in central Alabama variety tests but not in south Alabama where soil is infested with wilt.

Along with it the Cook 1627 meets the requirements and also is a high yielder. On sandy soil where wilt exists Cook 307-6 is a leader. Consequently county farm agents are emphasizing these varietys . If they can succeed in making them accepted varieties over the state millions of dollars will be added to the value of the cotton crop produced each year, said Mr. Lowery.

Already 6,000 bushels of the Cook 1627 variety have been placed among Colbert County farmers, a report from County Agent John Yarbrough reveals. Many of these were produced among the farmers within the county and have been exchanged among neighbors. Others have been shipped from outside growers.

Similar work is in progress with D. P. L. 4-8 variety inCalhoun, Etowah, St. Clair, Jackson, Madison, Lauderdale, and Franklin counties.

A few years ago the Franklin county farmers began growing D. P. L. 4-8 and are enthusiastic about it, County Agent J. D. Wood reports.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I, T. S. Johnson of Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama hereby certify that during the year of 1923 I was running a taxi in Clanton and on or about December 15th of that year I was hired by Walter Gillespie and three state law enforcement officers to drive them over across the Waxahatchie steel bridge into Beat 2 in Shelby County, Alabama, leaving my car near the Schwraeder old mill. These officers proceeded on foot on raid through the woods and I accompanied them (but not as an officer) to a point about five or six miles Southeast of Shelby postoffice near the mouth of Waxahatchie Creek and about one-thirty or two o'clock in the afternoon they came upon a large still in full operation.

This still was being operated by Richard Guin and Willie Carden. When we got up close enough to see the operators working at the still I stopped about sevnty-five or one hundred yards Southeast of the still and from that point I could plainly see the still and operators. The officers then separated for the purpose of surrounding the still and operators. Mr. Gardener, a state officer, went around and came up the branch on the east side of the still. Mr. Thompson, another state officer, closed in on the Southeast side of the still. Mr. Gillespie went around and closed in on the South side of the still and Mr. Dunn, another state officer, went around and closed in on the West side and flushed the operators at the still. One of the operators, Willie Carden, ran from the still going directly south to where Mr. Gillespie was standing. Mr. Gillespie arrested him. The other operator, Richard Guin was shot and fatally wounded directly on the opposite side of the still to where Mr. Gillespie was, and being in the position that I was, I say positively that I could and did see Mr. Gillespie all the time this raid was going on and I know positively that he did not shoot the Guin boy as he did not fire his gun a single time. Mr. Gillespie was in no way responsible for the shooting.

I am not making this statement to try to advance the political fortunes of anyone as I am not taking any public stand in politics but I am making it because I know it is the truth and I think that in justice to Mr. Gillespie the people of Chilton County should know the true facts in regard to that shooting, as I understand that it has been rumored over the county that he did the shooting. —Respectfully, T. S. Johnson.

WEST CHILTON

Farm work is moving on nicely here.

We doubt if anyone remembers it, but types made us say in our communication last week that to provide the rural school children with transportation facilities like those of the high schools would build up the moral of the pupils. No, our contention was to provide such transportation for the rural schools would be upbuilding to the morals, not the morals of the pupils. The two terms resemble very much but are different in meaning.

AUBURN DAIRY WORK IS BEING EXPANDED

Auburn, Ala., March, 24.—In the near future short course for farmers and those engaged in manufacture of dairy products will be offered at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The present plan is to offer the first short course in dairying during the winter of 1930-31.

Announcement of this was made by President Bradford Knapp and Prof. A. D. Burke, head of the dairy department, in connection with a statement on the general enlargement of the dairy work here. New and modern dairy equipment is being added, new buildings erected, and a larger program of service being planned in detail, they said.

Beggining with the 1930-31 session full-time students will have the opportunity of speciallizing in either dairy production or dairy manufacturing, Prof. Burke said. Graduate courses will also be offered.

One of the new buildings included in the enlargement program—a dairy barn—has been completed. It is of brick and concrete and contains stanchoins for 56 milking cows and space for a herd of 100 cows.

Meantime work is being pushed on the new animal husbandry dairy building which will complete a trio of large buildings on the agricultural campus. This new building will inclure a creamery with the most modern equipment for the manufacture of butter, ice cream, cheese, condensed milk, and for pdoducing market milk. The creamery will be operated as part of the course instruction work. Students will participate in the operation in order to get practical experience.

Plans for enlargement of dairy work at Auburn were announced a year ago by President Knapp. The aim is to develop the dairying as a major part of Alabama agriculture. It will be done along with cotton, feed crops, and other livestock which means an additional source of cash income.

TWO NEW FORDS

Announcement of two new Ford cars—a de luxe sedan and a de luxe coupe—is made by the Ford Motor Company.

The de luxe sedan is the two-window Fordor type with the distinctiveness of exterior appearance and interior trimming that marks the town sedan. At the same time its closed rear quarters give a striking individuality and afford privacy to the occupants. Among its refinements are arm rests for the rear seat, toggles and a flexible robe rail.

The de luxe coupe is designed for those who desire a personal car with a more select interior appearance than that of the standard coupe.

In both cars a choice of mohair or bedford cord upholstery is offered. Other features included in both cars are cowl lights, scroll design hardware and mohogany garnish mouldings on the doors and windows.

Mechanically these new Ford types are the same as the Model A cars. Furthermore they retain the lines and features of the improve body types recently introduced. Thesefeatures include the exposed metal parts of rustless steel, adjustable front seats and ample head room.

COLD STORAGE OF EGGS

Since there has been a great many inquiries with reference to further information on the cold storage of eggs, we are following suggestions of the district agents and giving you a letter summarizing the facts of this project.

1. Eggs should be stored when the local markets are less than 23c per dozen on strictly fresh eggs.

2. No person can ship eggs to storage without first making application to the County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent and securing permission to do so and being assigned a code number.

3. Every shipper must be a producer and shall only store eggs grown on his farm.

4. Egg cases must be new and be equipped with cup flats and gray or white fillers. Prices on these cases through the farm bureau are ranging from 44c in north Alabama to 48c in south Alabama. These cases can only be shipped in minimum lots of twenty-five and it requires about one week to get them.

5. Farmers must bill the cases properly, tag them properly and prepay the transportation charges to Birmingham.

6. Additional tags, pamphlets and other instructions may be sent out on short notice from this office.

7. The advance check of 20c per dozen will be mailed promptly after the 15th and 1st of each month to the County Farm Agent from which the eggs were shipped and you should se that this check if forwarded promptly to the members.

The egg situation this year is unusual and it is already predicted that there wil lbe two and one-half million cases more on storage June 1 than there was last year at that time. This simply means that we shall have to maintain the highest standards of quality to find a satisfactory sale at the end of the season and we sincerely hope that you will cooperate in every way possible.—Edward A. O'Neal.

The device by which an automobile is guided solely by means of tne spoken word is regarded as a new invention, although it is antedated by the back seat driver.—Hartford Courant.

FORDS OFFER VARIETY OF BODIES FOR FAMILY USE

"An interesting variety of cars for family transportation is offered in the line of improved Ford bodies," says Tom Littlejohn, local Ford dealer.

"The roadster, the coupe, the sport coupe and the convertible cabriolet all have their appeal, but it is in the larger cars that the average family is interested.

"The improved Tudor sedan is particularly appropriate for family use, especially for families in which there are small children for they can be placed in the rear compartment with perfect safety. The body has been lengthened two and a quarter inches and the additional space has been devoted to the rear compartment. Ample room for three persons and easier entrance around the folding front seats is provided.

"The Fordor, which comes in two-window and three-window types, possesses a new smartness and a new dignity. The new wide flowing fenders, the improved lines, the cowl finish strip of rustless steel and the flat rustless steel hub caps give it the beauty and charm of the large and expensive car.

"The town sedan is ideal for the family that desires distinctiveness, appearance and convenience of fine car construction. It has all the conveniences of the three-window Fordor, with many additional refinements. Cowl lights in conjunction with the new cowl strip of rustless steel add to its attractiveness.

"There is an arm rest on either side of the rear seat and a folding arm rest in the center. A flexible robe rail and toggle grips are among the refinements.

"For the family that enjoys open air riding, the newly designed phaeton offers dependable and economical transportation. Sides of this car have been raised an inch and a quarter and seats have been lowered so that occupants sit well down in the car.

"The top is of the quick-collopsing type and can easily be handled by one person. The windshield folds flat forward and the windshield wings fold over it."

FARM FACTS

More dairy cows are under-fed than over-fed.

Argentina is now the world's largest exporter of corn.

There is a proper time to turn under hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas. Information may be had from all county agricultural agents.

The movement of population from farms to cities and from cities to farms declined in 1929. Births on farms last year are estimated at 631,000 and the deaths at 281,000.

Baby chicks do a lot of growing in the first four weeks of their lives. Authorities say they double in size the first two weeks. Not satisfied with such a record they double in size the next two weeks if they get the right attention.

Soybean meal is used very little as a fertilizer in this country, but Asiatic countries use a great deal. For centuries soybean meal has been used on the sugar plantations in of Southern China, and its use gradually spread to plantations in Java and other tropical countries. It is also used in Japan and Manchuria.

For several months I have been tied up in the work of building our new Baptist Church at Thorsby. I was chosen as chairman of the Finance Committee in charge of this work, and it has taken a great deal of my time. We expect to have the building completed by the second Sunday in April.

"Then besides the church work I have my farming business to look after. So you see I have had my hands full. But after another month or six weeks I expect to be able to get out among the folks and my plans are to see every Republican voter in the County.

"I ask the voters to bear me in mind. Remember that I am in the race in dead earnest, and I will appreciate your vote and influence.—W. J. Billingsley.

ROW OVER MARBLES IS FATAL

Fort Payne, Ala., March 23.—Death had a hand in a marble game near here Sunday when a row between two boys was taken up between their fathers, who were themselves father and son. Jess McKinney, 58, was dead Sunday night and son, Marion McKenney, 26, was being held, charged with murder.

Jess McKinney, with several of his children, has been living at the house of his son, Marion, since the death of Mrs. Jess McKinney several months ago, neighbors said. Both men are farmers.

Sunday afternoon one of Jess's youngest sons and one of Marion's oldest began a marble game. A boyish argument arose and the older men became involved. Marion, it was reported, became enraged, grabbed an ax and crushed his father's skull.

The soviets have gone a step further than the doctrine of religious freedom. They are now advocating freedom from religion.

AN UNPLEASANT SUBJECT

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restless sleep, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in their children, can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that sure and harmless worm expellent, will make these symjtoms disappear. You can get White's Cream Vermifuge for 35 cents per bottle from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

Miss Josie Barefield of Marbury was in Clanton Monday in the interest of the new Marbury High School. Miss Barefield is now employed by the Gadsden Counay Herald, at Quincy, Florida. She is at her home in Marbury for a couple of weeks.

Uncle Dock Gentry, of Thorsby, was in Clanton Tuesday attending court. Incidentally, he was doing a little politicking on the side. Mr. Gentry is one of the Republican candidates for Commissioer of the Second District.

SINGING AT OAK HILL

Come to the big singing at Oak Hill Thursday night, the last Thursday night practice for the season. Come and make it the best we have had yet, as this will be the first at this place and the last for this season.—Akins Collins, Pres., E. L. Glasscock, Secy.

The city fire alarm machinery has been moved from the top of Upchurch Drug Store and placed on top of the Grover Walker Building. The latter is the building used as a city hall.

OVER A BILLION DEADLY GERMS IN A SINGLE DROP OF WATER

Germs are so small that there may be as many as one billion, seven hundred million of them in a drop of water. And just a few of these tiny germs, if they get into your blood trough a cut in your skin, may make you so sick you will be in bed for weeks—may cause the loss of a limb through blood poisoning—may even infect you with that most dreadful and fatal of diseases, lockjaw.

Just because you can see no dirt in a cut does not mean that it is clean. You cannot see germs. The only safe and sane thing to do, is to thoroughly wash every cut, no matter how small, with Liquid Borozone, to kill the germs, and then dust it with Borozone Powder, to hasten the healing. Liquid Borozone costs 30 cents, 69 cents, $1.20 and $1.50; Borozone Powder, 30 cents and 60 cents, and can be had at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

NEW RADIO HOUR ATTRACTS SPORT FANS

Nation's Most Famous Sports Champions Now on the Air

Annouced by no less a person that Graham McNamee, the radio hour of the Coca-Cola Topnotchers is said to be attracting large numbers of sports fans to Station WAPI every Wednesday evening at nine-thirty.

Each week a different sport celebrity is introduced to the radio audience by Grantland Rice, the noted New York sports editor, and while the unusual all-string dance music of the Coca-Cola Topnotchers is halted, giving the 31 musicians a chance to pause and refresh themselves, the liveliest sport topics of the day are discussed in a way that has made a real sporting event of these Wednesday programs.

Recently interviewed, Mr. Jones, local manager of the Coca-Cola bottling company, said that, by judging by public responses to the Coca-Cola Topnotchers, Graham McNamee feels his Wednesday evening audiences are growing as large as any of those he has addressed when covering the biggest sporting events.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temparary relief and may prove habit forming. The safe way to relieve constipation is with Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Upchurch Drug Company.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

M. D. FOSHEE CLANTON, ALA.

FROM W. H. GILLESPIE

Please allow me space in your paper to say to the people of Chilton County, that in making my announcement for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican primary, I did so after careful consideration. Realizing fully the great responsibility which would rest upon me if elected to that office. Having practically 14 years of hard training and experience as an officer, I believe that if elected I would be able and capable of running and administering the affairs of the Sheriff's office.

I served 4 years as a deputy sheriff in Chilton County, and practically 2 years as a deputy sheriff at Roebuck mines in Shelby County, during which time it was my duty to serve and execute all kinds of civil and criminal papers. I also served 8 years as a Federal Prohibition Agent, working for the Federal Government, during which time it was my duty to detect violations of the Federal Prohibition Laws and Internal Revenue Laws relating to intoxicating liquors, and to make arrests where such violations were being committed.

I believe that it is the duty of the Sheriff to see that all of our laws, both civil and criminal, are impartially and sensibly enforced. And, he should also use all of the ability that he has together with all of the means of his office to detect and prevent any and all kinds of crimes which might be committed against the laws of our country, for in that way only, can the lives, the homes, and the property of the people be protected, and their happiness made secure.

I will say further that I believe that it is a very important duty of a sheriff to promptly execute all legal, civil, or criminal writs or papers which might be placed in his hands or in his office. In other words, I believe that it is the duty of the Sheriff to see that all of our laws, both civil and criminal, are reasonably and sensibly enforced upon every person alike, regardless of who it might be, or regardless of what standing or position they might occupy in life, high or low, rich or poor. I believe that every person is and should be entitled to a square deal, and should have the same treatment at the hands of the officers and the law. And, if you elect me as your Sheriff, it will certainly be my policy at all times, so far as the Sheriff's Office is concerned, to see that every person shall be treated fairly and squarely and just alike.

In conclusion let me say, that after due consideration you see fit to give me your support, and elect me to the Sheriff's Office, I will certainly appreciate it. And right here, I will say that I do not know of any better way of showing my appreciation of your support and confidence, than to do my duty fearlessly and impartialy while in office. However, if after due consideration you see fit to give some one other than myself the nomination, then your choice in the primary will be mine in the general election.

Respectfully,
W. H. GILLESPIE.

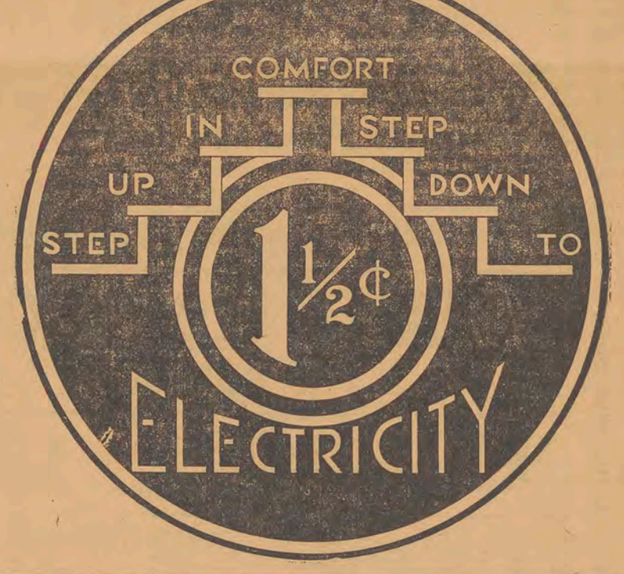
HOW COTTON CHAMPIONS MAKE THEIR CROPS

YEAR after year the cotton championship of your State is won by a farmer who fertilizes his crop with Chilean Nitrate of Soda. This doesn't just happen to be true. Chilean Nitrate has been the main reason for every cotton championship in every Southern state for five consecutive years.

Alabama Cotton Champion

FLOYD GIBBS of Boaz, Ala., won the Five Acre Cotton Contest, making 4150 lbs. lint on 5 acres (830 lbs. per acre). He used the "Make-Sure Method", 50 lbs. Chilean Nitrate with acid and potash at planting, then side dressing with 150 lbs. per acre Chilean Nitrate alone at chopping time.

Chilean Nitrate is the world's only natural nitrate fertilizer—not synthetic, remember. It speeds crop growth. Increases crop yield. Makes better quality ... always.



See your local fertilizer dealer. If he does not carry Chilean Nitrate of Soda he can easily get it for you.

Free Fertilizer Book

Our new book, "How to Fertilize Cotton," tells exactly how to use Chilean Nitrate. It gives all the facts. Free. Ask for Book No. 2, or tear out this ad and mail it with your name and address.

DEFECTS IN HARDWOODS CAUSED BY FOREST FIRES

Montgomery, Ala., March, 27—Forest fires are indirectly responsible for the great percentage of defects found in the stands of hardwood timber, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. When the protecting cover of bark is injured by fire, thus exposing the heartwood or spores of wood decaying fungi find lodgement thereon. Whore moisture is present, they will germinate and develop a mycelium which grows into wood. Certain enzymes are excreted which are capable of dissolving the basic structure of the cell wall. In some instances the action may be general, but, in many wood lots, it may be localized to small areas appearing on the cut timber as pockets or holes separated by partially decayed wood.

Conifers and a few deciduous trees are capable of producing good resinous substances when the sapwood and bark are injured, in quanties sufficient to prevent infection. The great majority of our most valueable hardwoods including the oaks, hickories, poplar and gum, however, do not possess this quality of self protection. If the tree is scorched by fire during its youth, the wound will heal over, and at maturity it will appear to be perfectly sound, although in reality it is a mere shell of bark and sapwood.

The amount of defect in standing hardwood timber varies considerably, being dependent on the species, early history of the stand, growing conditions and susceptibility to fungous attacks. It has been known to go as high as sixty per cent of the total volume of a stand. Absolute protection of the woodland from fires is essential to the successful production of sound hardwood timber.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

The day I chose to write my column this week was not a suitable time for standing on the corner. Tuesday was about the wildest spring day I have witnessed in a long time. The weather man sent a little of everything unpleasant in his line. I decided I had rather bundle up in my overcoat and take a little stroll to see what I could see.

When I got to walking I began to warm up and memories began to trickle through my mind. I headed down Second Avenue toward the cemetery. Don't know why, but I did. Here is the old Baptist Church lot. A few years ago I thought the old church would be replaced by some kind of a nice new business house. It hasn't happened yet. The old house is gone, but the lot looks worse than the old house. It is filled with a collection of old junked automobiles and various other things that ought to be somewhere else.

As I passed the neat office building and beautiful brick home of Dr. Arthur Johnson, I looked back about twenty-odd years and saw the two little cottages that occupied the place. Miss Martha Dupree and her mother lived in one of them and Mr. and Mrs. Denty lived in the other. Across the street is the homes of Mrs. Potts and Mrs. Jean Evans. They are old places, but are kept neat. The yards were always full of beatiful flowers. They will be again in a few weeks.

Second Avenue east from the business section of town is a beautiful vista of fine trees. Around the home of Uncle Billy Mullins they are plentiful, and give an atmosphere of calmness and serenity. A few modern touches as the years went by has kept the Mullins place from looking old. I believe it has a better appearance than it did when it was new. But why not? Uncle Billy himself is not even growing old.

The old Joe Foshee place is only a memory. Now it is occupied by two new bungalows, the homes of Mr. Prince, the telegraph operator, and Buck Gore, the corner storekeeper. Uncle Joe Foshee, the famous fiddler from Coosa, lived there for a long time. His residence was made out of an old church building, which I believe was the first Baptist Church built in Clanton.

Down on the east side of Uncle Billy's garden is the handsome home of his son J. Renfroe Mullins. It is one of the most beautiful places in Clanton. Next is the home of Dewey and Tom Rockett, on the old Chestnut property that used to be the Chilton County Fair Grounds. They are beautiful places.

The old Philips house still stands close to the sidewalk. I remember how I used to wonder at Mr. Phillips as he walked back and forth along the narrow porch, smoking a cigar. He was always kind and polite, greeting everyone who passed. Across the street is the old Curry house just as it was built about twenty-five years ago.

Miss Rena Rembert's place with the pear tree in the front yard still looks like it did in years long ago. I remember how the ripe pears used to fall on the sidewalk outside the yard fence, and were the prize of the first urchin who came along. Sometimes they didn't fall, but that made no difference to some of the kids. They got them just the same.

The old place of Uncle Junius down on the corner would never be recognized. Now it is the site of the beautiful home of Town Councilman and town drayman, Joe Franklin. The Millicans sold the property at auction a few years back, and since that time it has been made beautiful by Mr. Franklin. The neat rows of onions and other vegetables which Uncle Junius kept so carefully came back with a startling freshness in my memory. And the good old negro rolling his wheelbarrow to town and back.

The negro lodge hall stood on the corner. There was a stairway outside. At the top of the stairway the landing was sheltered by a little projecting roof. A nice place for a big wasp nest. Joe Robinson, Sam Kanjutzky and I were going fishing. We needed the wasp nest for bait. Sam said he would get it. His self assurance indicated he was not well acquainted with wasps. Before he got down the stairway he had learned something about them. I was afraid he would jump off and kill himself. We got the nest and Sam got stung.

Walked through the cemetery. Saw some signs of flower vandals. The flowers around Heath Jones' grave have been treated badly by someone. I wish people would leave the flowers in the cemetery alone. A flower is a little thing. But a flower that has been planted with tender care by the grave of a loved one means more than words can tell. One had as well break the tenderest cord of my heart as to molest a flower I planted by the grave of a friend.

As I looked over toward the Chilton County High School, I was attracted by the different appearance of the place. The campus shows that it is getting splendid attention. The building, and the whole place in general looks like somebody is staying there and taking an interest in it. My conclusion is that Prof Warr has done a good job of "selling" the school to the student body. Much of the improvement in the appearance of the building and grounds has been made by the boys and girls themselves. The best way to make a great school, in fact, I will say the only way, is to get the boys and girls to have the right kind of interest in and respect for it. Enthusiasm of teachers alone can not build a great and worth-while school.

The town of Clanton has just completed the building of a concrete walk from the front entrance of the building straight out to the street. This has been sorely needed for many years. Thanks to our city fathers for the gift. The Senior Class plans to erect an arch over the entrance from the street to this walk. The Class of 1930 want to leave some kind of a permanent sign that they were there. The plan of the pillars and arch is good. It will be a lasting monument to the class and a worthy adornment to the campus.

Personally, I think Prof. Warr is the right kind of a hustler. He is a builder. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club. The motto of Kiwanis is "We Build." In my opinion Mr. Warr has done more to stabilize the Chilton County High School than any man since McDonald. He now has plans ready to give the whole building a new coat of paint. This has been needed for years, and could have been done if somebody had been hustler enough to get it done. The school is out of debt, and as long as Warr is there it will stay out of debt. That is another good thing about his management.

By the cooperation of friends of the school with the teachers and the student body, I believe the progress of Chilton County High School in the last two years has been altogether wholesome and satisfactory. Improvements have been made, one after another. The school is growing better—and may it continue. We need a better school, and must have it, regardless. Some time right soon I expect to outline to my readers in detail a plan that has been thought out by Mr. Warr for the future of the school. It will work, and it will build out of the Chilton County High School such an institution as can not be excelled by any county high school in Alabama.

When I went to see "Betty Lou" last Friday night, I noticed how comfortable the new seats were. There is an item of something like $1,500 that has been added to the school in the past year. And remember it is all paid for. How was it done? I don't know; but I would guess that it was done because somebody was interested enough in the school to work and get it done.

Dr. Hyman and Reedie Taylor walked to the postoffice. They were discussing hard times. Doc got a letter, opened it, and there was enclosed a check for $60. As he came back up the street he had a big broad smile, and times did not seem so hard. Well, that is the way it goes. Little things sometimes make a big difference.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

This railroad and bus-motor transportation business is getting to be a bit too big for its breeches. At least its a lot bigger job to give the low-down on the situation than the POTTER thought it would be when he undertook the job. In the first place, inside information is hard to get, and even then it comes in in such small quantities that it is simply impossible to give the whole thing in a "nut-shell," so to speak.

Then, too, to go about getting figures from EVERY individual or corporation interested, would take too much time for us to be able to follow up last week's POT in the manner we promised. So the POTTER is taking the liberty of using a few figures given in by ONE of the railroad companies operating in our County, a few taken from the County tax books, some from the Town of Clanton's tax books—just here and there—wherever we can get information that is RELIABLE.

HERE GOES! In the first place, the POTTER wants it understood that we are not taking into consideration any local competition to railway haulage—that is, local trucks which may pick up a bit of change here and there by bringing in a small shipment now and then when they HAPPEN to be in the surrounding towns and cities. We expect to deal only with those who make a business of the transport and bus haulage work as their only reason for being here at all.

During 1929, three railroad companies operated within the confines of Chilton County—we give figures from only one. Just how many truck transport companies did business here during that year it is impossible to ascertain—yet we are giving figures on only one—the largest. Any other truck lines would be but a drop in the bucket alongside, little as they paid.

During 1929, this one railroad company paid Chilton County in all kinds of taxes, $32,561.00; they paid the Town of Clanton a license of $25.50, and taxes of $189.98. This gives a total of $32,776.48 that railroad paid out for taxes, etc., before they could turn a wheeel, locally. That is outside of any taxes or licenses they may have paid to other municipalities inside this County.

Too, a check-up on the transport lines show that during the same period of time they paid Chilton County NOT ONE CENT TAXES, not even license plates—NOTHING! The record DOES show that one company bought its license plates in Chilton County the year before, thus giving its home tax department the run-around, and then, by expert manipulation of technicalities in the law of the State, got out of paying the Town of Clanton a tax of $42.28 which was due to be paid here.

As said before, that's just one of each of the two hauling contestants here. That's taxes and licenses, alone. What of salaries paid out in this community by these two? The same railroad company had a monthly pay-roll in the Clanton district, of $2,783.03, or $33,396.36 for the year, besides what they paid out in salaries in other communities in the County, and besides what they paid for supplies such as ties, etc., locally, on which we cannot get figures.

The only salaries we can uncover that were paid out by transport lines are for a meager salary paid to bus station ticket agents, a total of which would be less than $500.00 for the entire year. Possibly the total of commissions on bus and truck haulage tickets would be a bit more than we have figures on, but you can take that as a fair amount for the TOTAL.

Now, folks, what about it? Even figuring low as we have, and comparing the figures, in one community in one County, how does it appear to you as to who is the builder and who the parasite? A total of $66,172.84 paid in hereabouts by the railroad for all expenses of one kind and another—not more than $500.00 paid by truck transport companies. Ridiculous as it may seem to make such a comparison yet, such is the case. WHO DESERVES YOUR PATRONAGE?

Consider, too, that the railroad company has been paying like amounts FOR YEARS, helping to build the very roads over which these parasites operate, and without which they would be unable to operate. If all the money paid in by truck transport companies to local offices should be paid in at one time, we couldn't build one bridge with it.

ROADS and SCHOOLS? The POTTER believes that "The Old Reliable" L. & N. Railroad Company alone has educated more Chilton County boys and girls, in one way and another, than all the truck transport companies in the State of Alabama have on their pay-rolls at this time. It is more than probable that the railroad company gave YOU the major part of YOUR education, directly of indirectly.

And, now, to the local merchants, again. If you believe that point which you have advanced so strongly in your late scrap—"help those who help you"—how can you have the nerve and face to patronage a PARASITE such as we have proved the motor transport line to be, and that in preference to an organization which has done pretty near everything to help you along except rock the cradle you slept in?

The POTTER'S reason for directly pointing out the merchants for the above question is that farmers, yet, as a general rule, are not so given to having their hauling done by the motor transport companies, while the merchants have had the biggest hand in making these companies what they are at present.

Is it fair? If it is fair competition, considering the facts and figures set out above, for you to patronize the motor lines which operate in direct competition to that agency which, for the most part, built your good roads and modern schools, then you have no kick coming if your patrons turn to buying everything from toothpicks to tractors from outside sources, chain stores, mail order houses.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company has already been FORCED to take several passenger trains off the local runs, according to statements made to the Public Service Commission, on account of a lack of patronage. Where did that patronage go? The fast-growing privately owned automobile usage took a large part of that away, but it is very significant that not one train had been taken from the local schedule until after the Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway was built, thereby making it possible for the bus lines to operate their busses.

Let's don't be like the axe that begged a handle from the tree (in the fable) and then cut the tree and the rest of the forest. "Don't bite the hand that's feeding you!" Don't turn from the giant who has carried your loads all these years, to a half-baked snip, so to speak, that raises its head at this time and calls the grizzly old giant a slow, plodding, obsolete type of carrier!

Think a minute. Suppose our railroads should be removed from the County, taking away with them the thousands of dollars they pay in every year, and taking away, too, their safe, solid, dependable service, what would happen? Do you think trucks could take their places? No! Before many days, should such a thing happen, you could feel the false foundation the parasites are attempting to build up, as it crumbled and gave down under the strain.

In closing, the POTTER would like to leave these parting words of exhortation which have been proved time and agin: If you would continue to build, your need is a BUILDER! A reliable foundation is indispensable! A reliable cornerstone you MUST HAVE, or else your structure is unstable, and certain to fall.

Perhaps the treatment we have given this subject is not up to the standard you expected from all the blow we have been making about it, but with the meager information we have been able to gather, we have done our best.

And, if we have sowed the seeds which will cause you to think—just THINK—we know the good sense of our readers will cause them to see the situation and feel its importance aright. Once you have THOUGHT and REALIZED—looked into the future, and toward the well-being of your own community's structure, we are quite certain that your decision will be right, and that support and patronage given where it rightly belongs. HELP THOSE WHO HELP YOU!—"JACK".

BEHIND THE FARM BOARD'S POLICY

A private statistical service furnishes this information and inference about the wheat situation:

It is reported that shipments of wheat from North America between the beginning of the 1929-'30 crop year on July 1, last, and February 24 totaled about 212 million bushels as compared with 394 million bushels a year ago and about the same amount in 1927. Europe's takings from our market declined abruptly and this seems to be equally true of their importations from the Argentine and from Australia. Within recent weeks the exports from North America have declined to the smallest volume for any similar period since 1910. This general situation suggests that quite possibly Europe has been staying out of the market, has not yet satisfied its requirements. And that, therefore, there is a possibility that rather than there having been an artificial character to the market because of price fixing at too high levels, there may have been attempts to force liquidation at low levels. To the extent that this has been prevented by activities of our farm board, it may prove a later stimulant to the wheat market and of a very decided benefit to the American farmer.

The inference that Europe is bound to come into the market for its supplies in the near future and thus to boost prices may be optimistic But it was this view of the situation, with a European boycott of North American wheat, and the belief that the depression was temporary, that led to avowedly emergency action of the farm board in attempting to tide the wheat farmers over until normal conditions should return.—Kansas City, Mo. Star.

Now that Germany has accepted the reparations settlement and Babe Ruth has his salary question settled we ought to have a little peace of mind for a while.

American wealth, it appears, did not grow fastest between 1912 and 1928, but in the period 1900-1912. Which reminds us that we heard a man say last week that the World War made the United States rich. However, we are now incomparably the richest nation on the earth and richer than we have ever been. And therefore the most envied people in the world, and the particular target of those who would plunder us—in war or in peace—W. G. Sibley in Chicago Journal of Commerce.

INDIAN DANCES ARE VERY IMPRESSIVE

There is nothing so impressive to the avereage American and especially one who lives in a section of the country where he rarely ever sees the redskin, as the Indian dances which are so well known in the west and especially in the soothwest. Indian celebrations in New Mexico are said to be unsurpassable in impressiveness anywhere in the world and they date back to pre-historic times. An example of these dances and their significance is to be found in the current issue of the National Republic in an article entitled "The Dance of the Redskin," written by Mr. Louis H. Warner, chairman of the Pueblo lands board, and a student of Indian customs and Indian traditions and history. In writing of these dances Mr. Warner says in part:

"As Santa Fe is different, so is New Mexico unique in its Indian dances, church ceremonials and historical fiestas or pageants. Both the Indian and the Spaniard throughout the past and their descendants in the present have been in accord in their retention. From the very beginning of our knowledge of either has this been so. The earliest recitals of Spanish exploration in the Southwest refers to the Indian dance. Where and when these Indian dances originated no one knows. That they are very old is without question. Our present conception of the dances makes the word a misnomer. Those of the Indian are religious in their nature. The name 'ceremonial' would be more appopriate unless we keep before us this distinction. Whatever anyone may say, the Southwest Indian is, and always has been, deeply religious. His ways and ours may be different, but the fact remains. His gods have been nature and the elements; not such a bad thing to look up to after all. To them he appealed and his appeal took the form of dances and ceremonials. The sun gave them warmth; the rain cloud gave the water to them for his stock and his crop. So one might go on. All the elements were appealed to for this or for that favor. Back of them all was a creator.

"No other state can boast of an Intertribal Ceremonial like that of Gallup. This is an all Indian affair which lasts three days. This was the eighth year of its celebration. No white man can participate in its sports or dances, nor can he join in the exhibit or handicap. It is of the Indian for the Indian and by the Indian. It is in no sense money-making. Gallup has the only all Indian performance. This year I witnessed one evening's dances in the company of a man who had been in most parts of the world. He told me not once but often in the course of the evening, that he had never seen the equal. More, so thrilled was he, that he flatly refused to see the performance the next night that was expected to be even better. He preferred to retain the picture as he had it than take a chance of it not being changed. I did go the next night. Sometimes during the evening I wished I had not. A climax once reached cannot be again attained. Gallup is the strategic center for such a performance. It should be encouraged."

EFFORT AND DISCIPLINE

To me it seems particularly muddle-headed for the people who are going to such lengths in freeing children from discipline, to be stressing creative effort at the same time. Creative mediocrity is no panacea for what ails the world or the individuals in it. The technique through which creative effort rises above mediocrity is achieved through the sternest kind of discipline—in doing for long periods something quite uninspiring and unenjoyable. The idea of discipline is fundamental to any satisfying creative work of an adult, and the attitude and atmosphere conducive to such work does not seem likely ever to come from the eternal physical activity of the new school, which is a result of freeing the legs, the arms, the larynx of every child.—Edna Yost in The Forum.

WISHES EVERYBODY WOULD SUBSCRIBE

One subscriber of The Union-Banner has expressed a wish that everybody who enjoys reading The Union-Banner would subscribe for it. We do too, friend. In that case, we would have one hundred per cent representation in the homes of the county.

That reminds us of what another friend of the paper said some months ago: "My paper comes to my box on Thursday, and I am usually so busy that I don't get to read it. When I come home at night I ask for my Union-Banner, and my wife informs me that a neighbor sent his little girl to borrow it, and hasn't brought it back yet. Chilton Wins Two Games

On Friday afternoon C. C. H. S. baseball team defeated Montevallo to the score of 11 to 9, on the local diamond. There were quite a few errors at the beginning of the game, but both teams tightened up in the last inning. Jack Edgar had the Montevallo boys baffled during the first five innings, but weakened in the sixth, and was relieved by 'Dutch' Nivens, who did some fine pitching. Robinson, Simms, and Cox played a good game. Henderson starred for Montevallo, getting three hits. Johnson led in hitting for the local boys, getting two hits.

On Saturday afternoon they met and defeated the Elmore County lads by the score of 6 to 2. From the start our boys showed the spirit that they intended to be the winners, and later proved to be. Rufus Brown did the hurling, with Robinson doing the catching for our boys. The entire team played a good game. We have a good coach and a good team; so come out and support us.

Valedictorian Chosen

The valedictorian for the Senior Class every year is chosen from among those who make the highest yearly averages for the four years, which they spend in high school. The regulation is they must have attended this school for that length of time. The three making the highest averages for the four years in which they attended this school were: Zebbie Gray, with an average of 87.75; Vivian Gray, with an average of 88.16; and Nelson Parrish with an average of 92.4. Nelson Parrish is declared valedictorian, and Vivian Gray, salutatorian. These averages were found by dividing the average for each semester by two, and then dividing the total number of averages by sixteen.

C. C. H. S. Gets Paved Walk

As a capitalization of the efforts of Mr. Warr and the City Council, we now have a beautiful paved walk from our front steps to the street. It has improved the appearance of the building and grounds to an astonishing extent and we are justly proud of it. The members of the Council have shown their willingness to cooperate and help us in any way they can. They want us to have a beautiful campus just as bad as we want to have one. The example of what the Council has done inspires us with dreams of other contingent improvements. We have been given a good starting point which lends a two-fold enthusiasm to projects for the future development of our campus.

Bettie Lou a Success

Every available seat was filled Friday night by those anxious to see "Bettie Lou." Judging from the favorable comments we are sure that the play was enjoyed by all who came to see it, as well as all those who composed the cast. If you did not see Janice Danforth in the roll of "Bettie Lou" cutting paper dolls, and Miss Wells as a feather-brained society woman, you missed a most enjoyable treat. Mr. Walker and Miss Clay played stella parts also. The chorus girls added to the beauty and grace upon which eery musical comedy depends.

We wish to thank all who were kind enough to help out in securing stage equipment. To the business men who purchased advs., we are heartily grateful. Total door receipts were $116. After all expenses were paid the senior class received $46, which is to be applied for the building of the senior class memorial.

C. C. H. S. BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Below is given schedule of games to be played by Chilton County High School's baseball team this spring. It includes 18 games, with some of the best competition obtainable. JR. III OCCUPATION CLASS ENTERTAINS TEACHERS

One of the most delightful social affairs of the season was given Wednesday evening, March 19, 1930, when the Jr. III Occupation Class under the supervision of Miss Inez Perry entertained the teachers of C. C. H. S. with a formal dinner in the home economics department of the school.

St. Patricks Day idea, with the color scheme of yellow and green was carried out through the five course dinner. Yellow and green candles and buttercups along with the other decorations made the table one of beauty. The dinner was served in a very charming manner by Misses Evelyn Maddox and Flora Jones.

Miss Margaret Jones of the Jr. III Class was jusst the type of hostess to make the dinner a complete success. The guests were: Prof. and Mrs. L. C. Warr, Coach and Mrs. Walter Green, Misses Bernice Williams, Virginia Murphy, Nelle Wells, Annie Laurie Clay, Edna Cofield, Mrs. Henry Lyon and Mr. Horton Walker.

EVIE LOUISE DOBBS

Miss Evie Louise Dobbs, age 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs, of Mineral Springs, died Monday night about 8:30 at the home of her parents. She had been ill for several weeks with pneumonia.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby at the Mineral Springs church, after which burial was made in the Robinson cemetery, Mell Martin in charge.

The young lady is survived by her father and mother, one sister, Mass Gladys Dobbs, and one brother, Euell Dobbs.

Louise was a student of the Jemison high school, where she would have graduated next year. She was a lovely young lady, much admired by her many friends and associates. Her death has brought a dark shadow of grief into the hearts of her immediate family, as well as to the many others who knew her and loved her devotedly.

There is nothing strange in the fact that the modern girl is a "live wire." She carries practically no insulation.

A. B. Baxley of Calera was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. He was in attendance at Circuit Court.

Horace W. Davis, cashier of the Bank of Verbena, was here Tuesday afternoon on business for his bank.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

CHRIST'S APPEAL TO THE WORLD

There are many personages in the history that really did not appeal to us. There are some who have won great battles. There are those who have worn golden crowns. There are those who have written great poems There are those who have painted great masterpieces. There are those who have built great tunnels, great bridges to span great rivers. There are those who have been great orators, great poets and great historians. But that does not appeal to people. All the great moral intellectual fiber in the world cannot appeal to the people.

I want to speak to you this morning on Christ's appeal to the people of the world. He makes the greatest and strongest appeal because of His deep humility. He emtied Himself of Himself and took upon him the form of a servant and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. He slept on the cold dark mountain /side with a stone for His pillow and the clouds of Heaven for his blanket. He no doubt walked with sore feet to lots of places hungry for good nourishing food to eat. He was rebuffed, misunderstood, and yet He has made the appeal to men that no one else has ever made.

As an infidel once said, "Truly He must have been the son of God." Remember the Roman centurion after His crucifiction, an dwhile He was still hanging on the tree of Calvary, said, "Truly this man is the son of God." Christ appeals to all Christendom, all men everywhere. He appeals to little children. In His earthly ministy He apealed to the little children and as they came forward to Him and got into His arms, and He said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingrom of heaven." In His appeal to little children His kindness and gentleness of manner was a great blessing and benediction to them.

He appealed to Matthew a tax gatherer. Matthew was sitting at the receipt of custom collecting duties on imports before they could go any farther. So here on the shore of the sea of Galilee in the cooperate limits of Capernaum Christ passed and called Matthew from the position of a despised tax gatherer to a follower of Him by saying, "Matthew follow me." Matthew at once arose and followed Him. Then again we find Him calling another tax-gatherer who may have been a partner of Matthew in the buisness. Christ was passing through Jericho and Zaccheuss a tax gatherer climbed up into a sycamore tree to see Him as He passed, he being low of statute would otherwise be unable to see Him because of the press.

Christ appealed to Zaccheus by saying, "Zaccheus, come down, for to-day I must abide at thy house." Zaccheus moved by Christ addressing him by his name and speaking kindly and affectionately to one who was neglected by his fellowmen and perhaps many times by his loved ones, hastened down and received Christ joyfully. Christ certainly appealed to the multitudes out there on the plains of Gennessaret, no doubt many of them sick, weak, discouraged, misunderstood. He preached all day to them while they listened eagerly and intently. They did not leave Him even though the sun began to hide behind the western hills of Galilee. There was no appeal to them beyond His words and loving presence. There was no appeal to call them away from the teachings of this great Master among men.

He appealed to lepers. One day as Christ was going through the country a leper away out in the field, outcast from home and loved ones came running towards Christ saying, "If thou wilt thou canst make me clean." Christ reached out his hand and touched the leper and cleansed him saying, "I will, be thou clean."

Christ appealed to poor sinful people. For instance think of the poor sinful woman of Capernaum. Read the narrative very carefully and you will find that Simon, a bigoted "Pharisee had invited Jesus to his house to dine, the motive I am not to question nor to judge. I see a poor sinful woman of the alley coming up to Simon's house. She is wearing a torn shawl and dress, and worse than her outward and personal appearance she has a stained and torn life. She had heard of Christ's entering Simon's house. Yes, He of whom she had heard so much and no doubt had already seen Him. She was refused admittance in the house of luxury where Christ now sat as a guest.

I see her as she creeps back to her old haunts of sin, great tears rolling down her cheeks. But Christ appeals to her so she comes back and creeps in the open door and falls at Christ's feet in penitence washing his feet with her tears. She then kisses his feet still begging mercy and forgiveness. Christ in His great love and mercy forgave her in such words as these: "Thy sins which are many are forgiven thee. Step out of sin into my kingdom."

When Christ went to Cauernaum on another occasion we find that He appealed to the people so that when He went to Peter's house it soon became so full that there was not even any standing room. Four men who were no doubt standing out in the yard went out into the country and brought their afflicted friend and sought means to bring in unto Jesus to receive a blessing. This was acomplished by the men going upon the housetop and letting the man down through the tiling into the midst of Jesus. Christ seeing their faith said to the man, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." Then Christ in answer to their rebuff and accuation of the Pharisees that He blasphemed in that God alone can forgive sins, Jesus said, "Whether is easier, to say, 'Thy sins be forgiven thee' or to say, 'Rise up and walk?' "

Sometimes we think that the church has lost its message, does not appeal to men. No one can say that Christ does not appeal to the church, He is its head. He is the corner stone, the foundation of the church. Just think of Christ's appeal to Spurgeon, Gladstone, David Livingston, George Washington, Woodrow Wilson Fannie Crosby and hundreds of others. Christ appeals to tired and weary souls. Do you ever try Him? He appeals to us in such words as these: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Look unto me, and be ye saved all ye ends of the earth for I am God and there is none besides Me. I, if I be lifted up will draw all men unto me. All that the father hath given me come unto me and him that cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out."

TO HELP FRIENDSHIP SINGERS FOURTH SUNDAY P.M. IN APRIL

At a meeting of the Poplar and Maple Springs singers at the former place last Sunday afternoon, it was decided that no singing would be held at Poplar Springs the fourth Sunday in April, inasmuch as the annual Easter singing would meet there the Sunday before. Instead all the singers of those places who can will meet with the Friendship class which weets at that time.

So all singers and lovers of music remember the fourth Sunday in April and come to Friendship in the afternoon and help in the singing.

REVIEW

GOLDEN TEXT—Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus the Savior.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Savior.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—He Went About Doing Good.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The King Serving.

Since the lessons of the quarter are bound together by the threefold unity of one book, one theme, and one person, the best method of review for young people and adults is to present the book of Matthew as a whole, and each lesson in its relation to Matthew's central purpose. The central theme is Jesus Christ, the King, the fulfiller of the Messianic hope.

Lesson for January 5.
God entered into convenant with David concerning the Kingdom (II Sam. 7:8-16). Christ's genealogy shows His legal right to the throne of David (1:1-17). The Messiah was not only said to be the seed of the woman (Gen. 3:15) and the son of a virgin (Isa. 7:14), but the mighty God (Isa. 9:6). Jesus Christ, the King, was begotten of the Holy Ghost and born of Mary, thus becoming Immanuel (Matt. 1:23, cf. Isa. 7:14).

Lesson for January 12.
The King entered upon His official work by being baptized. Christ's baptism was His act of consecration to the task of saving His people through the sacrifice of Himself upon the cross. Having received the official approval from the open heavens, the King went forth to the wilderness to meet and overcome the devil (Heb. 2:14). His victory demonstrated His ability to accomplish the work of redemption.

Lesson for January 19.
The voice of John the Baptist being stilled, the King becomes His own herald. His message was the same as John's, namely, "the kingdom of heaven at hand," which means the Messianic earth rule of Jesus Christ. He called helpers to His side and went through Galilee preaching with triumphant success.

Lesson for January 26.
This lesson shows the characteristics and responsibilities of the subjects of the kingdom, the beatitudes showing the characteristics, and salt and light the responsibilities. The life and testimony of the disciples are to light up the darkness of the world and preserve it from decay.

Lesson for February 2.
This lesson displays the principles which are to control the lives of the subjects of the kingdom. They should live a life of prayer, putting their trust in the Heavenly Father for temporal blessings. Spiritual affairs are to be first.

Lesson for February 9.
The subjects of the kingdom should be free from censorious judgments, be on the lookout for false teachers, avoid empty profession, and obey the words of Christ, the King.

Lesson for February 16.
In the performance of mighty works the King demonstrated His ability to adminster the affairs of the kingdom. He showed His power over the chief foes of mankind—sickness, sin, satanic power, death, sorrow, and storms.

Lesson for February 23.
The kingdom was to be propagated by sending forth twelve men to preach the gospel of the kingdom. Their mission was authenticated by supernatural deeds.

Lesson for March 2.
In the propagation of the kingdom, violent opposition arose, resulting in the plan to kill the King. Opposition will be experienced by all who go forth in Christ's name.

Lesson for March 9.
The parables display the admixture of moral and spiritual conditions in the world between Christ's crucifixion and second coming. The parabolic method of teaching makes clear the truth to those who love it, but conceals it from those who do not.

Lesson for March 16.
The parables of the wheat and tares, mustard seed and leavened meal, show the outward growth and inner decay of the work inaugurated by Christ in the interval between His crucifixion and second coming.

Lesson for March 23.
Though rejected by the nation, the King continued His ministry of healing and teaching.

Straightning the Kinks

The kinks and tangles in our lives would straighten out wonderfully if we would let them come oftener under the influence of the calm, clear life of Jesus.—Presbyterian of the South.

Christians

The young Christian thinks himself little; the growing Christian thinks he is nothing; but the mature Christian knows that he is less than nothing.—John Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Harton of Montgomery spent the past week end with friends in Clanton.

the JOY of LIVING is founded on Good Health

Your blood should contain 5 million red-cells to every cubic millimeter.

Your joy may depend upon rich, red-blood-cells

A HEALTHY body is vigorous, strong and sound. It is man and woman's greatest asset. It demands that the red-blood-cells shall not be decreased in number.

The red-blood-cells are its workers—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It promotes healthy body building. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

You will be delighted with S.S.S. blood-building and tonic effects. Take at mealtime. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

STATE CAPITOL News

An experiment of statewide interest in boll weevil control will be tried by the State this summer, with the launching of an aerial attack upon the weevil at the state prison farm at Atmore. Airplane dusting with calcium arsenate, which has already been resorted to extensively in the Mississippi Delta section, will be tried at Atmore and the result will be watched with general interest. The plane to be used is a state-owned military plane and will be sent to Talulah, Louisiana to be equipped with the dusting aparatus. Dusting of the Atmore crop will begin about July 1st, and will be under supervision of Dr. J. M. Ribertson, professor of entomology at Auburn. It is estimated that five to seven applications will be necessary. The apparatus will permit release of the calcium arsenate dust at the will of the operator, and traveling at a speed of 80 miles an hour a cloud of dust is released which will cover a path 250 feet wide across the field each trip. This method of control has been tested at the Federal experiment station in Louisiana and found to be both economical and practical, it is stated. The plane dusting is one of a number of experiments to be conducted by the State Department of Agriculture, the results to be carefully tabulated and passed on to farmers.

Partial reports from the "oportunity schools" for adults for the first two weeks of the short spring campaign against illiteracy show that 3,792 have been enrolled. However, only ten counties and thirteen towns and cities have rendered reports, and the number is expected to be largely increased with more complete reports. Informal reports of individuals being taught by friends in addition to the instruction in clasrooms.

L. A. Duncan, director of the Auburn extension service, in a general letter to members of the extension service staff, has called on the extension workers over the state to cooperate with the County Superintendents of Education in every possible way in the fight against illiteracy.

Membership of the American Legion in Alabama is growing rapidly and the number of paid up members is well ahead of the figure for the same date last year, according to information from headquarters of the organization here. On March 15th the membership was 6,204 against 4,849 for the same date last year, an increase of 1,355. A new post has been recently organized at Clio, and another post reorganized at Lineville, making a total of 88 active posts in the State.

Escambia County, during the past year completed a school building program costing $203,215.37, according to figures from a recent issue of the Alabama School Journal. Of this amount $188,409.27 was spent for new brick buildings, and $14,805.40 for equipping them. A total of fifty-six classrooms and six auditoriums were constructed. Escambia needs only two more buildings to have a complete school system, with an accredited high school within the reach of every boy and girl in the county. In five years time this progressive county has reduced the number of one-teacher schools from 32 to 16, establishing an enlarged transportation service of 40 busses with 1,600 passengers, and increased high school attendance by 61 per cent.

THE DEATH OF W. J. MARTIN

We thank our friends and kindred dear,
For the lovely service rendered here;
We know not the day or hour,
When God shall take another flower.

This life of our loved one we cherrished so dear,
Had bloomed on this earth for 60 odd year;
But God called him home, and we know not why,
To reign with Him forever on high.

We shill miss him but "alas,"
He has fought his battle as time has passed;
His dear mother has passed on,
Some twelve years before her son.

We hope to meet them on yonder shore,
To dwell with them forever more;
He leaves a widow and one child,
To mourn him here a very short while.

A father, brothers, and sister too,
Who love him as all fathers and kindred do;
Will try to look up and trust God for faith,
To meet him at the pearly gate.
—By a niece, Ruby Northcutt.

MRS. YANCEY M. KELLEY DIES

Mrs. Emily Elsworth Kelley died Monday, March 24th at 1:30 p.m., at the family home in Birmingham, after a lingering illness and a brave fight against a malignant and insidious disease, that is no respecter of persons and for which science, medical or otherwise, has so far found neither a cause nor a remedy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kelley and their little daughter Audrey, have many friends in Thorsby where for several years both were in Thorsby Institute. Mr. Kelley as a student and Mrs. Kelley as a teacher and for some time served as associate principal.

She was a woman whom to know was to love—her sterling New England Christian character and kindly helpful ways, her dignified manner and cheery smile emanating from her great, loving heart made her life a blessing to all who came in contact with her, enriching their lives and inspiring the good within them.

The writer has in his possession part of a sermon preached at the funeral of his grandfather on the subject: "The Posthumous Influence of a Righteous man." We think the same may be applied to a woman. Christ said: "He that liveth and believeth in me shall never die." Spiritual life is manifest daily in the ideas and ideals of Christian men and women, and those of us who have tried to keep in step and fellowship with such people and live up to what they expect of us will be kept too busy trying to do right to go far wrong.

Mrs. Kelley was a teacher of rare qualities; she not only helped students over hard places but inspired effort in themselves to conquer difficulties. She was humanly sympathetic and abundantly cheerful, and her delightful presence will be sorely missed.

We visited Mr. and Mrs. Kelley in their New Englind home in Connecticut, where their environment was among her people, whose family connections ran back almost to the days of the advent of the Mayflower. They are of the sturdy Christian stock that helped to lay the foundations of liberty in America. Mr. Kelley being of Southern blood and birth, found the New England climate too rigorous and they soon returned and settled in Birmingham.

After a short funeral service conducted by Rev. E. W. Butler in Thorsby Wednesday, the body of Mrs. Kelley was taken to the boyhood home of her husband, near Andalusia, Alabama, for burial in the family lot.

Two of Mrs. Kelley's brothers and a sister-in-law, all from Connecticut, attended the funeral service in Thorsby, after which they took a train for return to the East.

Mr. Kelley and their 5-year old daughter, Audrey, and Rev. E. W. Butler, accompanied the body of Mrs. Kelley to its final resting place.

Next Sunday night at the Congregational church, following the Christian Endeavor meeting, there will be a special music service in connection with an Illuminated Cross. This service will begin at 7:15 p.m.

The play, entitled "Daddy Longlegs" given last Saturday night, at Helen Jenkins Hall by a company composed of Thorsby Institute faculty, assisted by a few other townspeople, was a very enjoyable entertainment, and it is to be regretted that the audience was not larger.

The story was well portrayed, each character actor or actress had evidently been well chosen and well trained under Miss Marguerite Davison. Since the names were all given in last week's issue of The Union-Banner, it will not be necessary to repeat them here. But one seldom sees an ameteur play in which all the parts are so well taken or which runs eo smoothly from start to finish as did "Daddy Longlegs."

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell had as their dinner guests last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen, Rachel and Jack.

Mrs. C. S. Howard and daughter, Ella, spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Dr. N. I. Wood, who has been associated with his brother, Dr. S. C. Wood, for some time, has with his wife, returned to their home in Texas. It is understood that the climate does not agree with them.

Mr. M. J. Soberg is on the sick list this week, also Mrs. George Mims.

Mr. J. H. Goddard has been suffering intensely for the past few days with what appears to be inflamatory rhumatism in his right arm, which is so swollen and painful that he cannot use it, and not being left handed, he has difficulty in feeding himself.

Mr. Wilbur Peterson, a graduate of Thorsby Institute in the class of 1923, was a recent visitor at the school. It was pleasant to meet him again and also to meet his wife, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

On Thursday of this week Dr. W. A. Kedzie, newly elected Secretary of the Congregational Foundation for Education, expects to visit Thorsby Institute. This will be his first visit at the school.

The Christian Life Conference for Young People will begin a week from Friday night. A varied and interesting program has been planned.

On April 26th the Helen Keller Literary Society will present a Chinese Operetta which is different from any ever given at Thorsby Institute. It is entitled "China Silk," and will be a full evening's program. Everyone is urged to come.

CULVER REUNION

Sunday March, 23rd marked the 70th milestone of Mr. Greer Culver of near Billingsley, Alabama.

Those who know this remarkable man of seventy (and there are many) will say that he might well be congratulated on his seemingly good health and the youth that still hover around him.

Speaking for myself and others too, let us assume that it was a most enjoyable occasion for Mr. Culver and for that matter, all attending. It was planned as a sort of surprise among Mr. Culver's children that they should all pay their respects on that day—feast made merry. And it was a feast,—a bountiful dinner indeed. Each child shared the pleasure of contributing to the bounty.

We hardly think that Mr. Culver was aware of the fact at the time, but while he was busily enjoying the repast set in his honor, one of the sons was waiting across the table with a kodak, dinner being served out of doors, for Mr. Culver to pose in the way he wanted him. We hope the picture will show how much he was getting out of it.

Those participating in the pleasure were: Mr. and Mrs. Mack Culver of Clanton, Mrs. Decie Culver Popwell and family of South Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Culver and family Mr. and Mrs. Watson Culver, Mrs. Bethea Culver Foshee and family, Mrs. Clarence Culver Williams and family of near Billingsley, and Mr. Justus Culver recently of Hot Springs, Ark., this being the last of the immediate family. Among the others there were: Mr. and Mrs. Greer Culver and Mrs. Gardner of Clanton, Mrs. Moore and daughter, Miss Frances, of South Clanton, and Mr. and Mrs. George Tippett and parents of Clanton paid a short visit in the afternoon.

The writer joins in wishing that Mr. Culver will see many more such birthdays.—One of the Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt went to Jordan Dam Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Parrish. They were accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Cagle and Miss Ethel Cagle of Mitchell Dam.

J. W. McEathern, manager of Hill Grocery Company, in Clanton, was a business visitor to Birmingham Menday.

ENGINEER HERE FOR INSPECTION HOSPITAL SITES

Official Visits Made To Clanton, Thorsby and Jemison Last Friday

Mr. L. A. Warren, engineer of the United States Veterans Bureau, from Washington, D. C., and Mr. Calvert, divisional representative of the Veterans Bureau for Alabama, were in Clanton last Friday, making official inspection of sites offered for the location of the new million dollar Veterans Hospital to be located in Alabama.

Investigations were made of a proposed site at the Jasper Dennis farm one mile south of Clanton. Also a visit was made to Lomax, where a large tract of land has been offered for the hospital. The engineers arrived here about eleven o'clock last Friday morning. Before coming to Clanton they looked at sites at Jemison and Thorsby.

Upon arriving at Clanton they were joined by a delegation of citizens who went with them and showed them over the different properties proposed for location of the hospital.

At noon the party had dinner at the Wilson Hotel, after which a trip was made to Lay Dam. Superintendent, S. R. Powers, carried the engineers through the big power plant.

The engineer did a lot of looking and listening, as the many advantages of Clanton were told to him by enthusiastic citizens. He did very little talking, however. Although we did not expect him to express himself, yet we believe we could discover that he was very favorably impressed with Clanton's situation.

CLANTON POLICE RECOVERS STOLEN GOODS

Chief of Police, John Boockholdt, reports that he has in his possession about $200 worth of stolen dry goods, of which he wishes to find the owner. The goods were left at a negro house near the city well on last Tuesday night.

The negro woman said the goods were left there by a white man driving a green Chevrolet coming from toward Birmingham. He told the negroes he was going to the river on a fishing trip and feared his things would get wet. He asked the negroes to keep them and he would get them on his return from the river. The negroes suspicioned some crooked work and called the police. They told their story and asked the police to take charge of the goods.

Chief Boockholdt will hold the goods in the hope that the owner may find out where they are and come after them.

NEGROES HIT AND RUN BUT BROUGHT BACK

Quick action on the part of Mr. Van Smith, of South Clanton, last Friday afternoon, brought two negroes back to answer for their blame in an accident after they had hit and run away.

"Doctor Bill" Williams was driving down the highway in his faithful old buggy. As he went up the hill by Mr. Smith's store, two negroes in a Ford car of ancient vintage ran up behind him and gave his buggy a severe bump. The buggy was badly wrecked, and "Doctor Bill" was shaken up considerably.

The driver of the car backed up from the wreck, pulled around, and proceeded to ball the jack down the road. Efforts of a group of spectators at Smith's store to stop them were unsuccessful.

Acting very quickly, Mr. Smith secured his car and began a chase of the old Ford. He overtook it about four miles down the highway. The negroes were forced to stop and return to the scene of the wreck. They were given to understand that they could settle with "Doctor Bill" for the damages they had caused, or they would be brought to jail.

They agreed to have the buggy repaired and to give "Doctor Bill" $20 dollars in cash. After they had made satisfactory settlement they were allowed to proceed on their way.

J. M. Smith of Thorsby was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds of Waugh, Alabama, spent the week-end at their home in Clanton. They are living at Waugh, where Mr. Reynolds is running a big lumber business.

JOHN H. MARTIN HERE LAST SATURDAY

Mr. John H. Martin, of Jemison, was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday. Mr. Martin is one of the five candidates for County Commissioner in the First District. The west side of the first district has not had a representation on the board of commissioners since Squire Waldrop retired about twelve years ago. They are asking for a commissioner from that part of the county this time, and are furnishing about three of the five candidates. Too many candidates from the west side may cause them to fail in their hopes of electing either of them.

The P.-T. A. District Conference of the Ninth District will be held April 5th, at the Chilton County High School in Clanton. This is the first conference held in the ninth district in some years. The leaders in the P.-T. A. movement hope that there will be good representation from the counties that compose the district.

FIRST STRAWBERRIES COME FROM THORSBY

Mr. Burt Higgins of Thorsby sent some ripe strawberries to The Union-Banner office Monday morning. They are the first we have seen or heard of in Chilton County this year.

J. M. Smith, manager of The Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, brought Mr. Higgins's berries to us. When asked about the berry situation at Thorsby Mr. Smith stated that unless some unseen hindrance arises he expects to have express shipments moving from Thorsby by April 20th. And, of course, when express shipments begin, the car load lots will begin to move in a very few days thereafter.

According to Mr. Smith, the cold of the past week has done some considerable damage to the berry crop, but not serious. Berries in the low grounds have suffered much more than those on the high places, said Mr. Smith. Some of the Thorsby growers have told Mr. Smith that their first crops in low grounds have been completely destroyed by frosts.

Maurice Lande and Ben Margolis returned last week from St. Louis, where they went on a buying trip for their stores here. Mr. Lande was looking out for spring and summer merchandise for The Leader. Mr. Margolis was getting ready for the opening of his new store at the Callen place, which will be ready in a few days.

Mrs. Bonnie Davenport and Mrs. Henry Hatcher spent Sunday with Miss Nora Franklin.

Young Minister Ready For County High School

Rev. Lockhart Finishes Ninth Grade At Concord, Never Missed A Day

Last fall the churches of the Chilton County Baptist Association were called upon to help send Rev. M. Lockhart to school. The matter had been taken up at the Association last October, and certain recommendations made by the executive committee of that body. A number of the churches of the association as well as some from the Unity Association and individuals from over the county, pitched in and helped Rev. Lockhart make his start toward better preparing himself for the work to which he has been divinely called.

The young minister entered school at Concord Junior High School on November 4th, 1929, and on March 22nd, 1930, he received his junior high school diploma, which gives him a passport into the Chilton County high school, or any other high school, as for that matter. He completed the ninth grade at Concord, and will take up tenth grade work when he enters high school next fall, which we understand is his intention to do. He hopes to go to the Chilton County High School next year.

Rev. Lockhart wishes to publicly thank all who have contributed toward his schooling so far. We publish below a list of the churches that have contributed to him, together with the amount each gave:

Refuge,	$24.05
Poplar Springs,	$20.00
Mineral Springs,	2.00
Friendship,	6.00
Chestnut Creek,	4.13
Shiloh,	4.75
Union Grove,	2.50
Bethsalem,	5.00
Liberty Hill,	2.32
Thorsby Baptist,	5.00
Cane Creek,	1.35
Mt. Zion (Unity Assn.)	3.85
Total,	$95.95

Rev. Lockhart is a deserving young preacher, and is altogether worthy of the help he has gotten. It behooves the Baptist churches of this section to stand behind Rev. Lockhart and keep him in school until he finishes. A man who has been called to preach deserves the best of training in his reach, so that he may be enabled to better do the lofty work to which he has been called. He is a licensed minister, but has not been ordained yet.

We feel sure that the churches which have helped him begin his studies will stay behind him and help him continue onward and upward. Rev. Lockart has a family to support, and it will take money for him to stay in school. He is a member of Refuge church, five miles northeast of Clanton. It will be noted from the above report that his home church is behind him, and there is no reason why others may not do likewise.

If the doctor tells you there is something the matter with your constitution, don't try to fix it with an amendment.

300 CLUB BOYS ATTEND RALLY ON LAST FRIDAY

Farm Boys Had Big Time On Their Annual Visit To Clanton

Attendanec of boys at the 4-H Club Rally in Clanton last Friday was over 300, according to County Agent Stapp, who had charge of the entertainment features of the day. In addition to the more than 300 boys present there were something like 50 fathers and mothers in attendance.

Owing to the fact that Circuit Court was in session at the courthouse, the meting of the club boys was held at the Clanton Baptist Church. The program was opened with invocation by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Miss Madge Scarborough directed the singing, which proved to be an intersting feature.

Mr. T. A. Simms of Auburn, state director of the Boys Club Work, was present. In addition to an address by Mr. Simms, the following local citizens spoke: Rev. E. A. Childs, Judge L. H. Reynolds, Supt B. Lawrence.

At noon when the meeting at the Baptist Church was finished, the boys marched through the business section of town. As they passed the office of County Agent Stapp they were served sandwiches and cake for lunch. A committee of ladies composed of Mrs. J. C. Page, Mrs. George Trotter, Mrs. Ben Goltsman, Miss Madge Scarborough, and Miss Zora Guy had charge of serving the luncheon.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Wade the boys and their parents enjoyed a free program of pictures at the Wadesonian Theatre in the afternoon.

County Agent Stapp announces that the Club Boys will get together again when they have their annual summer camp about the first of August.

W. F. BROADHEAD VISITOR HERE ON LAST WEDNESDAY

Furniture Man Is Well Pleased With Business Here

Mr. W. F. Broadhead, of Birmingham, was a visitor here last Wednesday. Mr. Broadhead is one of the owners of the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company, and his visit here was in connection with the business of the firm in Clanton.

Mr. Broadhead is a Chilton County man, who has been very successful in the furniture business in Birmingham for the past few years. He is a son of L. B. Broadhead, of Maplesville, and a brother of Harmon Broadhead, of Clanton.

Discussing the business of the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company in Clanton, Mr. Broadhead stated that his firm is well pleased with their situation here. "Our business has been better than we expected," said Mr. Broadhead, "and we regard the future outlook in Clanton as very promising indeed. We have stores in Birmingham, Gadsden, and different parts of Alabama, and I believe I state a fact that right now business conditions in Chilton County are better than any other place where we are operating."

The Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company opened for business here something over a year ago, in the new Mullins Building on the Highway next to the Exchange Hotel. We are glad that the store has met with such good reception at the hands of the people who trade in Clanton. Mr. J. B. Tiffin has been in charge of the store here ever since it opened. He is a diligent business man, and has made many friends since coming to Clanton.

Tiffin-Klinner are constant and consistant advertisers in The Union-Banner. We believe our readers will find their offerings very attractive every week.

MR. TURNER ATTENDS FUNERAL OF HIS MOTHER

Mr. J. O. Turner, manager of the C. E. Hornsby business in Clanton, went to Foster, near Tuscaloosa, Sunday, to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. L. O. Turner, age 74, who died last Saturday afternoon.

The deceased mother is survived by two sons, J. O. Turner of Clanton and E. H. Turner, of Northport, and the husband and father, L. O. Turner, of Foster.

The friends of Mr. Turner in Clanton extend their sympathy in the sadness that has come to him by the passing of the one who was to him the sweetest soul in all the world.

SHOWBOAT HERE APRIL 7 AND 8

Famous Old Southern River Melody Drama At Wadesonian

Edna Ferber's famous best seller, "Show Boat," which was dramatized by Flo Ziegfield for the stage, and made into a beautiful movietone motion picture by Universal, is announced for the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton for April 7th and 8th, one of a series of tremendously big pictures to be shown at this theatre during the coming weeks.

The engagement of "Show Boat" in Clanton at popular prices, marks the inauguration of a policy of "The whole Show on the Screen," at the Wadesonian. Throughout the nation, the public has turned to the "talkies" for their best entertainment, and the Wadesonian will henceforth present nothing but the foremost attractions of this modern type.

The book of Miss Ferber has been read by millions, and Flo Ziegfield's stage play ran on Broadway for more than a year; the picture made by Universal is said to be one of the most pretentious offerings yet made.

All the beauty of the Ferber story is preserved in it, with a prologue taken from the Ziegfield play, consisting of Aunt Jemima's songs, "Hey Fellows" and "Come on, Folks," Helen Morgan's songs, "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" and "Bill," and Jules Bledsoe's never-to-be-forgotten "Ol' Man River."

In the picture, the principal parts are played by Laura LaPlante as Magnolia, Joseph Schildkraut as Gaylord Ravenel, Otis Harlan as Captain Andy Hawks and Emily Fitzroy as Parthenia Ann Hawks. Directed by Harry A. Pollard, a Kentucky boy, who was raised near the sluggish Mississippi and who has imbibed the romance and beauty of the Father of Waters, the glamour of the old showboat days is said to be perfectly preserved in the picture.

"Showboat" had its world premiere in Miami, Fla., (the first time a motion picture has ever been presented to the world for the first time outside of New York City), in the fifteen days it ran there. This, incidentally, is the longest run any picture has ever enjoyed in Miami.

The showing at the Wadesonian Theatre is the first time the picture has ever been shown in this section. Its New York premiere was recently held on Broadway at $11 a seat, and hundreds were turned away. It is proclaimed the motion picture sensation of the season.

Photocraphy of the picture is said to be the most beautiful, and the last scenes of the picture are impressively shown to the accompaniment of an old Southern darky strumming a banjo and singing that beautiful old Southern spiritual, "The Lonesome Road."

The engagement at the Wadesonian is for April 7th and 8th, and will be exactly as shown in Birmingham and New York.

EZELL PREACHED IN SELMA SUNDAY

Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, went to Selma last Sunday and preached for the congregation of the First Baptist Church.

The eleven o'clock hour at the Baptist Church here was taken up by a report of the delegation of women who went to the State W. M. U. Convention in Mobile last week. Mrs. Ezell had charge of the services in the absence of the pastor.

Well there is one thing to be said for the French government. Every ambitious little boy surely has a good chance to get into the cabinet when he grows up.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY MADE TO CIRCUIT COURT

Criticized Condition Of Jail And Recommended Health Unit For County

To Hon. Geo. F. Smoot, as Judge of said Court:

The grand jury empannelled for the January term of said Court after receiving your Honor's able and instructive charge entered upon its investigations of the matters that came before it and herewith submits the following report:

During its investigations 44 cases and 74 witnesses have been examined, and 34 true bills are herewith returned.

We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and find that it is not being kept as clean as it should be and that a number of the window panes are out. At the time we made our inspection of the jail it was cold and disagreeable and was without sufficient heat. The sanitary connections for the white prisoners are in bad condition and should be remedied at once. We notice also in the basement of the jail old whiskey stills, barrels and rubbish. We recommend that this part of the jail be cleaned out and be kept in good condition hereafter. The law makes provision for a janitor at the jail and we see no reason why such janitor should not keep the jail clean at all times. We urge the Probate Judge and Circuit Clerk in making their weekly inspections of the jail to insist upon the janitor's keeping the jail clean at all times.

The Grand Jury made an inspection and examination of the alms house and found that there were 19 inmates, of which 10 were men and 9 women. Insofar as we were able to ascertain all of them are being cared for as well as the present arrangements will permit.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public, and on our examination of the Sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners we find it being kept in accordance with the law. We find on our examination of the office of the county superintendent of education that his books, records and papers are being kept neatly and fully in accordance with the law.

We, the Grand Jury of this County wishes to go on record and reccommend that a County Health Unit be established in the County as soon as practicable according to law in such cases made and provided.

The Grand Jury thanks your Honor for the able charge given us when we were first empannelled. It has been very helpful to us throughout all our investigations.

We thank the Sheriff and his deputies and Mr. Easterling, the Grand Jury bailiff, for the prompt manner in which they secured witnesses that we needed to complete our labors.

Having completed our investigations of all matters coming before the Grand Jury, we respectfully ask that we be dismissed until such times as your Honor sees fit to have us again convene.

This March 27, 1930.

MIMS-PATE WEDDING

Mr. Durwood C. Mims and Miss Fannie Pate were happily married at the home of Rev. A. L. Foshee on Wednesday night of last week. Rev. Foshee performed the ceremony that made them man and wife. MISS JEWEL FOSHEE IS NOT DEAD

By way of correction of an article in last week's Union-Banner, we desire to say that Miss Jewel Foshee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Foshee, is not dead. The article which was sent in by Mrs. Foshee was to express the thanks of the family for the many kindnesses shown them and the young lady during her illness with pneumonia.—Editor.

FARM BUREAU HEAD GETS CONFIDENCE VOTE

Montgomery, Ala., March 31.—Disregarding strong protest from Montgomery County representatives, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, Tuesday gave a vote of confidence to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the organization, after he and Chester Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, had declared their lobbying activities in fighting for the manufacture of cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals. More than 400 directors and members of the state federation responded to the call for the vote.

The meeting was held here March 25, and was called for the specific purpose of hearing Mr. O'Neal's report on legislative matters pertaining to the Farm Bureau. It was the result, in a measure, of resolutions offered and pending in the Montgomery County Farm Bureaun calling upon our other county organizations to join the Montgomery body in demanding that Mr. O'Neal resign. This demand was based upon reports coming from Washington that Mr. O'Neal was working with groups whose interests are antagonistic to the Farm Bureau interests.

After Mr. Gray and Mr. O'Neal had made their reports showing that they had been fighting for the manufacture of cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals and that they were working for the farmers in this fight, the Montgomery County Bureau was given all the time they desired to ask Mr. O'Neal questions.

The questions covered several pages of typewritten sheets of legal cap paper. With one exception, Mr. O'Neal answered promptly and in many cases very emphatically. The question which he declined to answer would have brought Congressman Hill into the controversy and he declared that he would not bring politics into the meeting.

Answers to many of the questions brought forth thunderous applause from the 400 delegates and visitors present and on one occasion the presiding officer had to appeal for quiet in order that the meeting might proceed.

J. L. Edwards, president of Dallas County Farm Bureau introduced a resolution not only commending Mr. O'Neal for his work in behalf of getting Muscle Shoals in operation to make fertilizer, but appealed to President Hoover too and to Congress to immediately put this great property in operation for the manufacture of cheap fertilizer. It was passed with only four dissenting votes. Only one director voted against. One fellow voting against it was not even a farm bureau member.

Following is the resolution passed:

Whereas, Edward A. O'Neal has been identified with the Alabama Farm Bureau from its very beginning in 1921, serving first as president of his county farm bureau in Lauderdale County and vice president of the State Organization; and

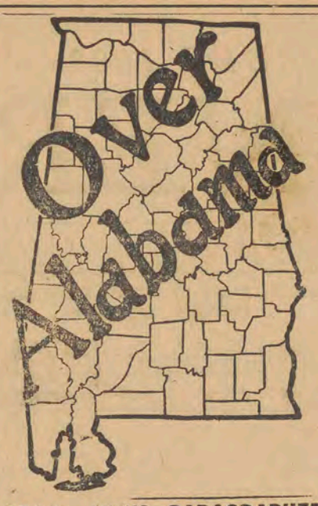
Whereas, great progress has been made along all lines of our great farmers' cooperative movement in Alabama during his adminstration as president, thus stamping him as an able, successful leader, therefore

Be it resolved:

1. That we congratulate Mr. O'Neal upon the magnificent record which he has made as our president, as vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and as our leader in State and National legislative matters; thank him for his able service and devotion to our cause; and pledge to him our hearty support and cooperation for the future.

2. That we especially thank him for inviting the entire Board of Directors together and for giving us a full and complete report of his efforts in behalf of cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals.

3. That we accept this report, approve it, and hereby express our complete confidence in him as our leader.



4. That we appeal to President Hoover and to Congress to take immediate steps to put this great property at Muscle Shoals into active operation for the manufacture of cheap fertilizer for the impoverished farmers of this country; thus lifting this great enterprise from the muck and mire of political bickering and placing it at the service of humanity.

5. That we stand for progress, sound business, cooperation, and good will towards all individuals and institutions working for the constructive development of our great state.

FARMERS DO $15,000,000 CO-OP BUSINESS IN 6 MONTHS

Montgomery, Ala., March 31.—That Alabama farmers are applying the cooperative principle to the buying and selling of their products in large quantities was proved when Edward A. O'Neal, president, reported to the Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau that within the past six months the Alabama Farm Bureau transacted a business of $15,000,000. This has directly affected 100,000 farmers.

Cotton has headed the list and Allen Northington, general manager of the Cotton Association, reported that the association has received 150,038 bales of cotton which is worth approximately $12,000,000. This is based upon the 15.64 cents per pound which the cotton association is advancing despite the fact that this is more than the cotton is bringing on the local market.

IN MEMORY OF LOUISE DOBBS

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs and carried away their darling daughter, Louise, age 15 years.

She was confined to her bed 24 days before God called her home. Louise leaves to morn her loss, one brother, Eurelle and one sister, Gladys, father, mother, and a host of relatives and friends.

To know Louise was to love her. She was a loving daughter at the home, good and kind to everybody and a faithful worker in her Sunday school and church work. Gladys and Eurelle, we know, it was so hard for them to give up such a sweet sister. We none should weep for her, for we know God doeth all things well, and Louise has gone to a home we we none can reach only by doing His will. Louise repeated several times just before dying, "Thy will be done." And we should live and die with the same spirit that dear Louise did. O, how her presence shall be missed, only God knows. But He had her home prepared in his kingdom where there shall be no work or sorrow.

I feel assured that if Louise could speak she would say: "Weep not for me, dear people; I am happy at last. Give your life to God and come to me." Just to think how sweet the darling was, seems that I can't stand not ever to see her sweet face on this earth again. But God knew best, and some day I hope to meet Louise where I can be with her forevermore. She is gone but not forgotten; her memory lingers still. A place is vacant in our hearts that never can be filled.

She set a beautiful example for us all to follow; and let's all try and live a life to meet her. Not have any hard feelings toward anyone and all pull together in church and Sunday school, as precious Louise did. We never fully realize how much we love anyone until we have to part with them. But "God works in a mysterious way, His miracles to perform." May God be with the heart-broken parents, brother and sister, in their hour of grief, is my prayer. One who loved Louise dearly.—Mrs. Annie Paschal.

WRITES OF SAMMONS BOY

Augusta, S. C., March 25th.

Dear Mrs. Sammons:

Have been wanting to write you for some time, but just could not get it done.

In reply to your letter, everything was settled by the company, and there hasn't been any mail.

We all sympathize with you and family in your loss.

Grady had been with us since last September, and we felt as if he was one of the family. My little girl, five years old, was crazy about him. The last evening he was here I think she stayed in his lap all the time he was here. He always had a smile for everyone, and we all miss him so very much. We cannot understand why such things happen, but can only hope all was for the best. Respectfully,—Mrs. H. H. Sanders.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness, help and sympathy shown us during the sickness and death of our darling daughter and sister, Louise. We especially thank Dr. Wood and everyone who nursed her so faithfully; and also for the beautiful floral orferings. eWal so thank her teachers and classmates for their many visits and the flowers. We thank Mr. Mell Martin for his kindness.

May God's richest blessings rest on everyone. — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dobbs, Gladys and Eurelle.

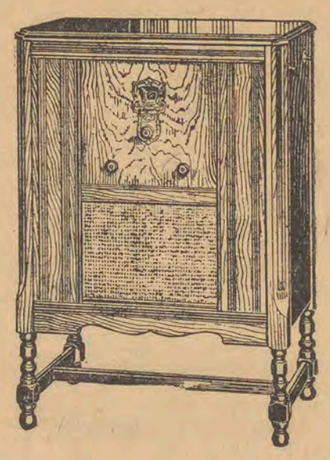
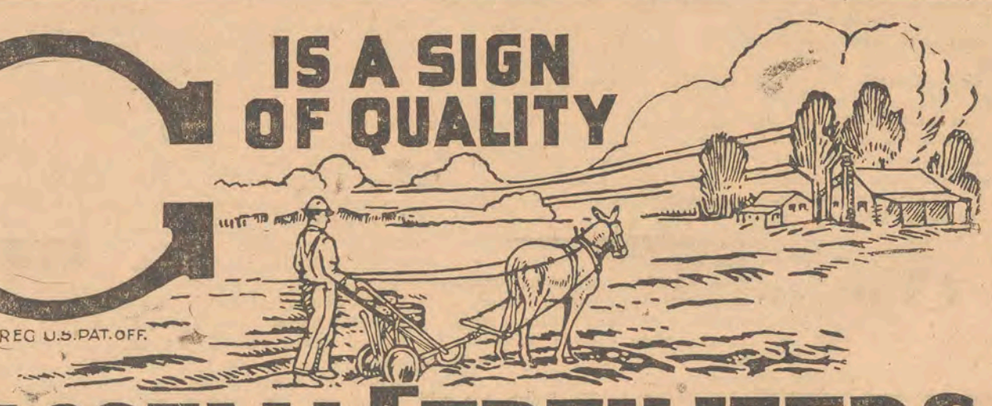
FROM L. H. BEAN

Jemison, Ala., March 31st.

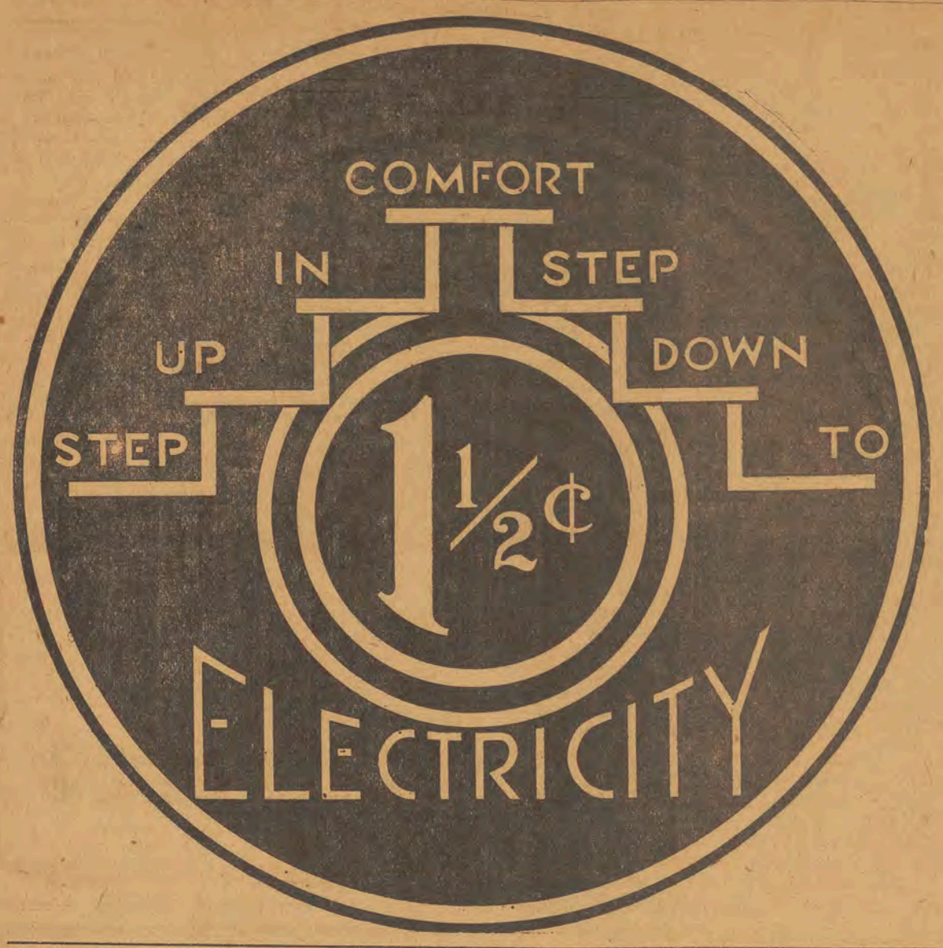
Editor Union-Banner:



Please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County. April 8th will soon be here and don't forget to go to the polls and vote on that day. I see Bro. Lawrence has already started some of his opportunity schools; he is having them taught at night, doing all he can with his cunning tricks to deceive the voters, trying to lead them to vote higher taxes on themselves. I want to say if you people will listen to Bro. Lawrence and do as he says do, the next thing he will ask you for will be your land deeds so he can borrow money on your property to his heart's content. He is not interested in you and your home: he just wants the cash and doesn't care how he gets it.



Just look how he treated the people in Union Grove settlement and the wild propaganda he put out, and caused them to send a committee to Montgomery, and they found every word to be false statement. Now if anybody doubts this, just call on the people over there—see Mr. Pink Martin, Mr. G. L. Glass, and others. I just want to know if the people of Chilton County will back up such as this.



I want to warn you now; look for the wolf in sheep's clothing. He is coming around in the last minute trying to mislead you and deceive you in any way he can. Don't let him lead you with opportunity schools. He is having them taught at this time just to try to pull you over on his side.

Just meet us at the polls on April 8th, and we will put this tax down for the third time. If our board would look after our interest we can have a seven-months free school in the rural districts with our present taxes.—L. H. Bean, Jemison, Ala.

W. L. SANDERS WRITES ABOUT TAXES ETC.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to our present school system and the one-mill tax, which is to be voted in or out on April 8th.

Dear voters, it lies in your hands to settle this question on the above date, and I feel like every voter should give this matter a careful consideration before they cast their vote. I want to say to the tax payers of Chilton County that our taxes are too high at the present, and if we continue to help raise them we shall soon be under bondage. I want to ask you if the valuation of your property has increased for the past twelve years? Is your farm worth more today than it was twelve or fifteen years ago? Does your farm make you greater profit now than it did before and during the war?

We all well know that farm land has been on the standstill since 1918 and that there has been no increase in its valuation. Therefore, we should have no tax increase under those conditions.

If our schools were growing better we would not mind paying more taxes; but as schools are no better now than they used to be—and some are not as good, why should we pay more taxes?

Why are some of the schools not as good as they used to be? Because the officials of our county and state haev taken the privileges away from the people and have caused them to lose all interest in the schools. When you tell the patrons of a school that they have no right to elect their teachers neither their trustees, you have killed all interest in that school. I tell you, there is not a greater law than the sentiment of the people; and when you disregard this law you will cause divisions and malice; and so long as a community or county is in this spirit there will be no progress. Have you ever heard of as much dissatisfaction as there is today about our present school system? If you have I would like to know when it was.

Another reason why I say some of our schools are not as good as they once were is because they have discontinued the seventh grade in them; and every time you take a grade from a school you hurt that school and community, and not only that but we have to pay their transportation to other schools. Does this look like better schools and more economy? I say it does not. Then why should we go to the polls on April 8th and vote for more taxes. I say vote down this one-mill tax and then work for some change in our present school system. We want to place men in office who do not believe in a monarchical government. We want men who will be a servant of the people and not a boss. Yours for good schools, more economy and less taxes.—W. L. Sanders.

CANE CREEK

The United Singing Society singers and singers from other places did some real singing here last Sunday afternoon. The singing was called to order by Mr. W. L. Sanders. After singing one song, prayer was offered by Mr. Glasscock. Mr. Akins Collins was apointed chairman; he appointed a committee of Prof. O. L. Devaughn, O. R. Robinson and E. L. Glasscock ,to arrange a program.

Those who directed were: A. H. Glasscock, Akins Collins, Jasper Oaks all of the United Singing Society; Prof. O. L. Devaughn and Prof. W.M. Devaughn of Maple-Poplar Springs society; Willie Mims and S. V. Miller of Concord; O. R. Robinson from Refuge; Enoch Traywick, W. L. Sanders and Floyd Little, from this community. Organists were: Mrs. Akins Collins, Mrs. Belle Dorminey, Miss Genie Collins and Miss Lillie Mae Weldon.

The singing was the best that we have had this year. The only way for it to have been better was just to have lasted longer. We are always glad to have visiting singers to come and sing with us, but we were sorry we did not have room for everybody in the house; not half of the people could get in the house.

The United Singers will be at Mineral Springs next Sunday afternoon. There will be more room up there.

We are looking forward to the annual singing in June. Mr. Collins has promised to be with us then. He speaks of the big dinner, but we are thinking of the big singing.

The singing was dismissed in prayer by Prof. Appleton.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Rev. A. E. Trice will preach at 11 o'clock both days; Sunday school at 10 a.m. Sunday. Rev. M. J. Parrish will preach for us the second Sunday at 11 o'clock. He was once our pastor here, and he would like to see his old friends again. Come and hear him.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT C. C. BAKER'S SATURDAY NIGHT

A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. C. C. Baker, near Vida, Ala., Saturday night, March 29th. A large crowd of people was present and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves.

After playing a while, plenty of hot chocolate and cake were served to everyone. This party was held celebrating the 39th birthday of Mrs. Mary Baker. She received many nice presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Jodie R. Connell spent the week end with parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Baker. We had a real nice chicken for dinner Sunday.

We were glad to have with us Miss Flarence Dubose and Miss Louise Turnipseed, teachers from Haynes-Vida consolidated school.

We wish Mrs. Baker many more happy birthdays.—Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Connell.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF OUR FATHER, J. R. McAFEE

Dearest Father, thou has't left us,
And thy loss we deeply feel;
But it was God that has bereft us,
He will all our sorrow heal.

Home will never be the same;
We will miss his smiling face.
The sound of a voice is forever still,
But heaven is a better place.

His footsteps cannot be heard;
There's his vacant chair.
But he could not stay with us,—
He's gone to his mansion so fair.

The home-circle on earth is broken—
There's a place that can't be filled;
We miss him, Oh, so much,
Yes, we always will.

Yes, father's akin to the fragrance of flowers, that shed sweet perfume in mossy grown bowers; and the thorns of his life are his croses of gold, that breathe no sting when life's petale unfold.

As sweetly as the petals unfold, the sweet spirit of father, on March 13th, 1930, found its way into the portals of Heaven and into the presence of his Saviour and loved ones were waiting to welcome his soul to its Heavenly Home.

Yes, father lies sleeping beneath the green sod, as roses are blooming and sweet flowers nod. His tenderness lingers through life's dreary hours; and the lessons he taught are the sweetest flowers. We miss him oh so much; but we would not think of him being dead, but just transplanted to that beautiful mansion that we sprepared for him, to await the coming of those he loved and who loved him. Knowing that you have one in Heaven from your own fireside, draws Heaven nearer to you.

Our hearts are sad and the way seems dark and lonely, and for many years to come, we will long for the "touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is forever stilled. But we have the blessed assurance that we shall see him again if we are faithful to the end.

A host of friends and kindred too we have to love each other; but on this earth God gives each of us just one precious father. But let's not think of him as being dead,—just waiting over yonder in that fair land with loving hand, that sunshine land of wonder. We'll see him smile again some day, his promise still rings true, "I'll go and stay a little while then I'll come back for you."

Lord help us to so live, that we will meet him in the sky. There will be no sad parting; we will never say good bye.—Family.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Another bill designed to aid the American merchant marine has passed the House of Representatives at Washington. This is the White bill which grants preference in the award of ocean-mail contracts to shippers who purchase government-owned vessels from the U. S. Shipping Board. The Jones-White bill authorizes preferential mail contracts for shippers building new vessels but says nothing about preference for firms which purchase government vessels. It is presumed that this provision was left out of the oroginal bill through an oversight. At any rate the White bill is designed to encourage our merchant marine and this is something commendable in itself.

In fact, we have much cause to be encouraged over our lusty young merchant marine. The Washington Post recently assembled figures to show how the American shipping business has improved since 1914, the year marking the outbreak of the World War, and the array of figures was imposing as well as interesting. For instance, in the ten years ending with 1914 the value of American foreign trade carried in American vessels was $300,000,000 a year. But in the past decade, after the American people had become interested once more in th development of an American merchant marine, the yearly average value of our foreign trade carried in American vessels was $2,600,000,000. Quite an increase, and worth expressing satisfaction over!

The figures show further that in 1914 American ships to the amount of 70,000 gross tons were operating in the European trade and there wer just six of them. Now we have 232 American ships approximating a total tonnage of a million and a half operating in the European trade. The figures with reference to the South American trade are just as convincing. In 1914 we had five ships of 23,000 tons operating in the South American trade. Now we have 90 ships of 550,000 tons. At the outbreak of the World War we had no American ships going to Africa. Now we have 22 ships of 125,000 gross tons in the African trade. In 1914 there were five ships going to the Far East regularly from our Pacific ports. Now there are 140 American ships with a gross tonnage of a million tons in this trade.

It is pointed out that since 1914 our trade with Europe has increased 50 per cent, with South America 200 per cent, with Africa 325 per cent and with Asia 380 per cent. There is a great deal of significance in these figures. As our merchant marine has grown so has our foreign trade increased. This is only logical. Foreign shipowners are naturally interested in their own countries first. They receive aid from their own governments and are properly interested in promoting the trade of their native country and its general prosperity. The same holds true of American shipping, so that as our merchant marine increases our opportunities for foreign trade will increase. Of course the time will never come when all of our foreign trade will be carried in American ships. But with our thousands of miles of coast lines, with our fine harbors, and our general progress we are certainly entitled to our share of the ocean carrier business.

It is also a cause for satisfaction that shipping activities in our own ship yards have been increased by the Jones-White merchant marine act. Contracts have been awarded for seventeen great ships at a total cost of nearly $70,000,000 and more are coming. It is anticipated that $235,000,000 wil be spent for new American ships within the next five years. This will not only add to our merchant marine, but will provide jobs for American labor in the meantime.

We have not yet returned to the comparative high position we enjoyed in the early days of the republic when the Yankee clipper ships sailed proudly on every sea. But we are on our way and the outlook is decidedly encouraging. Certainly every patriotic American should use the ships of the United States merchant marine whenever he travels or ships abroad.

AIDING AMERICAN SHIPS

A further step was taken toward strengthening the American merchant marine when the House passed the White bill, granting preference in award of ocean-mail contracts to purchasers of government-owned vessels. Until Postmaster General Brown raised the point, it had been supposed that the Jones-White act carried this provision. It does authorize preferential mail cantracts for operators who will build new vessels in American shipyards. Now those who take ships off the government's hands are to have the same privilege.

The new measure imposes necessary safeguards of the public interest. It provides that the purchaser who wishes a mail contract must possess, "with the aid of the contract as to be awarded," the ability to render adequate service. The quoted words are significant. It will be remembered that the Postmaster Gneral found fault with the United States Lines for counting a pospective mail contract among its probable resources in connection with its financing program. These contracts are of great value to a steamship company, and the proposed legislation recognizes its right to list them among its assets.—New York Evening Post.

It is said that any nation is as strong as the homes within its boundaries. Fire, then, strikes at the very heart of America when it causes a loss of over $43,000 a day in homes through carelessness with the matches and "smokes." The National Board of Fire Underwriters points out that the total for 1928 in city, suburban and farm dwellings was in excess of $15,825,000.

Those who have made a study of conditions find an important difference between safety and fire danger in the use of these common articles. Matches are thrown away carelessly without being completely extinguished. They are lighted where conditions are dangerous—where explosive fumes may be present, or near a pile of papers or rubbish. They are often kept within the reach of young children or in cardboard boxes intsead of metal or earthenware containers.

The hazard from "smokes" develops when they are thrown away without being carefully extinguished, as they are thrown in piles of paper or rubbish, or when they are smoked where conditions are dangerous.

Even when all classes of property are considered, the careless use of matches and smoking materials is the largest single cause of fire in America. In 1928 it was responsible for a loss of over $34,878,000. This is reason enough for cautioning Americans to be careful without mentioning the fact that our total annual fire loss from all causes amounts to about $500,000,000 annually.

AMERICAN HOME CONVENIENCE UNRIVALED

The telephone, electricity, labor-saving devices and the like have given us the highest living standards in the world. Now gas is playing the leading part in adding still more comfort and convenience of the home.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

After all the serious stuff we've been dishing out for the last two or three weeks, it'll be a kind of good turn to our readers to give them a little "funny stuff" this time. Just how you'll like it, we don't know, but here's a little squib which, though we are passing it on to you as a bit "funny," yet it carries an under-current of genuine truth.

We give this little passage, with apologies to its author. We just noticed it, in placard form, hanging on the wall in the office of one of Clanton's best known business houses. We mentioned it to the merchant, and, between us, decided it was too good to keep to ourselves, so, here 'tis! We hope you like it.

The Philosophy of Life—Did it ever occur to you that a man's life is full of crosses and temptation? He comes into the world without his consent, and goes out against his will; the trip between is exceedingly rocky. The rule of contraries is one of the features of this trip. When he is little, the big girls kiss him—when he is big the little girls kiss him. If he is poor, he is a bad manager—if he is rich he is dishonest. If he needs credit, he can't get it—if he is prosperous, everyone wants to do him a favor. If he is in politics, it is for graft—if he is out of politics, he is no good to his country. If he doesn't give to charity, he is a stingy cuss—if he does, it's for show. If he is actively religious, he is a hypocrit—if he takes no interest in religion, he is a hardened sinner. If he gives affection, he is a soft specimen—if he cares for no one, he is cold-blooded. If he dies young, there was a great future for him—if he lives to an old age, he missed his calling. SO THEN—If you save money, you're a grouch; if you spend it, you're a loafer; if you get it, you're a grafter; if you don't get it, you're a bum. OH WHAT'S THE USE?

Did you read "The Man on the Corner" last week? If you didn't, you missed an article of real interest, that is if you are one of those who have wandered down Second Avenue in days long gone by, and more so if you are one of the "old gang" who knew all those old land-marks in their hey-day.

"The Man on the Corner" and the "Potter" went fishing the other day, just as we have been wanting to do for some time. There were just two outstanding facts about the trip—"The Man on the Corner" caught 'em, and the "Potter" didn't.

We need a weather prophet in this neck o' the woods. Fact is, we've pretty near got to have one—and one we can depend on, too. No foolin'—just about the time we get our arrangements all made (clothes, etc.) to enjoy the good old warm, summer days, we wake up to the fact that we're still right "sock up" in the middle of winter time. Happened two or three times, already. It's gettin' serious.

Just read where some guy way up North somewhere ran for some position on the Democratic ticket, and got elected, although he said he didn't expect to be elected when he entered the race. Now we know why Democrats run for office in Chilton County—they read that, too, and they're just hoping the saying that "history repeats itself" is true.

That's about as good a reason as one could possibly give for entering a race in Chilton County on the Democratic ticket, what with the hope of being elected. But then, you've got to remember this too—"lightning hardly ever hits in the same place twice.

Fact is, we don't believe ANY of our Democratic friends harbor any hopes of election. Yet, they know that mistakes will happen, and if they do, they possibly hope to be on the lucky end of one sometime. Not much consolation, eh?

Come to think of it, if there is anything funnier than a candidate trying to drum up votes it must certainly be two candidates drumming for votes. Gee, how the fellows do work. If you're a voter, don't try to dodge 'em—you just can't do it, that's all.

Never get to laugh at a Democrat drumming for votes, though. They don't "drum." What's the use? There's never more than one in the hill who's foolish enough to try for any office—if he's going to get it, he will; if he ain't, he just ain't—and that's that.

The POTTER predicted a few weeks ago that a few days, with lots of sunshine, budding flowers and such would knock the sox off this talk of hard times. What about it? You don't see near as many long faces now as you did—not since the strawberry plants have bursted forth with about a billion little white blooms. Strange what a big difference such a small thing as a flower will bring about—especially when those little blossoms are promises of good solid dollars. Hard times ain't what they "uster" be, since we took to raising the berries.

Speakin' of berries—strawberries—the POTTER took a flyer with 'em one time. Same old story—no luck. The first time we brought in a shipment, the inspector squinted at 'em, muttered something about "huckleberries", and nailed the lid back on the crate. What made it more curious to us, all around us sat men who kept on talking in dollars—sometimes we heard the word "hundred". Never have really understood that yet. Just another big plan gone wrong, is our guess.

But we're glad to see the farmers of the community getting ready to reap a golden harvest. Leave it to such farmers as Mr. Dennis to find if there is anything along agricultural lines, the farmers will do well to listen. Mr. J. N. Dennis is rated as one of the best farmers to be found anywhere, and we are glad to have him in Chilton County.

The POTTER knows Mr. Dennis very well, and we don't know of a man whose judgement we had rather risk than his, on anything. If it's about farming, we KNOW he knows, and we don't believe he would tell yon anything he wasn't absolutely sure of. If he isn't SURE, he'll say so. If he only offers his opinion on anything, you can place lots of confidence in that, too.

Well, we gotta wind this up. The "head man" says we may take up too much space if we don't hurry up and finish, so—so long!—"JACK".

Having alread subscribed to the League of Nations pact, the World Court pact and the Kellogg pact, France seems to want another peace guarantee pact. Reminds us of the old riddle, "pact upon pact and a hole in the middle."

The grand old "Constitution" has been refloated from the drydocks at Boston and up to this time the pacifists are overlooking a bet. They ought to protest that such "carrying on" will interfere with the spirit of the naval conference at London.

BEEFSTEAK AND ELECTRICITY

In 1924 the electricty industry's average revenue for each kilowatt-hour of power was 2.6 cents. In 1929, it was likewise 2.6 cents.

Yet, during the years between, the wages of skilled labor rose 220 per cent, unskilled labor about 225 per cent, and the average price of electrical apperatus, equipment and supplies about 215 per cent.

In other words, the average cost of electric service to the consumer is nogre atertha nbeforethe fc fwy Susno greater than before the war, in spite of the fact that costs of labor, supplies and everything necessary to the generation and distribution of power have more than doubled.

The public does not fully appreciate the return it gets on its money when it buys electricity, because it is buying a service instead of a visible commodity. A light is turned on and later turned off and the user has nothing left to show for the money he has spent. He has had as definite a return, however, as if he had bought a beefsteak and eaten it, or a dozen eggs and eaten them. sirdn wakdwrfhm brghmrfhm brgh

Measured in terms of efficiency, usefulness or comfort we get more for the electric dollar than almost any other dollar we spend.

Think of a modern home or business without electricty. If one can visualize that, then the value we get for our money when we buy power becomes vividly apparent.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not.

Well, we have had our fling with the United States Hospital Engineer. His name is Mr. L. A. Warren. He is a very suave and pleasing gentleman whose demeanor indicates much experience in the business of picking out hospital sites. He told us about his work in the States of Kansas, Texas, and Kentucky, doing the very thing he is now engaged in for the Veterans Bureau in Alabama. Coming with Mr. Warren was Mr. Calvert, regional director of the Veterans Bureau in Alabama. Mr. Calvert is a native of Walker County. He and Percy Pitts found that they had had a former acquaintance through the University of Alabama, the Legislature of Alabama and some other business, legal or political activities.

When Mr. Warren and Mr. Calvert arrived in Clanton, they found a delegation of citizens ready to "show them the town." The group was headed by Mayor Eric Hart and Probate Judge Reynolds. The first place visited was the Jasper Dennis farm one mile south of town. The engineer made a lot of notes and sketches of the place. Of course, he did not say anything; but Glenn Boyd declares he could see it in the man's eyes that he was convinced that it is the best spot in Alabama for the hospital. I admire Glenn's enthusiasm for Clanton and for the hospital to be located in Clanton. Hope he was not mistaken in what he claims to have seen in Mr. Warren's eyes.

From the Dennis place, Mr. Warren was carried to Lomax to have a look at the property there which has been offered for the hospital. Again he did not express himself. I think he was not as well impressed with the Lomax property as he was with the Dennis place.

Out of the more than fifty proposed sites in Alabama, Mr. Warren will report on the number which he finds suitable for the Hospital. This number will likely be ten or a dozen different places within the 75-mile radius previously established by the hospital board. I believe Clanton will get one of these favorable reports on the Dennis place. But then the fight will be just well begun for location of the hospital. After Mr. Warren reports the places he finds suitable, then the matter will go to the hospitalization board of the Veterans Bureau. That board will likely have its own committee to look over the places reported by Mr. Warren. That will further eliminate some, and get the list of contending sites whittled down to a very few, perhaps three or four. Then the real contest for the location will take place. I believe Clanton will be in the race to the very last, and will finally win the coveted prize.

Grandpa Robinson, perhaps known to you as "Uncle Riley," of Beat 16, took a day off from his fishing and spent Monday in Clanton. He has been a little bit sick for a few days, and was here to consult his doctor. Mr. Robinson is one of the oldest citizens of the County. He has been prominently identified with affairs of Providence Community for the past fifty or more years, and is still active in so far as his advanced age will permit. He is one of the most systematic fishermen in the county. He has never taken up any of the new ideas in fishing. Scaly fish are not even considered in style with him. When he goes fishing he goes after "nigger boys." If a crappie happens to get hold of his bait it causes a frown on the old man's face.

Judge J. W. E. Gulledge was in town Tuesday. We do not see much of him in late days. Since he sold his place down in South Clanton, he must have moved his boarding place to other parts. We are sure he will continue to make regular visits here as long as he is able to navigate. The sun is always shining where Judge Gulledge goes. He is one of the most jovial characters I ever saw.

Load after load of strawberry crates have been moving out of Clanton this week, going to the numerous strawberry farms in this vicinity. In a few weeks those crates will be coming back to town filled with the choicest berries, ready to travel to the distant markets of the north and east. L. E. Diefenderfer, local manager of the berry growers association is getting things lined up to begin car load shipments during the last days of April. Dief will also handle marketing for the Jemison association. Monroe Smith reports that everything is ready for handling berries at Thorsby. Another $135,000 of strawberry cash in Chilton County will come in mighty handy this spring.

J. P. Dykes of Dry Valley was in Clanton Tuesday. Mr. Dykes is thinking of offering himself as a candidate for membership on the Chilton County Board of Education again. He served on that board for several years.

Green Gore said Tuesday he had a box of strawberries he intended to bring me, but forgot them. Reports from several other berry growers in the upper end of the county say they were showing up fine until the cold weather of the last week. It is the general opinion that the plants will have to put on a new crop following the cold. That will mean a couple of weeks yet before we get many berries.

What do you reckon this means? Uncle Jim Mims told me Tuesday to tell the boys to go slow, and not pledge themselves to any of the candidates, for, said he, you can't tell who will come out before the first of May. Do you suppose Uncle Jim is thinking of getting into the race for county commissioner? If he does, it will be a real race he will give somebody. Mr. Mims has seen service on the board of commissioners, and to our way of thinking, he demonstrated his ability and fitness for the place. Yes, boys, you had better go slow, for if Mr. Mims is going to get into the race, it will make a difference somewhere.

REDUCING AUTO ACCIDENTS

Certain Eastern States have reduced automobile accidents about 20 per cent through license laws requiring examination of all new drivers, and enforced by a centralized state motor vehicle bureau, according to Sidney J. Williams, Director of the Public Safety Division of the National Safety Council. So far only 17 of the 48 states have passed such laws, and all but five of these are in the East.

There is certainly something amiss when any person, irrespective of his mental and physical qualifications, is allowed to operate a potentially deadly vehicle upon the public highways. This condition has been unquestionably responsible for many of the 30,000 annual deaths in automobile accidents.

Hundreds of thousands of new cars go into use each year. Speed ranges are constantly rising. Traffic congestion becomes more and more a problem. It is the height of folly, under such conditions, to allow irresponsible, incompetent drivers to use our highways where they menace the life and property of every other motorist.

Babe Ruth's salary question was settled without our another Young conference.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SHILOH, THE RELIGIOUS CENTER OF ISRAEL DURING ALL THE PERIOD OF THE JUDGES TILL THE TIME OF SAMUEL

This morning we are to study Shiloh where, as we read in the 18th chapter of Joshua, the sacred shrine of worship was set up for the Israelites upon entering Palestine. Shiloh lies twelve miles south of Shechem and nine miles from Bethel east of that old north and south road which is really the oldest road of history. About eleven miles southeast, commanding a strong position on that great highway from the north to Jerusalem and even down to Egypt, is the location of Ramah the home of Elkanah and Hannah and the birthplace of Samuel.

Ramah is called Ramathaimzophim, and was no doubt within the borders of the tribe of Benjamin. Notice that Elkanah was of Mt. Ephraim, an Ephraimite and therefore a decendent of Ruth and Boaz and an ancestor of Jesus Christ. The reason we study Ramah in connection with Shiloh is because that Elkanah and "Hannah" pious Hebrews lived there and went up to Shiloh yearly in company with the other Hebrews who loved and worshiped God there at the feast of service.

As we go up to Shiloh we look ahead of us and see sturdy simple shepherds with a shepherd's crook in their hands, and many black goats and humble sheep following. We see simple shepherds and peasants of Palestine going up to Shiloh with the firstling of the flock to offer sacrifice and worship unto the Lord in the Tabernacle. After a while we come nearer to this place called Shiloh. We look out upon a valley and some hills, not mountains. Then we come to a heap of stones believed to be the location of the tabernacle of Hebrew tradition which is spoken of in the Old Testament history as the "tabernacle at Shiloh."

Now to begin with the history of that name "Shiloh," one looks away back down yonder in Egypt and sees Jacob a patriarch of old dying. In his dying benediction upon his sons we carefully note his blessing upon Judah who has appeared upon the scene. Looking down through the centuries, Jacob turns to Judah and says, "My precious son, the sceptre shall not depart from thee, thou shalt retain the tribal supremacy thou Judah, neither shall a law giver depart from thy feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be." The Shiloh here prophesied was the coming of Messiah and is purely Messianic in his teaching. Shiloh means peaceful. So Jesus Christ the prophesied Messiah was also the Great Prince of Peace to a tired, weary, sin-sore world in strife, confusion and contention.

So to Shiloh the sacred, peaceful shrine of worship went the old God-fearing God-worshiping Jew. Today there is nothing left of Shiloh except a heap of stones, and a few old tents and poor Arabs who call the place Seilun. At Shiloh lived Eli the priest whose duty it was to teach the people the word of God. But these faithful old Hebrews of old studied God's word fervently day after day in their homes and were no doubt glad when the time for them to go to the tabernacle to worship and hear God's word taught.

In this study we are on the holiest ground. The truth is that the Bible is the book of study as it teaches of Christ our Savior from the beginning to end. And really if I don't believe this word I am just weak, weak, weak. I see more and more each day the need of Jesus Christ and His word being taught in this old wounded, heart broken world being sifted by the devil. The books 1st and 2nd Samuel of the Bible take the name of the character is written so much about.

Let us study the characters so close connected with the history of the place called Shiloh. We shall study them from their signficance as given in the life of the Jewish peoples of that time. Hannah means grace and grace means the favor of God. It teaches the unselfishness of the love of God to you and to me today. When the city commissioner appointed me city chaplain it was just another trust. The question is whether I will be faithful to the trust.

There never was a day in the history of the church when men and women did not need to realize the need of being faithful to the trust as much as they do now. Elkanah in Hebrew means "possessed of God." O to be possessed of God. Now we come to the study of the character which I feel like I would like to take a blanket and place over it and leave it there untouched. His name was Eli which in the Hebrew means high, lofty and ascent.

Now when Joshua crossed the Jordan with the host of Israelites we read that an altar was the first thing set up at Gilgal. Of course the ark of the covenant was then there as taken by the priests. But when Joshua and his children of Israel began in their move farther into Palestine they took the ark of the covenant up to Shiloh and set up the tabernacle according to the plan and directions given them in Mt. Sinai. So here under the priesthood no doubt of Eli began the religious center of the nation which continued during all the period of the judges till the time of Samuel. And its fame rests solely upon its connection with the life of Samuel.

You are bound to stop and think of Tlkanah and Hannah, the parents of Samuel at Shiloh. They did not miss the country festivals there but went there yearly. I see them as they go up there and Eli greets them. Elkanah says, this is my beloved wife, Hannah and there is the lamb for the offering. We have come to worship God in the offering which we now bring." They went to Shiloh to worship and they worshipped. Hannah prayed with the other and then just kept on praying because she had a desire in her heart and felt so much the need of calling upon her heavenly father to give it to her. Eli thinking that she was drunk marked her mouth. Hannah turned and said, "I am not drunk. I am just praying to God.". No doubt there are few praying women just as there are few praying men in this country. They thought she was not sane in her actions in the tabernacle. But she assures them that she is praying to God, expressing the desire of her heart in words to God.

Elkanah and Hannah lived prayerful lives, obedient lives to their heavenly Father and God rewarded them in their untiring efforts of serice by blessing them with a boy who was godly and expressed his Godliness in devotion and obedience to his heavenly Father. There is no doubt that Hannah, his mother, did not write the greatest song of Old Testament history. It compares in beauty of spirit wonderful with Mary's song of gratitude to the heavenly Father in the home of her cousin Elizabeth in Arian-Kurian. Hannah sang her song at her home in Ramah, not at Shiloh because at Shiloh she had something more important than her song.

Notice her great song of gratitude and thanks to God first rejoices to Him she says, "My soul doth rejoice in Jehovah." Now Jehovah meant Christ, the self-existant, the self-sufficient One, the Lord; and that there is no one holy like the Lord. Then Hannah prays that the Lord help the stumbling ones. Truly the Lord doth help the stumling ones. He will put a girdle around the stumbling ones. He cares for them and gives them strength if they will only let Him.

There isn't any hope except in Christ. There isn't any hope for this old lost world except in the blessed Christ. We should rejoice in Him as the hope of our salvation. Mirian also composed a song and sang it in the Old Testament history, but Hannah's song was more wonderful than it. I might say here that it is more wonderful than the song of Mary the mother of Jesus. Mary was no more wonderful than other women in the Bible history because she was just like other women only that she was the most highly honored among all women in being the mother of Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the world.

In the life of Hannah at the tabernacle is given one of the greatest definitions of prayer one ever had in these words: Hannah poured out her heart unto the Lord. God answered her prayer by placing in her loving, motherly arms next to her tender, motherly heart a little son whom she called Samuel. The days passed hurriedly by and the time for the yearly feast was drawing near. Her husband said to her, "It is time for the feast. Suppose you get ready and we will take the baby with us to the tabernacle to offer sacrifices and worship unto Jehovah." But Hannah said, "No, he is too young yet. Wait until I have weaned him and then we will take him there and in accordance to my vow unto the Lord I will leave him in training for God's service the rest of his days."

So when the days were past and the child was weaned Elkanah and Hannah took him to Shiloh to Eli where they left him for training in God's service. Notice in this narrative that Hannah first looked after the child's spiritual welfare. She took him to the house of the Lord. She left him there to be trained in God's serivce. She had no doubt taught him the alphabet and God's word daily in her home around the family altar because theirs was a home of prayer and Bible study. Then she was a model mother also in looking after the physical nature of her son. We read that she made him a little coat each year and carried it up to her son Samuel during the feast there.

Her husband no doubt being a shepherd brought her a goodly part of wool which he had just sheared from the sheeps' backs and said, "Here, wife, is a nice lot of wool which will make Samuel a coat for I am sure that his coat is becoming worn from wear as he works daily in keeping the tabernacle clean." Hannah no doubt answered, "Yes, I must get busy and spin the thread and then get ready the warp for the weave, and soon the cloth shall be ready for the shearers and my stitches. My son must have the coat because he is growing so fast that his old one is already getting too small for him."

The first thing Hannah thought about that boy was his soul. She took him to church. She did not say, "I will just give another son and not this my first-born child," but she denied herself of her first-born. We, too, must deny ourselves and give that which costs us something unto the Lord. We must make sacrifices. Christ is first, the church of Christ is first, last, and always. Hannah was careful to train her child in the way that he should go and he did not depart from it. If we are faithful to the teachings of the Bible we will so train our children today. Then we will also spare not the rod if it is needful for correction. I am glad that my mother took me by the hand and led me to church, and that she and my father spared not the rod when it was needful for correction. Hannah prayed for her boy and took him to church just like our mothers did. That is what every parent should do.

But in the case of Eli, we just pause and look at that awful black mark against his life. Eli made an awful blunder and mistake in the training of his sons, Hophni and Phinehas. We read that when his sons did evil in the sight of the Lord he constrained them not. That is, he was not careful about their spiritual life. He was influenced in their worldly desires above the influence of the Holy Spirit and so failed to give them implicit orders in God's service and exacting implicit obedience to God's laws of them.

But to this God-fearing, God-loving, God-worshipping Elkanah and Hannah God gave the great blessing of this son Samuel, a Nazarite who grew in favor with God and man, a prophet receiving revelations from God very early in life, a judge of great moral power among Israel, a great circuit rider from year to year to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpeh. We read that his death was lamented by all Israel, and he was buried in his house at Ramah.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

Seldom are we called upon to pay tribute of respect to the dead when it is so difficult to find words to express our profound sorrow as in the death of our late brethren, viz: Brother Walter Martin, Brother R. H. Bean and Brother E. L. Fike.

We are not stinting in our praise of either of them, but because of the position of worshipful Master, with its attendant responsibilities, held by Brother Martin, we will especially miss him. Our confidence in him, his gracefulness in his place of service and his regular attendance have left their imprints upon our memory.

While we are grieved at their departure, we realize our utter helplessness in face of certain death. Be it therefore resolved, that we humbly bow to the will of the great architect of the universe.

Resolved 2nd, that we extend to their bereaved families and relatives our deepest sympathy. Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and that a copy be furnished each of our county papers for publicantion.—

Friendship Meeting Held Last Sunday

Old People and Ministers Meet and Talk over Experiences. Resolution Passed for Old Ministers.

According to announcements, a meeting for the older people and ministers of the county was held at Friendship church all day last Sunday. It proved to be a success and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

In the beginning of the service Mr. W. H. Robinson, an old singer of Providence community, was appointed to conduct the singing for the entire day. This role Mr. Robinson handled to the complete satisfaction of everyone. The morning service from 10 to 11 o'clock was devoted to prayers and talks, and a committee was called to select a preacher for the 11 o'clock hour. The result was the selection of Rev. J. A. Raines of Mt. Creek. Rev. Raines preached a masterful sermon which received the favorable comment of nearly all the people present. The old ministers present especially enjoyed the remarks of Rev. Raines.

At 12 o'clock the crowd was dismissed for dinner, which was spread on an improvised table arranged on the sunny side of the house. This hour was enjoyed also.

In the afternoon Rev. M. J. Parrish was asked to take charge of the service which was to be used for talks and prayers, similar to a general old time prayer meeting. This proved to be one of the most interesting features of the day. Several of the older people got up and told about the experiences thay had had in life's work, and some of the less aged ministers made talks and offered prayers.

At the suggestion of Rev. S. M. Adams a resolution was drawn up and passed by the body, regarding the old and retired ministers of the Baptist denomination. The resolution follows:

The Resolution

Clanton, Ala., March 30, 1930.

We, the older people and ministers assembled in this annual meeting at Friendship Baptist Church, realizing that the Baptist denomination as a while is very negligent toward its old and retired ministers, and that it makes scarcely no provision for the care-taking of those who have given their lives to the cause of the ministry, and whereas, the Baptist ministers as a whole usually receive very little money for their work and are often left nearly destitute when they become old; Therefore, we go on record as favoring some action on this matter by our denomination, and recommend:

First—That the Baptist denomination give more attention to the care of its aged and infirm ministers.

Second—That the Baptist denomination, through its convention officials, take up the matter of providing for its old and retired ministers by pensioning them and by providing a home for those that are not able physically to take care of themselves.

Third—That this resolution be considered and acted upon by our two associations—the Unity and Chilton County—in the near future, and that a copy of this resolution be submitted to the two county papers for publication.—(Signed) Committee.

After the resolution was read it was adopted unanimously. After a few more talks by different parties and some announcements made, the motion to adjourn was made and was carried. The dismissing prayer was offered by Rev. M. Lockhart.

It was announced that the affair would be held again next year, some time near the same date, which will be announced in due time. A royal welcome was extended all those present, and an invitation given for them to come back again next year.—T. E. Wyatt, Secretary.

A. A. JACKSON URGED TO ANNOUNCE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

We the undersigned qualified voters of Chilton County, hereby indorse and request A. A. Jackson of Lomax, Alabama, to announce himself a candidate for the office of Representative of Chilton County in the legislature of Alabama, subject to the action of the Republican primary in Chilton County on August 12th, 1930.

1. He believes in enforcing all laws alike, and repealing all laws which are disrespected by a majority of the citizens of our country.

2. He believes that we have too many laws, and that is why so many people disrespect the law.

3. He believes that Chilton County convicts should be worked on Chilton County public roads when the sentence does not exceed two years.

4. He opposes any further tax increase. Because the old farmers' burdens are too great at present.

5. He believes that the legislature of Alabama should look after the farmers' welfare and pass such laws as would give him an equal footing with all other industries and professions.

6. He believes the farmer is the backbone and supporter of all industries, taxes and revenue. And, should be considered among the first with our law makers.

7. He is opposed to further issuing of bonds. Except, in a case of emergency.

8. He believes that all officials should be elected by the people.

9. He believes the salaries of some of our officials are too high for the small service rendered by them. As compared with the farmers' returns for his service.

10. He believes in equal rights to all, and special privileges to none, and to this end will pledge himself.

ADULTS CONTRACT CHILDREN'S DISEASES

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, th symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults, White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

SUBSCRIBER WRITES FROM CLIMAX, GEORGIA

Climax, Ga., April 1, 1930.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me space in the good old Union-Banner to say that the weekly visits of the paper is just like a letter from home.

I love the people of Chilton County because I spent the best part of my life there, preaching to those good people there. And I might say, Mr. Editor, that I have four meetings in Chilton County for next summer. I have one in Birmingham in July and one in Anniston beginning the fourth Sunday in June.

My work here in Georgia at Climax is doing nicely. May the Lord bless you and all my good friends up there. I have been pastor here at Climax for fifteen years and I guess I will live and die here. They are a great people.—Your friend, J. L. Hand, Climax, Ga.

POLK BROS. MOTOR CO. EQUIPS CHEVROLET SIX COACH FOR STRAWBERRY HAULING

According to George C. Polk, sales manager for Polk Brothers Motor Company, they have equipped a Chevrolet coach, which is powered by the world famous six cylinder motor in a unique manner for hauling strawberries.

It will carry 18 crates of strawberries without putting any on the running boards or bumpers.

This is accomplished, according to Mr. Polk, by removing the rear seat and back cushion which gives you space in the rear of the coach for 15 crates, and the front auxillary seat is removed which gives space for 3 crates, making a total number of crates that can be hauled inside the coach of 18.

In order to protect the upholstery, the inside of the coach is lined with beaver board, which gives complete protection against any damage from the crates. According to Mr. Polk the Chevrolet Six coach can be equipped in this manner in ten to fifteen minutes time at a total cost of $2.20 which is the cost of beaver board needed.

Mr. Polk further states that by using the Chevrolet Six coach for hauling berries, it does away with the necessity of buying a truck or pickup for hauling berries or any other farm produce, thereby making a considrable saving, and in addition the strawberries will be in better condition for shipping and will bring a higher grade, because the Chevrolet Six coach is more comfortable riding and will be less jolting to bruise the berries than any other type of equipment that could be used, thereby making an additional saving.

Then after all berries are shipped the seats and rear backs can be put back in the car, and you have your nice new Chevrolet Six coach undamaged for a family car.

This car is now on display at Polk Brothers Motor Company and can be seen at any time.

Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds is now engaged in the task of preparing the list of qualified voters for Chilton County, according to requirements of the law. This list will be published in The Union-Banner April 10th, next week.

JAMES NELSON LIMBRICK

Iittle James Nelson Limbrick passed away on the 27th day of March; he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Atticus Limbrick, who reside in Pleasant Hill Community.

On Monday morning, March 24th, shortly after the shades of night had passed and the light of a new day was shining, the parents of the child discovered that he was ill. This continued; no relief came to his rescue. On March 27th, the death angel, which is always an unwelcome guest, visited the home and wafted away the soul to God who gave it.

They loved him, yes they loved him; but angeils loved him more. Some day, somewhere we shall meet him on the shining shore.

The little body was laid to rest in Pleasant Hill cemetery, where he shall sleep in the midst of the silent tombs and await the great resurrection day when all things shall pass away and new things shall reign on throughout eternity. With the greatest of sympathy, we are asking God's richest blessings upon the bereaved family.—Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Culp.

BUSTER RUDDICK KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Buster Ruddick, age 22, was killed instantly last Sunday night, when his automobile turned over at a curve near the home of Wess Ratliff in the Sardis community. The young man lived at Stanton with his grandfather, Rev. W. J. Ruddick.

A son of Commissioner J. L. Burnett and a young lady were in the car with Ruddick when the accident happened. Neither of them were hurt.

It is said that young Ruddick, who was driving, lost control of the car as it went around the curve, and the machine turned completely over. His head was crushed, and he was killed instantly.

Funeral services were held for the young man Tuesday at 10 a. m., conducted by Rev. Buford Lawrence. He was buried in Ebenezer cemetery at Stanton.

ELEVEN GRADUATE AT BAKER

The school at Baker Junior High closed out last Friday. There were eleven to graduate—seven boys and four girls, Jerome Gray, J. I. Foshee, Gracie Culp, Cecil Blackmon, Kathryn Headley, Herbert Ward, Bertie Edwards, Herman Lowery, Ruth Williams, Cyrell Williams and S. L. Broadhead. Miss Gladys Kemp took the graduating class to Lay Dam Monday on a picnic. Twenty-one went on the trip, and all enjoyed themselves immensely.

Receipts of income taxes at the U. S. Treasury Department on March 18 were the heaviest in years in one day. Deposits amounted to $214,534,548, compared to $161,743,800 for the heaviest day of the March, 1929, collection period, and pushed the total for the first 18 days of the month to $314,200,558, a gain of about $43,000,000 over last year.

BEN MARGOLIS WILL OPEN BUSINESS HERE

Mr. Ben Margolis, formerly of Uniontown, has come to Clanton and will go in business at the former place of Callen's next to Hill Grocery Company. He will carry an up-to-date line of mens, womens, and childrens shoes, hosiery and wearing apparel, at popular prices. The opening will be definitely announced in a few days.

Mr. Margolis is a brother of Mrs. Maurice Lande and Harry Margolis, of Uniontown.

It is worth while to note that Mr. Margolis has chosen Clanton as the most desirable place to locate his business. He is an experienced merchant, and is a keen obserer of trade conditions. His decision to come here is one more evidence that Clanton and Chilton County is a good place to live and to work and to play. All of these things were taken into consideration by Mr. Margolis.

We are glad to have him locate here. We hope his coming here will prove both pleasant and profitable to him.

UNINTENTIONAL SUICIDE

Many people are slowly poisoning themselves just as surely as if they drank iodine every morning for breakfast. They are daily absorbing the toxins, or poisons, created by accumulated waste matter in their constipated digestive systems. Sooner or later disease will conquer their wakened bodies.

If you have dizzy spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, insomnia, no appetite, bilious attacks or pains in the back and limbs, you are probably suffering from self poisoning caused by constipation. The surest and pleasantest relief for this condition is Herbine, the vegetable cathartic which acts in the natural way. Get a bottle today from Upchurch Drug Company.

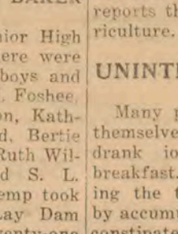
The why of a clear skin

A clear, smooth, lovely skin speaks of rich, red blood within. It is Nature's outward reflection of internal healthfulness.

Men and women, both, justly covet admiration and all may expect such satisfaction to its fullest extent if they are the possessors of a clear, unblemished skin.



If you are unfortunate in this respect you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

More important still, strong healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

YOUTHFULNESS and BEAUTY

are dependent upon a strong body— firm flesh— a clear skin

NOTHING is more beautiful, more inspiring, more glorified than the supreme manifestation of Nature in the human body. Those sparkling eyes, that clear skin, that firm flesh, and that vigor of action denoting vitality, bespeak loveliness and internal healthfulness.

S.S.S.
THE GREAT BLOOD TONIC SINCE 1826

Loss of strength flabby flesh and skin eruptions are but a few of the symptoms of a deeper and more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

And so, is it not our birthright to be masters over our own bodies? To be sure not much is said openly about personal handicaps—skin blemishes—sallow complexion—poor health—but secretly they influence many important affairs.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

This is why so many thousands, seeking youthfulness and beauty, have taken a course of S.S.S. It helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Without plenty of rich, red-blood-cells there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men or beautiful, healthy women.

How S.S.S BUILDS STURDY HEALTH

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It promotes healthy body building. It increases the number of red-blood-cells. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. ©S.S.S. Co.

Cut Down Oil Losses

Losses in refining cottonseed oil have amounted to about 7 or 8 per cent of the crop, says the Department of Agriculture. On the oil crop's annual value of about $500,000,000, this has meant about $40,000,000 loss every year. The Bureau of Chemistry and Soils has done a lot of research and has found ways for reducing the loss very materially.

Cotton in French Africa

Cotton-growing in French West Africa is not without its difficulties, but the French government is helping to overcome these by doing away with obsolete customs and practices. Experiments are being conducted with grades, irrigation, and new methods. France uses 368,000 tons of cotton annually, and some authorities believe French West Africa eventually will supply all of this. But where will they get their V-C?

V-C Means O-K

Like the seal on a bond or the signature on a check, V-C's name on a fertilizer bag means "Good." V-C fertilizers pay face value in full.

Demand high face value, high analysis—and in a V-C bag you get rich, concentrated plant foods, the very best that economy and experience advise. In all V-C fertilizers, whether low analysis or high, honest values are blended most carefully and every value is there.

A name—Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corporation. But what a good old name! No wonder you welcome it on a V-C bag, for you know this good name is inside too.

World Uses 25 Million Bales

"The consumption of cotton is more stable than the supply, and is constantly increasing. In 1790, world consumption amounted to less than one million bales. It now amounts to more than twenty-five million bales a year. World population has increased only two and a half times since 1790, whereas the consumption of cotton has increased more than twenty-five times."—B. YOUNGBLOOD.

Quality is Vital

"The quality of cotton in the South has gone down materially, especially in length of staple. The South for twenty years has put the emphasis upon the weight of lint per acre and has thought too little about the quality of that lint. Today we apparently face a crisis—the quality of Indian and other foreign-grown cotton is on the increase and the quality of American cotton is on the decrease. We have made competition from abroad more possible than ever.

"Supremacy in cotton growing in the South can be maintained only by a continued, intelligent, scientific breeding of varieties that produce a quality of cotton superior to foreign-grown cottons. We have enough brains in America to produce cotton of inch or better staple which will yield enough lint cotton per acre to make a profitable return for the farmer's work.

"We need a re-dedication to the production of high class cotton in the South. Single varieties for communities, careful handling of seed, energetic cooperation with experiment stations, and cooperative marketing of the product on a quality basis, are matters of immense importance to Southern farmers."—Dr. Bradford Knapp.

We Can Grow The Best

"Cottons have been introduced from many lands, but Egypt and Mexico have furnished varieties of great value. Acala cotton, discovered in southern Mexico over 20 years ago, is now the predominant crop in the irrigated valleys of the southwestern states, including the Imperial Valley of California. The annual value of this introduction now exceeds $50,000,000. Egyptian cottons or selections from them also enter into valuable industries. Arizona has been enriched to the extent of many millions of dollars by these cottons during the past eight or nine years."—B. T. Galloway, Yearbook of Agriculture.

AIRSHIP SEEN AS HELP TO FARMERS

Auburn, Ala., March 31.—In an address here Major Walter R. Weaver, commanding officer at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, described the airplane as an undeveloped aid to the farming industry. "Air tankers in the future," he declared, "will perhaps pick up milk and other perishable farm products in the South and carry them quickly to New York and other centers of population."

The airship will also fill a long felt need in transportating freight and for business trips, in the Major's opinion. It will never be used by individuals for pleasure on the extensive scale that the automobile is now used, he predicted, but by mass production will eventually become the cheapest form of transportation for commercial products and business passengers. The airship is now the cleanest, safest, and fastest form of transportation, he said.

THREE DOLLARS FOR ONE

Auburn, Ala., March 31.—The use of commercial fertilizer under cotton is a very profitable practice in Alabama. If done properly one dollar spent for fertilizer returns three or more dollars, according to the Experiment Station here.

FRUIT, VEGETABLES SUPPLY VITAMIN C

Auburn, Ala., March 31.—Use in the diet of fruits and vegeables which contain vitamins necessary to proper growth and bodily well-being is urged by Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

She calls particular attention to the necessity of vitamin C in the diet. "Especially good sources of this vitamin," she pointed out, "are the citrus fruits (oranges, grapefruit, and lemons), raw cabbage and turnips, and tomatoes, raw, cooked, and canned. Other foods supplying this vitamin are apples, bananas, young carrots, cauliflower, guavas, onions, peaches, peas, pineapples, potatoes, rasberries, spinach, sprouted legumes, and string beans."

Vitamin C is very easily destroyed by heat and oxidation. If vegetables are cooked too long they may lose their vitamin C. All recent instructions on vegetable cooking stress quick-cooked methods. Canning often destroys vitamin C. In the case of acid foods like tomatoes destruction is not so extensive. Tomatoes seem to retain most of their vitamin content either cooked or canned.

On diets deficient but not entirely without vitamin C, children become irritable and lacking in stamina, do not grow normally, and are less resistant to infectious diseases. Shortage of vitamin C is thought to be an important factor in the prevalence of tooth decay and of much of the so-called rheumatism in children and adults. When vitamin C is entirely lacking, scurvy develops. This used to happen on long sea voyages before it was known that lemons and certain other portable foods contain vitamin C.

FERTILIZER SALES AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

With the tonnage sales of fertilizer constantly increasing for the past weeks, and with the total sales to date of March 29 well ahead of 1929, all prospects point to a very heavy use of fertilizers by Alabama cotton farmers, according to figures given by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

During the week ending March 29, farmers bought fertilizer at the rate of 1,000 tons per hour, for every hour of Alabama daylight. A total of 73,250 tons of fertilizer tags were sold, an increase over all preceeding weeks of 1930.

In total, to date of March 29, 426,900 tons had been sold. This year on March 29, 439,350 tons had been sold, which shows an increase over last year's tonnage of 12,450 tons.

Mr. Storrs declined to make any forecast as to probable cotton acreage in Alabama this year. He admitted that it looked as if farmers were to apply fertilizer as heavily as usual. He recommended the Auburn maximum application, since the heavier the yield per acre, the lower the cost of production.

WORLD USES LESS COTTON

Worldwide slackening of business is responsible for a decrease of about one million bales in export cotton this year, according to a statement broadcast by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, on Saturday. Another big crop of approximately 15 million bales, if grown in 1930, will mean very low prices this fall.

Farmers have it in their power to so adjust their acreage of crops that more food and feed crops can be grown and less cotton and thus keep a profitable price in sight for this year.

MARINES ON THE AIR

The Portis Detachment, Marine Corps League, will give a program over Station WAPI, which will last from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m., April 7, 1930. A very interesting program has been arranged. The Marines will sing a number of popular songs.

A few very interesting speakers from the detachment will speak on their experiences and happenings during the World War. Captain Douglas P. Wingo will speak on "The Meaning of the Eagle, Globe and Anchor, the emblem which all Marines wear in front of their caps.

HIGHWAY SHADE TREES

Montgomery, Ala., March 31.—Thirty-eight miles of shade trees have been planted on Alabama's state highways thus far during the current planting season, says the State Commission of Forestry. The planting projects were initiated by the Federation of Women's Clubs and the work was carried out in cooperation with the Highway Department, the Board of Administration and the Commission of Forestry.

The plantings are widely scattered, being located in the vicinities of Birmingham, Florence, Jasper, Decatur, Montgomery, Selma, Marion, Tuscaloosa, Monroeville, Camden, Ozark, Samson, and Dothan. The Camden, Tuskegee and Troy projects are not as yet completed. A variety of species was used and their progress will be watched with a great deal of interest. The leading species were water oak and willow oak. Others included sycamore, pecan, loblolly pine, long-leaf pine, dogwood, red cedar, white ash and magnolia. On some projects crepe myrtle was planted between the larger trees. The planting stock was secured from the State Nursery, commercial nurseries, the woods and from the gardens of the club women.

A total of 5,937 trees were planted. The specimens varied in height from one foot to seven feet, depending on the species. On each project, however, trees of uniform height were planted. Most of the trees were spaced sixty-six feet apart, but in a few cases other distances, such as fifty feet and one hundred feet, were used. The Highway Department staked out the location for the trees, the Commission of Forestry furnished the technical and field supervision, and the labor was supplied by the Board of Administration, county authorities, city laborers, boy scouts, high school boys, American Legion members and laborers paid by the club women. In some cases the women themselves participated in the actual physical labor. Many of the stakes for protecting the trees were donated by local lumber concerns.

POULTRY BRINGS $160,000

J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialsts of the Extension Service, reported that 20,000 farmers have within the past ten weeks loaded 52 poultry cars for which they received approximately $160,000. They reported that the season is about one-half over.

The marketing specialsts also reported that farmers in 37 counties have since the first of March pooled 912 cases, or 27,360 dozen, eggs on which they are receiving an advance through the various county farm bureaus of 20 cents per dozen.

"We have handled during January and February through the Live Stock Commission Firm, located at the stock yard, Montgomery, 943 calves, and approximately 5,000 hogs. The volume of business since the firm opened in November is $243,795.41," Mr. Sylvest stid.

Gains Ten Pounds In Less Than a Month

MISS DOROTHY HENNING

"When I started taking Sargon, less than a month ago, I only weighed 88 pounds. Now I weigh 98—an actual gain of ten pounds, and I'm still gaining.

"I suffered terribly from indigestion and constipation. My appetite fell off to almost nothing, and my complexion was very bad. My appetite is just splendid now, and my complexion is clear and healthy looking. Sargon Soft Mass Pills have entirely overcome my constipation. My friends marvel at my wonderful improvement."—Miss Dorothy Henning, 1422 Grant St., Denver, Colo.

From coast to coast and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, Sargon is known and honored. Its fame is based on actual results, not on empty promises.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. BENNIE DENNIS

The many relatives and friends of Aunt Lauina Dennis were made sad on Sunday afternoon, March 16, when the death angel came and carried her away. She had been sick for several weeks. She sure did suffer, but she bore her suffering with the greatest patience, trusting in the Lord for relief.

She leaves to mourn, a husband, Mr. Bennie Dennis, five children, Ruth, Mae, Cecil, Esther Lee, and Lois. Her aged father, Mr. J. B. White, three sisters living, Mrs. N. A. Dennis of Jemison, Mrs. Fletcher Pyron of Elmore, Mrs. Mollie Edwards of Montgomery. Two brothers, Mr. J. W. G. White of Jemison, Mr. G. C. White of Clanton, Route 6, and a host of friends.

She loved her family and friends, and was loved by all who knew her. She was a loving wife and mother. She will be greatly missed by her family, but our loss is Heaven's gain. Why should we weep when she is at rest? She had to suffer so long.

Funeral services were held at Bethel Church March 17, conducted by Elder Nobles, Kelley, and Davis, with Martin in charge. The grave was banked with beautiful flowers.

A loved one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our home;
Which never can be filled.
We loved her, yes, we loved her,
But angels loved her more,
And they have sweetly called her,
To yonder shining shore.
—Mrs. Winford Jackson.

CREDIT CORPORTATION REPORTS

N. Eric Bell, general manager of the Credit Corporation, Alabama Farm Bureau, reported that up to March 15 that the Credit Corporation had loans amounting to $153,733.38. He also reported that the Federal Farm Board has agreed to set up a new credit corporation to handle the business which they want financed and has appropriated $50,000 for this purpose. "Under this arrangement the total volume of business which we could re-discount for this year would be $200,000 which with the business already on the books would amount somewhere close to $400,000.

BIG CROPS MEAN LITTLE CASH

Overplanting of cotton is wasteful and shows a lack of balanced business management on the farms. With the cotton planting season well under way in Alabama, with heavy purchases of fertilizer ahead of last year there is yet time for nearly all farmers to adjust their crop systems to a good margin of safety, according to Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, who is of the opinion that another cotton crop as big as that of last year will mean ruinously low prices for farmers.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to all our friends and neighbors, and Dr. Gragg and nurses for their splendid care of our daughter and sister during her illness. Also Dr. S. C. Wood for his special care before being carried to the hospital. And, especially do we thank Mr. Will Culp, Mr. J. T. Rockett, and Mr. Walter Gillespie, and Mr. Simiel Mims for their offerings. May God's richest blessings rest on them all.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dobbs and family.

A. N. Culver, secretary of the Mutual Supply Association, reported that cooperative purchasing of fertilizers, feeds, vetch and Austrian peas, windmills, soybeans, cotton seed, explosives, fruit trees, and spray materials, grain drills, and other miscellaneous products has amounted to $1,378,115.99.

J. A. Beaty, Director of Field Service, reported that since November 1st, 8,734 insurance policies have been issued with face value of $1,576,600. During the same period 23 death claims have been filed and a total of $4,340 has been paid the beneficiaries.

FOURSQUARE GOSPEL CHURCH

Beginning last Friday night, and extending through Sunday night, Mrs. Anna L. Benton, Foursquare evangelist, of Los Angeles, preached a series of good sermons at the local Foursquare church, bringing the series to a close on Sunday night with a wonderful illustrated message, "The Seven Crises of This World". The seven great steps in the history of the world were set forth in a manner so plain that a child might readily understand it.

Good crowds were in attendance every night, the best being on Sunday night, to see and hear the illustrated message, as this message had been widely advertised.

Next Sunday, April 6, the usual first Sunday program will be the order for the day, as follows:

10:00 A. M.—Sunday school.

11:00 A. M.—Communion service.

6:30 P. M.—Crusader meeting, (for young people).

7:00 P. M.—Evangelistic message.

Remember, we have prayer meeting, followed by preaching, every Wednesday night, at 7:30. You are invited to meet with us at any and all services.—J. Matt Johnson.

Miss Norma Smith of the State Department of Education visited Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr during the week-end.

FARMERS INVITED TO SELL AT HOMEWOOD

Farmers are invited by the City of Homewood to bring their vegetables, fruits and poultry to that thriving center just south of Birmingham, between Shades and Red Mountains where a produce terminal has just been opened.

There are between 25,000 and 30,000 persons living in the valley and most of them own their homes. They are eager to meet the farmers direct and buy fresh green stuff they cannot find in the stores.

The Homewood Truck Garden, at Howard Street and Hattie Avenue, just off the Montgomery Highway, has been graded and fine slag thrown over the ground. A real farmer who knows how to serve the farmers will be in charge of the terminal. Any policeman in Homewood will direct the farmers to the terminal.

MISS MOLLY

A two act comedy will be given at Cross Roads school on Wednesday night, April, 9. No admission charges. Everybody invited.

Raymond L. Duffey of Mt. Creek was in Clanton Monday doing some missionary work in the interest of the Marbury School. There is a movement on foot to build a new building at Marbury.

HUETT FAMILY REUNION

A kind of surprise family reunion was held at the home of Charley B. Huett, near Enterprise, last Sunday. The day had been planned by the children for several weeks, but all was kept a secret to "Ma and Pa."

Early in the morning, as Mr. and Mrs. Huett were getting ready to go to Sunday school, the children and grand children began to come in, and soon the idea of going to Sunday school was abandoned. Ere long, all of the children with their families were gathered at the old home place, with the exception of Forney Huett of Kansas City, Mo.

There were present five daughters and three sons, all married except the younger son, Marvin. Besides the home folks and Mrs. Florence Huett, the following were there: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle and daughter of Mitchell Dam; I. D. Huett, wife and four children of Coopers; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Eiland and five children of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Patterson and three children of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris and four children; Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Huett and little daughter of East Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Billingsley; Marvin Huett; Mrs. Jean Wyatt and little daughter, Eugenia Inez, of Clanton, the latter being the only great grand child of the entire family.

From what we could learn, not being there at dinner time, everyone had plenty to eat. And from reports sent out by those present, everyone had a most enjoyable time together. The day will be long remembered; and it is planned to have a similar meeting every year. Everyone went back home feeling glad that they had attended, and anxiously await the time they can meet together again.

B. H. JONES WRITES

Another school election is close by, which will be the third one inside of twelve months, wanting more money for schools. Now do a little figuring and see what the schools are already costing the people.

The State is giving to schools around $21,000,000. School children in the state estimated to be around 900,000 and not over 700,000 of these children in school. This gives $30.00 for each child in school. Add $7.50 for incidental fee and $11.00 for books from the 6th grade up and you have $48.50 for what you might call a seven months school (this does not include transportation cost). So it is costing the people near $7.00 per month to school their children and so the school heads want more. The more tax you vote the more they want.

The last year expense of the State School Department at Montgomery cost $142,560. Fifty three employees an average salary of $2,689 per year. Such extravagance and high salaried teachers should be cut out. If the present administration and school heads could have four more years I predict they would bankrupt the state. I think it time for the farmers especially to read and post himself and use his own best judgment in voting and quit listening to the slick tongue politicians and school heads.

Alabama has collected over $97,000,000 in the last two years and spent over $100,000,000. Do you want to pay more tax? If so vote for it, if not vote against it.—B. H. Jones.

MISS LOUISE DOBBS

Age, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs. On March, 24 the death angel visited and called their loving daughter to a better home. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but all in vain, but understand she is not dead in reality but just passed over to that sweet home to await our coming, where there will be no parting nor sad farewell.

We will miss her to testify in loving rememberance to the place she held in our hearts. She was a faithful Sunday School and church worker but God wanted her and he called her to live on high.

We miss her, yes her place can never be filled but with joy and gladness in our hearts. We can so live that we can meet her some day.

It is God's will that we must die to make us fit for that home on high, for when God calls we must go. She is now sleeping in the peaceful city of the dead, awaiting the resurrection morning, when all loved ones and friends shall again be united to part no more. She leaves, father, mother, one brother and one sister to morn.

A father and mother, brother and sister to love her as all fathers and kindred do. Will try to look up and trust God for faith to meet her at the pearly gate.

By one who loved her.—Birtyle Gore.

Junior I Class Studies Clothing

The Junior I class has just completed the study of the "Selection and Care of Clothing." The class visited the Clanton Laundry, where the process of cleaning and laundering was explained by Mr. Thompson. The main thing we learned about the laundry is water, and that it must be soft in order to get the best results. This is done by putting the water through a process of certain chemicals. The water is first purified by chlorine; next by the minerals that make the water hard which are magnesium and calcium. The water is then carried by pipes to big washing machines, which is used to wash the clothes. The clothes are then put into a centrifugal dryer. Here 92 per cent of the moisture has been extracted and the desired amount of moisture is left for ironing purposes. Our class has learned that there is a close relation between the science of clothing in washing and cleaning, as well as the science of colors.

Jemison News

The P.-T. A. has started practicing on the play, "A Wild Flower of the Hills." It is a play of comedy and romance of the hills of Kntucky. Watch for the date to be announced later.

The Jemison high school baseball team is practicing regularly now. Up to date, they have played one game, winning over Isabella by a score of 14 to 2. They have several games scheduled.

The P.-T. A. wishes to express its appreciation to the entire student body of Jemison High School and Grammar School for their wholehearted cooperation during the recent tag sale. Friday, March 28th was decided on for tag day in school, and the following Saturday for the public. Student body elected 6 girls to represent them in tag day. Each tag sold represented a vote for the best all around girl. Miss Erin Littlejohn, a popular member of the Senior I class turned in the most money, so won the prize for being the best all around girl. Misses Tommie Lee Sims, Josephine Adams, Ruby Merchant, Vonzell Atkinson, Violet Martin and the winner were elected to lead the sale of tags, which amounted to $25.10. This was added to the fund for the curtain for the auditorium.

Junior Debate

"Was there more Justification in the beheading of Louis XVI than of Charles 1?" This question came up in Miss Clay's history class, which was debated by Alin Davis taking the affirmative and Saly Mahan taking the negative. The class decided in favor of both. A sentence was unjust.

THE JAMES SIGN SHOP IS WORTHY ASSET TO CITY

THE ONLY BUSINESS OF ITS KIND IN THIS PART OF THE STATE

For the next twenty weeks The Union-Banner will give in this column each week a story of little visits with some of the prominent business houses of Clanton. In the accompanying space on this page you will see these business houses listed with an advertisement of each. In the center space will appear the cartoon of the proprietor of one of the places which was sketched by Jack Douglass, cartoonist, on his recent visit of a week in Clanton.

The subject of our visit this week is The James Sign Shop. The sketch by Mr. Douglass in the center column shows Mr. Frank James, the proprietor, holding down the new building which is the home of his business. The James Sign Shop began business in Clanton June the first, 1925. Its first location was a 12 x 14 room over Upchurch Drug Store. On April 1st, 1926, the business was moved to the old wooden building that used to stand where the Robinson Machine Shop is now located. The present modern building, which is the permanent home of the business, was occupied on April 1st, 1929.

Have you ever stopped and cast a critical eye at the appearanc of The James Sign Shop from the street out side? Try it once about candle light in the evening when the place is all lit up. You will find the reason why so many people passing through Clanton carry with them a lasting impression of The James Sign Shop. It is really one of the best looking places of business in our city.

Anybody seeing a good looking place like the James Sign Shop would know at once that there is a finer hand than the hand of a mere man somewhere in the picture. Therefore, I may as well correct myself about Frank being the big mogul or whole cheese. The truth of the business is that Mrs. Mavis C. James has a great deal to do with the appearance of things at The James Sign Shop.

Mrs. James is on duty at the shop every day, keeps the books, sees that everything is in its proper place, and adds innumerable little touches that only a feminine hand can impart.

Frank P. James is 31 years old. He was born at Childersburg, Alabama. Before establishing his business in Clanton, Mr. James was a traveling salesman, selling advertising specialty goods. When he had rambled around over the country to his satisfaction, he began to look for a place to light and establish a business of his own. Clanton was his choice, and we believe it was a happy choice, both for Mr. James and for Clanton. The James Shop has been a growing business from the very start. The volume has more than doubled twice.

The James Sign Shop is affiliated with the United Sign Contractors of North America, through the Alabama division of that organization. Mr. James is a member of the United Commercial Travelers, also a member of the Woodmen of the World. Ever since the Kiwanis Club of Clanton was organized, Mr. James has been an active member. He is chairman of the committee on publicity, in which capacity he is putting forth special effort to properly display Clanton before the world. Frank James believes in doing business and making a living. But at the same time he believes in giving to the community its due portion in return for what the community gives him.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. James, the business employs two men full time. Mr. B. M. Turnipseed, is sign painter, and Mr. Jesse James is carpenter. Jesse James is a brother of Frank James, the proprietor. Mr. Turnipseed is an accomplished brush artist. He knows how to do anything in the way of painting signs. Mr. Jesse James is a natural worker. He is kept busy all the time building frames and structures of different kinds upon which the many different kinds of signs are painted.

Highway bulletins are an important part of the business of The James Sign Shop. Mr. James is in position to put up and maintain highway bulletins anywhere in Alabama. And indeed his work in this line has already extended to many counties in the state. Through The James Sign Shop there are many hundreds of dollars every year brought into Clanton from sources scattered over a wide area in the State of Alabama.

The James Sign Shop is the local agency for the famous Lucas Paints. A complete stock of this line of paints is carried for retail. Lucas paints may be bought in any one of the vast range of colors, in quantities from a half a pint can to enough to paint the biggest house in Chilton County. When you need paints, let Frank James get hold of you. He wants to tell you the many good things about Lucas Paints.

It is impossible for us to tell you everything about The James Sign Shop business in this small space. We want you to visit his place and see it for yourself. That will be far more interesting than anything we might write about it. Some weeks ago the James place celebrated the Fifth National Sign Week. An invitation was extended to the public to visit the place. If you didn't get to go then, make it a point to go next time you are in town. Just go round and tell Mr. James you saw his picture in The Union-Banner, and that you want to look his place over. Of course Frank may be busy, but if he is, he will turn you over to Mrs. James, and I am sure you will enjoy having her tell you some of the interesting things about the business.

THE JAMES SIGN SHOP FRANK P. JAMES

For this, the first reel of our twenty-weeks cartoon feature and business review, our subject will be The James Sign Shop, and the chief mogul behind the business, that hustling, hard-working, and (thanks to Jack Douglass) good-looking fellow, Frank P. James.

The James Sign Shop began business in Clanton June 1st, 1925. Its first location was a 12 x 14 room over Upchurch Drug Store. Two moves since that time have brought the business to its present location in a new building on the Highway across from the Dixie Cafe.

There are a few things about the James business that stand out with prominence. First, it is one of the best-looking places in Clanton. Second, it is a business that reaches out into several counties and brings hundreds of dollars to Clanton. Third, it is not only a sign shop, but an up-to-date paint store as well. The Lucas line of paints is handled in any quantity from a half-pint can to enough to paint the biggest house in Chilton County.

In the columns adjoining this advertisement, we have endeavored to relate the complete story of The James Sign Shop. We hope you will read it and become more thoroughly appreciative of the business accomplishments of Mr. James and his associates.

CLANTON, ALABAMA

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GEVERNOR

In line with our accustomed practice of designating May 1st as Child Health Day, we again bring to the attention of citizens of Alabama the general and special needs of her children. The aims and aspirations of our state agencies of affecting children are here restated:

"It is our purpose that every pro-school child who will be presented for school entrance next September be provided with a copy of his birth certificate; be given the benefit of a complete medical examination in the summer round-up of the children; and that physical defects discovered be so far as possible corrected prior to his admission to school.

"It is our hope that every school child in Alabama, of every age and grade, may be free from harmful restrictions or conditions in order that he may be free to grow in knowledge of how to live and how to be happy.

"It is our hope that every school child in Alabama, of every age and grade, shall have an opportunity to participate in a play program that shall begin early in April of 1930 and continue under adequate and wholesome supervision throughout the year."

Now, therefore, I, Bibb Graves, Governor of the State of Alabama, hereby proclaim child health, growth, and happiness a major concern of the State, and call upon every individual citizen, and especially upon every member of my official family, to cooperate in promoting the health of children and furthering their growth and happiness.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed at Montgomery on the 24th day of March, 1930.—Bibb Graves, Governor.

Mr. C. E. Cagel of Stanton was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Mr. Cagle moved to Stanton about one year ago from Sand Mountain in DeKalb County. He says he is liking his new home better every day.

When A CLEANSING MEDICINE Is Needed

"I HAVE taken Black-Draught all my life, whenever in need of a medicine for constipation," says Mrs. G. C. Burns, of Buna, Texas. "My mother and father used it in their home for years, and I was raised to think of it as the first thing if I had a headache or was constipated.

"At one time I had indigestion real bad. I was all out of sorts; my skin was sallow, and I had gas pains. After a course of Black-Draught, I got all right. I have given Black-Draught to my children, whenever they needed a medicine of the kind."

FROM A. A. JACKSON

Dear Editor:

Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper for a few words, since there is so much being said in regard to chain stores and independent merchants? I read our papers from the pen of the writers. Some taking the part of the chain stores, and some against the chain stores. I also hear speeches broadcast over the radio from different parts of our country, condemning and abusing the chain stores, and taking the part of the independent merchant. My opinion is, that there is about as many Christians in one as there is in the other.

The system by which the chain store and independent stores are run is what we should take under consideration.

We will first take the system of the chain stores. It is an undeniable fact that the owners of the chain stores are Wall Street capitalists and bankers of New York City. This Wall Street bunch, they operate stores throughout the United States. They price the farmers cotton, and corn, and everything that he produces.

The chain store system is handled and operated just about like a department store is operated. In a department store the cashier's office is located on the balcony or platform of the store, they have wires running from the cashier's office to all parts of the store. The clerks collect the cash from the customers of the store and put it in a box and place it on the wire and it goes whizing to the cashier.

This chain store bunch has made a department store out of our United States. They have stores in most all towns that has a population of a thousand people. These stores gather up the cash throughout our country, and put it on their wire and it goes whizing to the bank of Wall Street never to return. The chain store system is a system that drains the country if its cash. Any system that will carry millions of dollars of cash profits out of our country continuously, day after day, will bring panics, poverty distress, and suffering.

Now let us consider the system of the independent merchant. We will suppose they are all rascals. But competition forces them to sell as cheap as they can afford.

But it is the system that we must consider. If our commercial system was such that independent individuals could handle all the commercial business of our country. The millions of dollars that are accumulated day by day would flow and circulate throughout all channels and avenues of commerce and industries and vacations. Everybody would have a chance to get some of the dollars.

Suppose your blood were to fail to circulate through the channels of your heart and pass out through another channel. Regardless of how impure it might be, you know you could not live. This will apply to the chain system of business. The farmer is the heart of our nation, and any system that will prevent the flowing of money through this big heart will produce death. Every farmer knows that he is about dead financially.

In conclusion let me ask each and every reader to study this question from a systematical standpoint.

Yours for a system that will keep the big heart beating.—A. A. Jackson.

Lesson for April 6

THE LAW OF THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-26.

GOLDEN TEXT—If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Proving our Love for Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Proving Our Love for Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Denying Self for Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Cross-bearing in the Christian life.

The lesson topic is narrower than the Scripture text. It includes Christ taking account of His ministry, Peter's confession, Christ's prediction concerning His death and His teaching concerning the cost of discipleship.

I. Christ, the King, Taking Account of His Ministry (vv. 13-17).

1. The place (v. 13).

It was at Caesarea Philippi, the northern limit of Jewish territory, practically in Gentile territory.

2. The time in Christ's ministry.

The cross was only a few months away. The King had already been rejected. They had charged Him with being in league with the devil and sought to kill Him. It was highly important that the disciples have clear views as to Christ's person in order to stand the test of His trial and crucifixion.

3. Peter's confession (vv. 13-16).

(1) The occasion (vv. 13-15). Two questions asked by Jesus Christ provoked this confession. a. As to the opinion of the people concerning Him (vv. 13, 14). They recognized Him as a teacher and prophet of more than human authority and power. Had He been content with this, He would not have been molested in Jerusalem. It was His persistent claim of being the God-man, the very Son of God, that sent Him to the cross. b. As to the personal opinion of the disciples (v. 15). It was not enough for them to be able to tell what opinion the people held concerning Jesus. It was necessary that they have definite, correct and personal knowledge of and belief in Him. (2) The content (v. 16). It consisted of two parts. a. "Thou art the Christ." This avowed Jesus to be the Messiah—the fulfiller of the Jewish hopes and expectations. b. "The Son of the living God." This acknowledged Him to be divine. It was the recognition of His glorious person in keeping with the Jewish hope (Isa. 9:6, 7).

4. Christ's confession of Peter (v. 17).

Those who confess Christ shall be confessed by Him (Matt. 10:32, 33). Christ pronounced a blessing upon Peter—not in the nature of reward, but a declaration of the spiritual condition of Peter because of his clear apprehension of his Lord.

5. Christ's charge to the disciples (v. 20).

He asked them not to tell any man that He was the Messiah. The time was not ripe for such testimony.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced (vv. 18, 19).

Following the confession of Peter, Jesus declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body, to the members of which He would give eternal life, and into whose hands He would entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. Association in this new body cannot be broken by death, for the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it.

III. The King Predicts His Death (vv. 21, 23).

This prediction was no doubt startling to the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried, "This shall not be unto Thee." Later Peter saw through the darkness to the sunlight on the hilltops beyond. A new hope filled his breast (I Pet. 1:3, 4). Victory through death is yet the stumbling block of many.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (vv. 24-26).

Life can be saved only by losing it. If we are going to be Christians, we must share Christ's suffering.

1. There must be denial of self (v. 24). There is a wide difference between self-denial and denial of self. All people practice self-denial, but only real disciples of Christ deny self.

2. "Take up His cross" (v. 24).

This cross is the shame and suffering which lie in the path of loyalty to Christ.

3. Follow Christ (v. 24).

This means to have the mind of Christ—to be like Christ.

Flowers That Are Not Seen

If a man could make a single rose, we should give him an empire; yet roses and flowers no less beautiful, are scattered in profusion all over the world, and few regard them.—Martin Luther.

A Life in His Hands

The right thing is not always the easiest; but God has His schools for training, and a life left in His hands will never fail of its highest development here and hereafter.—Selected.

CHEVROLET INCREASES IN USED CAR SALES

A marked indication of increasing business activity and excellent proof of the purchasing power of the country at the moment, is seen in the announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company today that sales of used cars alone by its nation-wide dealer organization are proceeding at the rate of a million dollars a day.

Used car sales by the Chevrolet retail organization during the first 20 days of the month totaled 105,907 cars, representing an investment of more than $21,000,000.

This showing exceeds by a wide margin the best previous 20 day used car record in the history of the company and at the same time is the greatest 20-day volume of used cars ever sold by any automobile manufacturer.

Factory officials predict that the total for the month will exceed 150,000 used cars, which would compare with 130,000 for May 1929, the best previous month in Chevrolet history.

At the same time used car stocks in the hands of dealers are being reduced to a minimum, placing the dealers generally in excellent position to handle a large volume of new car business this spring.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES NEW MODEL

A further indication of the advantages which accrue to the motorist through the economies of great volume production is seen in the announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company today of a stylish new closed model—the Chevrolet Special Sedan, with body by Fisher.

Introduction of the new model, with its many expensive car features, brings the Chevrolet passenger car line up to nine body styles, three open and six closed. The special Sedan has been in production for several days and shipments are now going out to dealers.

A leading feature of the new model is its equipment of six wire wheels, with large chrome-plated hub caps. The two spare wheels are mounted in special fender wells. The exterior scheme combines smart boulevard maroon on the body with a harmonizing shade of red on the wheels.

Rich appointments found in the interior include arm rests, silk assist cords, compination vanity case and smoking set, rich upholstery fabrics and wide, deep seats with form-fitting cushions.

Like other passenger models of the 1930 Chevrolet, the car is powered by the 50 horsepower, six cylinder, valve-in-head motor; it his fully enclosed, internal expanding four wheel brakes, four lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and a bigger rear axle.

The price of the Special Sedan has been set at $725, f. o. b., factory, Flint, Michigan.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your valuable paper to say to the voters that at the earnest solicitation of my friends and those who know me best I am in the race for Commissioner of the First District.

I will now briefly state to you my platform, or what I stand for.

First, I am for rapid economy, and progress also in all our county affairs, believing that all true progress in political and financial affairs is based on economy. Calvin Coolidge won the admiration of this nation by standing for strict economy. I believe in making every dollar of the people's money do its duty for the good of the people.

Second, I stand for equal rights to all and special favors to none, giving those in the county equal rights with those more promisingly situated.

Third, I am in favor of all employees on the public roads doing a reasonable full day's work every working day, while in the employ of the county, thus helping to eliminate the waste of public funds and waste of valuable time.

Fourth—Our Public Roads. I stand for more permanent work on the public roads. That is, in the winter season, strengthen the worst places and make solid the boggy places in the roads, placing gravel and making firm the muddy sections in preference to so much machine work. For what good to us is a well worked road with a bog in it that we cannot cross or go around?

Fifth, I am opposed to politics having any bearing whatever in legislating for the county or handling the financial propositions for the county. But let every tax payer and all the people, regardless of political affiliation, have equal rights in the administration of the county affairs. While at the same time I am for party loyalty, but that should not have any weight when dealing with the tax payers. I believe in good morals, honesty, in sound business principles, a safe and sane administration must have good business methods.

In conclusion, I am for loyalty to the Republican party. My claims are before you. I would be glad for you to investigate my record and learn what I am; and hope in the coming primary to receive a favorable consideration at your hands. If you are pleased to give me the nomination I shall make an honest effort to be worthy of it, and then in November, if I am elected, I shall consider myself your servant.

At this time I am very busy with my farm work, and it will be almost impossible for me to see all the voters. Hence, I make this appeal to you, asking you to consider my claims, and if some other man is your choice, I shall be loyal to whoever you may nominate. Yours very truly, Jos. E. Cobb.

E. N. Steiner spent Sunday with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hansen, at Lay Dam.

Mrs. Bera Husby of St. Elmo, Ala., mother of Mrs. Charles Howard, slipped and fell to the floor in her home last week, cracking her hip bone. She is at home, having a good nurse to care for her, and is getting along as well as could be expected.

Below is a copy of a note found in a shipment of floral supplies ordered by Howard Brothers from Louisville, Ky., and written by a good friend of Lloyd Howard, who is now at Albany, Ind., across the river from Louisville. "Suppose this is going down to Lloyd's home; just to let you know he is well and happy, and enthusiastic about his work at Rasmussen Floral Co. His friend,—Ward."

The following people attended order of Eastern Star Conference at Montevallo Wednesday: Mrs. J. W. McCain, Mrs. T. W. Robinson, Mrs. J. H. Goddard, Mrs. E. N. Bentley, Mrs. Burton Higgins, Mrs. Donald Merchant and Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson and Mrs. Wm. Billingsley.

Dr. and Mrs. Wood spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. George Mims, who has been ill for some time, is now confined to her bed.

Baptist Ladies Aid Society will be held Thursday afternoon, April 10, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Jones.

The committee appointed by the Ladies Guild of Thorsby to take charge of Railroad Park, namely:—Mrs. G. F. Harper, chairman; Mrs. Bob Davenport and Mrs. J. E. Each; have had the ground plowed and will plant shrubs and flowers to beautify the Park.

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of Thorsby Baptist church, preached last Sunday at New Harmony church in Elmore County, which was his first pastorate when he was a boy preacher.

Two Sunday school training classes are being conducted this week at the Baptist church. Rev. and Mrs. Jones are the teachers.

Grover Bice carried his father to Memorial Hospital last week where he had an operation on one eye for cataract, performed by Dr. Thigpen. It is reported that he is recovering nicely, but it is too soon to know just what the result will be.

The Thorsby P.-T. A. will meet with Mrs. Nels Petersen next Friday afternoon, April 11th.

The Congregational Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Butler Thursday afternoon of this week.

Miss Laura Wood, a graduate of Thorsby Institute in the class of '21, was a caller at Thorsby Institute last Sunday. She is now teaching at Fairfield, Ala.

A very delightful song service was held at Congregational church last Sunday night, led by A. N. Lourell, with Miss Thoroman at the organ, except for special numbers, when Miss Mary Ella Gerald and Miss Odie Lee Arthur sang a duet and Miss Onita Klingelhoefer sang a solo, with Mr. Laurell accompanying. The selections for the congregation were substantial old hymns and were sung by a good audience with vigor and splendid volume of tone.

Miss Mattie Scott, accompanied by her father, left Wednesday morning for Birmingham, where she will have her tonsils removed.

Next Sunday night at the Congregational church Rev. Each will give another lecture, illustrated with stereopticon pictures. The subject will be "Voyaging Among the Plillipines;" while there is never any charge for admission to these lectures, there is considerable expense for transportation of the glass slides both ways. The opject of the lectures is to stimulate interest in missions, in general, therefore oportunity is given for contributions first to pay expenses, and whatever is given more, goes for missions. The house is usually well filled at each of these lectures, but it is rather discouraging to find that the collections do not even pay expenses. When the express bill is $2.50 and the collection $1.70, somebody has to make up the difference, see?

A most delightful occasion was happily observed last Tuesday night when Mr. and Mrs. Norton celebrated the 40th anniversary of their wedding. By the aid of their good friends in Thorsby, a program was prepared and given in the church adjoining their home. After the singing, reading and speaking, the Primary room, supplied with tables for innocent games was utilized for a time. At 9:30 the company adjourned to the home for refreshments and conversation. Had it not been for a precautionary "no presents" edict, there is no telling what an assortment of rubies might have been turned in. To one and all we say Thank You!

She is now organizing another quartette and is training the girls and some of the boys for the Chinese Operetta to take place Apjril 26th.

The Missionary Committee took charge of the Christian Endeavor program last Sunday night. The "Phillippines" was the subject talked about at a Mission Field. A very interesting discussion was carried out. Election of officers also took place. Eunice Williamson is now president, Ruth Primm, vice president, Mary F. Smoth, secretary, and Juanita Each, treasurer. Other officers and chairmen of committees were also elected. Next Sunday night the report of the Christian Life Conference will be read. Everyone is invited to attend.

The Misses Clara and Harriet Moore, of St. Clair, Michigan, who have been motoring in Florida, arrived in Thorsby on their way home, without knowing it until they saw the Institute sign on the campus. Being interested in the school, they gladly stopped to visit for a few hours on last Monday.

Mrs. John Primm, (Hazel Woolley), Miss Stales and Miss Millikan of Birmingham were guests of Miss Jennye Robinson for the week end.

Mr. G. L. Crosby of Detroit, Mich., and David Crosby of Albany, Ga., have returned to their home, after visiting their aunts, Mrs. T. W. Robinson and Mrs. R. M. Smith.

CLANTON WILL HAVE CLEAN-UP FOR NEXT WEEK

Every Citizen Of The Town Is Asked To Join In Movement To Clean-Up

Beginning next Monday morning, April 14th, everybody in the Town of Clanton is expected to clean up their premises. This applies to both business and residential property, and vacant lots that are not used for anything except to hold the town together.

The campaign will last for the whole of next week. The city authorities have made arrangements to have all trash and rubbish hauled off promptly. All you have to do is get your trash together, put it in a pile by the side of the street, and soon it will be gone.

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton is sponsoring this clean up campaign. They did the same thing last year, and the response of the citizens to the appeal was splendid. Let us make it even better this year.

The weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club today will be devoted to the clean-up subject. Full and complete plans will be made then to bring the matter to the attention of every citizen next week. The club will arrange to offer attractive prizes for those people who make the best score in improving the appearance of their premises.

The Kiwanis Club Committee in charge of this program to clean up Clanton is headed by Reedie Taylor. The other members are Frank James, Mell Martin, Sam Ezell.

While we are cleaning up the trash it will be a mighty good time to add a little bit of paint to the needy spots. Clean up and paint up are twin ideas, and each of them are necessary to keep the appearance of our town up to standard. There is plenty of paint in Clanton to make everything look good. And there are plenty of painters to put it on.

Everybody is urged to remember that the clean up campaign starts next Monday morning, and runs all the week. Don't forget it, and don't neglect it.

MOTORISTS BURN $7,105,008 IN GAS

There has been paid into the state treasury $7.105,008.39 as taxes on 178,162,908 gallons of gasoline sold in Alabama in the year of 1929, according to the estimates compiled by E. M. Ellington, special assistant to the state tax commisioner which have been released by the Commision Chairman, Henry S. Long. The estimates said that the average gasoline comsumption of each of the 291,834 motor vehicles for which licenses were issued by the state was 608 gallons.

Taxes levied on gasoline include the two cent per gallon imposed by the legislature of 1923 and the two cents imposed by the present legislature. Revenues from the 1923 tax are distributed equally among the counties of the state for road and bridge construction. Returns from the 1927 levy, form a sinking fund to pay interest on and eventually retire the last $25,000,000 road bond issue.

Petition Of Citizens Seeks Change In Method Of Operation

At the meeting of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County Monday, the subject of public ferries on our rivers was presented to that body in what is perhaps a heretofore little thought of manner. The subject was presented in the form of a petition bearing the names of a considerable number of citizens and business men.

In substance the presentation of the petition was a request upon the court to discontinue the present method of leasing or contracting the operation of ferries to private individuals, and in lieu thereof, establish a system of all time operation and maintenance by the counties and state. In this way, it was pointed out that a better system of operation could be had, and that the public would not be required to pay a fee every time a crossing of a river is made.

Following is the text of the petition that was presented to the Court:

1. We believe that public ferries are parts of public highway systems, and therefore, should be owned and maintained by counties and states.

2. We believe that all parts of highways should be open for travel at all times.

2. We believe that the practice of leasing or chartering public ferries to individuals to be used as a private business for gain is unfair, unnecessary, and should be abolished.

4. We believe that the toll or pay system of public ferries was necessary in the days of the ox-cart when no one paid a tax or license for maintaining public roads, and when public roads were worked with tools owned by individuals.

5. We believe that the toll or pay system for public ferries is wholly unnecessary, and unfair in the days of the automobile, when everyone is required to pay a tax or license for the maintaining of public roads, and when public roads are worked with tools and machines and operated by counties and the state.

6. We hereby petition the commissioners court of Chilton County Alabama to discontinue the leasing or chartering of public ferries to individuals to be used for private gain and establish a system that is in keeping with the progress and development of highway systems.

The matter was taken under advisement by the court for further study, and will perhaps receive some action by the court in the near future. This will open up a subject in which the public is more or less interested. The outcome will be noted with concern by a great many people.

Bake the meringue on pies and puddings at a moderate temperature long enough to give it time to rise and the heat to cook the egg white; then it will hold its shape.

CAPT. W. P. LAY VISITOR HERE THIS WEEK

Capt. W. P. Lay, of Gedsden, was in Clanton on his way to Lay Dam where he spent a few days fishing and recreating. While he was in Clanton he was busy howdy-do-ing with his many friends on the streets and in places of business.

During the past winter his health was not quite up to normal, and he went to Havana, Cuba, for several months. He retnrned from there in March. Now that the weather is better, he expects to visit around extensively over the state.

This is the first visit Capt. Lay has made to Clanton and Lay Dam since the dedication last November.

List of Qualified Voters Published This Week

If Your Name Is Not There, You Have Ten Days In Which To Prove That You Are Entitled To Be Put On

The official list of qualified voters of Chilton County is published in this issue of The Union-Banner. Everybody is urged to look it over and see if his or her name is entered there.

Judge Reynolds has exhausted every means at his command to determine the correct list of voters, so that every man and woman who is entitled to do so may have a chance to vote in the elections this year. There may be some yet whose records are not exactly straight and who are legally entitled to be on the list.

Accompanying the list, Judge Reynolds publishes the following statement and request:

"I hereby certify that, to the best of my knowledge, information and belief, the following is a true and correct list of the qualified voters of each precinct in Chilton County, as same appears from the records on file in my office, and such other available information as I have been able to obtain.

"This list will constitute the list of qualified electors who will be entitled to vote at any elections held in Chilton County from the time of the publication of this list until another list is published pursuant to law.

"Provided, however, that any voter who has been duly registered and who has paid his or her poll tax, if liable for same, whose name has been inadvertently or through mistake omitted from this list to notify me of such omission and have such elector's name included in the supplemental list to be publishd not later than May 1st, 1930."

Boy Stole Whippet Got Into Wreck And Landed In Jail Here

Stole His Fathers Car Was On His Way To Florida

Two automobiles were seriously damaged in a collision on the highway near Thorsby Sunday night. One of them, a Buick, was driven by J. E. Prowder, of Birmingham. The other, a Whippet, was driven by a boy, Glenn Thompson, age 14 years, of Hollywood, Missouri. A man who was riding with the Thompson boy, was slightly hurt.

Investigation of the affair by officers revealed that young Thompson had run away from his home in Hollywood, Missouri, stealing his father's automobile. About 70 miles from home he struck up with the man who was with him in the wreck. The latter suggested that they go to Florida. The Thompson boy said he intended when he left home to go to Texas. He had his suitcase full of clothes and $16.89 in cash.

Officers here took charge of the young man and communicated with his father. A message from the father asked the officers to hold the boy until he could get here. The boy was put in jail.

In talking with a reporter about the incident, the lad said: "It was just a fool notion of mine. I hate it more than I can tell. I just got restless at home and thought I would get out and see the world. I intended to go to Texas until the man I picked up persuaded me to go to Florida. I slipped away from home in my father's car.

"I never had any trouble at home. It was all my fault. I just acted a fool. I believe my daddy will come and take me back home and straighten everything out. If he will, I certainly will stay at home and behave myself from now on. My mother is living and I have three brothers. My father is a farmer and dairyman. I left home last Saturday about 2:30 p. m. I do not believe I was responsible for the wreck. I was on my side of the road."

FIRST STRAWBERRIES HERE TUESDAY

The name of Mr. W. L. Sanders appears in the candidate column this week as the second entrant for the Republican nomination as a member of the Board of Education of Chilton County. Mr. Sanders lives in the Lomax community. He is a young man who takes keen interest in public affairs, although he has never held a public office. In fact, this is his first offer for the votes of the people. There is one member of the Board of Education to be elected this year. The two Republican candidates so far announced are O. H. McDowell, of Concord, and W. L. Sanders, of Lomax.

CLANTON MERCHANTS WILL FORM ORGANIZATION

Meeting To Be Held At Courthouse Thursday Night, April 10

Acting upon a suggestion coming out of the Kiwanis Club, the merchants and business men of Clanton have started towards a movement to form and organization known as the Clanton Merchants Association. A preliminary meeting with this idea in view was called Monday morning at the instance of Mr. Frank James chairman of the Kiwanis Club committee on publicity.

About a dozen merchants and business men were present at the meeting at the County Agent's office. A number of ideas were advanced concerning benefits that might be derived from such an organization. Every person present expressed a hope that the movement could be brought into accomplishment.

Another meeting was called to be at the courthouse to-night (Thursday). A committee was appointed to see every buisness man and woman in Clanton and insist that they come to the meeting Thursday night.

The merchants of Clanton ought to have a permanent and well organized association. There are numberless things for the betterment of the community and business conditions that ought to be given prompt attention every month in the year. With no organization of any kind those things are going unattended to, and Clanton is a town and a community is suffering from the neglect.

REPORT ON JAIL AND POOR HOUSE BY STATE OFFICER

State Prison Inspector Says Jail Was In Fair Order

Hon. Bibb Graves, Governor of Alabama, State Capital.

Dear Sir:

On March 27th the Chilton County jail and almshouse were inspected, and the following report is respectfully submitted:

Seven white men and two negro men were prisoners at the time of the inspection.

The jail was in fair order, beds made up, and the prisoners clean and seemingly well disciplined.

There was no complaint of the food or care, all stating that three well cooked and carefully served meals are given each day.

One boy sixteen years of age was under the care of the county physician for venereal trouble, which had been pronounced when arrested, and Sheriff advised that there was no danger in having him in the cell with the rest of the prisoners.

The Shriff stated that a movement was on foot to build a jail on another lot, which would be considered at some date in the near future.

The inspection was made with the Sheriff.

Almshouse

Nine white women and ten white men were inmates on the day of the inspection.

One of the elderly women had fallen a few days before the inspection and was in ed with an injured shoulder. She had prompt mdical attention, and was receiving the very best care possible under existing conditions.

Two inmates who are helpless with rhumatism, should be provided with rolling chairs.

The rooms and the surroundings were clean and very comfortable, and the inmates stated that they were well cared for.

An abundance of milk, butter, eggs, etc., are used and the ration was ample and good.

A house for the washing should be provided. This work is done out of doors, with no protection from the elements.

The inspection was made with the keeper. The Judge of Proate was out of town, hence, could not discuss the inspections with him.

Respectfully yours,
GLENN ANDREWS.
State Prison Inspector.
April 4, 1930.

Hon. Court of Commissioners,
Chilton County, Clanton, Alabama.
Gentlemen:

Enclosed herewith you will find a copy of a report relative to conditions existing in your county jail and almshouse as revealed by a recent investigation, which you will please regard as an official communication to you and be governed accordingly.

Very truly your,
GLENN ANDREWS,
State Prison Inspector.

Mr. Guy F. Deshazo of Mulberry was in Clanton Tuesday.

COUNTY BUILDS NEW LINK OF HIGHWAY TO MITCHELL DAM PLANT

Connecting With New Road To Rockford Near Corinth

The road from Clanton to Mitchell Dam is now in first class condition. The new highway to Rockford has been graveled nearly to the River, and last week the County machines were put on the short space of road between the highway and Mitchell Dam, and now it is shaped up fine. It was widened out considerably and rounded up in highway fashion. It is reported that the County will gravel this road in the near future.

The grading and graveling on the new highway is being pushed rapidly and is now nearing the river. Charlie Wyatt has everything in readiness for his ferry as soon as the road is finished. So, it won't be long until one can get to the Coosa County capital via the short route.

UNION GROVE

The United Singing Society will meet at Union Grove next Sunday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. Every body invited and especially the good singers.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Traywick of Plantersville Route 2 died Saturday morning. It was buried Sunday at Pilgrims Rest.

NATURE THOUGHT OF EVERYTHING

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle and can be bought from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

CHESTNUT CREEK SINGING

The singing society met last Sunday afternoon with a very large crowd

The singing was called to order by the chairman, Professor L. T. Grant; prayer by Bro. Charlie Hughes. Directors for the afternoon were: A. O. Boswell, J. M. Williams, W. G. Culp, T. E. Wyatt, J. W. Cagle, J. R. Robinson, R. T. Grant, S. M. Yates and I. D. Huett. Pianists for the afternoon were: Miss Berdie Grant, Mr. A. O. Boswell, W. G. Culp, and Lee J. Grant.

Three splendid solos were rendered by Rev. W. H. Kamplain, pasor of Verbena Baptist Church, that was greatly enjoyed by all present. We were very glad to have him with us and invite him back at any time. We were also glad to have with us singers from Mitchell Dam, Clanton Verbena, Enterprise and other places to help us out. All singers and people who love music are cordially invited to come to Chestnut Creek church every first Sunday afternoon. The singing last Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by every body. Now folks, if you didn't come this time you just missed one real good singing. So keep it in mind and be sure to come next first Sunday.—I. D. Huett. Sec.

WOULD YOU KNOW ONE IF YOU SAW IT?

If you ever came face to face with a germ, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a germ, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to make it as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny germs can get into your blood streams through th smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisonins, and many more dangerous and perhaps fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers—washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

NINE-TENTHS PREVENTABLE

Nine-tenths of all diseases of the American people can be traced directly to constipation, doctors say. Constipation throws into the system poisons which taint and weaken every organ of the body and make them easy victims for any germs which attack them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and financial losses. Herbine, the good old vegetable cathartic, will prevent constipation in a natural, easy and pleasant way. Get a bottle today from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

STUDY PROVES EGG A FOOD ARISTOCRAT

Auburn, Ala., April 7.—For health an egg a day for each member of the family over two years of age and an egg yolk for the baby is recommended by nutrition specialists at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Eggs are one of the best sources of iron and protein as well as of the vitamins A and D, and they contain phosphorus and lime or calcium. The white of the egg is rich in protein while the yolk contains the grater part of the minerals and vitamins. Since the baby receives protein from his milk, the yolk is the only part of the egg which he needs, other children and adults will be benefitted by the whole egg.

Vitamins A, B, and D the present in the yolk, vitamin A in the greatest quantity. This vitamin aids growth and helps the body resist infections like colds and sinus trouble. Vitamin D also helps resist infections and aids in the prevention of rickets.

EXTENSION WORKERS FIGHT ILLITERACY

Auburn, Ala., April 7.—Acting upon instructions from Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, county and home demonstration agents of Alabama are cooperating in teaching adults to read and write. They are working with county superintendents of education and others.

"We must do our best," Professor Duncan said, "to teach everybody to read and write and thus remove from our beloved state the cloud due to illiteracy."

MORE FERTILIZER ON LESS ACRES

With a total of 65,000 tons of fertilizer tags issued by the State Department of Agriculture last week total sales mounted well above the half million ton mark, on April 5, according to a report issued by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture at Montgomery.

Whether sales of fertilizer may exceed the record smashing total of 1928 is unknown, but they will be very large, said Mr. Griffin, who pointed out that sales to date were more than 36,000 tons ahead of the total average of 1927.

Motor vehicles registered in the United States in 1929 numbered 26,500,000, reports the U. S. Bureau of public roads. On these the states and District of Columbia collected fees amounting to $347,800,000. In Alabama 285,500 motor vehicles were registered and fees paid totaled $3,736,000.

Middle Life Suffering

"THREE years ago, I was in bad health," says Mrs. J. B. Bean, of Kirbyville, Texas. "I was going through a critical time, and I suffered a lot.

"My back hurt almost all the time, and my legs and ankles ached. My head hurt me until sometimes I would be almost past going.

"As I had used Cardui before, and knew how much I had improved after taking it, I got a bottle and started taking it. I continued to use it for several months. After awhile I regained my health, and I feel that I could never have gotten through that awful time without Cardui."

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

HEAVY FERTILIZER USE PROFITABLE

When heavy applications of fertilizer are used, greater profits normally follow in cotton production. Alabama farmers normally receive greater profits from the use of fertilizer than obtain in any other nearby cotton state, according to statistics compiled by F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician. While adjusted acreage seems necessary in the case of cotton, in order to avoid overproduction, there should be no stinting of fertilizer application.

Farmers who plant less acres and use heavy fertilizer applications will normally come out with more dollars in their pockets, than those who reduce fertilizer applications to a dengerously low amount.

AUSTRIAN PEAS AT W. L. POPWELL'S

The writer enjoyed a brief visit to the farm of W. L. Popwell Tuesday, in company with County Agent Stapp, John Thompson, Watts Moore, and Hance Alred. We went to see the process of plowing in a heavy growth of Austrian Peas on Mr. Popwell's place. It was a very interesting demonstration, although it was merely a regular routine affair on this modern farm.

County Agent Stapp estimates that the past, which were being ployed in will yield nitrogen equivalent to more than 400 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. As proof that peas will yield sufficient nitrogen for land of this kind, Mr. Stapp points out that demonstrations have been made by adding 400 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre to land where peas were turned under, and he was unable to tell any difference between where the nitrate was put and where there was only peas turned under.

Mr. Popwell was using a Farmall Tractor drawing two large turning plows. The plows cut 24 inches at a time. The machine will turn under ten acres a day.

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of Thorsby Baptist Church was here Tuesday inviting his friends to come to services in his new church building next Sunday.

BETHSALEM

I wish to correct a mistake that was in the report last week. Instead of there being 48 on roll, there are 98 on roll.

Our Sunday School met at the regular hour Sunday morning, and we feel that we are progressing nicely. We want more to come out every Sunday and help us meet the standard of excellence. We meet every Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Everyone has a cordial invitation. — Agnes Askins, Reporter.

MRS. J. H. RAMSEY

Thursday morning, April 3rd the death angel visited the home of J. H. Ramsey, near Selma, Ala., and wafted away the beautiful life of their beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Alice Ramsey. She had been in ill health for several months. We feel that during her illness all that medical aid, loving hands and tender hearts could do to comfort her was done. But when the summons of death came she slept as the closing of a beautiful summer day.

Mrs. Ramsey was a devoted wife, mother and a true Christian. She will be greatly missed in many ways. She bore a beautiful personality; everyone was her friend. To know her was to love her. It is in the home, however, where she will be mssed the most. She was always a comfort to her family, and was endowed with a cheerful disposition, always having a word of cheer for everyone.

Her memory will live in the hearts of her friends forever. We hope to see her sweet face again; sometimes we feel a hovering spirit near, warning us against a world of woe.

She is dead, yet she ever liveth in the home of the blest. She is waiting for her loved ones to meet her in that happy home, never to part any more, for God said, "There will be no parting there."

She realized the end was at hand, and expressed herself as being ready to go. How comforting to the bereaved ones to remember the words she left behind. Her place will ever be vacant in the home.

Mrs. Ramsey leaves a husband and two boys, Gordon and Woodward; three sisters, two brothers, other relatives and a host of friends to mourn her departure. Bro. W. J. Ruddick conducted the funeral services. The remains were layed to rest in the Mt. Carmel cemetery Friday, April 4th, to await the resurrection morn.

The esteem and love of her friends were manifested by the beautiful floral offerings.

What is home without a mother?
All the things a world may send—
For when you have lost your mother
You have lost your dearest friend.

She wore the crown of patience;
Through the years she struggled on,
And those hands that rest forever
Were the hands that made the home.

Her troubles in this life are over;
She paid the debt we'll have to pay.
But if we live the life she lived,
We'll meet her on that happy day.

May God's richest blessings rest upon the entire family in their sad bereavement. — A true Friend, Lela Lawley.

Pioneer Fertilizer Mined on Barren Lands in Chile

Introduction to United States in 1830 Marked First Use of Commercial Fertilizer.

THE first hundred years in the use of commercial fertilizers can now be recorded in the agricultural history of the United States.

The practice of using commercial nitrogen as a fertilizer was started in 1830 when the first shipment of nitrate of soda was brought to this country. Up to that time only lime and marl of the inorganic substances now commonly used for agricultural purposes were known to the early farmers. Used continuously since that time, nitrate of soda, or Chilean nitrate, as farmers commonly call it, is now recognized as the oldest of the present-day commercial fertilizers.

Although nitrate of soda has become a commonplace article on farms throughout the country, it is not generally known that one of the romances of modern civilization is woven around this fertilizer. It is a product of a barren desert, high in the Andes Mountains of northern Chile. There is no rain or vegetation in the entire nitrate zone, which occupies a region nearly as large as the combined area of New York and Pennsylvania. Not a blade of grass springs from the soil, beneath which is one of the most important fertilizing compounds known to Nature.

The nitrate ore is found at various depths below the surface, the average being about three feet. It varies in richness from 5 to 70 per cent sodium nitrate. Open-cut mining is practiced in removing the ore, after which it is transported to a refining plant erected near by on the desert. The refining of the ore is an extremely technical process. The objective of the operations, however, is to remove the impurities from the ore and to concentrate the sodium nitrate so that when ready for shipment the fertilizer contains 96 to 99 per cent sodium nitrate and analyzes 15.5 per cent nitrogen. Iodine, which is also present in the ore, is a by-product of the refining process. Small quantities of this element are found in the fertilizer, as are also traces of boron and magnesium.

Conservative estimates by geologists and engineers in Chile indicate that the deposits are of sufficient size to supply the needs of the world for generations to come.

Red Letter Events Found in American Agriculture

1830—Nitrate of soda introduced into United States. In point of service, nitrate from Chile is exceeded only by lime and marl of the inorganic substances now used for farm purposes.

1842—Lawes in England took out patent for making superphosphate. Since that time phosphate deposits have been discovered in our southern states and in Africa.

Work of Early Farmers Recognized

Styles in ships have changed greatly since the first commercial fertilizer was brought to this country. Above—Modern liner of the type that carries 1,000,000 tons of nitrate of soda annually to the United States from Chile. Right—Freighter in service in 1830. Inset—Herbert C. Brewer, director of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau.

THE older generation among Southern farmers deserves credit for laying the foundations of the modern soil-improvement programs which have proved so successful in raising the yields and profits on our farms.

This is shown by the experience of Southern farmers, now past middle age, who have volunteered information about the earliest users of nitrate of soda in their states. Some of these planters have been using fertilizers continually for quarter of a century, and one farmer in South Carolina reports that he first used nitrate of soda back in 1875.

As part of the 100th anniversary of the use of nitrate of soda in this country, recognition in the form of a distinctive award is to be conferred upon the farmer in each state who has used this fertilizer for the longest period of time. This award is being given by the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau. Letters from farmers are reaching the office of the Educational Bureau daily and the awards will be made this fall.

"Four generations of Southern farmers have used commercial fertilizers during the past 100 years," says Herbert C. Brewer, director of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, "but efficient soil-building practices were not understood generally until the last quarter century. It remained for our educational agencies, such as the extension services of the state agricultural colleges, to popularize the practices which could be depended upon to assure the most economic production. At present, thousands of farmers are doing daily what only a few of the most enterprising did a half century ago."

'BAMA BERRIES BRING BIG BILLS

Alabama strawberries will tickle more palates than ever according to reports issued by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, who says that due to refrigator express shipments, Alabama berries can now be sent to Boston and New Englend points and easily as far as Denver in the West.

Previously, berries could only reach as far as Chicago or Pittsburgh owing to shipments on refrigator freight cars. With the inauguration of faster express shipments Alabama berries will reach thousands of tables more than ever before. The use of a precooling refrigeration at Atmore on the state farm will also send state-grown berries in better condition than ever before. 'Bama berries wll appear on Beacon Street, Boston, almost as fresh as when picked from South Alabama fields.

A. A. JACKSON CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENATIVE

A. A. Jackson well known citizen of Lomax, has announced himself a candidate for Represenative of Chilton County in the Legislature of Alabama. He will make the race for the Republican nomination for this office in the primary of August 12.

Mr. Jackson states that he is making announcement in responce to the petition of a large number of voters, which was published in the Union-Banner last week, and he will make his campaign on the platform which was outlined in the said petition.

Farming is the occupation of Mr. Jackson, in connection with which he also runs a store at Lomax.

He first came to Chilton County on a visit in 1900, at which time he lived in Chambers County. while here on his visit he subscribed for the Banner. In the following year he moved here, settling on what is known as the Sunburg place. In 1903 he moved to Lomax where he was appointed postmaster. Later he mover to Birmingham where he lived fifteen years, after which he came back to Lomax.

Politically Mr. Jackson is a Republican, and boasts of the fact that he has never voted anything but a straight Republican ticket.

When he first came to Chilton County, he began agitation for the propositions for the stock law and good roads. He was in the thickest of the fight to establish stock law in this county in the days when that movement was hot and in many instances intensly unpopular.

"I expect to fight for the farmer," said Mr. Jackson. "I intend to continue, as I have always done, to take the part of the farmer and contend that he be given an equal and fair show with each and every other kind and class of business of industry. Such a fight needs to be staged in the lawmaking body of the State of Alabama. If the people of Chilton County elect me to the legislature, I assure them that such will be the basis of my officials actions."

THE THINKER LEADS MODERN PROGRESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

THE greatest need of the world today is interpreters of our times —modern Daniels in agriculture, finance, politics, industry — who can see through the fog and haze that enshroud our difficult problems and advise, instruct, and influence those who are either indifferent or limited in their perceptions.

John G. Lonsdale

Through the thinker and the interpreter, unknown situations are disclosed or puzzling conditions explained in logical light. The American people are so constituted that they can meet and combat any situation once it is known and understood. It is the unknown that comes like the thief in the night and brings disaster.

Some one has defined prosperity as something the business men create for the politicians to take credit for. But America's present-day prosperity can be defined as a product resulting from the business man's ability to study and to interpret. Huge corporations maintain research staffs and special bureaus to interpret the times for them. Disaster looms in the offing for any industry that goes blithely on its way day after day without due regard to significant trends in trade and business.

Keeping Up With Change

Leaders of finance have discovered that they cannot remain passive in an age when all the rest of the world is in a transitional stage. The modern banker not only must know about the changing styles in other lines of business, but above all must be alert to the transformations which are taking place in his own. He must be a man of keener broader vision, because the order of the day is for larger units of service. Mergers and consolidations have taken place in great numbers. We now talk of billions where a few years ago we talked of millions.

We have only begun our changes. What disposition is to be made of the many problems that they bring will depend in large measure upon our leaders, upon the students and the interpreters who can read accurately the signs of the times, so that we may base future actions and hopes upon their wisdom. The quickest way to go to the top is to go to the bottom of things, and let us hope that among them will be found many who will not only aspire to leadership but will be successful in reaching their goal.

LUTHER FOSHEE HAS TEXACO FILLING STATION

The new Texaco Filling Station on the McSwain property has been opened for business, with Mr. Luther E. Foshee in charge of the place. For several months past the work of constructing the building has been under way, and its completion is pronounced by the public as the most attractive place of its kind in Alabama.

The location of the business is in a strategic place for the automobile service, being on the east side of the Birmingham-Montgomery highway at the point where the Selma Road empties into the paved highway. Mr. Foshee has a leased contract on the place, and handles the full line of Texaco automobile products, both gas and oils.

In addition to the Texaco line he also has frachises on a number of standard high grade automobile accessories, chief of which is Goodrich tires.

The Foshee Service Station is the name under which the business will be operated. It is the last word in service to the motorist. It makes no difference what is needed to fit you up for your motor trip, you can get it all in one stop at this place.

Just a word about Luther Foshee, the manager. He is a well known character in automobile circles all around over this section of Alabama. He has been engaged in one or another phrase of the automobile business in Clanton for several years. He takes great pride in his new business, and invites his friends to bring their cars to him for whatever they need at any time.

FARMERS WEEK SET JULY 28—AUGUST 2

Auburn, April 7th.—The annual farmers week exercises at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for 1930 will be held July 28 to August 2. Announcement of this was made by President Bradford Knapp with a statement that a program for the occasion will be for the farm women as well as men.

In addition to the usual exercises the annual convention of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation will be held at Auburn, July 31 to August 1. By this arrangement, Farm Bureau Delegates and representatives may spend the first three days of the week in the farmers week exercises which will be climaxed with the Farm Bureau convention.

During these six days farm people of Alabama wil come in close contact with their State College of Agriculture and the work it is doing. As usual, the College of Veterinary Medicine will be a major factor in the gathering.

A special program will be arranged for the farm women, many of whom are expected to attend. As in former years, the Alabama council of home demonstration women will hold their annual convention in conjunction with the State Farm Bureau convention. This organization of women is composed of active county organizations in more than half of the counties of the state.

President Knapp says that the aim is to make this the biggest and best of any farmers week exercises yet held at Auburn. That of 1929 established a new high record and the aim is to build and improve from year to year, he said.

County agents and home demonstration agents of the State will be in Auburn during the week. Others interested in agricultural work will

Bad Railroad Wreck at Verbena Friday Night

A fast freight train of the L & N Railroad jumped the track at Verbena last Friday night, resulting in one of the most destructive wrecks ever recorded in this district.

The train was coming north, carrying a heavy load of produce and fruit. Something went wrong just as the cars were passing the station at Verdena, and about eighteen of them were piled and scattered all over the right of way just north of the crossing.

None of the train crew was hurt Some hoboes got caught in the smash and sustained severe injuries. Among the injured ones was Will Vinson, a Clanton negro who had just got out of the penitentiary and was making his way back home. Martin's ambulance was called to the scene and brought the injured men to the hospital in Clanton.

Wrecker crews and section workmen were rapidly assembled at the scene of the wreck. Traffic was resumed over the lines early Saturday morning.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

A Breath From Happy Hollywood

I HAVE often told the truthful tale of the distinguished New York theatrical magnate who told a well-known playwright that he didn't care to consider putting on the latter's newest piece called "The Dauphin," because he was sure the American people would never care for a play about a fish.

Then of course there is the tale told of that other and equally prominent manager who, on hearing a synopsis of a dramatization of "David Copperfield," said he liked the story and asked who the original author of the story might have been; and then, when the adaptor told him this honor had belonged to Charles Dickens, said promptly:

"Well, you better get in touch with this here Charley Dickens and bring him in to see me and we'll talk over the royalties, and if the guy ain't unreasonable, why we'll fix it up a contract and go ahead with the production."

But the contemporary authorities agree that for a wide and comprehensive and all-embracing ignorance of the classics these dignitaries in the realm of the spoken drama are not to be mentioned in the same admiring breath with some of the leaders of the moving-pictures industry. A man lately back from sinless Hollywood brings with him two anecdotes regarding a strictly self-made gentleman who holds an important, indeed a commanding position, in one of the biggest of the studios. This gentleman chooses subjects for screening; he casts the companies; he passes on details of location, of costuming and of treatment; he bosses the directors and he issues orders to the actors.

Not so very long ago he was told that the editorial department of his plant looked with an eye of favor on the project of making a film version of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Promptly he put his foot down on it.

"Nix," he said; "we positifly wouldn't do it. The public is fed up on these here college plays with football players for heroes."

A few days later he personally was supervising the taking of certain scenes of a comedy. In the script prepared from the author's scenario by the continuity writer, he came upon a line to the effect that the leading woman should be pictured as seated alone in a deep reverie.

"Come with me, you," he said indicating the assistant director, the leading lady and the cameraman. "I know just the place for taking this here piece of business."

He loaded the three of them into an automobile, got in himself and bade the driver take them along a certain road winding into the foothills above Los Angeles. After an hour or so of steady travel they came to where a narrow but precipitous canyon cut into the contours of the landscape. Here the leader of the expedition gave orders to halt.

"There you are," he stated, with a wave of his arm, "you could look for a week and nowhere you wouldn't find no deeper reverie for her to be setting in than what this one is."

HOT ROLLS

Where is the person who doesn't like hot rolls? And yet knowing this to be a fact, many women never attempt making hot rolls for their families, thinking it is a difficult process. Making hot rolls is easy. Once a housewife starts making them, she will always make them. Her friends will demand them when they come a-dining, and almost over night she has a reputation for making rolls that fairly "melt in your mouth."

The recipe I am going to give you requires little kneading and handling and only a short time of mixing until ready for the oven. The secret of this quickness lies in the fact that we use soft wheat and plenty of yeast. We call them Parker House rolls, and you make them as follows:

2 cups scalded milk
2 tbsp. sugar
2 compressed yeast cakes
6 to 7 cups soft wheat flour
1½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. fat

Scald the milk, add the sugar, and let cool until it is lukewarm; add the yeast and stir until it is dissolved. Then beat in enough flour to make a soft batter. Add the salt and fat and stir in enough flour to make a soft dough. Place on a floured board and knead just enough to obtain a smooth dough. Place the dough in a greased bowl, cover with a cloth, and let stand until the dough is double in bulk; cut with a large biscuit cutter, grease the biscuit with melted butter, crease through center with knife, and fold one-half over the other; grease the top of each roll and place on a well greased baking sheet to rise. When the rolls double in bulk, bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F). These delicious rolls require only about 1½ hours.

Scotch to the End

Plves: "What do you mean?"

Miles: "When he felt a heart attack coming on he managed to fall in front of a passing auto, so the insurance company would have to pay his widow double indemnity."—New England Printer.

Don't Blame Her

Daughter: "Oh, I'm saving that for a windy day."—High Tension News.

Willie Knew

A lady was entertaining the small son of her married friend.

"Are you quite sure you can cut your meat, Willie? she asked after watching him a moment.

"Oh, yessum," he replied without looking up. "We often have it as tough as this at home."—Excelsior Life Banner.

"A piece of taffy."

"A piece of taffy? Why a piece of taffy? It's no good to you."

"Oh, yes, it is; it has my teeth in it."—High Tension News.

This subsequently resulted in the American Institute of Banking in which are now enrolled 35,000 bank men and women engaged in the study of the technical and scientific phases of the business.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ALABAMA COTTON

The officials of the Agricultural Economics Department of the Alabama Experiment Station have found some interesting facts about Alabama cotton. The department officials have sampled cotton in several towns throughout Alabama since 1926. The report shows the following valuable information as to cotton staple:

In 1926 they sampled 5,047 bales. Seven per cent were under seven-eights inch staple; 92.4 per cent was seven-eights inch staple; and 6.8 per cent was more than seven-eights inch staple.

In 1927 they sampled 5,585 bales, of which 14.6 per cent was under seven-eights inch staple; 84.6 per cent was seven-eights inch staple; and 8 per cent was over seven-eights inch staple.

In 1928 they sampled 100,000 bales, of which 22.9 per cent was under seven-eights inch staple; 70.3 per cent was seven-eights in staple; and 6.8 per cent was over seven-eighths inch staple.

In 1929 they sampled 50,000 bales, of which 43 per cent was under seven-eights inch staple; 54.2 per cent was seven-eights inch staple; and 2.8 per cent was over seven-eighths inch staple.

In other words, since 1926 the report indicates that Alabama cotton has shortened in an alarming way.

The records of the experiment station show that we have high yielding varieties that run near one-inch staple. See your county agent and arrange to plant better cotton seed.

Agriculture's annual purchasing power of goods and services averages $10,000,000,000; it gives the railroads a substantial tonnage, pays 20 per cent of the cost of government, and furnishes almost half of the export trade in merchandise.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Proffessor Boyle, of Cornell University stated the other day that the desire of the modern woman to become slender has altered marketing standards of long standing, has cut the consumption of bread twenty per cent and considerably affected the wheat sales of the world.

All of which goes to show how much Dame Fashion has to do with modern economic conditions. There is much truth in what Professor Boyle has to say. The modern woman desires a slender figure beyond almost anything else, and she wants it as long as she lives. She no longer desires to settle down at forty or forty-five and await the coming of old age with philosophical resignation. As a result she lunches on lettuce leaves and shredded fruit instead of pork chops, white bread and potatoes.

But it will not do to blame it all on to the ladies. The modern man, too, likes to keep his waistline under control and he is fast getting the salad habit. He no longer desires to settle down at fifty, grow a beard and watch his increasing years and growing belt line.

As a result the sale of bread and potatoes falls off and the farmers suffer. Dame Fashion is at fault because, no matter what they may tell you, most of these reducing men and women are not in search of better health but of more graceful lines.

Therefore it may be said that Dame Fashion has a great deal to do with our changing economic conditions, and if we want to help the farmers why not get Dame Fashion to bring corn-fed girls and shaggy middle aged men with protruding waistlines back into fashion again.

Then there is the cotton and woolen industries. In the good old days when dresses swept the floor and a woman's wealth was estimated by the number of petticoats, when sleeves were long and voluminous, these were good times indeed for the textile manufacturers, and if we want to help them let us take the matter up with Dame Fashion.

Every older person remembers what happened to the carriage and harness business when the automobiles became common. Well Dame Fashion has been fooling with other industries although we don't realize it so much. Strap watches put a crimp in manufacturers of watch chains. After the safety razor had nearly put the barbers out of business, Dame Fashion decreed bobbed hair for women and saved the tonsorial artists, although this was hard on the manufacturers of feminine hair ornaments. Now if long hair comes back for women and the men start growing whiskers once more, three will be no further economic changes. Think what the return of whiskers would mean to the pottery business which is now in the doldrums. Every man will want a moustache cup and some of them will even get two or three at Christmas from loving aunts and nephews. The possibilities in the pranks of Dame Fashion are boundless. So if there is something the matter with your business just check up on Dame Fashion and then double check her. You are liable to find that the fickle old girl is at the bottom of at least a part of your troubles. Things are not what they used to be, and at times we doubt seriously whether they ever were.

UNCLE SAM HELPING "KING COTTON

Two great departments of our government, those of Agriculture and Commerce, are now busy in cooperation with the Cotton Textile Institute in the search for new uses for the important cotton crop grown by our American farmers in the South. The work started with a survey of the present various uses of cotton which has been completed and study is now being directed to find new uses for this important American raw material. Already the work is meeting with success. In an article in the current issue of the National Republic on "Helping Out King Cotton," Mr. Hancock Adams says:

"After the new uses staff of the Department of Commerce had completed the initial phase of their work, they began the second, and perhaps the most important. This second phase consisted of a sudy of every industry with the view to finding how the use of cotton could be increased, either as a raw or a semi-manufactured material in the article produced, or as a part of the equipment or process incident to the manufactur of the same. Members of the staff have visited scores of industrial plants in various parts of the country. They have made first hand observations of manufacturing processes, methods of packing and shipping, and of materials and equipment used, in order to determine the possibilities for the increase in the use of cotton. In doing so they have conferred with managers, purchasing agents and engineers of the plants visited, in order to give and receive suggestions concerning new and extended uses of cotton. Correspondence has supplemented he primary data thus obtained. Industries which have already been studied include consruction, leather footwear manufacture, motion picture production, awning manfacture, tent manufacture, interior dcoration and tire manufacture.

"In the construction industry, it was found that tarpaulin offered a chance for an increased use of cotton. The study was made by James B. Lockwood. His researches developed the fact that a number of fabrics, but principally duck, are used in the form of tarpaulins, to inclose buildings under construction, in order to maintain a temperature that would permit the finishing of the interior in winter. The use of the tarpaulin thus facilities winter construction, and this means a larger consumption of cotton fabrics.

"In the rubber manufacture industry as well as in the manufacture of leather footwear, it was found that millions of yards of various kinds are used for a number of different purposes. It is possible, however, to increase the quantity of cotton used by increasing the cotton content of the other fabrics used. The blending of cotton with other fibers, would it is believed, result in a cheaper and yet more suitable cloth than some of the expensive fabrics now in use. Herbert A. Ehrman is the expert who had charge of the study of the rubber tire industry, while Edgar C. Crosby and Robert Skliar made the survey of the boot and shoe industry.

"James B. Lockwood studied the awning industry, one that uses a large quantity of cloth. He has come to the conclusion that there is a possibility of materially insreasing here the consumption of cotton. Plans have been made and recommendations submitted to national organizations concerned to include awning specifications with the architects for plans for buildings which, he believes, will bring about sizes and styles of awnings in greater harmony with other features of the building than is now the case. In order to ascertain the present trend of the demand for awnings, as measured by the consumer's preference, a questionaire has been prepared in cooperation with the Cotton Textile Institute. This questionaire has been nationally distributed, and the results have been published in the "Awning". This will be the basis for laying further plans for increasing the use of awnings, and therefore awning cloth, through the physical improvement of the fabrics used, no less than by enhancing the artistic value of these through better styling, construction and finish."

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Of late, the POTTER has been carrying the POT out into a lot of deep water, and, at times, the wading got just a little bit ticklish. Sometimes, when we started back to the bank we found quick-sand, and instead of getting out of the deep water right off the reel, we only succeeded in getting in a little deeper.

It ain't what it's cracked up to be, we can tell you, to get 'way out from the bank, in any sense—much less so, when you are talking about the FOLKS. Some people don't care for criticism—others like it. The former maybe don't like it because they're afraid something will be said to show them up—the latter like it maybe because it gives them a chance to see themselves as others see them. That gives them a chance to eliminate their faults. Maybe the former dont want 'em eliminated. We don't know.

Be that as it may, what we want to get at is to tell you that we are going to steer clear of the serious stuff for a while. Of course, a little solid stuff every once in a while will do anybody good, but too much of it will do us harm. So, just to kind of relieve the situation for a spell, we're going to give you a new version of the ALPHABET. The alphabet! A new one—the candidate's alphabet. It may take two or three weeks to go thru with the whole rigamarole, but if it does we just can't help it. So here goes for a bunch of good, hearty laughs when you lean back in your easy-chair to enjoy the JACK POT. Here 'tis!

THE CANDIDATE'S ALPHABET

A—THE LETTER of beginning, is sharp on top, you will notice, but stands firmly set on its two legs. Inasmuch as every candidate would have you believe that he is that kind of man, sharp at the top and solid at the bottom, it is the logical letter to begin with, even if it didn't just naturally come first. That's the first little item he'd have you realize. Besides all this, it is firmly braced across the middle with a nice little bar, for staunchness.

Of course, like a lot of candidates, "A" is built so he can easily "straddle the fence" if he should so desire, but of course they don't do that any more—oh, no! "A" stands for the applesauce he (the candidate) is so good at dispensing. It is so expected, though, and nothing comes of it. "A" might also stand for lots of other things as pertain to candidates—Accept (the position, if he can get it); Anxious (to serve the dear people); Able (we never saw one who wasn't); Action (oh, boy, just watch 'em).

Maybe that ain't all the things "A" could stand for as pertains to candidates, but that'll do for a starter. Besides, we've got twenty-five more of these little old letters to get through with before long, and so we'll pass on to "B".

B—STANDS for Busy, Builder, Bad, Better, Bull, Bunk, "Boloney", Bottles (of drinks), Bother, Boresome, Bolter, Beat, Beaten, and Bug-house—read 'em and weep. Most any of the above terms will apply to the general run of candidates in some way. There are lots of others—if you think of any extra good ones, pass 'em on to the POTTER.

C—STANDS for Care, Careless, Conscientious, Crafty, Crooked, Cranky, Clabberhead and a thousand and one other things. However, we expect that most of the boys want "the dear people" to recognize in the "C" section that THEY are, without doubt, the "Class of the Crowd". How's that?

D—STANDS for—but wait a minute. This is one of the best ones. Under this letter comes Democrat. What a break! Yep, there's Democrat, Dupe, Do, Don't, Did, Does, Didn't, Dignified, Dabbler, Donkey, Dreams, Dreamer, and many, many other terms too numerous to mention. Just think how these terms might apply to candidates.

E—THAT'LL do for easy, Energetic, Empty, Eager, "Eats," Early, (and late), Educate, Eggs (and ham), Elastic, Enemy, Extra (good), Exact, Election, and—but why name any more? All of these apply or should apply; any way, "E" is in the alphabet, and we gotta have something for it to stand for ain't we? If you can think of any better ones, let's have 'em.

F—GOOD enough for Funny, Fussy, Failure, Family, Fop, Foolish, Fair, Fat, Forty, Fish, Fiddler, Fame, Frame, Ford, (worn out in canvassing), and another raft of terms to apply to the slick office seekers. Slick? Yep! They're that, all right—some of 'em any way. But that's gettin' ahead of the story.

G—JUST "Gimme the Good, Glad Gripper and watch me Go Get the Goods on these Grafters that Got your votes by promising before, and then didn't live up to 'em." Ever hear a candidate say that? Maybe he said it in different words, but most of them have said it, or will before the campaign is over. Listen for it!

H—STANDS for Hoo-ey, Has, Hash, Hush, (money), Heat, Hurt, Ha-Ha, and about a million others, also, that are a part of the Hot office aspirant's stock in trade. Some of 'em he will own up to, and some of 'em he won't.

I—NOW, NOW! That's the prize winner. The one candidate who can get that little old gangle-shanked "I" before his audience and get it to sink in the best has the inside track on all the others. Did you ever listen to one of 'em rave? Count the time he says "I". Start early and count fast, though. If you don't you'll get way behind. Remember, "I" is short and easily spoken—if you don't mind he'll slip a big bunch of 'em BY you.

J—THAT'S a good one for the Jokes all the old boys pull. Jokes? Folks, you ain't heard nothin' yet. The experienced "vote drummer" can tell you more old stale long-forgotten Jokes in thirty minutes time than you can re-tell in a week. He's as full of 'em, new and old, as a dog is fleas. But listen to him patiently—maybe he will tell you a new one you haven't hard a million times already.

K—THAT'S for Klan. Or Klansman. He's either a Klansman or he ain't. He'll try to find out, too, whether you are one or not. But don't tell him—just laugh up your sleeve and watch him try to pump you. "K" stands for Kiss, too. You'll think a campaign wouldn't have any bearing on the babies, but, poor things, theirs is the worst part of it all. Just think of all the Kisses "mama's pet" must put up with from the office seekers. It's a good thing the babies can't vote—all the boys would be beat—that is, all the baby Kissers.

Well, we've got to wind up somewhere, and this is as good a place as any. We'll sign off now, and start off next week with "L", and tell you all we know aout some of the Long-Legged, Loose-Lipped Loafers who Linger Longer than you have time to Listen. So long!—"JACK".

REPUBLICAN MEETING IN BIRMINGHAM

The Alabama Republican Executive Committee met last Saturday. The principal business of the meeting was to arrange for a State Convention to nominate a state Republican ticket this year.

It was ordered that the State Convention be held in Birmingham on Augnst 14, immediately following the State Democratic primary which will be held Tuesday, August 12.

Chilton County's place on the State Committee was vacant on account of the death of Monroe Hubbard last year. His place was filled by the election of Jasper N. Dennis as a member of the committee.

A number of Republicans from Chilton County attended the Committee meeting last Saturday.

BLAMING UNCLE SAM

One certain outlook of the London Naval Conference is that if it should be wholly or partially a failure, the cry will be raised in the United States by the numerous element which has the motto "My country, always wrong," that Uncle Sam is to blame.

Whatever this government does or doesn't do, it can always be figured out by these American outlanders that we have had new proof that America is a roaring lion in the midst of bleating lambs, the "lambs" being nations which have kept the European continent a cock-pit for centuries.

Naval reduction at London depends cheifly upon the willingness of France to maintain her present naval strength in proportion to that of England. France has demanded that the United States sign a pact guaranteeing French "security." This involves the possibility that the United States might be drawn into another European war. Of course our internationalists, professedly interested in peace, would be glad to involve America in such a war-breeding scheme, but our government knows that this nation has fought the last war with the origin and purposes of which it has nothing to do. Hence the United States will not sign such a pact.

England and the United States long ago agreed on parity, and there would have been no necessity for either the Geneva or London conferences if the spirit of that agreement had not been violated by a heavy British building of cruisers which has destroyed that parity. Great Britain did not build against us, but in the light of her supposed needs as against other European powers. Nevertheless parity with the American navy was destroyed.

The obstacle to naval reduction is the European situation. This government has presented no obstacles whatever. Nevertheless, when the conference is over and no heavy mutual sinking of battleshrips is in sight, the caterwaulings of our internationalists will arise, and Uncle Sam will again be cast for the part of the villian in the piece.

Some day the latent anger of the American people aganist these European provincials of our will arise in appropriate intensity. What they really want is to reduce the United States to a position of naval inferiority and impotency, although such a policy would be a guaranty not of peace but of war fought at a disadvantage.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

With the coming of Spring The Man on the Corner finds it more pleasant to walk about town than to stay in one place. Then too, one may see more sights if he moves about from place to place. There are a lot of things and people to be seen in Clanton any day. It is wonderful to think how much more there is going on in Clanton now than a few years back. Some of the readers of The Banner in distant places occasionally write me and tell me how they enjoyed this or that in the paper. I wish that they could come back here for a while and see for themselves the many changes that have taken place.

There is no harm in walking about. Once I read something on that subjct in a newspaper column. A young lady wrote to the woman who was conducting the column said: Dear Mrs. Harland: My mother is always objecting to innocent things I do. Please advise me if there is any harm in a young girl eighteen years of age taking a walk in the woods Sunday afternoon with a young gentleman. Mrs. Harland published the inquiry with the following answer: "No, my dear, provided you keep walking."

So I have decided to walk about and observe things. Frequently, of course, I hear something interesting and stop to listen. Monday morning I went into the County Agent's office. Always something doing there. It is one of the busiest places in Clanton. Jasper Dennis has it for his headuarters. There are hundreds of farmers who do business with Mr. Dennis in some way. It is also headquarters for the Farm Bureau.

On this Monday morning there was a group of Clanton business men and women assembled at the call of Frank James, chairman of the Kiwanis Club Committee on Publicity. They were considering a plan to organize a Clanton Merchants Association. This is an excellent idea. I hope the merchants of Clanton will follow it up to a perfect conclusion. There are many problems of business that very vitally concern Clanton merchants. These problems can not be met and solved without an organization. Another meeting will be held at the courthouse Thursday night. If our merchants will quit worrying over a lot of their business difficulties long enough to help organize the Clanton Merchants Association, they will then be in shape to do something about those things that are worrying them.

Met Glenn Boyd on the street and he raised the hospital subject again. A good idea he had, like this: Clanton ought to get hold of that engineer again before he completes his work in Alabama. Maybe there is something else that could be added to what he saw on his visit last week. We simply must have a favorable report on the Jasper Dennis place as a location for the hospital.

Found Sam Ezell and Ernest Childs talking about folks growing old. Neither of them will admit he is in that class of folks. Therefore I went on, concluding that it is worthless to hear two fellows talk about something of which they admittedly know nothing.

A. A. Jackson, of Lomax, getting up steam for his race for representative in the Legislature. His is a farmers platform. He is a farmer. He believes the farmers ought to have more attention from the lawmakers. I am a little bit afraid of that. My observation has been that when the lawmakers in the legislature begin to give attention to a certain class of business interests, it is usually that business that gets "tended to," to use a pet phase of the late lamented Jim Grant. But I guess that comes about on account of what kind of men the lawmakers are. Maybe Mr. Jackson will not be that kind.

Jim Daniel of Lomax told me he is making preparations to go to Shelby County and run a saw mill. Jim used to teach school, work on the railroad, farm, and sawmill. I think he has finally discarded all the others and gone in for saw milling straight. He will be with the Vinzant boys in Shelby.

Glenn Thompson, a boy 14 years old, ran away from home in Missouri. Stole his father's car. On the way to Florida. Got into a wreck near Thorsby. Couldn't stand up under the questioning of officers. Told his story. A wire from his father said hold him. The boy was put in jail. Pitiful scene. Remorse of conscience brings floods of tears to his eyes. Believes his daddy will come after him and get him straight and take him back home. "If he does," said Glenn, "you can be sure I will not take another fool notion like this." This should be a lesson to many boys who think they are tired of commonplace things at home. There is no place like home. But it takes costly experience some times to make a fellow believe that.

Mayor Buck Hart came down the street all diked out in a pair of overalls. At first I thought maybe the overall club was getting started again for the coming summer. Found out that Buck was engaged in unloading a car of cement, brick, lime, etc. Clanton has a working Mayor.

Alf Mims was in high Monday. He is running for Tax Collector. He believes he will get it this time. Says the folks over the county are giving him mighty good encouragement. It will be fine for Mr. Mims if all that encouragement turns out to be votes on August 12.

A young fellow sitting up close to the front in Judge Smoot's Court last week. Lighted a cigarett. Bring him around, Sheriff, said the Judge, pointing to the man with the fag. Young man, pay the clerk two dollars, and put out that smoke. Did the young fellow pay it? What's the use to ask that question? I didn't know it was against the law to smoke in here, he said, as he settled back into his seat. I reckon you know it now, imparted his neighbor in the next berth.

Did you notice anything unusual about the elements Sunday? It was one of the really curious days. Many folks were attracted by the peculiar weather conditions. I have seen nobody who could explain the situation. The whole world was filled with some kind of haze or smoke that made it look like the sun was in eclipse.

Saw Chief of Police, John Boockholdt, playing with one of John Turner's cotton seed planters. Asked him did he reckon he could operate one of them things. Ah. he said with a sigh, I know more about that than I do wearing this police uniform. As I passed on I thought the Chief looked homesick.

German newspapers say that in cancelling half the French war debt Uncle Sam gave the French means to build up their navy and that therefore the French now do not have to practice naval economy. Our internationalists ought to be sorry now they didn't succeed in getting Uncle Sam to cancel the other half of the debt. Then France could have a real navy.

The doctors over in France have found a woman with a twenty-inch snake living in her stomach. We didn't know they sold that kind of stuff in Europe.

DOMESTIC RABBIT MEAT

Rabbit meat is hard to beat. Any one that has ever tasted domestic rabbit meat is especially fond of the delicious flavor and nutritiousness of this delightful food product, and always come back for more. Once in a while some one who has never eaten this tasty meat, will say, "Why I did not know domestic rabbit was good to eat" or "I just couldn't eat rabbit, etc. Well why not? Did you ever stop to think that domestic rabbit is bred, born and raised, in a clean sanitary hutch, eats nothing but grain ration, alfalfa hay and clean water? Can you find a cleaner animal? Did you know that domestic rabbit meat is all white meat, has four drum sticks and is 85 per cent nourishment? Did you know that when you buy a dresses rabbit it is ready to cook and there is absolutely no waste ? This meat is good the year round. Being just as nice in August as the cooler months. Other animals are eaten with a good deal of relish and regularity that are not near so clean in their habits and the food they consume. A nice fat broiler with its pink meaty hind quarters, tender fore quarters and lean loins, together with the rib pieces and fleshy sides as soup stock and rabbit pie, is a real food product fit for an epicure, fried or smothered, baked or broiled, or made into rabbit pie. Served with golden brown hot biscuits, currant jelly and good coffee. I can think of no better food combination to thoroughly satisfy the inner cravings of a normal appetite. In selecting your next meat try a domestic rabbit and don't shy away from the larger ones either. The little fellows are delicious and the larger ones are better. All are good, but the larger ones have a sweet flavor and for this reason some folks prefer the larger ones to the small broilers.

Now here is a tip to the thrifty house-wife, that possibly you never thought of. Domestic rabbit meat makes the best chicken salad you ever tasted. Try it and see for your self. For your health's sake.

Colonel J. W. E. Gulledge of Union Springs and Birmingham was in town a while the first of the week. Mr. Gulledge exprssed the hope that he might be back in Clanton to live in the near future. He will be welcome.

With such a profusion of candidates it seems there is a chance for the candidates to defeat themselves. Also a chance for the will of the majority of the voters to be defeated. But every candidate has an undisputed right to run, and the voters have the right to concentrate on one or divide their votes among all. But in either case loyalty to the victor will make you successful.

We hear much paniey talk at this time. And with our fast mode of living, even a light panic would be distressing. But we will not stop and think. We have drifted into a channel of spending and fast living. So there is no hope of avoiding the ordeal.

Marion Cofer's relatives from Siluria visited him Saturday evening.

J. N. Cofer made a business trip to Maplsville last week.

...SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

By GRACE VIALL GRAY

EASY TO MAKE COOKIES

No homemaker knows how easy it is to make cookies until she has used self-rising flour. By using this flour, time is saved because the baking powder and salt have already been added to the flour in right proportions which makes for dependability.

The woman who uses self-rising flour for her cookies, pastry, cakes, and biscuits never has to apologize for her products for they are always of the same excellent quality

It pays to have one standard cookie recipe which can be varied from one baking time to the next. This makes for ease and quickness in baking. Such a standard cookie recipe is as follows:

Standard Cookie Recipe With Variations.

½ cup fat
⅞ cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups self-rising flour
½ cup milk
1½ tsp. flavoring

The following flavoring may be used:

Grated Orange or Lemon Peel
Vanilla
Peanut Butter
Coconut
Pecans
Walnuts

CHEVROLET EXPANDS PLANT TO INCREASE PRODUCTION

The Chevrolet Motor Campany today announces an expansion of its production capacity through the opening last week of the rebuilt and enlarged assembly and export plant at Tarrytown, N. Y.

Th new Tarrytown plant has a capacity of 900 cars daily, and is one of the two export plants maintained by Chevrolet in the United States.

Completion of this plant places Chevrolet in more advantageous position to meet rapidly expanding sales requirements for its product along the Atlantic seaboard. In addition, the move was made to thoroughly modernize the plant and bring it up to the high standard of equipment and efficiency that characterizes Chevrolet plants in other sections of the country

The new plant is a one-story brick and steel structure, 1,200 by 400 ft., with monitor type roof, providing for the maximum light and ventilation. Adjoining it is a new two-story building for offices, 200 by 60 feet, of concrete and brick construction. The plant has two domestic assembly lines and an expert boxing line. The export division of the Tarrytown plant serves many countries at present inaccessible to the overseas Chevrolet plants. In several instances, Chevrolet finds it more expedient to ship direct from Tarrytown to a foreign country than fron a Chevrolet plant overseas. In the case of the Tarrytown plant this applies only to countries that receive cars fully assembled. The other Chevrolet export plant at Bloomfield, N.J., ships only knocked down parts for assembly at General Motors plants overseas.

The finished Chevrolet cars, assembled and boxed at Tarrytown are put on barges and floated down to New York City, where they are put aboard ships for various parts of the world.

An instance of precision manufacturing methods employed by the Chevrolet Motor Company is seen in a statement today that 5,162 separate inspections enter into the building of every motor for a Chevrolet car. So insistent is the company on accuracy in both materials and workmanship that one man in six at the giant Chevrolet Motor plant at Flint, Michigan, is an inspector.

Mr. Z. J. Jones of West Chilton was here the first of this week doing census work.

Thorsby Baptist Church

The auditorium of Thorsby Baptist church will be occupied as a house of worship for the first time at the usual hour for morning and evening services Sunday, April 13th. Rev. W. Jones, the pastor, will officiate.

Our Baptist friends are certainly to be congratulated that they now have such a beautiful and commodious auditorium, practically completed. The main room, with its alcoves on either side, which may be curtained off for class rooms, affords a comfortable assembly room. Twenty-seven windows and a beautiful French door admit a flood of light through ridged glass, preventing glare, and 8 attractive electric chandeliers for the lighting at night, together with the soft tones of the walls and ceiling, make it a very pleasant place of meeting. The pews and trimmings, railings, etc., finished in dark wood, accentuate the light from all sources.

A very substantial looking Baptismal Fount is incorporated in the rostrum. While there is much yet to be done to finish the ground floor with its sixteen class rooms for a modern Sunday school equipment, we commend the spirit that has undertaken and will complete this modern house of worship and center of spiritual lif in Thorsby. It shows what can be done when "The people had a Mind to Work."

The Baptist Ladies Aid social will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. J.W. Jones.

Mr. Luther Rowe and a young man friend and two young ladies from Howard College attended the Christian Life Conference. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Turner and son, Harris, and daughters, Ruth, Elsie and Marjorie, made one of the largest family delegations to the Conference, though formerly residents of Thorsby and always welcome, they now reside at Powderly, in Birmingham.

Miss Lois Primm of Lay Dam, Miss Lorena Primm of Womans College, Montgomery. and her Japanese roommate, were delegates to the Conference.

The delegates from Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., were Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland, and Ragnar Ekblad and the Misses Annie Lou Arthur, Hazel Maddox and Doris Freeman, all formerly in Thorsby Institute.

Clinton Arthur and William Each of Montgomery were in Thorsby for the week end attending the conference.

Misses Theresa Gibbons and Frances Murphy, former T. I. students, were in Thorsby for the Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Thompson of Birmingham were Sunday guests of relatives here.

Mesdames J. H. Goddard, W. H. Raybon, Burt Higgins, Bob Smith and J. E. Each spent Tuesday in Montgomery.

Rev. E. W. Butler will preach Sunday at Congregational church, in the absence of the pastor, who, with Misses Klingelhoefer and Addie Primm, will be in Selma as delegates to the State Christian Endeavor Conference from April 10 to 13.

Mr. C. P. Turnquist has returned to his home in Thorsby, after a month's visit with his daughter at Fairfield.

The P.-T. A. meets with Mrs. Nels Petersen this week Friday afternoon.

Mrs. W. C. Payne, sister of Mrs. Norton, arrived in Thorsby Wednesday and will visit a few days before going to Birmingham, where she will become housekeeper for Mr. Yancey M. Kelley and little daughter, Audrey.

On Saturday Mr. Collins had some negroes arrested; they were taken to the mayor's court and fined $10 and cost for reckless driving.

Mr. Grover Bice went to Montgomery Wednesday to bring home his father, J. Bice, who has been in a hospital for two weeks for an operation for cataract on the eyes.

CHRISTIAN LIFE CONFERENCE FOR 1930

Our Christian Life Conference is over for another year and the young people of Thorsby have shared with their guests a rich fellowship in worship, in thought, in study, and in play. The sessions opened most appropriately with a service in the United Protestant Church conducted by Rev. J. E. Each. After a brief opening business session carried on by the conference chairman, Miss Alta Each, we welcomed Thorsby for this conference.

We always look forward to the sunrise meeting out of doors Saturday morning. This year rain drove us into the church, but the spirit of worship was with us, as Miss Lola Gerald led our thoughts toward the possibilities of the new day before us. That day was very busy with its variety of sessions. Discussions, addresses, games, stunts, devotional services, banquet and picnic supper. Our discussion leaders were Dr. Ensminger, Rev. Gerald Harris, Rev. Lucy T. Ayres, and Miss Marguarite Davison. Mr. Luther Rowe, a Thorsby graduate who is always welcomed with pleasure, gave a very helpful message on "Faith." Our vesper service was conducted by the group from Piedmont College on a hill top facing the setting sun. This lovely spot had been selected by the committee and was found by the other delegates by means of a lively hare and hound race. Our picnic supper was enjoyed here too. At the close of a jolly social in the evening everyone was delighted to have Miss Aiko Kawai, a student at Woman's College, who has come recently from Japan, tell us about school life in Japan and show us the native dress and interesting articles made in her country.

During Sunday School hour we were led in devotions by Dr. Beougher from Piedmont Junior College and Rev. G. Stanley Hunt told us about that school. The children and young people of the Sunday School presented a brief Missionary Pageant, "Making Friends with the World." Dr. Ensminger gave the message at the morning service.

The closing session of the conference was held at three o'clock in the afternoon. During the business meeting new officers for the year to come were elected. They are as follows: President Chairman, Gerald Smith; Vice Chairman, Kathryn Foss; Secretary, Eunice Williamson; Assistant Secretary, Odell Rowe; Treasurer, John Adams.

Miss Lorena Primm led the devotional service of the consecration meeting and Rev. Lucy T. Ayres took charge of the Communion Service. At this service everyone felt challenged to a deeper consecration of life to the will of God and to the leadership of Christ.

Our conference meant a great deal to many of us because of the fine spirit of the young people who planned and carried out their plans. The music, the decorations, the fun the food, were all supplied by committees of young people under the leadership of tachers of the Institute. It would be hard to find a finer example of cooperation than this Conference has been. We look forward to a similar experience next year.

The first quart of strawberries for market, season 1930, was brought to Wright's Drug Store Thursday afternoon, April 3rd, by Archie Robinson, and sold in less than one hour for $1.00, which proves that the more strawberries people eat the more they want and are willing to pay the price to get them. Strawberries are largely a luxury and many people will buy in preference to a necessity. Apparently, the crop will be much shorter than last year, but a short crop will often bring more money that a large crop, and will save labor, crates and other expenses. Our farmers are learning to diversify and not put all their eggs in one basket.

Mr. Stoughton Bice is spending his vacation with Mr. and Brs. Grover Bice. He works for a coal and ice company in Bessemer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pate and Mrs. Earl Collins motored to Shaw's Mill Sunday on a picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Wyrosdick and sons, Hugh and James, of Birmingham spent the week end with Mr. Wyrsdick's sister, Mrs. Norwood Johnson, in Thorsby.

Mr. Otis Robinson and two friends, Joe Watts and George Wheeler, of Birmingham, spent the week end with Otis's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Robinson.

Mrs. Arthur Villadsen returned Saturday frim Palata, Fla., after a three-weeks visit with her sisters, Mrs. Clarence Bice and Mary Sue Robinson.

Mr. Ralph Parker of Birmingham is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley.

A GOOD VARIETY OF COTTON

What difference does the variety of cotton make? Just a difference of $19.35 per acre in four years tests in Central Alabama valuing cotton at fifteen cents per pound resulted between the best yielding varity and the poorest one in the variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. In North Alabama the difference in favor of the best variety was $14.60 and in the tests with wilt resistant varieties $13.65 as compared with the poorest yielding varieties.

With the same labor, fertilizers, and cultivation the variety made a difference ranging from $14 to almost $20 per acre.

Chilton County farmers cannot afford to take chances with untried varieties. Many varieties are being grown in this county which not only fail to make the amount of lint cotton per acre that the farmer has a right to expect but they produce a staple that falls below 7-8 inches. Only those varieties making 7-8 to an inch and better staple should be grown.

Coming in Fine

The doctor's little daughter had strayed into his surgery, and was watching, wide-eyed, as he tested the heart and lungs of a patient. Suddenly she spoke:

"Getting any new stations, daddy?"

A GOOD STAND OF COTTTON IS ESSENTIAL FOR PROFITS

For the greatest profit from land, labor and fertilizer involved in growing cotton it is absolutely necessary to have a good stand. No farmer makes money fertilizing and working "skips" in the cotton field.

Several points should have careful attention by every Chilton County farmer in planting and in chopping cotton if a regular stand of cotton is to be had at picking time.

In the first place, plant enough seed to insure a good stand. Not less than a bushel of seed per acre and better a bushel and a half per acre if gin run seed must be planted.

It is not unusual for farmers to try to save planting seed. But saving a peck or half bushel of planting seed worth from 25 to 75 cents may easily cost as high as $15 to $20 worth of cotton at picking time.

In the second place, cotton is often planted too deep. Sometimes seed are left in a deep trench. Heavy rains drift the soil from the sides of the furrow in on top of the seed thus covering so deep that the plants cannot come thru. Seed should not be planted deeper than is necessary for sufficient moisture for germination.

Third, fertilizer and seed should not come in direct contact when planting as the fertilizer may destroy the germinating power of the seed. There should be about an inch of soil between the seed and the fertilizer.

Fourth, when the cotton is chopped be sure to leave sufficient plants to insure a good stand. The cotton should stand two and three stalks per hill about every eighteen inches. It should be kept in mind when chopping that many plants will be destroyed in "dirting" and later cultivations. Ample cotton should be left when chopping to take care of this later loss. A "skip" an average of every ten feet over an acre may reduce the yield 100 to 200 pousnd of seed cotton per acre.

1. Plant 1 to 1 1-2 pushels of cotton seed per acre.
2. Don't plant too deep.
3. Don't let seed and fertilizer come in contact.
4. Leave a good stand of cotton—2 to 3 stalks about every eighteen inches.—C. E. Stapp, County Agent.

WHAT TO DO WITH WINTER LEGUMES

When To Turn

Turn either vetch or Austrian winter peas when there is sufficient growth to pay. It is not necessary to wait until these crops are in full bloom before turning. To do so may cause the succeeding crop to be planted late. And worms may appear in large numbers. In addition, the soil may become hard and dry, making turning very difficult. This is particularily true if turning must be done during warm weather with mules.

When a square 10 feet by 10 feet in the average of the field will cut 13 pounds of green vetch, the equivalent in nitrogen to that of 300 pounds of nitrate of soda has already been stored. Austrian peas should weigh slightly more per square—around 16 pounds for same results.

How To Turn

Turn with a two-horse plow and rolling cultivator. Many farmers determine the time to turn by turning before the legumes are too large to turn satisfactorily with a two-horse plow and rolling cultivator.

What To Plant After Winter Legumes

Corn is the most satisfactory crop to plant after hariy vetch or Austrian winter pas. Land making about 15 bushels per acre will easily make 30 bushels after these crops.

Corn needs no fertilizer whatsoever after these winter legumes.

If cotton is planted after either hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas, apply after planting application of the Auburn method; that is, 400 pounds of superphosphate, 40 pounds of sulphate of ammonia or 50 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 50 pounds of muriate of potash and leave off the usual side dressing of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime.

When To Plant After Winter Legumes

Corn or cotton should not be planted until after two weeks after the vetch or Austrian winter peas are turned. Planting too soon after turning may result in poor stands. The legumes must have time to decay before the crop that is to follow is planted.

"SERVING FARM---FACTORY--FIRESIDE"

Full Rows

FULL ROWS

Vol. 1, No. 10 Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corporation Copyright 1930

"Thousands of farmers are amply competent to run their own business and do run it well—but thousands more would find their incomes more satisfactory if their efforts were better directed."—Wheeler McMillen.

V-C

On Good Authority

Cotton farmers—16,501 of them—tell the National Fertilizer Association that their average return is $4.71 in exchange for every dollar spent on fertilizer. They say that their profits on fertilizing cotton, over and above the cost of fertilizer, range from $13.61 per acre average for Texas to $31.88 per acre average for North Carolina. According to the 16,501 farmers, these profits are paid by increases in pounds of lint per acre ranging from 94.6 pounds average for Texas to 211.9 pounds average for North Carolina; by increases in dollar value per acre ranging from $17.64 per acre average for Texas up to $41.46 per acre average for North Carolina.

V-C

"Price per ton means nothing. Price per pound of plant food is the true measure of value and economy."—Massachusetts Agricultural College.

V-C

50 Years with V-C Brands

"We have been in the seed business 50 years, and since the beginning we have uninterruptedly sold Owl Brand guanos. We have on our books today the names of customers who have used V-C brands through us for the past 40 years and are still using them. Our sales have steadily increased and we expect them to continue growing. We are pleasing our customers as well as ourselves by being 100% loyal to V-C."—W. Grossman & Sons, Inc., Dealer, Petersburg, Va.

V-C

"Rural life is basic. Without the farmer there can be neither life nor prosperity nor security. Agriculture produces the food and the fiber that sustain and shelter the race."—Louis J. Taber, National Grange.

As a result of concerted effort to extend the uses of cotton, more cotton-made articles were worn and used in 1928 in the homes of the United States than for many years previously, says an article in The Country Gentleman; and 1929 was expected to go far beyond this new record.

V-C

Spice of Spring

Other scents mark other seasons, but the smell of fresh-turned earth says "Time to plant! Catch that V-C on the breeze?"

V-C sharpens the air of the older countrysides with its reminder of planting. On many a faithful old farm V-C is a family tradition—and as the newer regions learn that fertilizing pays, V-C goes on to make more friends. Hundreds of thousands of tons of V-C fertilizer are put into the ground each year—to come piling back as early yields, heavy yields, yields rich in market quality; yields that return all their cost and pay handsome profit besides.

Because V-C fertilizer is a wise investment like good seed and good land, because it makes money, V-C rides the breeze wherever good farming is practiced. V-C belongs with planting time—it is the spice of Spring.

V-C

City Visitor—"Why do you go over the potato field with such a heavy roller?"

Farmer—"I want to grow mashed potatoes this year."—Fliegende Blaetter, Germany.

V-C

"On eight acres I gathered and ginned eleven bales of cotton, averaging 500 pounds. Used 700 pounds of V-C Owl Brand 10-4-4 at planting time and 100 pounds nitrate of soda as a side dressing just after chopping. Have always found V-C well balanced and in perfect mechanical condition."—J. O. Wall, Eatonton, Ga.

"A ton of fertilizer per acre, costing $40, does not disturb a man who produces $1,000 worth of product per acre."—Dr. Firman E. Bear.

V-C

V-C Leads the Way

Full Rows is not much given to bragging, but when the talk turns to these high-analysis concentrated fertilizers that so many authorities say are coming soon, we just can't help cutting loose and doing some tall bragging about good old V-C. Not about ourselves, mind you! About V-C.

V-C was the first fertilizer manufacturer in this country to produce a high-grade fertilizer of concentrated analysis. V-C at the time was making concentrated acid phosphate, 45% to 47%, having been the pioneer fertilizer manufacturer of this material. The Company turned easily and naturally, therefore, to the manufacture of a concentrated complete mixture, and about eight years ago V-C began producing "V-C Super 30," an 18-6-6—the pioneer among super-analyses.

Today V-C is making "V-C Super 60," a 36-12-12, just double the strength of that original 30 unit super. So far as Full Rows is aware, no other manufacturer in this country is formulating a complete fertilizer as high in analysis as this 36-12-12 of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corporation.

Leading farmers in the Carolinas and Virginia and Georgia are learning to use "V-C Super 60." The brand has not been introduced yet into other states because freight charges on shipments from Charleston, S. C., the only plant where V-C is making the goods, would be too considerable an item.

V-C

"I furnish what my trade specifies—V-C."—W. D. Joyner, dealer, Rocky Mount, N. C.

V-C

"It seems inevitable that the average farm will increase in size."—W. M. Jardine.

V-C

Canada Is Learning, Too

"As the plant food content of the Canadian soils slowly diminishes, farmers realize more and more the value of fertilizers in obtaining increased yields."—Commerce Reports.

"Clear up your skin, dear, and you will be popular, too"

If you desire a clear skin you must keep your blood in good condition.

Skin troubles and sallow complexion speak of body weakness — a deficiency in the red-blood-cells.

A lovely, clear skin is within your reach

may be found in every good drug store in America. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. Sold in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

© S.S.S. Co.

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

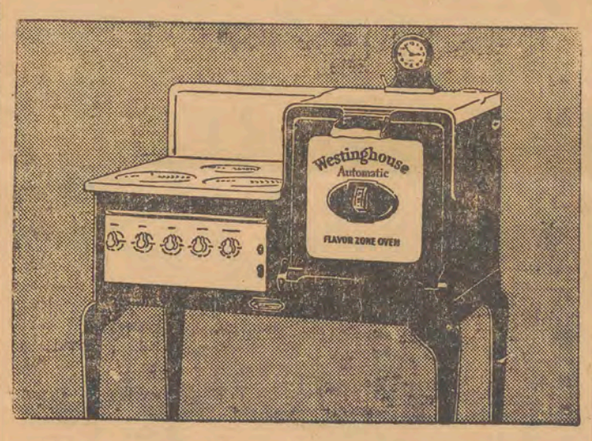
A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.



Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

CHEVROLET

It's wise to choose a SIX!

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—the only way to get six-cylinder smoothness. Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves motor, chassis, body, passengers, and driver.

The Chevrolet is a six. Yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay. And it lasts longer, because of fine materials, oversize parts and a big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine that always "takes it easy."

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six saves gasoline and oil, through modern efficiency—overhead valves—high compression power—latest carburetor—long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. Thus Chevrolet brings truly modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy also means sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are adjustable—to save replacing. Chevrolet molded brake lining greatly reduces brake upkeep. The rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet means accessibility. The whole car is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement. There are four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, with self-adjusting spring shackles to maintain quiet.

Modern low suspension and extra wheelbase give the Chevrolet Six good proportions. The front view is distinguished by the honeycomb radiator. The gasoline tank is at the rear for safety and finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher"—style, quiet, safety—Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction—non-glare windshield—adjustable driver's seat—deeper cushions—greater leg room—clearer vision—finer fabrics and fitments.

There is just as much extra value throughout. BY ANY STANDARD the Chevrolet Six is the wisest choice in the low-price field . . . with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor . . . with full scientific equipment . . . with Body by Fisher . . . with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

LAUNDRY PLANT OFFERS SERVICE OF MUCH VALUE

Finished Laundry, Family Wash, Dry Cleaning, Done In The Most Modern Manner

The Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company, was organized and began business in Clanton in September, 1926. The promoters of the business were F. L. Thompson, and his Father, J. W. Thompson. They came here from Montgomery, where they had extensive experience in the laundry business. The Thompsons are natives of Bibb County. The business was at first located in the old Chandler Building where the new postoffice will be opened in a few weeks.

In December, 1927, the business was moved to its present location in the Johnson Building across Sixth Street from The Union-Banner office. This move was made necessary in order to acquire more space for the aditional machinery required to take care of the increased volume of work.

At present the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company, emplos eleven people. Leo Thompson personally supervises the entire operation of the plant, giving special attention to all family dry cleaning. Dewey Maddox is the washman (not washwoman). He has been at this job for three and a half years. Joshua McDaniel has charge of the clothes pressing department. For the past twenty years Joshua has been pressing clothes in Clanton. He has done so much of it till it is natural with him, just like walking, or eating.

The route men are Leonard Gentry and J. W. Thompson. They drive the two laundry trucks all over the territory served by the business, making two regular trips each week, taking up and delivering laundry. Mr. Gentry has been with the business two years. Upon Mr. Gentry and Mr. Thompson rests largely the important matter of contact with the public and bringing in the business for the plant and employees to work out.

Here is a complete laundry and dry cleaning service that is fully equipped with machinery and human hands trained to carry on the work according to the most exacting requirements of the housewife. The family wash is done in this modern plant in a manner that is far more satisfactory than the old plan of sending the clothes to a negro wash woman. If you don't believe it, ask one of the many satisfied customers who have proven it for themselves.

Real odorless dry cleaning. What does that mean? Ask the man who has tried it. A suit of clothes cleaned in this way does not have that awful smell of gasoline and chemicals that you have many times noticed with sorrowful misgivings. I have seen times when a suit of clothes that had been cleaned smelled so loud that you dared not go to any particular place until you had aired out for an hour or so. The new methods that are used at this laundry bring your suit back to you without that awful smell.

Every effort is made at all times to improve the service to the public by the installation of improved equipment and policies. Service of this kind has accounted for itself in the growth of the patronage that has come to Mr. Thompson and his plant in the last four years. The plant is now twice as big as it was as first, and is serving more than twice as many people.

From time to time in the past you have perhaps read about some of the added improvements that have been made to the plant of the Clanton Loundry and Cleaning Co. Principal among these was the addition last year of a filter plant to put the water in proper condition for loundry usage. Before that time Mr. Thompson had no end of trouble with the different kinds of devilment in the water. It would not behave itself in a manner at all suited to washing clothes. At an expense of many hundreds of dollars he installed a filter system that took all the foolishness out of the water, and enabled the laundry to turn out a class of work that was up to the most exacting standards.

In addition to those named above, the following persons are employed in the plant: Miss Lillian Thompson, Miss Edith Mae Thompson, Mrs. F. L. Thompson, Miss Vera Maddox, Miss Gracie Cooper and Mrs. Howard Gillespie.

A visit to the plant of the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company will prove an interesting adventure. Mr. Thompson is at all times glad to have visitors. He especially likes for the housewives of the territory he serves to come and see the plant in operation. In this way he can best impart to his customers the cleanliness with which washing and loundering is done.

F. L. THOMPSON

Around the energy, vision, and business acumen of a young man 22 years old, has been built in the short space of four years, one of the most important businesses in Clanton. The young man referred to is Leo Thompson, and the business is the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Company.

This business was started in Clanton in September, 1926, located in the old Chandler building where the new postoffice is to open in a few weeks. In December, 1927, it was moved to the Johnson Building across the street from the Union-Banner office. The latter location affords more than double the space that was first occupied when the business was established.

To say that the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company is an asset to the town and community does not fully convey the idea we want to impress upon those who may read this little story. It is a valuable business to Clanton, first in that it renders a service which the town could not well get along without. Second, it is valuable in that it gives to eleven employees a means of earning a livelihood. Third, it is valuable to the town and community, in that it reaches out over a territory approximately 35 miles in every direction around Clanton and brings business here that in turn brings many hundreds of dollars to Clanton that would go somewhere else, but for the fact that this business is here to render the service which it is rendering, and for which the people in this territory are glad to pay.

You will find on this page accompanying this advertisement, a full and complete story about Mr. Thompson and his business.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

"LORD, HELP ME"

"Lord, help me," is a sentence Andrew Bonar, a Scotch preacher, always used in his prayers. In days of transition, when God is calling us into full fellowship to a higher life, to be honest and truthful, that is the only prayer I can offer. I just say over and over again, "Lord, help me". And so for you I say "Lord, help my friends." I need to know the need of this more and more to get closer to Christ. The truth is I need to get "in His heart and stay there". I need to push myself in His heart of mercy and compassion.

As I studied this, I thought, "He has a heart as big as the world. It takes in every man, woman and precious child on the face of the earth." This morning He walks up to us and reaches out His hands, which were nailed to that cross outside the northern gate, the Damascus gate of Jerusalm, and knocks on the door of your heart and my heart and says, "Let me in". Then I say, "Lord Jesus, why do you want to get into my heart?" He says, "I want to get control of your heart. I want to make you submissive to my will." Sometimes He gives us a cup to drink. As it grows more trying I just look up and say, "Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless, not my will, but Thine be done."

I am going to take you to the Sea of Galilee, called also the Sea of Genesaret, Lake Tiberias, the Sea of Caprnaum. We look at this sea, which is 12 miles long and six miles across. Some of the most sacred events in all history took place there. For two long years Christ lived and loved and walked about those hills stone-bruised feet and a great loving heart. Oh, if I could just get Him to come and stand here by me as I give you this message. Oh, my dear sweet friends, that is just what we need now. I just long for this time to come. We must be as the Psalmist when he wrote, "as the heart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, oh God." I look out on that sea and I think of the teachings of that Psalm in connection with Christ's teachings to the panting souls on its plains. After He had spoken to them all day, some of the disciples said, "send the multitudes away for something to eat." Christ said, "you need not send them away." A little boy was there with five barley loaves and two small fishes. He might have been going to sell them and use the proceeds of the sale to support his mother.

The gospel narrative tells us that Jesus Christ looked out on the multitudes and they were just faint. Have you ever fainted? I have. They were just faint, as sheep scattered abroad, like sheep having no shepherd. But here is the point—Christ, moved with compassion reached out His hand and touched the lepers, the blind, the palsied, the paralyzed, and took the precious children in His arms and wiped the tears from their eyes. No doubt it has been truthfully said that no one knows the meaning of that word, "compassion", as translated from the Greek. It seems that there can be no word strong enough to express its tender meaning. But when He sees us struggling in great battles, He says, "I just want to tell you that I am with you."

Christ is there on the eastern side of the Sea of Galilee near where Matthew was saved, and at Capernaum, where one sees the ruins of the synagogue, the location of the house of Jairus, and the alley near Simon's house, from which the poor, neglected woman crept at the feet of Jesus, washing them with her tears and wiping them with woman's chiefest ornament and crowning glory, the hairs of her head, and then kissed them. This morning I thought, "Oh, Jesus, just let me kiss Thy feet." Then I thought of Christ's marvelous teachings there, and that verse in the first chapter of Hebrews, "Who being the brightness of His Father's glory, and the express image of His person, upholding all things by the Word of His power".

As they listened to Christ's teachings and were comforted by His touch of love, and as Christ saw them weary, worn, disheartened, discouraged and almost given up, He spake some very comforting words to them. Have you ever almost given up? The heavens are like burning, brazen brass, and Christ says in Matthew 11:28, "come unto me all ye that labor, and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest". I wonder today if He will just let me pillow my poor tired head, my poor heart on His loving bosom. The record does not say how many came to Christ. I don't know, but I do know that I can come to Him. Hear Him as He says, "'come unto me—abide with me—rest in me—rest in me."

I never can forget my visit on the Sea of Galilee. My friends, the sunrise and sunset in Palestine is no more beautiful in Palestine than it is here, but truly there is no moon and no stars like unto the scene that moon and those stars present over Galilee—sweet Galilee. As one looks up to that moon, it glows with rapturous beauty and brightness as a silent sentinel, and those stars about her seem to be suspended as little electric lights of varied beauty of brightness. One sees Jesus on its shores, and waters, in scenes of His kingdom of peace and love and joy that shall never pass away. I love to keep a vigil over Galilee—sweet Galilee.

Oh that I could get closer and closer to Christ of Galilee. He will stay by me. I want to place my hand in His hand and lean my head upon His great heart. I knew the man that rowed the boat was an Arab but I did not know that he could speak English at all until he burst forth his voice in singing in his great broken English "O Galilee, Sweet Galilee, 'Twas there my Savior loved to be." I see Jesus there to rescue the troubled desciples as He speaks to the angry waves, "Peace, be still." Just so when we are on the troubled sea of life and brings peace by his mighty word of presence. When He comes to us, does He find us playing well our part and courageously and beautifully portraying a Christ-like faith on the sea of life?

Over there on the hills where He prayed all night. "Come unto Me, bring your heart, tell your agonies. 'Earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal." All these things confirmed my faith in God's word, the bible. We ride from this sea to Nazareth in the hill country of Galilee. We pass Mary's fountain. It was from this well that Mary got water and carried it in jars on her head to her home. It was from this well that Jesus as a boy carried water for His mother, Mary and His stepfather Joseph inthe carpenter shop. There was a synagogue in Capernaum then. Today a Greek Catholic church covers its location. Christ at the beginning of His earthly ministry, went into this synagogue and began to read from the prophesy of Isaiah: "The spirit of the Lord is upon me. He hath annointed me to heal the broken hearted, wounded, anointed Me to preach the Gospel to the poor."

He comes up to me this morning and says , "I want to tell you that I want you to do your best to give this Gospel to the poor. Tell people about Me and my great love to them. O, if I could make this Christ attractive to the world. God in heaven in His great love for the world in sin looked about among the angels and said, "Who will go down yonder to earth and save the people from their sins. Michael said. "I am so happy up here with the angels praising thee." Another angel says, "I want to stay up here with the heavenly host and continue my career among them. I am so happy walking in the golden streets of the new Jerusalem and rejoicing in every movement. I am so happy with God that I haven't time to go down to earth and suffer all those harships and deprivations in an old sinfull world." But God looks at his only begotten son, who without a murmer says, "Father, I will go down there. I will leave thee and all these glories of heaven. I will leave my heavenly home and go down there to the very slums of the earth and give my life to save the people. I will walk those rough, rugged paths of earth and be scorned and rebuffed. I will sleep on Mt. Olivet with a stone for my pillow and the canopy of heaven for my blanket. I will go down there and be welcomed in and around Jerusalem only in the home of Marw, Martha and Lazarus. I will gladly go Father." O my friends, I know that he appeals to me, and He appeals to you.

STATE CAPITOL News

Foreign exports of cotton are behind last year to the tune of nearly one million bales, according to figures broadcast recently from the State Department of Agriculture. This drop in exports is in part responsible for the present low prices of cotton. Reasons given for this decrease in exports may be summed up as follows: 1, The world has less cash with which to buy cotton. 2 Foreign countries are raising more cotton than ever before. 3 The quality of American cotton is not up to the required standard of length.

This last indictment of American cotton is regarded as a serious matter. So much Alabama cotton is untenderable or below 7-8 inches in length that foreign mills do not wish to buy it except at a penalty.

There is always a good demand for goods and feeds in Alabama. This state has never produced enough potatoes, hay, corn or other foods to sustain itself. For this reason, prics are such as to return a profit to the grower.

On the other hand, Alabama exports much of its cotton and this great surplus is often produced at a distant loss. Just at present the South is faced by the prospect of raising more cotton than can be sold at a profit. Farmers who produce plenty of other crops besides cotton will play the world old game of safety first, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

Cullman County with a county farm income of $8,718,000, leads all counties in total farm produced weath. When it comes to per capita production of wealth, the farmers of Baldwin County lead with a production of $497 per farmer. Cullman County farmers made $325 per farmer last year.

Since the average farm family is five persons the farm family if Baldwin had an income of $2,485, while in Cullman the farm families averaged $1,625.

Speakers of outstanding note are on the program of the annual convention of the Alabama Educational Association, to be held in Montgomery April 10-12. Several thousand school teachers are expected to attend this annual event. General sessions are to be held in the new Sidney Lanier High School.

Governor Bibb Graves, under whose adminstration remarkable strides have been made in all phases of educational development, is on the program for an address Thursday morning, April 10. A. F. Harman, State Superintendent of Education, will speak Thursday afternoon. E. P. Cubberley, who also speaks Thursday afternoon is president of education at Leland Stanford University, but during the present school year is delivering a series of lectures at Teacher's College, Columbia University. Dr. Cubberley is a striking example of the small group of distinguished school men who can speak and write effectively as well as teach. Judge Florence Allen of the Ohio supreme court, the only woman supreme court judge in the United States, will be heard Friday evening. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, scientist, lecturer and writer, will address the general session Thursday evening, and several department groups Friday. Dr. L. A. Pechstein, dean of the college of education and director of the summer session of the University of Cincinnati, will address several departments Friday.

In addition to Governor Graves, two of Alabama's outstanding industrial leaders, Theodore Swann and Morris W. Bush, of Birmihgnam, will speak Thursday morning.

FINISH OF FORD BODIES RESULT OF GREAT CARE

"Much of the beauty of the new Ford body types is due to the body lines and trimmings, but in appraising the cars one cannot overlook the quality of the paint job," says Tom Littlejohn, local Ford dealer.

"Pyroxylin lacquer, the finest and most enduring finish obtainable for automobiles, is used on the Ford cars. It was selected after rigid tests that demonstrate its ability to withstand all sorts of weather conditions and to resist mars and scratches. In fact the lustre of this finish improves under ordinary washing and polishing.

"Finishing a Ford body is not simply a matter of spraying on paint. It is a job that calls for constant care and a high quality of workmanship.

"First the body must be washed with special spirits to remove all trace of oil and grease. After it is dried with clean towels, it is carefully buffed to remove all burrs or marks. Crevices and places inaccessible to a towel are blown clean with compressed air.

"Still the car is not ready for the painters. It is next given a final wash that not only cleans the body but neutralizes any acids that might remain. Rubber gloves are worn by the washers to prevent hand or finger marks. Following this the body is carefully wiped with specially prepared rags to remove all trace of lint or dust.

"Now it is ready for the spray booth where it receives a coat of primer. This is dried at a temperature of 225 degrees Fahrenheit. Next comes a coat of foundation surfacer, followed by another drying period at the same temperature.

"After these two coats have been applied, the body is gone over with clear water, very fine sandpaper and finely powdered pumice stone.

"Another drying operation and the body is ready for the pyroxlin. Two coats are applied, one with vertical strokes of the air brush and one with horizontal strokes. When this dries, two more coats are applied in the same way.

"The body is washed and sandpapered once again to insure an absolutely smooth finish. And then comes the final trip to the spray booth where it is given a mist coat of pyroxlin thinner—just enough to permit the microscopic sanding marks to flow smooth. Another drying, and it goes to the polishers where it receives the high lustre which gives it such an attractive and pleasing appearance.

"These many operations are employed to insure the full beauty and the lasting quality of the finish in Ford bodies.

STONE AGE METHODS IN RAISING POULTRY USED

Many American farmers, who long since recognized tractors and electricity as efficient farm assistants, are still using stone-age methods so far as their poultry flocks are concerned, according to recent International Baby Chick Association survey.

Poultry is not returning its proper profit on many farms through lack of sanitation, and lack of properly bred flocks, it was found.

This latter difficulty is rapidly being corrected through the fact that farmers have begun to realize that better stock, capable of producing a profit for their owners, can be secureod through the large hatcheries. These hatcheries, in turn, have organized under the slogan, "Hatchery hicks for Greater Profits," to pledge better chicks and fair dealing, in order to place farm flocks in a position to reap the profits which the poultry business holds.

The matter of sanitation, however, is causing difficulty, the investigators discovered.

"We cannot buy marvel again and again as we see flock after flock of pure-blooded fowls kept in the most primitive fashion, and under the most unsanitary conditions," the association says. "It is our observation that the breeding qualities of our poultry in our average American barnyard flocks are far in advance of the methods used in their care, housing, and feeding. As a result, the average American owner of a flock of chickens has spent all too much time fighting disease of one kind and another, rather than adopt a program of sanitation."

Proper sanitation in poultry houses, a system of yards and runs whereby each one can be rested and turned to a greetn crop once each year, and the importance of raising chicks on fresh ground that has been under cultivation, are stressed by the association as being as fundamental with poultry as sunshine itself.

Lesson for April 13

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:1-14; 19: 13-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto Me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus, the Children's Friend.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Growing in the Kingdom.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Sin of Neglecting and Misguiding Children.

I. The Greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven (vv. 1-4).

1. The disciples' question (v. 1).

The prominence given to Peter in connection with the announcement of Christ's purpose to build the church and the payment of tribute with the money in the fish's mouth, provoked jealousy on the part of the other disciples. The transfiguration scene revealed the divine person and the program of His kingdom. Seeing that the kingdom was to come to realization despite the tragedy of the cross, disciples wished to know their place of rank in the kingdom.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 2-4).

He taught them by placing a little child in their midst.

(1) Condition of entrance into the kingdom (v. 3). The great question was as to whether they were really in the kingdom. Their behavior revealed the fact that they needed conversion. Before they could even see, much less enter into, the kingdom, they must be born from above (John 3:3, 5). (2) Whosoever possesses childlike humility is the greatest (v. 4). The child is dependent, lowly and modest. Those who have been born again, or converted, have these characteristics.

II. The Lord's Identification With His Believing Ones (vv. 5-9).

1. Receiving the believer in Christ's name is receiving Christ (v. 5).

Through faith in Christ we become God's children and so completely is our life interwoven with His that He regards treatment of us as treatment of Himself.

2. The peril of causing a believer to stumble (vv. 6-9).

To cause to stumble means to give occasion for a moral fall. The particular reference was to the carnality and selfishness which were expressing themselves in their contention for preeminence. Their behavior was not only an injury, but a stumbling block to others. Everything causing one to stumble, though it be as vital as hands and feet, should be removed.

III. Believers Are Specially Cared for by the Heavenly Father (vv. 10-14).

1. They are under angelic guardianship (v. 10).

So precious is the believer in God's sight that angelic messengers are provided (Heb. 1:10). These angelic messengers have access to the very throne of God, even beholding His face. So high is the honor bestowed upon believers that the highest angels are sent to guard them.

2. The Son came especially to save such from their lost condition (vv. 11-14).

The Heavenly Father does not will that any one of these should perish. They are objects of the Father's seeking love. The salvation of the humble believer has been secured by the incarnation and the sacrifice of the Good Shepherd.

IV. Jesus Receiving Little Children (Matt. 19:13-15).

We should carefully note the setting of this text. Jesus had been speaking of the sanctity of marriage, which is the bulwark of the home. Into the sacred enclosure of the home comes childhood to complete and ennoble it.

1. Children brought to Jesus (v. 13).

Doubtless they were brought by their parents. Many parents today who are careless as to themselves, desire to bring their children into touch with Jesus Christ.

2. Rebuked by the disciples (v. 13).

They regarded children as too insignificant to engage the Lord's attention. Christ places high value upon children.

3. The disciples rebuked by Christ (v. 14).

These words uttered by the Lord have placed a peculiar dignity upon the child. It is Christlike to care for children and no service in the world pays such large dividends.

4. Christ laid His hands upon the children (v. 15).

FARMERS' WEEK SET JULY 28-AUGUST 2

Auburn, Ala., April 7.—The annual farmers' week exercises at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for 1930 will be held July 28 to August 2. Announcement of this was made by President Bradford Knapp with a statement that the program for the occasion will be for farm women as well as men.

In addition to the usual exercises the annual convention of the Alabame Farm Bureau will be held at Auburn, July 31-August 1. By this arrangement Farm Bureau delegates and reprsentatives may spend the first three days of the week in the farmers' week exercises which will be climaxed with the Farm Bureau convention.

During these six days farm people of Alabama will come in close contact with their state college of agriculture and the work that it is doing. As usual, the college of Veterinary Medicine will be a major factor in the gathering.

A special program will be arranged for farm women, many of whom are expected to attend. As in former years, the Alabama Council of home demonstration women will hold their annual convention in conjunction with the state farm bureau convention. This organization of women is composed of active county organizations in more than half of the counties of the state.

President Knapp says that the aim is to make this bigger and better than any other farmers' week exercise yet held at Auburn. That of 1929 established a new high record and the aim is to build and improve from year to year, he said.

County agents and home demonstration agents of the state will be in Auburn during the week. Others interested in agricultural work will be present.

AVERY JACK RABBIT CULTIVATOR

Two Levers instead of Three

An AVERY PLUS Feature

The Avery Jack Rabbit Cultivator has won a mighty name as a worker. It does a wonderful job. But the thing everyone praises especially is the perfect balance and the ease of control.

All cultivators are not easy to control. But the Avery Jack Rabbit is smooth as silk—free and easy. Why? Because Avery designers and inventors found a way—by study and experiment—to control a cultivator with one lever less and to make the control easier. This saves 25% of the time of the operator, also 25% of the labor. It means a man can manipulate the cultivator 25% faster and 25% longer without tiring.

It is a big aid to more work and better work—an Avery Plus Feature—something more for your money—due to the Avery ideals of implement service.

Avery Plus Features Increase Your Profits

Goodyear Zeppelin Flies Over Clanton

"DEFENDER" CIRCLES AROUND OVER CITY ON RETURN TRIP TO GADSDEN

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, local Goodyear dealer, spread the news around Clanton Monday that the big zeppelin "Defender," was coming to Clanton Tuesday forenoon. We looked and looked constantly until dinner. Then we began to think that something had got the wires crossed, and wondered how Dief was going to explain.

However, along in the shank of the afternoon our reward came. The big ship was sighted coming from the south, and we guessed what was the matter. It had missed Clanton on the way down from Gadsden in the morning, and was making its visit here on the return from Montgomery in the afternoon.

The "Defender" is one of the biggest gas bags afloat. She is 175 feet long, and big in proportion other ways. As it circled around town it looked like the cabin was full of folks. Perhaps as many as two or three dozen people could ride in it in comfort, provided they could bring themselves around to feel safe off the ground.

We don't know whether this is true or not. But we heard that Dief got irritated when the ship failed to appear Tuesday morning as he had expected; and that he went to Montgomery about noon and gave them explicit orders to fly over Clanton on the way back to Gadsden. Any way, the "Defender" visited Clanton, and everybody enjoyed seeing it. Thanks to Mr. Diefenderfer and to Goodyear.

A few minutes after this was written, here comes Dief across the street wearing that wonderful smile that lingers for days after a fellow has had his first adventure in the air and got down alive. He had really been to Montgomery and had them to send the "Defender" back by Clanton. And while he was there he took a ride. With him on the trip were Rip Burnett and Guy Higgins.

WINSLETT CHILD DEAD

Mr. and Mrs. Lum Wilson and family are stricken with grief on account of the death of little Nell Elizabeth Winslett, their grand daughter. The little one died Tuesday a.m. at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Winslett, at Bessemer. Mrs. Winslett was Miss Susie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lum Wilson. Her age was five years.

The families of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Wilson, and Mrs. Payton, attended the funeral at Bessemer Wednesday. The little one was buried in the West Lake cemetery.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Winslett and the Wilson family join them with sympathy in their sad reareavement.

HAVE YOU EVER VISITED OUR CITY WATER WORKS PLANT?

Haw many people in Clanton have ever been on a visit to the new water works plant in Clanton? Do you know what kind of a plant we have, and just what it is doing for us in the way of providing pure water?

A visit to the plant will be a pleasure to you, and it will open your eyes too. We do not appreciate the new filter plant as much as we would if we would take a trip over there and see what it is doing.

A good time to visit the plant is in the afternoon so you can see the filter tanks washed out. One of these tanks is washed each day. That will give you an opportunity to see just what the filtering system is taking out of the water.

Aside from the water that is furnished the Town of Clanton proper, a tremendous quantity of water is furnished to the village and plant of Alabama Mills Company. They used way over a million gallons of water at the mill, according to Mr. Smith, during the month of February. The average consumption at the mill, however, is something less than a million gallons a month.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR SERVICE HERE NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT

The annual Knights Templar Easter service of the Clanton Commandery will be held at the Clanton Baptist church next Sunday night. All members are expected to attend in full uniform except swords.

Prelate, S. J. Ezell, will deliver the address for this occasion. The public is cordially invited to attend. In addition to the special Easter message, there will be a program of selected music.

YOUNG MAN CAUGHT WITH KEG AND HALF OF LIQUOR

Monday morning Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah went down on the road between Providence church and Coopers near the home of Frank Calloway, and located two ten-gallon kegs, one full of liquor and the other about half full, buried in a sedge patch. They hid themselves near by and awaited developments. Soon a man came up and began digging out the kegs. He was Alf Strickland, and the young man was arrested and brought to jail. He was later released on bond.

Monday night Deputy Loss Robinson arrested T. Gilliland near Thursby, placing him under the charge of carrying a concealed pistol. Gilliland was brought and placed in jail where he still remains at the time of this writing. His home is near Cane Creek.

Tuesday morning Sheriff Collins and his deputies went out near Highland church and located a gallon jug in a stump hole. They hid close by the jug and awaited developments. Soon a colored figure carrying a bottle and a funnel was seen approaching. The figure was Dan Jackson, negro, and he came straight to the stump hole and began to pour out some in his bottle. The officers took charge of Dan and the whiskey and brought them to jail. Dan later was released on bond.

CLEANING UP THE JAIL

Sheriff Collins has heen doing quite a bit of cleaning up around the jail this week. The yards look much better, and from the looks of what came out of the jail, it surely looks much more inviting on the inside.

SHIPMENT OF BERRIES BEGUN THIS WEEK

According to a statement of Mr. J. N. Dennis, small express shipments of strawberries by the Clanton Berry Growers Association was begun Monday of this week. Twenty-one crates were shipped Tuesday. The shipments will increase day by day, until the quantities justify car load shipments, which will be possible by next week.

We hear some complaints of fear about the dry weather which seems to have come for a rather long spell. Unless it rains in the next few days, some growers say that some damage will be felt in the early crop of berries.

ANNUAL EASTER SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS SUNDAY

Music lovers and singers of sacred songs are looking forward to the big annual Easter singing to be held at Poplar Springs next Sunday. There hasn't been much said about it in the papers this year, but Hardy Jones assured the Banner man Tuesday that they were going to have it by a big majority.

Plenty of folks will be there to sing and others will go just to see the people and to show their new Easter belongings. So if you want to see anybody Sunday just go to the Easter singing and you may can find them in the crowd.

Singing at Courthouse Monday Night, Apr. 12

Sheriff J. Dudley Collins informs The Union-Banner that the famous United Singing Saciety of the northern part of this county will sing at the court house in Clanton on next Monday night, April 21st. Singing will begin promptly at 7:30 and will continue until 10 o'clock. The singers and music lovers of the surrounding territory are invited to come and take part. The Clanton Quartet will be present and render several selections.

Regarding the service Sheriff Collins said: "Tell the people that there will be no political speaking or any other kind of speaking—nothing but two hours and a half of real hard, honest-to-goodness singing. Directors are asked to use all their time singing instead of telling how glad they are to be there. The time will be short and we want to use all of it well."

SPECIAL EASTER SERVICE AT FOURSQUARE CHURCH

The subject of Pastor Celentine's sermon next Sunday morning will be "The Empty Tomb.' This will be given at 11:00 a. m., immediately after Sunday School.

After the Crusader meeting Sunday evening, an Easter program will be given by members and Crusaders. You are urged to be present.

On Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., cottage prayer meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson. Bible study and prayer meeting at the church at 7:30.

On Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., the Children's Church will meet. Send your children.—J. Matt Johnson.

Postoffice Will Move to New Building May 3rd

According to a statement by postmaster, Wiley M. Bean, we can get ready to go get our mail on Sunday morning, May 4th, at the new postoffice.

"When we close our day's business on Saturday afternoon, May 3, we will move between that time and the opening hour on the following morning." said the Postmaster. "There will not be one minute's interruption in the service to patrons of the postoffice."

When the new office opens it will have a new equipment from start to finish. A new system of letter boxes will be installed and allotted to patrons who now have lock boxes at the office. Postmaster Bean will designate the allotment of the new boxes.

On the morning the new office opens a bulletin will be posted in the lobby giving the name of each boxholder and the number of his box. In this way every person can tell just where to look for his mail without any confusion at all.

CARMICHAEL HONORED

President of Alabama College to Attend Chicago Committee Meet

Montevallo, Ala., April 15.—President O. C. Carmichael, of Alabama College, will represent the women's colleges of the South and serve as advisor to the committee studying the college contribution to parent education, in connection with the White House conference at a meeting of the committee in Chicago this week. The meeting has been called by Miss Louise Stanley, head of the bureau of home economics, United States Department of Agriculture, and chairman of the White House conference committee.

SPECIAL PICTURE OFFER TO MOTHERS OF CLANTON

Mrs Yeager, proprietor of the Yeager Studio, in Montevallo, is making a very attractive offer to the mothers of Clanton. She will make free, a Mother's Day picture for any mother who visits her studio from April 21 to April 30.

Everyone who is acquainted with the excellent work done at the Yeager Studio will know at once that this is an offer that is worth accepting.

Pictures by Mrs. Yeager have been on exhibition at the Upchurch Drug Store in Clanton. You may see samples of her work there at any time.

We urge every mother in Clanton to take advantage of this offer.

Joe Robinson of Birmingham was here a few days last week. He spent a couple of days fishnng on Lake Mitchell.

J. Osmond Middleton Was Visitor Saturday

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton, assistant United States District Attorney, of Birmingham, was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday. He stopped off here on his return from New Orleans where he had been for the past week, representing the United States government in cases appealed from the Northern Division of the Federal Court to the United States Court of Appeals.

Mr. Middleton is a Chilton County man, whose rapid rise in the legal profession in recent years is a great source of satisfaction to his friends throughout this county. When he began the practice of law here several years ago, it was the universal prediction that there was in him the makings of a great lawyer. His record has proven that prediction to be true.

It is his distinction as being the only man who has ever served the United States government as legal counsel in all three of the Alabama Divisions. He was four years in Mobile, four and a half years in Montgomery, and he has been with the Northern Division at Birmingham since last August.

We believe that the splendid record of Mr. Middleton will some day find its just reward in a capacity higher in responsibility and service than he has even yet attained. Uncle Sam has a way, we are glad to say, of rewarding those who serve him faithfully and honorably. We hope it will not be long until the opportunity comes for Osmond Middleton to go higher in the legal department of the United States Government.

FINE SERVICE AT THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor, reports a most excellent meeting at Thorsby Baptist church last Sunday, when the congregaton worshiped for the first time in the new building just completed.

"We were delighted to have a great many visitors with us," said Rev. Jones. "Representatives of all the denominations in Thorsby came to visit us, as well as many people from churches in adjoining neighborhoods. We very greatly appreciate the spirit of cordiality that was evident."

PLEASURE'S PRICE IS A HEAVY PENALTY

"Two by two ye sin, but ye must pay one by one."

One of the world's greatest poets wrote that line and voiced a truth that all men and women know. And well might the author of "The Pace That Kills," coming to the Wadesonian Theatre Monday, April 21 for one day only, have had that line in mind.

A country boy, fresh and eager with the joy of living, comes to a big city, and there he meets a girl. Together they follow the road that leads to pleasure's palaces, only to find that they are following the pace that kills. Two by two they traveled the pace but one by one they paid for it.

Thus, in a few words is told a thrillingly, dramatic story that is made to live in vivid, flashing scenes on the screen in "The Pace That Kills." And for the role of the girl—the producers of this picture, which has aroused ministers, public and educators to a new realization of life's dangers for the young, chose that little beauty, Virginia Roye, whose astounding work in 'The Road to Ruin' raised her to immediate stardom.

"Show of Shows" at Wadesonian this Week

The management of the Wadesonian Theatre announces this week the showing of "Show of Shows," a big picture that has had wonderful success in the larger towns and cities of the country.

"Show of Shows" brings 77 stars of the stage and screen—all the way from "Bull" Montana to Ted Lewis, and from Rin-Tin-Tin to John Barrymore—they are all there, one hundred shows in one. It runs the gamut of attractions—military parades, specialties by stars and teams of stars, recitations, sister acts, songs, novelties, every kind of show that has been presented from the "gay '90's" to the Broadway hits of 1930. Everything from Shakespeare to jazz.

"Show of Shows" opened at the Wadesonian last night, and will run through tonight and tomorrow night—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. To those who like the "revue" type of show, this one will certainly fill your bill. If you liked "Gold Diggers of Broadway," you don't want to miss "Show of Shows."

Coosa River Will Be Developed Soon

HEAD OF NAVIGATION COMPANY SHOWS VALUE OF STATE'S RIVERS AND MINERALS

Alabama through its immense systems of waterways and iron deposits good for 400 years, is destined to become the leading industrial state in the Union, says Maj. F. E. Bengert, president of the Coosa-Alabama Navigation company, which is developing transportation on the Coosa River from Rome, Ga. to Riverside, Ala., and on the Alabama from Wetumpka to Mobile.

"Alabama is best suited to the electric furnace, due to its hydro-electric power developments, and is certain to be the steel center of the world," Maj. Bengert says. "It is the only location where all raw materials can be had within a small area."

Maj. Bengert, formerly executive officer, adminstrative section, constructive division of the army, has recently become head of the barge service line on the Coosa and Alabama Rivers. He is also an engineer and is held an authority on organization and procedure. He was at one time vice president and general manager of the General Construction Company.

The barge line on the Coosa and Alabama was formed after careful survey of the navigability of the river, tonnage estimates were made and the project has the endorsement of Commerce along the river route.

The Alabama Public Service Commission has issued a certificate of convenience and necessity to the Coosa-Alabama project and the company will start operation of its barge lines this summer, according to Maj. Bengert, after preliminary surveys of Rome, Ga., Center, Leesburg, Gadsden, Talladega, Selma, Montgomery and Mobile show hundreds of thousands of tons of various commodities waiting for river shipment.

Chambers of Commerce in many of these cities have pledged themselves to aid river development by building and leasing terminals for transfer to rail and truck.

Surveys conducted by officials of the company have shown that savings to farmers in fertilizers can be accompanied by unloading products at strategic points along the banks of these two rivers and avoiding expensive long hauls.

Every type of manufacturing business in the Coosa valley near the river returns reports showing savings from 10 per cent to 75 per cent in transportation costs.

"Through operation of Diesel powered, high speed tow boats," Maj. Bengert points out, "the lowest cost in transportation of any kind is effected. River transportation costs everywhere have decreased 60 per cent in the last few years, while other rates have shown larger increases. Two units of barges are to be built for the Alabama at once."

Endorsed by State

Alabama's newest barge line has been endorsed by the legislature contingent and by Gov. Graves, as an important development for the State.

Alabama waterways are unequaled anywhere in America, Maj. Bengert points out, and with the opening of the Coosa River from Riverside to Wetumpka, Alabama will be able to make full use of her rivers and open an immense farming and manufacturing area to cheap transportation. In addition, water transportation facilities will act as a magnet to bring in other industries to Alabama, and the project is given a huge industrial aspect from this factor alone.

War Department engineers are making a survey of the project and Alabama's solons have gone on record favoring appropriations to open the river to through-navigation from the Gulf to Rome, Ga. One of the richest hardwood areas in the United States will be opened to the sea at this time.

Alabama has the attention of the nation at large, and many large industries, such as the Goodyear plant and steel concerns have their eyes on this state the only state in the Union with so many navigable rivers," Maj. Bengert says.

STATE SHORT COURSE FOR 4-H CLUB GIRLS

Auburn, Ala., April 15. — Proper health habits will be emphasized at the State short course for 4-H club girls to be held at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, May 27 to May 31. At that time health champions will be selected. A total of 168 girls from 42 counties will attend the course. Those to attend will be selected on a basis of all-around efficiency in club work but especially upon achievement in the health program.

Announcement of this is made by Miss Bess Fleming, State leader in 4-H club work for girls. She said that judging contests in clothing, home improvement, and food preservation will be held during the course. In addition, model demonstrations will be given in gardening, poultry, foods, home improvement, and clothing.

Special instructions on health habits will be given. This will include posture, personal hygiene, exercise through recreation and foods and clothing for health.

The statae short course is considered a rally for the club girls of the state and recreational features will be given prominence on the program. A 4-H club party, a campfire party, and a banquet will be arranged.

Six home demonstration agents will come to Auburn to assist members of the state staff here in conducting the course. They are Mrs. Florence G. Farish of Calhoun County, Miss Lucile Braswell of Colbert, Miss Essie Hester of Autauga, Miss Mary Olive Carnley of Elmore, Miss Margaret Garrett of Baldwin, and Miss Lavada Curtis of Dale. Those in charge of recreation will be Miss Clara Nale of Franklin, Miss Martha Haupt of Green, and Mr. W. B. Story of Auburn.

RADIO EDUCATION AT HOME

That Alabama teachers are taking an added interest in agricultural matters, is evident from the annual sessions of the Alabama Educational Association which convened in Montgomery last week. Fully 3,000 teachers assembled. A number of lectures and radio speeches were made by Dr. B. H. Darrow, the father of radio education in Ohio, who came to Alabama to deliver six lectures. 3 were given to large audiences, and the remainder over stations WAPI and WSFA.

Daily market programs of the department of agriculture are now broadcast at 12:30 p. m. daly over stations WSFA and WAPI, and it is believed that this arrangement will give better vocerage to South Alabama.

Arrangements are under way to increase the amount of market broadcasting and to give it more frequently each day. This will make it possible for citizens of Alabama to get cotton market quotations by radio at least 3 times daily.

BROWN NAMES POISON FOR GARDEN INSECTS

Auburn, Ala., April 14.—Two insect enemies of the garden are especially active in April and early May and will do much damage unless control measures are applied. They are the bean leaf beetle and the cut-worm, according to Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

To control the bean leaf beetle Mr. Brown recommends that the plant be dusted with a mixture of one pound of calcium arsenate and nine pounds of hydrated lime.

"Cut worms," he said, "do great damage especially in gardens where the soil was not plowed during the fall and winter. They may be controlled with arsenicals. A very good plan is to chop up some of the tender plants, such as the clovers or vetches, sprinkle thoroughly with calcium arsenate, arsenate of lead, or Paris green, and then scatter this around the young plants where the worms are feeding. Cut worms feed only at night, so this bait should be prepared and placed around the plant late in the afternoon. If the garden was not plowed during the fall and winter, this material should be placed on rows before setting tomato plants. Quite often these worms cause much damage to tomato plants after they are set in the garden."

"It is a common practice in home gardening to leave vegetables too thick in the drill," Brofn continued. "This practicularly true of lettuce and some of the fruit crops. Lettuce should be thinned to stand not closer than 14 inches in the drill. If left closer than this it will not form good heads."

Vegetables already growing should be side-dressed with quick-acting nitrogen, he added.

L. & N. HOLDS REMARKABLE RECORD

What is held by L. & N. people to be a remarkable record in employee injury reduction is the performance of the L. & N. shop force at Decatur, Alabama, under the leadership of Master Mechanic C. W. Matthews. In 1919 there were 60 reportable injuries among the 1550 shop employees at Decatur. In 1929 there was only one among the 1300 employees, a reduction of 98 per cent.

FARMERS WILL USE HEAVY AMOUNTS OF FERTILIZER

That Alabama farmers are using fertilizer heavily on cotton is shown by the sale of 70,000 tons, during the week ending April 12, according to tag sales on fertilizer reported by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the state department of agriculture.

A total of 575,000 tons of fertilizer sold to date makes an impressive showing—the half million ton mark being passed early in April. All indications point to the use of a very heavy tonnage of fertilizer this year. There is no doubt but that what final tonnage figures will be very close to the years of heaviest application.

Indications are that farmers are applying fertilizer in heavy amounts and that this year's application will be among the heaviest of record.

Approximately 80% of the people of the United States have incomes of $2,000 or less. Only 8% make more than $5,000 a year.

PROVIDENCE SINGING HELD LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Providence singing society met in regular monthly session last Sunday afternoon, and had a very good singing. Not a big crowd was present, but those who were there came to sing, and the result was two hours of real good religious singing.

The chairman being absent, R. M. Robinson called the meeting to order by singing, and prayer was offered by O. R. Robinson. Those taking part in the singing as directors were: R. M. Robinson, O. R. Robinson, T. E. Wyatt, G. C. Powell, and C. H. Robinson. A nice short talk on music and singing was made by Rev. M. J. Parrish, which was very pointed.

Pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. Annie Robinson and C. H. Robinson. The closing prayer was offered by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

MT. PLEASANT

There will be a school meeting held at Mt. Pleasant School house on Saturday night, April 19, at 7:30. All patrons and friends of the school are invited to be present.—Ben Duke, Chairman of Board of Trustees.

Mr. Thomas Edison has announced that he is very fond of babies. Mr. Edison, by the way, is deaf.—Punch.

CITIZENS WIN AGAINST INCENDIARIES

Montgomery, Ala., April 14.—Convictions resulting in penalties ranging from ten dollar fine and costs to one hundred dollar fine with six months in jail have been obtained by citizens against forest incendiaries in three Alabama counties during the past few weeks, according to reports received by the State Commission of Forestry. The farmers and other woodland owners of Alabama have long suffered from the criminal depredations of persons who, often for no other reason than pure malice and the desire to destroy, have set fire to their property. The state at large sufferes from this form of destruction, since woodland which escapes burning over a period of years acculmulates at the rate of one dollor per acre per annum.

Three of the convictions obtained in Washington County carried penalties of one hundred dollar fines. In Sumpter County two convictions resulted in fines of ten dollars. In Covington County a case terminated with a fine of one hundred dollars and sixty days in jail. In all cases the costs, of course, were assessed against the defendant.

CONCRETE PRODUCTS MADE AT THORSBY PLANT

E. F. MEAD & SON CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION WORK THAT ENDURES

In 1910, to meet a demand, Mr. E. F. Mead, a pioneer in Thorsby, began the manufacture of concrete well tile, to take the place of wood curbing in dug wells, always short lived, unsanitary and unsatisfactory.

In 1903 something happened in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mead when a son was born to them. A Thorsby boy who was destined to become an important factor in the business as he and it grew as the years went by. He was a boy of whom his mother said "He never gave me any trouble" who today is at the age of 27 general manager of the business, competent and efficient, a joy to his father, who with advancing age and poor health is content to trust Clyde with the details that arise in conducting the business.

Clyde married Violet Ivy Bean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bean, in August, 1924. She was born and grew to womanhood in the Collins Chapel section of Chilton County. They have one little daughter and a very attractive home in Thorsby, which was built by Clyde himself as a demonstration of modern concrete construction.

The location of the plant is two blocks east and two blocks north of the R. R. station at Thorsby. And, occupies together with the homes of father and son, a full half block of land, which because it affords no more room for expansion will soon require a new location.

Since the business was started 20 years ago there have been added the manufacture of cement walks and curbing, concrete steps and porches, cemetery work, brick, drain tile, culverts, building blocks, and buildings or concrete piers, pillars, lintels and floors for all sorts of buildings, including stucco work and pebble dash finish.

As outstanding examples of concrete construction under direction of this company, some with stucco finish, and all but one in Thorsby, we mention Helen Jenkins Hall at Thorsby Institute, Clyde Mead's home, L. E. Diefenderfer's home in Clanton, all of which have a foundation and walls of concrete blocks, with an exterior finish of stucco pebbledashed, a very handsome and durable finish. Other structures of importance where concrete is a principal feature, and constitute wholly the outer walls, are the Mabelle Confectionery shop, adjacent to Thorsby Inn, the recently finished Thorsby Garage, a fireproof building of concrete and steel, and Thorsby Baptist Church, of which the exterior was finished the day this was written, and is architecturally a very creditable building.

We know of no other industry in Thorsby or any where else that has grown so fast and enters so intimately into construction designed to be permanent, as the use in so many ways as concrete, within the past twenty years. Certain kinds of concrete formulae were known so long ago that they have become "A lost Art." Last summer the writer visited an old and interesting fort on an island facing a channel off the coast of Georgia. The fort was just about 200 years old, and was built by the English, who then occupied the land, as a protection against the Spanish hordes who occupied Florida. Its size and equipment in the light of modern forts, looked like a childs play house, but the walls stand today without a break or a crack. A parapet of about two feet in height extended above the roof, in this parapet there were embrazures, like openings in a wall for a door or window. The walls were about a foot thick and the corners of it at these openings were as sharp as the day they were made. The substance appeared to be small stones, broken sea shells, sand, and a binder which so far scientists have failed to discover.

In the early days of the use of concrete in America there was a good deal of guess work, both in the quality of the cement and the proportions for mixing. Today all that has been obviated by scientific research and chemical analysis. It is now konwn to a fraction what to use and how to use it to make standard grades of cement and concrete mixtures. E. F. Mead told the writer how he sent some of their concrete blocks to be tested by subjecting them to enormous pressure in an attempt to crush them and how they stood a strain far beyond what they could ever be subjected to in a wall or foundation.

When the pyramids of Egypt were built, enormous stones were hewn out at the quarries and conveyed and hoisted to position by means now unknown. Today the great towers 600 feet high on either side of the Hudson River, which supports that stupendious suspension bridge with a single span a mile long, are each one solid monolith, a single stone, made where it stands, which will grow harder and firmer as the years go by and which it is believed will stand as long as the world lasts.

It is no light matter to have a boy and a business of this character originate and grow up together in Thorsby. Clyde Mead is a young man who has the respect and confidence of all who know him. He understands his business and is worthy to be trusted with responsibility for first class work, no matter how big the job he will undertake. The company have eleven trained employees, and modern equipment that provides facilities for handling any construction job likely to come their way.

Thorsby is indeed fortunate to have such a business and such men behind it. Both speak for permanence and success.

E. N. BENTLEY
Owner Thorsby Garage

THORSBY GARAGE is a modern type of such unit and its history is indicative of the general growth of the industry during the past ten years. Its proprietor, E. N. Bentley, is like most others at head of such enterprises, a young man who was born in Birmingham in 1894, where he grew to manhood and was educated in the public schools of the city. When this country entered the World War he was among those who responded early to the call for men. In due time he landed in France and later was assigned to a responsible position in a motor transport corps, where his duties required thorough knowledge of the construction and operation of motor vehicles. After 23 months of army service he was honorably discharged and returned to Birmingham. Here he found employment for several months while on the lookout for a good place to embark in the business he knew best, and fortunately selected Thorsby as his field of activities.

Mr. Bentley opened a garage in Thorsby in 1920, when there were 13 motor vehicles licensed within the corporate limits of the town, and very few in the surrounding territory. He attended strictly to his business saved his earnings and with an eye to the future devlopment of Thorsby and the part he might have in it, bought land, a whole block of it except one lot where the town hall stands. This land was located along the east side of the proposed highway, since become a reality, from Jones Street to Summit Avenue. As the years went by he built substantial and desirable buildings on his land. A good filling station at either end of the block and adjacent to the highway, both of which he rents, next he put up a neat building for a soda fountain, ice cream parlor, confectionery, cigars, tobacco and drug sundries. This he also rents.

The original Thorsby Garage was located on the ground now occupied by Thorsby Ice Plant, and was moved to its present location, on the highway, in 1926, utilizing a building that stood on the site, after it had been remodeled for the purpose. Here the ever increasing business was carried on until this spring when every vestige of the old wooden structure was demolished and the ground on which it stood, with enough adjacent to it to comprise a frontage of 75 feet with a depth of 65 feet was completely occupied with a fireproof structure built exclusively of concrete and steel, even to the window frames. A truss roof of steel covers the entire space and is supported by concrete walls at either end and the back without a pillar or post to obstruct any part of the floor space, which is all covered with a smooth and substantial concrete floor.

Within this space there has been installed modern equipment for an up-to-date garage. Work benches stand adjacent to the big east windows, and neat and attractive show cases adorn the north wall, here also are located "Comfort Stations" for women and for men. While this garage specializes in Ford and Chevrolet parts, they are prepared to handle almost any car that comes along. They specialize also in Standard Oils and Gas. Maintain a good wrecking outfit and conduct a continuous day and night service. Their phone number for local or long distance calls is Thorsby 63. Herbert Sharpe is on duty at night and Luther Kincaid is day assistant. If more help is needed they get it promptly.

Mr. Bentley found something in Thorsby besides a good location for business, about the time he came, or perhaps a year before he married Miss Maud Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson. The pair now have two fine children, a boy, 10 and a girl, 5. The family are prominent members of Thorsby Baptist Church, they own a substantial and very pleasant home about two blocks from the garage, and are counted among the good citizens of Thorsby.

Mr. Bentley's next move is to build a room for a store, 33 by 65 feet between the north wall of his garage and the Town Hall. E. F. Mead and son will do the concrete work on this job, beginning this week.

Mr. Bentley says his hobby is "Service." That is certainly a very worthy ambition, and his business gives wide scope in which to exercise it. What can make a man more grateful who is in trouble with his car, than prompt and efficient service? Scripture says "He that would be great among you, let him be servant of all." And in these days who is better fixed for such a life than a garage man. Thorsby is fortunate indeed to have young men of this spirit among us. Sober, industrious, enterprising. Such men are helpful in any community. Let any one examine carefully the character and quality of any of the improvements in Thorsby for which Mr. Bentley is responsible and they will find nothing that is not good, in fact so good that others must be inspired to make good in whatever they undertake. Such men inspire for themselves and their work. They help to give tone and character to the town and are literally "Boosters."

European critics say that Americans move too fast to live properly. Well if they didn't move fast, especially in traffic, they wouldn't live at all.

OURSELVES FIRST

The difference between good times and bad times in the United States, so far as history indicates, is the difference between an adequate protective tariff for the products of our farms and our factories and an adequate tariff.

College professors, internationalists and theorists generally may speculate and ponder and glow with beneficent smiles upon the beauties of the brotherhood of man as exemplified by free trade, but the hard fact remains that so far as the United States is concerned we must protect our own people against the cheap labor and the cheaply made products of other lands or we are putting ourselves on the level of those countries that our own internationalists laud, but would not live in.

It is a fine sentiment, of course, to remove all trade barriers so that the lowly black of the Congo district who is willing to work for nothing a day, or a cent a day, or what have you, may send his rice to the American breakfast table in competition with the rice that is produced in Arkansas or Louisiana, but what profits it you, if you are in any kind of business or profession, to benefit the lowly African if you are, thereby, to impoverish the rice farmers of the United States.—Munice, Ind., Press.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Some internationalists who would like to see Uncle Sam get the blame for navy disappointment which might grow out of the naval limitation conference at London have called attention to the fact that the British would be satisfied with smaller cruisers than the United States, so giving the inference that Uncle Sam was blocking naval disarmament by insisting on his right to build and maintain a number of 10,000-ton cruisers with eight-inch guns. In speaking of this desire on the part of the United States for larger cruisers the London Times said recently:

"The American desire to build large instead of small cruisers, armed with 6-inch guns, has not modified the British ideas as to the size of future British vessels. The view still obtains that cruisers carrying 6-inch guns should be ships of about 7,000 tons, which is considered large enough for fleet or convoy duties or any other work that cruisers may have to perform.

"The British view is that the individual size of cruisers should be kept as small as possible, compatible with efficiency, and our (Britain's) naval experts would prefer to see the disappearance of eight-inch gun ships, which are too large and costly for our needs. If the United States insists on the right to build six-inch gun cruisers approximating 10,000 tons, it is understood Great Britain would give way. But this would not in any way alter the proposed British building program, which aims at the eventual total of fifty cruisers of a total tonnage of 339,000 tons."

It will be noticed that mention is made of the fact that Great Britain wants the size of cruisers kept small as possible "compatible with efficency." And here is the point. Seven thousand ton cruisers with smaller guns are "compatible with efficiency" so far as Great Britain is concerned, but there are by no means efficient for the United States. It is to be remembered that Great Britain has great naval bases all over the world which are roosting places for cruisers. Becauses of these great bases Great Britain can do well with cruisers of a smaller cruising radius. And then again, if the limit of six-inch guns is placed on cruisers, Great Britain would have another advantage over the United States in that she could, almost over night, convert many of the ships of her merchant marine into cruisers. With a much bigger merchant marine than that possessed by Uncle Sam her advantage here is apparent.

Now the United States does not possess naval bases all over the world and has no intention of building them. Fo rthat reason it is necessary that we have battleships and 10,000-ton cruisers, which can go a long way from home without losing efficiency. It is apparent therefore, when it comes to the matter of the size of cruisers that Great Britain has a decided advantage over us, because of her great naval bases scattered over the world and her gigantic merchant marine. Now since Great Britain very properly does not want to give up her naval bases it becomes our duty to maintain cruisers which can do without such naval stations over the world.

It will be seen therefore that circumstances alter cases and that other things besides the number and size of cruisers must be taken into consideration in figuring parity of cruiser fleets. But fortunately for America our representatives at London have no intention of agreeing to the abolition of the larger ships in favor of a greater number of smaller ships. We will lose nothing by standing up for our rights and not permitting ourselves to be fooled. In so doing we will maintain the respect of the world and our own self respect as well. And friendship between the United States and Great Britain will not thereby be endangered.

SOME STARTLING FIGURES

A few days ago the Free Press came into possession of a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture showing the actual figures for exports and imports of dairy products, olemargarine and eggs for the month of October of last year.

We were amazed at the amount of the imports into this country of those items which are so vital to the prosperity of the American farmer.

It is a fact that the price paid for butter in Wisconsin is largely based on the market price of cheese in many instances. Look at the sixty-two million pounds of foreign cheese brought into this country to compete with and to lower the price of our own cheese and we begin to see a little light on the why of our small butter price. Then ten million pounds of dried eggs in the total have been brought into this country since January, 1929, to November 1 and we get a little more light on the why of the cheapness of eggs from our own farms.—Reedsburg, Wis., Free Press.

This country never enjoyed anything which could honestly be described as "free" trade. Other countries have always levied heavy duties on our products, while we, with consummate folly, have admitted their products free to our markets. No wonder that under such a system unemployment here is rife today.—London Daily Mail.

If we ever accumulate as much money as Henry Ford has we're not going to spend it educating the youth of the land. The youth of the land know too much now. What we're going to do with our surplus is to provide education for those past forty-five.—Chicago News.

We may remind the soviets, who are going to "extinguish religion," that that is the devil's own job—and he hasn't been able to do it.—Boston Transcript.

A prominent tobacco magnate recently stated that a man could smoke a pack of cigarettes a day for forty-two years and still not consume a bale of tobacco. Our worst suspicions have been confirmed.—Judge.

Typographical errors, like the poor, are with us always, and the Salisbury Press-Spectator thinks it is strange how people never fail to tell you when there is an error.—Kansas City Times.

Both political parties agreed last year that there ought to be a protective tariff on American competitive products equaling the difference in cost of labor at home and abroad. With all the caterwauling in the newspapers about the infamies and iniquities of the proposed new tariff, you may have noticed that no one undertakes to prove, with respect to any tariff rate, whether it exceeds or falls short of that figure.

A famous physican says there are 200,000,000 pounds of excess fat on the American people. Think how much there must have been a generation ago when the corn fed girl was at the height of her popularity.

According to statistics the horse census of the country is decreasing. Sometimes we think that the horse sense of the country is doing the same thing.

One astronomer says that the new planet recently discovered is only one-thirtieth as big as the earth. Think how crowded they must be for parking space.

Since the failure of the London conference can't be blamed on the late Mr. Shearer, it will have to be loaded on Uncle Sam for not sinking his navy and agreeing to fight whenever our European neighbors go to scrapping.

The World Bank is to be opened soon in Switzerland, but so far as we are concerned we are going to keep our little deposit in one of Uncle Sam's banks.

Soon the census takers will have completed their jobs and a lot of city populations estimated by the Chambers of Commerce will have to be revised downward.

Of all the public utilities, with the exception of water, gas is the oldest. Its life dates back to the time of the pony express, the sailing vessel, hand looms, etc. In spite of all the changes in thought, the increase in human knowledge and the many inventions which have aided mankind, gas still leads in its own field. Today, it promises more for the future than it has at any time in the past.

More and more the rest of the world is coming to depend on the United States for products and commodoties of all kinds. During 1929 foreign sales of American machinery, according to the Department of Commerce, totaled over $257,000,000. The significance of this is shown by the fact that in 1913 the total was but $87,129,000, and during the last ten years the average has been $194,533,000.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Well, folks, here we are again, ready to take up again right where we took out last week. Hope you liked the Candidate's Alphabet, because here's the rest of that hokum. We left off with "K"; glad to get that old hump-backed letter out of the way. Here we go!

L—NOW—we gave you an inkling of what to expect under "L" last week. One man has called SOME candidates (not all of them, of course) "Long-Legged Loose-Lipped Leather-Lunged Loafers who Love to Linger" around and tell you all about what a good official they would make. But back your own judgement—don't trust any of 'em too far.

M—SOUNDS made-to-measure for Martyr—ever read the ending of one of those spiels?—Huh? "And, my friends, whether I am nominated or not, your verdict shall be mine—your choice shall be mine!" Sound natural? Yep. But it don't mean anything. They don't feel that way about it. That's a little more hokum, in case they decide to run again in the future.

N—STANDS for NO—the word that candidates don't like to hear. They don't have to listen to it very often, though. A fellow will say something else that the job-hunter can take to mean he will receive the support of the voter, even when he don't mean that—anything to keep from listening to another gas attack the like of which he has heard SO many.

O—FOR Out, Off, On, Oh, Oily (tongued) and a few other like terms. But the best one for "O", we reckon, is that, no matter what argument the old boy puts up, it's just the same OLD, OLD story—somebody wanting an easy job. Yet, somebody's GOT to get it, so you just back your own judgement—like everybody else.

P—SOME "Punkins", Party (stand) Patter, etc. Patter! That's an idea. Besides stand-Patter, there's back-Patter, Pitter-Patter, Patter-Pot, Plates (at the cafes), Peas (for the Plates), and—oh, just numbers of good items in the "P" list. However, we have an idea that P-A-Y will be acceptable.

Q—WHAT CAN we use that Queer letter for? There—that's an idea! Queer! Funny how the very word you're looking for will stick its nose up in your face, isn't it? Queer tactics, Queer tricks, Queer methods—gee Nearly everything is Queer about this political game, though—isn't that right? Well, let 'em buck! It's a Queer world we live in, after all.

R—AH, BOY! Now we've got a good one. "R!" Bet you couldn't guess in a whole month what we're thinkin' about. Right! Go to the head of the class. Republican! The old boys didn't know how important "R" was going to be when they made up the old ABC's, we reckon, or they'd put it up near the front. Even "D" for Democrat comes ahead of it. But, "verily, the first shall be last and the last first". Yep! That's right.

S—PRETTY good looking, but crooked—oh, boy! Funny how the very crookedest letter in the bunch had to be used to spell Straight, isn't it? That's the way of things, though, you know. Looks like we just HAVE to have crooked things in order to have Straight ones. Ain't that Strange?

T—THAT'LL do for Tough, Timid, Tight, Talkative—there, that's the word to describe a genuine dyed-in-the-wool candidate. Talkative! Barbers have a "rep" for being the champion talkers, but we believe they'll have to look to their laurels to hold the belt against a good live hard-working candidate. That right?

U—FOR Useless—Useless Urging, Useless speeches, Useless this and Useless that. To tell the truth, most of the whole affair is "absotively and posilutely" Useless. But, too, there are a few evils that MUST be borne—just dodge as many of 'em as you can—that's our advice.

V—THAT'S for Victory, what all the boys want. The fact that all of 'em can't get it don't make a spark of difference. They won't know they can't until after it's all over and they're already out in the cold. And you CAN'T tell 'em anything—they won't listen. They've all heard that "to the Victor belongs the spoils", and all are trying to be "IT". Can't blame 'em much either, if they think of Votes under the "V" too.

W—ALL THE boys go in for Wishing, Washing, Wishy-Washin' or something like that. Now! Now! Hold yer hosses! Nobody said your pet candidate was the least bit "Wishy-Washy". But we WILL bet he's a WISHER and a WASHER and won't even deny it. If that don't make him WISHY-WASHY, what does it make him. Think that out now, all you smart guys.

X—OOF! That's a hard one. Nope, not so bad. There may be lots of times when a guy don't want his name crossed, but an election is not one of these. In fact, at this particular time, he'd be glad to have EVERYBODY cross him—that's what counts in this old game, you know. The more, the better.

Y—FOR THE YELLS on election night when everybody finds out who's sure of election. Sometime the celebrations don't stop with Yells, especially when old John Barleycorn is "raisin' Cain". Happily, that situation is getting better and better. Maybe the time will soon come when such scenes can be entirely wiped out.

Z—SPEAKING of crooked things back under "S", we forgot "Z". Maybe the cause of "Z" being the last letter is because it's always in lazy, and always Zig-Zaggin' back and forth. Sometimes he "Zigs" when he ought to "Zag". He loses a lot of time Zig-Zagging. Thank goodness, that's all.

Next week we want to try to find quite a number of things that would help the looks of things in general in the Town of Clanton. Don't miss that one. It ought to be good. Good day, and good luck to you all.—"JACK".

A certain mother caught shedding furtive tears confessed it was just that she knew she didn't have a little boy any more. Her youngest son now brushes his teeth without her telling him to do so.—Columbia State.

A syndicate doctor says, besides nicotine, tobacco contains other posions, such as ammonia, prussic acids, carbon monoxide, carbolic acid, marsh gas, etc. Just offhand our guess is he grabbed a card that had the recipe for bootleg liquor on it, instead of the one on which the weed's faults were listed.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The only way to make a naval conference a success is for the United States to agree to do some more sinking and agree to let the others do some more building. And we have a very noisy minority in the United States which would like to see every naval conference turn out that way.

MORE DOLE MONEY

The British government will borrow 10,000,000 pounds more for its unemployment fund. During the debate in the House of Commons on this proposal one of the Conservative members described Mr. Thomas, the cabinet minister who has charge of the unemployment question, as "not so much a minister as a poiltical device." A similar description may be applied to the unemployment dole—not so much an economic remedy as a political device. Britain has burdened itself so greatly with this and other forms of paternalism that the tax question today is of the acutest importance. And paternalism, once begun, grows at a remarkable rate, its administrators and its beneficiaries alike do all they can to increase it. So British industry is handicapped by onerous taxes; the general prosperity is retarded; and even those sections o fthe people that draw doles of one sort or another from the government are eventually more hurt than helped.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

Four million "rich peasants" in Russia face starvation, imprisonment or exile as the result of the communist policy of exterminating them. A "rich peasant" in Russia is one who uses hired labor, conducts an industrial operation, rents machinery to neighbors, rents houses or rooms to others, leases land to others or has any outside income. Is it any wonder that so many of our political "liberals" are so enthusiastic about this sort of "new freedom?"

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not.

I was standing on the corner talking to W. H. Sartor. See here, he said, I had one of them curious eggs I wanted to show you. When I carried it to the office you was gone fishing instead of being there to wait on customers. Then he went over to the garbage can and forthwith fetched the egg. It was just an ordinary looking egg, he said; but when my wife broke it there was a small soft shell egg inside the shell. That is all there is to it, and back into the trash can it went.

Captain W. P. Lay was in Clanton one day last week. He was on his way to Lay Dam to spend a few days. While he was in Clanton he spent several hours knocking around among his friends and talking very pleasantly of olden times. The days and weeks and months which Captain Lay spent here in past years, working for the construction of the first hydro-electric plant of the Alabama Power Company on Coosa River, comprises a big part in the modern development of Chilton County. Now Captain Lay looks back upon those events and regards them as among the most joyful part of his life's accomplishments.

Talking to a group of friends on the streets, Captain Lay said: "Yes, I am going out to Lock 12 to spend a while, just to live over again some of my cherished memories of the years gone by." When he had paused a bit, one of his friends interposd with the gentle reminder that it was not Lock 12 any more, but "Lay Dam." The genial old Captain laughed, and the smile that swept over his kindly face showed that he appciated the spirit in which his friends offered the correction.

"I am greatly interested in the folks who work at the (Lay Dam) power plant," said Captain Lay. "I am anxious to meet all of them and to know that they are comfortable, contented, and happy. Happy home life and pleasant working conditions are the objectives most desired for those who have charge of the big responsibilities at the plant."

On Wednesday while walking around the village at Lay Dam, the Captain went aeross the river for a stroll. He came around below the dam and sat down to rest and enjoy the warm afternoon sun. Presently he reclined on the ground and fell asleep. I like to think how years ago he roamed over those hills and dreamed of the future when the great dam and power plant would be a reality. Now he goes back to those same hallowed spots and is wooed to sleep and gentle rest by the music which used to be only his dreams.

Talking with Captain Lay at the home of one of the employees at Lay Dam Wednesday night, I gathered that his visit there had something to do with the development of navigation on the Coosa River. That is a part of the dream that he had years ago when he planned the development of hydro-electric plants on the river. Just now the subject has gained new enthusiasm. Of all the people in the world, none can do more to forward this great commercial navigation project than Captain Lay. The mere fact that he is intrested in it is assurance to me that it will not be long until boats and barges will be passing up and down the river serving the great industrial districts of the northeastern part of the state with an outlet to the Gulf of Mexico.

The obstruction which now stands in the way of Coosa River navigation is between Riverside in St. Clair County and Wetumpka. It is only a problem of getting boats by the power dams at Lay Dam, Mitchell Dam, and Jordan Dam. This problem was taken into consideration when these dams were built. When all else has been worked out, I am sure the solution of the lock problem at the power plants will have been already solved.

Hurrah for Frank James. He is going to win his fight for the organization of the Clanton Merchant's Association. More than thirty merchants and business men were at the meeting last Thursday night. Another meeting will be held tonight. The permanent organization will be effected. All who expect to get in as charter members must be on hand tonight.

Osmond Middleton stopped over in Clanton Saturday and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Littlejohn. He had been to New Orleans on a mission for the Government in Federal Court. While here he was delighted to see a great many of his friends from different parts of the county. For the past ten years Mr. Middleton has been connected with the Federal Courts in Alabama. His record has been one continuous round of successful achievement. The popularity of Mr. Middleton in this, his home county, is universal; his success brings gladness to our hearts.

Milton Smith, Superintendent of the City Waterworks, came along and invited me to go with him on a visit to the plant. As we were on our way the Goodyear Zeppelin hove into sight, and we stopped to look at it. What's the name of that thing? Asked a lady. Why, it's the Diefenderfer, replied her companion. Don't you see the name on the bottom. Well, I thought, thre is not so much difference between Diefenderfer and Defender after all, only if you try to spell it. Aboard the familiar flivver and on with the trip to he watrworks. Wish I could have a ride in the blimp.

I had the pleasure of seeing one of the filter tanks washed out. My, what a mess the filter plant is keeping out of our water supply. And only to think, as I looked, that the people of Clanton used to drink all of that. It is a wonder we are here to tell the story.

What about some of you folks in Clanton making a visit to our waterworks plant? You ought to go see it. Superintendent Smith will be glad to show you over the whole outfit. In fact, I think he and the city officials would be glad you would go. I am going to invite you, and insist that you go anyhow. Our new water system is something that we have cause to be proud of.

I am glad to notice that Superintendent Smith has begun a little project of beautifying the waterworks property. He is beginning to plant flowers and shrubbery about the grounds. Fine idea. It could be made a real beauty spot. In fact the place would not be a bad park for childrens playground if it were fixed up like it could be done.

Our idea of a solution of the Haytian question is to withdraw all American marines and officials from the island, let the butchering start again, and compel all the folks who have been yelling against American "interference" to spend their vacations there.

FROM ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

St. Petersburg, Fla., 925, Newton Ave., S., April 7th, 1930.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs, Clanton, Ala.; My Dear Friends: I have just received a letter from Mrs. Montgomery at Jemison containing the sad news of the death of your dear girl, Louise. I know that you are all heart-broken over this loss. It is not all yours either, as all her schoolmates at Jemison and her friends in the Mineral Springs community will miss her.

Since coming to Florida last September, I have lost my father. However, only in the knowledge that he is away from me can his death be compared to that of Louise. When we see one leaving us with most of their lives before them, this is a sadness that cannot be compared with the going away of one that has spent most of their allotted time here.

Perhaps I could say nothing more comforting than that I know, because of your Christian faith God will give you strength to bear this great burden. Busy yourselves with the things that Louise would have done had she lived, and thus feel that you have taken up the tasks she would have accomplished.

As I remember Louise, there stands out among her many fine qualities the fact that she had a keen desire to learn and was willing to apply herself to the task of finding out these things.

I miss coming to Mineral Springs very much, and hope to come again some day. I feel that you would be interested to know we are getting along very well in Florida. I came here partly for Mrs. Miller's health and am glad to say that I think it has benefitted her.

I am running a mineature golf course in this place, and it is very interesting; but I miss my Sunday school work.

Again expressing to you my heartfelt sympathy in your sadness, we are, sincerely yours—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller.

E. W. YATES'S HOME BURNED

On last Saturday afternoon between 5:30 and 7:00 o'clock, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Yates near Coopers caught on fire and was burned down. Mr. and Mrs. Yates were away from home at the time.

Everything in and around the house was destroyed; the barn was saved by the heroic work of neighbors who gathered before the occupants of the house returned. Eight sacks of nitrate of soda and a quantity of cotton seed were burned. No clothing was saved except what they had on. They have received some held from friends and others have promised to help.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates are now living with the former's father, W. T. Yates, near Maple Springs.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Practice Forgiveness?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Is True Forgiveness?

This lesson touches a most vital subject for our everyday lives. We are always surrounded by wicked men. Ill treatment we shall most surely receive, for all who will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution (II Tim. 3:12).

In this lesson we have divine instructions as to our behavior in case of such ill treatment.

I. How to Gain an Erring Brother (vv. 15-20).

A sinning brother is lost. To bring him to a knowledge of his sin and restore him to fellowship in the church is to gain him. One soul is of greater value than the whole world. The method to be used is:

1. Personal (v. 15).

Go alone and tell him his fault. Personal effort is most vital in winning an erring brother. It is usually an effective method.

2. The help of a comrade (v. 16).

"Take with thee one or two more." The presence of one or two comrades helps in making known his fault.

3. Tell it to the church (v. 17).

Sometimes the church can accomplish that which the individual and the comrades fail to do.

4. The binding authority of the church's decision (vv. 18-20).

When the church follows the instruction of the Lord, gathers in the name of Jesus Christ, and is actuated by the Holy Spirit, its decisions are final.

II. Peter's Question (v. 21).

This question was probably occasioned by the ill treatment which Peter was then experiencing at the hands of his fellow disciples. Christ's confession of Peter brought him into the limelight. The question of the disciples, "Who is greatest in the kingdom?" shows that there was some jealousy of Peter among the disciples. This envy and jealousy was known to Peter. His patience being thus tesfed, he came to Jesus with a question regarding forgiveness. From the Lord's teaching as to the efforts to bring about reconciliation in case of offenses between brother and brother, he knew that the spirit of forgiveness would be required. Peter, disposed to be gracious, inquired, "till seven times?" showing his readiness to forgive his brother not three times, but twice three times, and a little over.

III. Jesus's Answer (v. 22).

This answer was an astonishing revelation to Peter. Jesus said, not until seven times, but until seventy times seven, showing that willingness to forgive should be practically limitless.

IV. The Two Creditors (vv. 23-35).

These two creditors illustrate Christ's principle of forgiveness.

1. The gracious creditor (vv. 23-27).

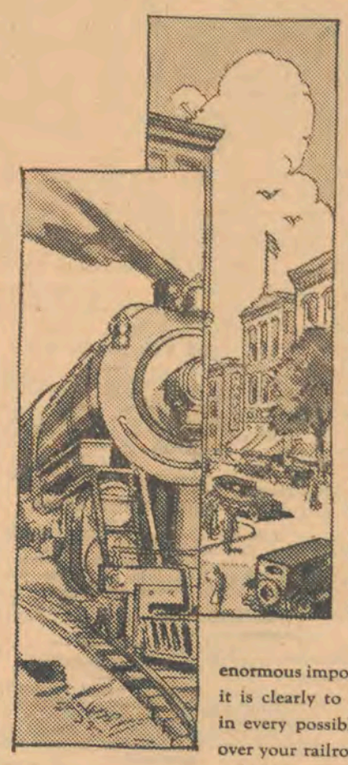
The king in this parable represents God. The servant who is greatly in debt represents the sinner, any sinner, every sinner—you and me. We were hopelessly in debt to God. Ten thousand talents are equal to some twelve millions of dollars. To meet this obligation would be an utter impossibility. This man's plea for time, promising to pay all, resembles man's vain imagining that he can pay his debt to God, that by his future good works he can atone for past sins.

2. The cruel creditor (vv. 28-35).

The man who was forgiven so much found a man who owed him a small sum—perhaps seventeen dollars. He shut his ears to this man's entreaty to have patience with him, flew at his throat, and cruelly put him into jail. The great mercy shown the one whose debt had been forgiven did not touch his heart, so he refused to be merciful. Being set free from so great a debt as our sins against God, we should not take up some slight consideration against our brothers, but should make God's act of unlimited forgiveness toward us a standard of unlimited forgiveness toward others.

(1) We, every one, continue to need every day the forgiveness of God. When we pray, "Forgive us our debt as we forgive our debtors," let us be sure that we have put away all thought of sin held against others. No mercy will be shown to those who have not shown mercy.

The New Life



The new life will have the reality of religion that comes through putting belief into action, actualizing goodness and brotherliness and all the noble virtues that enrich and beautify life and make it Christlike.—H. B. Grose.

YOU AND YOUR RAILROAD ARE IN PARTNERSHIP

No matter who you are, where you live, or what you do, you are in partnership with the railroad which serves your community.

You are a partner with your railroad because it helps you to maintain public activities through its tax assessments (last year, L. & N. taxes amounted to about $7,500,000).

You are a partner because its employes are citizens all along its system and are helping you to promote your community's well-being (last year L. & N. wages paid amounted to $72,000,000).

You are a partner because it furnishes you safe, economical, and comfortable transportation; transports for your daily requirements things made and grown in other territories, and takes your commodities outside to greater markets.

As a partner, and realizing its enormous importance to you and your community, it is clearly to your interest to help your railroad in every possible way. Ride your railroad. Ship over your railroad. Use your influence in inducing others to patronize your railroad.

The L. & N is your railroad—it has been a pioneer in your community; serves first you and your neighbors; takes you places safely and comfortably over its own lines and makes satisfactory connections with other lines; transports your shipments promptly and dependably.

The L. & N. is your partner, and, in view of its consistent and dependable service to your community for nearly eighty years, it feels it may ask your further loyalty and cooperation.

it's wise to choose a SIX!

There is one sure way to get greater value in a low-priced car today—choose a Six!

This greater value is instantly obvious when you drive a Chevrolet Six. You notice first of all its greater smoothness. There is no tremor in the steering wheel—no rattle in the floor boards—no rumble or drumming in the body.

In addition to the finer performance of its six-cylinder motor, the new Chevrolet gives you truly remarkable economy.

Its six-cylinder smoothness saves the entire car from the strain and wear of vibration. This, of course, lowers the cost of maintenance and assures a longer-lasting, longer-satisfying automobile.

From the standpoint of operating expense, Chevrolet is equally economical. No other automobile consumes less gasoline and oil. No other shows a lower expense for tires. And no other car costs less for service.

Because of its modern engineering, Chevrolet also assures a high resale value.

Chevrolet gives you fully-enclosed, weather-proof, 4-wheel brakes; a modern fuel system—with the gasoline tank mounted in the rear; four long semi-elliptic springs, mounted lengthwise in the direction of car travel. It gives you beautiful Fisher bodies built of combination hardwood-and-steel. It gives you a heavy, rigidly-braced channel-steel frame. And it gives you a full ball bearing steering mechanism.

Before you decide on any car in the low-price field, see and drive the Chevrolet Six. The more thoroughly you investigate, the more certain you are to conclude that it's wise to choose a Six—for value, for performance . . . and for economical transportation!

ISABELLA F. F. A.

The Isabella chapter of F. F. A. met Tuesday night and had a dandy meeting. We heard Mr. Houston DeRamus of F. F. A., as a National Growth of F. F. A. as a National Organization."

Next we heard Mr. Claud Conway give a brieg synopsis of our trip to Auburn. This trip was really educational and interesting to those who went. All the boys at this meeting Tuesday night were given a chance to talk. We hope to learn in this chapter how to talk sensibly and without becoming frightened when we have to talk in public. This is one of our goals for 1930.

In our next meeting we will hear Mr. Marvin Durbin on "The Conservation of our National Resources," and Mr. Oliver Manning on "Your Future Home and Wife," and Mr. Crit DeRamus on "The Ideal Future Farmer."

TWO BIRMINGHAM MEN ARE INJURED IN TRUCK WRECK

Atlanta Man is Crushed to Death as Heavy Truck is Overturned.

Fort Payne, Ala., April 15.—H. G. Clark of Atlanta was crushed to death and J. A. Smith and C. A. Hallman of Birmingham, seriously injured when a heavy truck which Hillman was driving turned over on the highway three miles south of here about 3 a.m., Tuesday.

Mr. Clark's body was badly mangled, and he was dead when extracted from the wreckage. Smith received a broken leg and fractured skull.

THORSBY SECTION

A matter of importance to almost everybody in Thorsby and vicinity, is the opening of the strawberry season. Four crates were shipped Saturday, April 12th and 16 crates Monday the 14th. It is expeceted that carload shipments will begin next week.

Mr. A. T. Arthur, brother of Miss Odie Lee Arthur of Thorsby Institute faculty, and himself a graduate of that institution, has been made "Honor Man" of his platoon, which is the highest honor that can be given a recruit in the training period. The selection of "Honor Man" is based on proficiency in infantry drill, rowing, signalling, swimming, seamanship and adaptability for discipline and the service. Realizing the opportunity for additional education and travel, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy on December 4th, 1929. Arthur has been selected for aviation pilot's training which will begin as soon as he passes the necessary examination for such training.

Mrs. Sidney Davenport and Mrs. Spurgeon Williams spent Monday in Birmingham shopping.

48,000 Farmers Say—

The profit on fertilizing, the profit paid by the increase that fertilizing brings, piles up to an average return of $3.54 for every dollar spent on fertilizers for all crops in 35 states. So says the National Fertilizer Association, after interviewing 48,000 farmers and studying their answers.

From everywhere the unmistakable verdict comes that wise fertilizing does pay the farmer who grows crops for market. Part of the wisdom is in choosing the right fertilizer—in deciding to use old reliable V-C, if you'll take Full Rows' word for it.

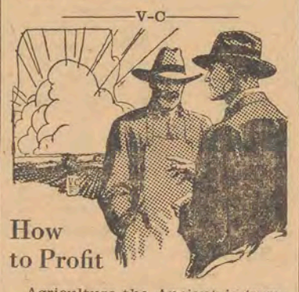
Another truth is proved by the answers of these 48,000 farmers. This truth is that it pays best to fertilize well. The more generous applications of fertilizer per acre are proved to produce the greater returns—through earlier and bigger and better yields, through yields of higher gross value—in the final figure that counts most—net profit!

—V-C—

"For over 20 years we have handled V-C. During this long period our customers have been entirely satisfied."—McGhee Cotton Co., Dealer, Rome, Ga.

—V-C—

"Like Father, Like Sons"



Many years ago the father of four young sons became one of the first customers of the old Georgia Chemical Works, buying his fertilizer from what is now the V-C sales office in Augusta, Ga. The father was A. J. McElmurray, and the sons—E. W., J. A., R. L. and J. R. McElmurray—all are grown now, and have families of their own, and are respected and successful members of their communities.

"Our first recollections are of coming into this office with our father," said E. W. McElmurray recently." Maybe we just formed the habit then, but I think it was because the V-C brands were always good and helped us make money. Anyhow, we've kept coming back ever since, for the same old brands. I've been using them myself for 38 years and they suit me. My father used to let me buy them on his credit, till I got to be 21. My brothers and I are carrying out the same program with our families. We were raised on V-C and it looks like we'll raise our own on V-C."

Nothing But V-C for 16 Years

"We have handled V-C fertilizers continuously and exclusively for 16 years. Sales have increased each year. Many satisfied growers have been using V-C ever since we started handling it." — Hector Supply Co., Dealer, Miami, Fla.

—V-C—

How to Profit

Agriculture the Ancient is turning to ways that are new—to methodical business and big-scale farming and mass production. And competition! Management must be wiser, now, for total yields climb faster than markets and no man can say what his products will bring.

Good farming has learned a lesson—it hunts profit in lower costs. Your successful farmer even adds a little to his costs in order to cut them! He buys and uses tons of V-C fertilizer, rich mixed food for his growing crops—and produces pounds or bushels or other units in greater number per acre and man-hour, thus cutting the cost each unit must bear. Not only does this farmer push costs down—he pushes gross income up, for he sells at higher prices the earlier yields and better yields that V-C fertilizer brings. He knows how to profit!

—V-C—

"Have been selling fertilizers 30 years and have always gotten the best results from V-C. My trade have already asked me for V-C for next year's crop."—J. H. Baker, Dealer, Ocilla, Ga.

Quality Product Needed

"We have dealt largely with quantitative production of cotton, but we need qualitative production. We must know the right plant food and its proper application, the right seed, the proper cultivation. We have a problem in the quality of the product."—Dr. E. C. Brooks, President, North Carolina College of Agriculture.

—V-C—

"We sell V-C exclusively. Our business has grown steadily and our customers are satisfied."—Chaplin Bros., Inc., Neeses, S. C.

Must Meet Quick Changes

"The time has come for farmers to take stock of their agricultural assets and liabilities, in order to meet the rapidly changing conditions brought about by the new methods and inventions of science."—Dr. H. G. Knight, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

—V-C—

"—But It's Good"

"Yassuh, hit do look like mighty little—but hit's sho pow'ful good!" Uncle Mose is saying in this picture from the V-C billboards.

Uncle Mose might be described as renting a patch of land down on lower Whitewater. He has to scratch hard for a living, but Mr. Froney sees that he gets along and has enough to eat. Uncle Mose grins and pats the bag. "An' hit's ol' V-C. Been farmin' wid V-C since I work fo' yo' Grampaw. Rather have one bag o' V-C dan fo-five bags o' something else. Nevah take nothin' else—no Suh! Dis heah de gue-anna ol' Mose want. Git a little, git a lot, I takes V-C!"

"We are farming too many acres that are economically quite hopeless."—J. G. Lipman, New Jersey College of Agriculture.

STATE CAPITOL News

Alabama's remarkable educational progress in recent years was portrayed by speakers who addressed the annual convention of the Alabama Educational Association, held at Montgomery April 10-12. Governor Graves, one of the principal speakers at the opening session of the convention, pointed out that the State's appropriation during the present quadrennium for education, public health, eleemosynary and reformatory institutions, were nearly three times as great, or to be exact 288 2-5 per cent of the appropriations for the same purposes during the four years immediately preceeding. The chief executive called attention also to the fact that for the present year the public schools of the state are running 11,000,000 school days ahead of three years ago.

Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintendent of education, in addressing the convention, praised the educational leadership of Governor Graves and the accomplishments of his adminstration along this line and declared that "there is no turning back from the standards of this adminstrative quadrennium which has witnessed the greatest educational progress of the century."

Dr. George Denny, president of the University of Alabama, in an address at the University alumni banquet, paid high tribute to Governor Graves, who he declared has done more for education in Alabama than any governor in the history of the state.

The Supreme Court of Alabama in a recent decision upheld the validity of the law requiring licensing of real estate salesmen or dealers. This act was passed by the last legislature, creating a state real estate commission to adminster its provisions.

Commerce of the port of Mobile, on which the state has spent the proceeds of a $10,000,000 bond issue for port development, is increasing rapidly. A report recently submitted to Governor Graves by General William L. Sibert, chairman of the docks commission, showed that tonnage handled through the port increased from 3,168,000 for the calendar year 1926 to 5,046,000 in 1928. During a recent trial period of twelve months, ending April 1, 1930, after paying operating and maintenance expenses, the docks project earned $290,295.13, General Sibert reported. During eight months of this trial year the net earnings were 3.2 per cent on the total investment of $10,000,000, and for the whole year, about 3 per cent. Since the commencement of construction of the state docks in 1924, 20 new steamship lines have been added to those making the port of Mobile. The amount of cotton moving thru the port increased from 86,344 bales for the season of 1923-24 to 366,975 for the season of 1929-30.

For the first time in history an annual loss of less than a million acres of forest lands burned over in Alabama has occured, according to information from the State Foresary Department. The year 1929 witnessed damage by fire to only approximately two and eight-tenths per cent of the 23,000,000 acres of woodland in the state, the area burned over being 644,411 acres. The comparitively low forest fire damage for 1929 was due largely to excessive spring rainfall, although alertness on the part of landowners and greater application of intelligent forestry methods were important factors.

CEDAR GROVE

Farmers are busy getting ready to plant their crops and gather their berries. Most everybody is just a little blue over the berry crop as it doesn't look very promising just now.

Our Sunday school at this place is moving along nicely now, but there is yet room for a great improvement, and we heartily welcome all to attend that can. There is a good many that could come and we would be glad to have you.

We are putting on a special program for Easter Sunday and will have an egg hunt and dinner served. The program is as follows: 10 o'clock, Sunday school lesson; 11 o'clock, Egg hunt; 12, dinner; 1:30, song service 30 minutes; and the Easter offering. Then a devotional service, Bible reading, John 20:1-16 and Matt. 28:6, by Callie Nations. Prayer by pastor, and song. Welcome address by Lorene Price. "Jesus Lives," by ten beginners. "The Call of the Cross," by the senior class. "Lilies of Easter," Mary E. Nations. Easter songs, four girls. Closing address, by Curtis Collins.

Mrs. L. M. Nations, Manager.

FLOYD SINGING

The singing society met last Sunday afternoon with a very large attendance. The singing was called to order by the chairmn, Prof. J. M. Williams; prayer was offered by Rev. J. L. Culpepper. Directors for the afternoon were: P. H. Headley, I. D. Huett, Dennis Culpepper, Jasper Robinson, L. T. Grant and Huff Burkhalter, A. O. Boswell, and Marshal Burkhalter. Organists for the afternoon were: Mrs. J. M. Williams and A. O. Boswell.

We were very glad to have with us singers from Chestnut Creek, Enterprise and other places, and we extend to them a hearty invitation to come back and be with us every 2nd Sunday afternoon.

Now, people, if you were not at this singing, you missed a real good one, and if you are not there next second Sunday afternoon you might miss another. So be sure and come and bring someone with you.

Last Sunday was our regular preaching day, and we had a real good sermon delivered to us by Rev. Culpepper. His subject was "Going to Hell Through the Church," and it was mighty good.

We have a real good Sunday school with 75 on roll, and the attendance is good.

Miss Ruby Campbell is mighty sick with double pneumonia. We hope she soon recovers.—P. H. Headley.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

A CONTINUATION OF THE STUDY IN SAMUEL

Last week we were in Kirjathjearim. On the map and in our travel that location may be uncertain. But we read that the Ark of the Covenant was first taken there by the Israelites of this place. It was first placed in the house of Abinadab and thence into the house or the home of Obededom. Now this ark was a symbol of the presence of God. It was built at Sinai, taken to Shiloh from here it was carried away by the enemies of God.

Now we come back to the house of Obededom in Kirjathjearim. It was no doubt a home where Christ listened to every conversation, where God brake the bread, and where God ruled and reigned in every heart. It must have been a wonderfull home, a wonderfull place for the ark to rest. I think of a song my mother used to sing to me: "Mid Scenes of Confusion." The last verse of this song speaks of there being no place like home. This ark which gave the old Hebrew the idea of God being with them and speaking to them was a great blessing in the home of Obededom. Just so, God is a great blessing in any home.

This ark of the most precious wood, covered on the outside and inside with gold was three feet nine inches long, and two feet three inches in width and height. In it were the ten commandants, the pot of manna, and Aaron's rod that budded. A lesson is connected with each of the contents of the ark which I have just named, but just here I would say that in it all was God's testimony against sin, and the terms of the covenant with Israel.

Now the Israelites during the time of the arks stay in Kirjathjearim were perplexed with how to overcome the oppression of the Philistines. They sent for Samuel, a child of prayer. They had no doubt cried unto the Lord, but because of their wanderings away from God into idolatry their hearts were not as yet prepared to meet God on an equal footing to bring His blessing into their lives. O if we could just emphasize this great need of personal prayer in our own lives today. Samuel prayed unto the Lord as they besought him without ceasing. The Lord heard Samuel's prayers and gave Israel a great victory over the Philistines.

But first we must think of how Samuel led them to repentance. He said to them and God said to us in the same chapter today, "Put away your idols and prepare your hearts unto the Lord." We have a great fight before the enemies of the Lord over criticism, indifference, selfishness, indolence. But in all these things we are to remember that prayer makes the darkened clouds withdraw, it climbs the ladder Jacob saw, and satan trembles when he sees the weakest saint on his knees.

Now comes the most difficult place in our travels. We are at Mizpeh, where Samuel called forth the children of Israel to pray for them. No doubt was this Mizpeh of Gilead where a covenant was made between Jacob and Laban so saying the Lord watch between me and thee while we are absent the one from the other and neither shall pass over this pillar to harm the other. "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: The Lord make his face to shine on thee, and be gracious unto thee: The Lord lift up His countenance upon thee, and give thee peace."

In Hebrew language Mizpeh means a watch tower. It must mean a great deal more than we think. The Israelites no doubt assembled on that commanding height to get a view of the surrounding country that they might watch the enemy. But this Mizpeh carries with it the idea that God's covenant between His people requiring watchfullness that it be not broken. God watches from the watch tower to see if we keep His covenant, and He requires us to watch that we keep it.

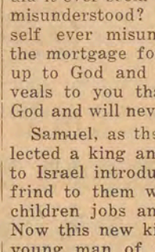
There these Israelites poured out water on the ground and fasted that day unto the Lord. This is the only incident of this kind mentioned in Old Testament inspired history. The pouring out of the water from the jars was a symbol of their repentence, the pouring out of their souls unto God humbly and meekly, that He forgive their many sins, and take them back into His love and bountiful blessings. In this time of need the Israelites learned the greatest lesson of their lives in that of their absolutely dependence upon God. We cannot overcome evil without God's help, and we must have our hearts prepared as did Israel before we can expect God's help in the battle, before we can gain victory. In their return to God and repentance they were given the great opportunity of fighting the devil. This is to me the most thrilling thing in Hebrew history. O the great opportunity of fighting the devil, the personal devil. It ought to thrill every Christian to be given the opportunity of fighting the devil.

Now here comes the place of a scene which we pause to think for a while its name, Ebenezer, occurs twice in the Bible. I am sure that I saw this place. An intelligent Hebrew would say that the word Ebenezer means, "The Lord has helped us." I pause in the journey to tell you that nearly forty-one years ago I rode along 20th Stseer and 2nd Avenue, which was then just a duck pond. Today we see sky-scrapers there. God did it. Samuel here at Ebenezer stopped in his gratitude and set up an altar giving God the praise and honor of the victory. O if we would just stop and set up an Ebenezer to God as we travel along the journey of life.

The Israealites went out to battle with the sword of the Lord, and God caused a great thunder to discomfit the Philistines. Thus God delivered the Philistine army into the hands of the Israelites. The God who created the heavens and the earth, who has numbered even the hairs of our heads, who has made each atom of this universe and directs its every movement, who holds the winds in His fists, who makes the thunders roar and the lightenings to flash will give us the victory when we trust Him for it.

Certainly He has a definite plan in the battle for each life. He has planned your life and my life. How dare we say, "I do not understand why my life is like it is." The sweetest and holiest place is in the will of God. Samuel was evdently a greater man than you and I think. As a child of prayer we would not forget that he had religious training at his mother's and father's knees and under the priesthood of Eli in the tabernacle building at Shiloh. He not only had religious training but he also had mental, and physical training. He comes first in the line of prophets and last in the line of judges.

He was judge af Ramah, his birthplace and home of his mother and father, Hannah and Elkanah. Think of that home which was blessed in God's plan to send out such a son as Samuel, a bright and shining light for God to all Israel. O my friends, it is the home. As goes the home so goes the nation. O, the memories of the mother in that dear old home as she sings "How tedious and tasteless the hours." O her memory as she gathers flowers by the little creek near the home and brings them in to adorn the living room. Still sweeter is the memory as you feel her clasp your hands together and have you lisp that evening prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray thee, Lord, my soul to keep. If I should die before I wake, I pray thee, Lord, my soul to take."



When the homes go for Jesus Christ in this old world it is moved on in the progress of Christ's kingdom. We advance then in Christ's kingdom as the home moves that way. From that Godly home in Ramah ther went out a great light in Ephraim and a part of Benjamin. Samuel was a cricuit rider from Ramah about nine miles from Jerusalem to Mizpeh, Bethel, and Gilgal. Gilgal you remember was the military center of the Israelites after they crossed the Jordan under Joshua. It is just a little way from Jericho I think, however it is said that the location of old Jericho is uncertain. It is claimed that parts of the walls of Jericho has been unearthed.

Samuel has two sons, Joel and Abiah. He made them judges. A father ought to be mighty careful in the promotion of his sons. You cannot do too much for anyone. Sometimes we are more grateful when our eyes are filled with tears than when we are promoted and rejoicing. The bird with one wing sings sweeter than the bird with both wings. Samuel made his sons judges to his sorrow and to their sorrow. They were judges in Beersheba, the southern extremity of Palestine. It is located there now. O what sad commentary on the life of Samuel, a man with a great prayer life, a Godly lif to fail by trying to make the judgeship hereditary in the life of his sons who were wholly unprepared for such a position. They did not judge right, did not live right.

The people under these judges of Beersheba, dissatisfied with their judging went to Samuel, their father, and made a complaint, demanding that they be given a king as other nations. God said to Samuel, "Samuel, be not heartbroken because of this, the people have rejected you but they have also rejected me. They have not only misunderstood you but they have misunderstood me." In the dark days of your life did it ever seem to you that you were misunderstood? Then did you yourself ever misunderstand God when the mortgage foreclosed? Just look up to God and be still until he reveals to you that He is a merciful God and will never forsake you.

Samuel, as the Lord bade him, selected a king and brought him forth to Israel introducing him as a great frind to them who would give their children jobs and be kind to them. Now this new king was a choice young man of the tribe of Benjamin. His father's asses were loose and lost, and he was sent forth to find them. He with his servant passed through the lands of Shalissa, Shalim, and Benjamin. Watch God's plan here for a life as king over Israel. My friends, God has a plan in the education of your children. God has a plan in each life. Saul was turned aside to the city where Samuel was and where Samuel led him forth and anointed him king over Israel.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

A Voice Out of the Cotton Patches

A GROUP of country negroes seized with the desire to emigrate North—that same same contagion, by the way, which is depopulating some of the cotton fields—got as far as Birmingham, Ala., before their money ran out. In the hope of raising funds sufficient to enable them to continue their journey, the stranded travelers sought employment.

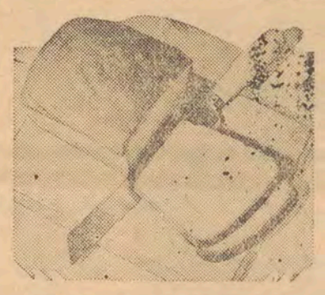
One of them became acquainted with a white gentleman who threw several odd jobs in his way. But this scrappy employment, while it provided temporary food and lodging, did not serve to gratify the more pressing ambition.

Reaching his office on a certain morning, the citizen found his colored friend awaiting him at the door.

"Mr. Blank," said the applicant "you's been so good to me already I hates to keep on pesterin' you, but I suttinly does need wuk mighty bad ag'in, an' I'se hopin mebbe you kin he'p me out ag'in same ez you's done two-three times befo'."

"Well," said the benefactor, "as it so happens, you may be in luck. Just now I heard that they were needing a hand down the street here, at the Eagle Laundry."

"Thank yuh, suh," said the negro, "but Mr. Blank," he added doubtfully, "I ain't never had no 'sperience washin' eagles."



QUICK BREADS

Home-made bread is the most satisfying, the best tasting, the most fragrant, the most nourishing and the most economical food in the world.

Every mother should make bread at home not only to please her family's palate and to save money but to give her youngsters a nutritious, wholesome food.

In addition to making yeast breads and rolls there are so many delicious quick breads that the housewife can quickly make. To make these quick breads, time, money and ingredients can be saved by using self-rising flour which is pre-leavened or prepared flour. Who doesn't like nut bread or for a change orange bread?

For nut bread proceed as follows:

¼ cup sugar
2 tbsp. fat
1 egg
1⅞ cups self-rising flour
1 cup milk
1 cup nut meats broken in small pieces

Place the sugar, fat and egg in a bowl; beat until thoroughly blended; add the flour and liquid alternately, then add the nuts; pour into a greased bread pan, and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) about fifty minutes.

A half-million dollar corporation will enter the Birmingham industrial district to manufacture iron, steel, wire and wire rope, it was announced by John Brandon, secretary of state, upon issuance of certificate of incorporation to the John A. Robbling & Sons Company, of New Jersey.

Jemison News

WOULD YOU MISS THIS?

Chuckles, laughs, sighs, tears! You can't miss this combination found in "A Wild Flower of the Hills," to be presented at the Jemison High School Saturday night, April 20th. The plot is neatly woven and involves characters ranging from a lazy darky to a crafty attorney. Chloe, a clever little waif, played by Tommie Lee Sims, grips your interest throughout the performance. Mrs. Burke, played by Miss Edna McInnish, septematically despises and abuses her. The death of Mr. Burke leaves Chloe under the control of John Burke, played by Edward Glass. She defies his authority and turns for refuge to her only friends—good old Mammy, Miss Margie Murphy, and the mysterious wanderer, Snow-White, Hollis Merchant. Sue is played by Miss Echols, who marries a bootlegger, Bob Reynolds.

The play is being directed by Mrs. A. C. Wells and is under the auspices of the P.-T. A. The proceeds are to be applied to a waterworks fund for the school. With such a worthy purpose and such clever entertainment, you can't afford to miss it. Tell your friends, and be there!

Campus Being Improved

Have you passed by the Jemison high school lately? If you have, I am sure you have noticed the work that has been done on the campus. The work is under the direction of Mr. J. A. Peterson and Mr. J. P. Montgomery. Our boys have been very busy plowing and laying off drive-ways.

Clothing Contest

Miss Leacy Newell, home economics teacher, held her clothing contest last Wednesday afternoon. An interesting program was presented, including a short play and a fashion show. Following the program the guests were invited to the home economics department where they were served refreshments by the girls. Various works of the department were on display and were enjoyed by all.

The first prizes in clothing were won by Delene Lawrence and Jeraldine Bean. These girls will go to Montevallo to compete in the state clothing contest to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

School Gets Curtain

Jemison high school P.-T. A. high school P.-T. A. met Wednesday afternoon. It was a business meeting for the purpose of selecting a velour curtain for the stage. A representative of a stage equipment company was present and displayed various samples. The curtain was purchased and is to be ready for use in a short time.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our many thanks to our good neighbors and to our friends for their kindness and good help during the sickness and death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Isabelle Wilson.

We certainly thank Dr. J. P. Hayes for his aid and for his good service to come at every call. We want to thank the ones for their beautiful floral offerings; we can never forget the good people of our community. May God bless each and every one is our prayer.—W. H. Wilson and Children.

"LITTLE MISS JACKS"

The four-act play of the above name will be presented at Cane Creek school building Friday night, April 18th at 7:30 o'clock. A string band will furnish music between acts. Admission 15c and 25c. Everybody is invited.—Zula Rutherford, Prin.

UNION GROVE

The United Singing Society met here last Sunday with one of the best singings we have had. We had the pleasure and honor of having Prof. W. M. Devaughn with us, and other good singers that came with him. We also had the Clanton Quartet, which gave us several good selections. The singing was opened with a song by A. H. Glasscock; prayer offered by Bro. Bean, the pastor. Directors were: Messrs. A. V. Northcutt, O. L. Devaughn, W. L. Sanders, W. M. Devaughn, Archie Devaughn, Jessie C. Jones, Jasper Oaks, Floyd Little, E. L. Glasscock and Prof. Appleton.

Organists were: Mrs. Belle Dorminey, Misses Genie Collins, Gwindolyn Clements and W. G. Culp. The singing was dismissed with prayer by Prof. Appleton.

IN MEMORY OF OUR MOTHER

On Saturday, April 5th the death angel visited the home of W. H. Wilson and took his dear wife and our mother, Mrs. Isabelle Wilson, to that home of rest. She died about noon. She was sick four weeks and two days with pneumonia. The medical aid, loving hands and tender hearts did all they could to comfort her, but all was in vain.

She was a faithful wife and mother. There is not but one mother, and ours is gone to rest; we are missing her so much. It seems that we need her badly, but God needed her more. Her memory will live in the hearts of her friends and neighbors forever, and especially her family. We realize that she is not dead, but liveth in that great beyond awaiting our coming.

She will be greatly missed at her church, for she was always ready to go to church when she was able; she was a faithful member. Her chair is vacant at home and can never be filled. Our family is broken here now, but we hope and trust that it will be unbroken in heaven. She always taught her children to follow Jesus.

Mother leaves living a husband, 5 girls—Mrs. Alma Wilson, Miss Gladys Wilson, Mrs. Gracie Patterson, Miss Gertie Wilson of Clanton, Mrs. Effie Cook of Sylacauga; two sons—Latham and Bonnie Wilson and one step son, Emmett Wilson, all of Clanton. There are three brothers—Ben Clark of Clanton, Sanford Clark of Mt. Creek and Lee Clark of Birmingham; four sisters—Mrs. Catherine Hand of Clanton, Mrs. Balzora Hand of Climax, Ga., Mrs. Roxie Hand of Deatsville, and Mrs. Edith Burkhalter of Verbena. A host of other relatives and friends are left to mourn her going away. But our loss is heaven's gain.

The funeral services were held at Maple Springs, conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. T. J. Deason, Martin in charge of the body.

It was just one week ago;
We can never forget the day—
When came the silent reaper,
And took our dear mother away.

Although unable to speak to us,
And could not even say 'Good Bye',
We know her thoughts were with us
When she was called to die.

She's not dead, just sweetly resting
From her toils and troubles here;
But if we live as she has taught us
We will meet her over there.

Dear mother is sadly missed by her husband and children.—The Children.

L. & N. OWNS AND OPERATES 5,250.05 MILES OF LINES

The report showed that the number of passengers carried by the L. & N. in 1929 was 6,200,214 as compared with 7,550,649 in the previous year. In 1929 482,542,463 passengers traveled one mile over the system, while in 1928 that number was 542,880,731. The number of tons of freight carried in 1929 was 58,974,165 as against 62,523,542 the year before. In 1928 13,090,951,875 tons of freight were carried one mile, whereas that number shrank to 12,580,521,098 in 1929.

American women spend billions for beauty, according to an estimate made by Mrs. Ruth D. Maurer, a nationally known authority on beauty. The expenditures amount to approximately $2,000,000,000 a year. From pigtail days onwards the average woman uses 7.9 pounds of creams, lotions, powders, rouges, lipstick, and other makeup annually, or 347.6 pounds between the ages of 16 and 60.

DOCTORS DISAGREE

When children are irritable and peevish, grind their teeth and sleep restlessly, have digestive pains and disturbances, lack of appetite, and have itching eyes, nose and fingers, doctors will not always agree that they are suffering from worms. Many mothers, too, will not believe that their carefully brough up children can have worms. The fact remains that these symptoms will yield, in a great majority of cases, to a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, the sure expellant of round and pin worms. If your child has any of these symptoms, try this harmless, old fashioned remedy, which you can get at 35c per bottle from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

ACCIDENTS DECREASING ON L. & N. RAILROAD

In an article in the April number of the L. & N. Employe's Magazine, J. H. McChord, assistant to the general counsel of the L. & N. Railroad, reveals that during the period of 12 years, 1918-1929 inclusive, the L. & N. has transported 146,783,000 passengers without a single fatal injury in t train accident. Intensive campaigns of recent years, according to Mr. McChord, have resulted in substantial decreases in loses and damage to freight, injuries to livestock and employee injuries.

In 1920 personal injury claims against the L. & N. and cases in litigation amounted to $1,101,485, while in 1929, notwithstanding a 33 per cent increase in business, these claims amounted to $869,844, a 21 per cent reduction. In 1926 62 L. & N. employees were fatally injured and 3,158 were injured sufficiently to cause three days or more loss of time. In 1929 there were 19 employees killed and 1,039 injured, a reduction of 69 per cent i nfatal injuries and 67 per cent in non-fatal injuries.

JUST LIKE AN OSTRICH

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powdrs is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood streams and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easily, which you can get at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone in a size to fit your needs and purse, from Upchurch Drug Company

How I coaxed him to eat

"ONCE I was worried. Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood-tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and was beneficial to the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S.

It is a known fact that when a man's system gets "run-down," he hasn't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play. It is dangerous to let the red-blood-count remain below normal.

S.S.S. is daily helping people to regain their strength. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It promotes a keen appetite, gives vitality to the body, clears the skin and wards off diseases. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

Quality Better than ever; prices LOWER than ever

A few years ago, Kelly-Springfields were the highest-priced tires on the market—and they were well worth the difference in cost.

Today, Kellys are consistently giving two and three times the mileage they did seven or eight years ago, yet they now cost no more than any of the well known makes.

The explanation is simple. Public demand for Kellys led to large production and lowered costs, thus making it possible for us to offer you far better tires than the old Kellys, at half the price.

If you have never used Kelly tires, it will pay you to get acquainted with them.

Look at these prices:

29 x 4.40—$7.50	29 x 5.50—$12.00
30 x 4.50—$8.25	30 x 6.00—$13.10
28 x 4.75—$9.25	32 x 7.00—$21.80

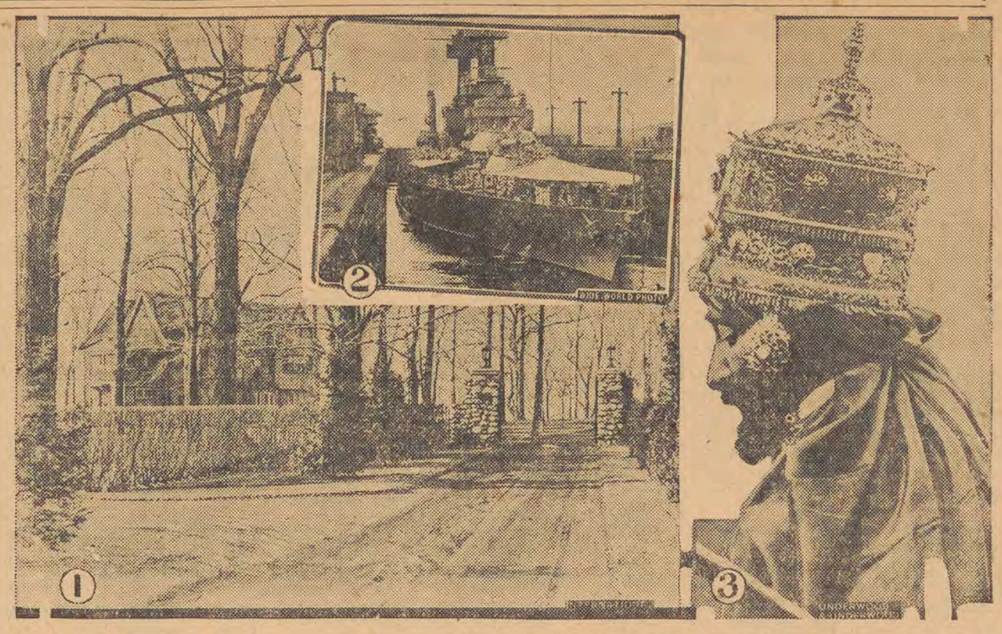
MAKING FORD PISTONS

Pistons for the Ford car and truck are being finished automatically to within very fine limits of weight, as the result of the developmentof a new machine by engineers of the Ford Motor Company.

To insure smooth performance and to make possible mass production, every moving part must be manufactured to very definite specifications. No part is any more important in this respect than the piston which must be as exact in size and weight as possible.



Ford aluminum pistons, completely finished except for weight, reach the machine all slightly over-weight. They leave it, weighing each within two grams of any other piston—and a gram is but one twenty-eighth of an ounce.

The operator places a piston upon a delicate scale to determine the amount of its overweight. On top of the machine is another scale which is in mechanical contact with a so-called "chip cup." The operator sets the machine scale to a reading corresponding with the overweight of the piston. The piston is placed in position, the machine started, and metal chips bored from inside the piston drop into the cup. When the weight of the chips equals the overweight of the piston boring automatically stops. The whole operation requires but a few seconds.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

RUTH HANNA McCORMICK, daughter of one former United States senator and widow of another, may be the first woman to be elected a member of highest deliberative body in the land. Her nomination for this high office by the Republicans of Illinois was an event of national importance, and it also has international implications for the chief issue she raised in her primary campaign was American adherence to the World court, which she unreservedly opposes. Senator Charles S. Deneen, whose seat was the prize in the contest, favors such adherence with the reservations now pending, and his decisive defeat must be taken to indicate that the Republican voters of Illinois stand with Mrs. McCormick in this matter. This may not be true of Chicago, where the fight was complicated and probably decided by party factional strife.

If Mrs. McCormick is to be elected she must defeat at the polls that former Illinois senator and seasoned political campaigner, Col. James Hamilton Lewis, who easily won the Democratic nomination. The colonel is an avowed wet and says he will make his campaign largely upon the liquor issue, with attacks on the Hoover administration and the Hoover policies thrown in for good measure. Mrs. McCormick has supported the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and may expect the hearty support of the various dry organizations.

Aside from personalities and issues, the victory of Mark Hanna's daughter is notable as "the first conspicuous and unequivocal acknowledgement of the full implication of the Nineteenth amendment," in the words of the Chicago Tribune. As such it aroused the enthusiasm of the nation's women and the interest of every one. Mrs. McCormick is now a congressman at large, and among the first to congratulate her were the other six women who are members of the lower house. No woman ever has been elected to the senate though Mrs. Felton of Georgia served for two days in 1922 by gubernatorial appointment.

Reports that unduly large sums were spent in the Illinois Republican senatorial primary campaign may be investigated by the senate. Some weeks ago Senator Norris of Nebraska introduced a resolution for the creation of a special campaign fund inquiry committee for this year, and it was unanimously approved last week by the committee on privileges.

LOBBYING activities of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals were the subject of a warm interchange of opinions before the senate committee on lobbies. Congressman Tinkham of Massachusetts appeared before the committee to ask that the political doings of the board be investigated, and he supported his case with much documentary evidence as well as with vigorous argument. Senator Walsh of Montana, although a Catholic, came to the defense of the Methodist organization. Tinkham, it may be unnecessary to say, is a wet and Walsh is a dry.

Tinkham next day presented a similar case against the Federal Council of Churches and the Anti-Saloon league, and the committee decided to call for the books and records of the three organizations.

The lobby committee, which had heard John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, defend his liberal gifts of money to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, also heard Josephus Daniels and other dry Democrats attack the motives of Mr. Raskob and condemn him for "giving money to elect wet Republicans and defeat dry Democrats." Many of Raskob's assailants demand that he resign his chairmanship, but he has shown no sign of intending to do so.

FINDING the adoption of a complete five-power treaty impossible at this time, the naval parley delegates in London decided to quit after signing a pact, the outlines of which were stated as follows:

A five-power agreement between Great Britain, America, Japan, France and Italy on the following terms:

1. Postponement for five years of replacement of capital ships scheduled by the Washington treaty in 1922.

2. Extension of the aircraft carrier category to include carriers not exceeding 10,000 tons, the armament of which shall be limited to six inch guns.

3. Definition of coast guard and other small ships exempt from limitation.

4. Classification of warships and methods for permanent limitation by global and category tonnage.

A five-power agreement prohibiting the destruction of merchant ships by submarines, unless the passengers and crew of the captured craft are placed in safety.

A three-power agreement between America, Great Britain and Japan on the lines previously given in these columns, providing for reduction of battleship fleets and limitation of cruisers, destroyers and submarines as in the Reed-Matsudaira plan.

This entire progrem was announced by Secretary Stimson with the full approval of the other delegates and was announced in parliament by Prime Minister MacDonald. Meanwhile Briand, French foreign minister, and Dino Grandi, chief of the Italian delegation, had had a conference and agreed that their nations could not yet reach an accord in the matter of navies, but that further discussions should take place in Geneva when the League of Nations meets in May.

M. Briand later explained that France is ready to pledge not to construct any capital ships during the interim until 1936, unless Germany, through building additional units of the Ersatz Preussen type, forces her to do so.

It was understood the proposed treaty and instruments would be ready for signing by April 17 and that the American delegation would sail for home April 22 on the Leviathan.

DRY law violations and prosecutions are increasing the population of the federal prisons at the rate of one every 68 minutes, according to statistics issued by the Department of Justice. Between June 30, 1929, and April 1, 1930, the number of federal prisoners both in federal penal institutions and local jails, mounted from 19,349 to 25,626, an increase of 6,277 in nine months.

Approximately 75 per cent of the increase, according to the Department of Justice estimates, was due to convictions under the Volstead and Jones laws.

Attorney General Mitchell has filed in the Supreme court a brief, to be used when the case of James E. Farrer of Boston is reached, which is designed to bring a decision as to whether the liquor buyer is equally guilty with the seller. The Federal District court for Massachusetts held that the purchase of liquor from a bootlegger was not "prohibited by the Volstead act" and dismissed the indictment against Farrer. The attorney general argues that the failure of congress to specify that purchases from a bootlegger should be an offense should not be construed by the courts as meaning that congress did not intend to make such purchases an offense.

THE administration of the $20,000,000 Farmers' National Grain corporation, the first national co-operative set up by the federal farm board, was turned over at a meeting in Chicago to stockholders representing 21 regional farmers' grain marketing associations.

Nineteen farmer stockholders were named on the new board of directors of the grain sales co-operative, which takes the place of the original board which incorporated the organization. Two of these original directors were dropped—P. A. Lee, Grand Forks, N. D., and H. G. Keeney, Omaha, Neb. The five new directors added are: E. E. Kennedy, Kankakee, Ill., Farmers' Union; C. B. Steward, Omaha, Neb., Farmers' West Central Grain cooperative; Oscar Slosser, Astoria, Ohio, Ohio Farmers' Grain and Supply association; F. J. Wilmer, Rosalia, Wash., president North Pacific Grain Growers' association, and W. J. Kuhrt, Minneapolis, Northwest Grain association.

C. E. Huff, Salina, Kan., was elected president; John Manley, Enid, Okla., vice president, and Lawrence Farlow, Bloomington, Ill., secretary.

MAHATMA GANDHI'S campaign against the British government in India was not going quite to his liking, although the movement was spreading in various districts. The trouble is that the English refrained from martyrizing him personally. Two of the ascetic leaders' sons and numerous others were arrested for violating the government salt monopoly laws, and one of the sons was promptly sentenced to prison. But Gandhi, up the time of writing, had not been taken into custody. Annoyed by the tactics of the British authorities, who were seizing the illicit salt the Nationalists were making from sea water, Gandhi so far abandoned his non-resistance policy as to advise his followers to hang onto the salt if possible. The Indian women are taking an increasingly prominent part in the passive resistance campaign.

TROUBLES for the Chinese Nationalist government are multiplying. Not only is there open warfare between it and Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, ruler of Shansi province, but now the rapid growth of Communism in the southern provinces is causing great alarm. Wealthy Cantonese merchants and bankers are co-operating with the government of Canton in raising a fund and equipping a "Chinese Anti-Red army" which is to be trained by foreign military tacticians.

RAS TAFFARI, who became co-ruler of Abyssinia in 1928, has proclaimed himself emperor. This action is the sequel of the crushing defeat of revolting tribes, the killing in battle of Ras Gugas Wali and the death next day of the Empress Zauditu, wife of Ras Gugas.

CALVIN COOLIDGE has completed two sections of the 500-word history of the United States which is to be inscribed on Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills, and they have been made public. They are as follows:

"In the year of our Lord, 1776, the people declared the eternal right to seek happiness, self-government, and the Divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice.

"In 1787, assembled in convention, they made a charter of perpetual union of free people of sovereign states, establishing a government of limited powers, under an independent President, congress, and court, charged to provide securities for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty, equality, and justice."

The other sections will deal with expansion of American territorial dominion westward, the Louisiana purchase, the admission of Texas, the admission of California, the settlement of boundary questions with England and Oregon and the cutting of the Panama canal.

ONE hundred years ago, on April 10, 1830, eighty-one frontiersmen with a train of covered wagons set out from St. Louis to blaze a trail to and across the Rockies. So, on Thursday of last week, another band of men with ten covered wagons borrowed from historical societies and collectors started from the same place on the route to Oregon. This was the beginning of a series of events arranged to celebrate the Covered Wagon centennial. There will be festive gatherings all along the Oregon trail and the whole affair will last until December 20 in accordance with a proclamation by President Hoover.

HOG ISLAND, which during the war was the biggest ship yard in the world, has been sold by the government to Philadelphia and will be transformed into the largest air-marine-rail terminus in the country. The Quaker city pays Uncle Sam $3,000,000 for a total area of 946 acres.

"Can you give my friend a job on your railroad?" asked a politician.

"Well' then just give him the job calling out trains."

CLANTON Alabama Watch It Grow!

THE SHORTAGE OF FEED CROPS HERE IS A COSTLY ITEM

Enough Feed For Every Purpose Should Be Goal of Farmers

If the workstock, milch cows, and hogs actually on the farms of Chilton County, January 1, 1930, receive the feed they should have to keep them in thriving condition, it will take 24 cents out of every dollar's worth of cotton grown in the county in 1929 to pay for the feed that must be shipped into the county. This does not take into consideration interest on the money to pay this bill, time farmers will lose hauling this feed from town to the farm.

Furthermore, no feed has been calculated for beef cattle, calves, sheep, chickens, and stock kept in the towns.

What Crops for More Feeds

1. Plant enough corn to make certain that a supply for the farm will be grown if the seasons are normal. Plant corn after winter legumes and do not add any fertilizers. If corn cannot follow winter legumes side dress with 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime 35 to 40 days after planting.

2. Grow two tons of legume hay per milch cow and two tons of legume hay or grass hay per mule.

By use of right crops properly fertilized on a small area of land a good supply of hay can be produced.

Six dollars worth of basic slag made $41.23 worth of hay in one year in tests run by the Alabama Experiment Station. Oats and Austrian winter peas were grown in the winter and soybeans in the summer. Basic slag increased soybeans from 950 pounds of hay to 3,875 pounds per acre.

What Hay Crops

For legume hay plant otootan or laredo soybeans about cotton planting time at the rate of a peck or more per acre in rows just wide enough for one or two light cultivations. Do not sow soybeans broadcast and expect results. Apply 600 pounds of basic slag when planting. For grass hay, sow sudan grass at the rate of 25 pounds per acre when danger of frost is past. As soon as the grass is up top dress with 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime.

One hundred pounds of nitrate of soda increased the yield of sudan grass hay 1,900 pounds per acre and 200 pounds increased it 3,100 pounds. The least amount of sudan hay made from either 100 or 200 pounds of nitrate of soda was 800 pounds in a very bad year.

Some Figures

On the farms of Chilton County January 1, 1930, there were workstock 7,000; milch cows 4,500; hogs 7,000. The amount of feed per animal was mules 75 bushels of corn and 2 tons of hay; milch cows, 20 bushels of corn and 2 tons of hay; hogs 15 bushels of corn.

Crop production in Chilton County for 1929 was as follows: Cotton, 45,000 acres, production, 24,000 bales; value $2,280,000. Corn, 30,000 acres; production 450,000 bushels; value $450,000. Hay, 7,000 acres; production, 8,000 tons; value, $144,000.

Corn needs for 1930: For 7,000 workstock, 525,000 bushels; for 4,500 milch cows, 90,000 bushels; for 7,000 hogs, 105,000 bushels; total needs, 720,000 bushels; total production, 450,000 bushels; shortage, 270,000 bushels; value of shortage, $270,000.

Hay needs for 1930: For 7000 workstock, 14,000 tons; for 4,500 milch cows, 9,000 tons; total tons needed, 23,000; production in 1929 was 8,000 tons; shortage, 15,000 tons; value of shortage, $270,000.

Total value of corn and hay shortage for Chilton County in 1930 is therefore, $450,000. It will require 23.6 per cent of the 1929 cotton crop to pay for the corn and hay the county will have to buy, or the livestock will fail to receive the feed they should have in 1930.

Attention is called to these figures by County Agent C. E. Stapp. They constitute an insistent demand for the attention of every farmer and citizen of the county. The figures are taken from the January and February issues of Alabama Crop Production.

Hon. Felix Smith, attorney, of Rockford, was a busines visitor to Clanton Tuesday. Mr. Smith is a Democratic candidate for Representative of Coosa County in the legislature.

Harp Singing

The Capitol Sacred Harp Singing Convention will meet in semi-annual session at the Court House in Montgomery on Sunday, April 27th, at 9:30 o'clock.

G. L. Beck, Chairman, and W. B. Allgood, Secretary, say that singers from all parts of Alabama and Georgia will be present. All lovers of Sacred Harp music are invited to attend. It is predicted that this will be the best convention ever held in Montgomery. All singers are requested to bring their books and those who can should bring their lunches.

BEAN CANDIDATE SCHOOL BOARD

Jemison Business Man Seeking Place On Board of Education

In accordance with expectations of his friends, Mr. L. H. Bean, of Jemison, comes out this week as a candidate for member of the Board of Education of Chilton County in the Republican Primary of August 12. He was in Clanton Monday and duly qualified in all legal respects as a candidate for that important place.

Mr. Bean has been taking a keen interest in school affairs for some years past. He has been particularly acute in his opposition to the present management of our school business by the school authorities, and his been publicly opposed to the levying of school taxes.

The home of Mr. Bean is at Jemison, where he has lived practically all his life. He runs a store at that place. Jemison already has one member on the county school board, Mr. C. C. Conway, who is chairman of the Board. It is generally known that the views of Mr. Conway and Mr. Bean on school matters are widely divergent. If the latter gets elected to the office he seeks, Jemison would have two members of a very important department of our county government, and whatever else may be said, they would represent two widely separated extremes in thought.

Apple Blossom Time

A three-act comedy, "Apple Blossom Time," will be presented by the faculty and pupils of Verbena High School at the Chilton County High School auditorium Friday night of this week, April 25th. This play promises to furnish an evening of fun, laughs and thrills. It is directed by Miss Burnice Peeples. The curtain will rise promptly at 8:00 o'clock. Admission 25c and 35c.

War On Rats and Ants

C. E. Stapp, chairman of special committee from the Kiwanis Club, announces that beginning Monday, April 28th, a campaign will begin to rid the town of rats and ants. Every body is urged to cooperate. The poison to be used is very inexpensive. It will be at Mr. Stapp's office Monday for distribution.

Candler Visits Sons

Mr. W. A. Candler visited his sons, Henry and John in Birmingham recently. In an interview with the Age-Herald reporter, Mr. Candler is quoted by the paper as follows:

"I have noticed a laudable tendency on the part of our farmers to pay their fertilizer bills in advance," said Mr. Candler. "I think that the 'pay as you go' plan will do more good for our farmers than any other plan, the one that would cause them to diversify more in the future than in the past.

"I am asked, perhaps because our initials are the same, if Bishop W. A. Candler, of Atlanta, is related to me. He is a cousin; our people were originally from Georgia.

Courthouse Singing

The United Singing Society met in extra session at the court house in Clanton Monday night of this week. Singers from all over the county as well as from other places were present. The 'Bama 'Ristocrats, a radio quartet from Montgomery, was present and did some fine classical singing. The Clanton Quartet put on several numbers.

The huge auditorium was filled to overflowing, almost every community in the county being represented. Everybody seemed to enjoy the singing to the fullest extent.

Hon. F. A. Gulledge, of Verbena was among the visitors in Clanton Tuesday.

J.C.C. WOOLLEY DIED MONDAY

Prominent Citizen Of Stanton Passed Away Suddenly At His Home

News was received in Clanton Monday morning of the death about 5:30 o'clock of J.C.C. Woolley of Stanton. Mr. Woolley died suddenly, supposedly of heart trouble. He was 72 years old.

J. C. C. Woolley was one of the most highly respected citizens in the southwestern part of Chilton County. He carried the mail on a rural route from Stanton for eighteen years, and had been retired from the service and placed on a pension for two years.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Mattie Woolley, the deceased leaves six sons and six daughters, most of whom are married and away from home. They are: George M. Woolley of Shawnee, Okla., Mrs. Gertrude Stuart of Wellington, Texas, Mrs. Eunice Shoults of Lawley, Ala., Howard Woolley of Vrendenburgh, Ala., Maurice Woolley of Charlotte, N. C., Miss Margaret Woolley, postmistress at Stanton, Mrs. Clifford Byron of Arkewah, Okla., J. C. Woolley, J. B. Woolley, and Glen Woolley of Seminole Okla., Miss Sarah Woolley of Stanton, Ala. and Thomas C. Woolley of Wetumpka.

The remains were buried at Stanton Tuesday, a host of sorrowing friends and relatives being present to pay their last earthly respects to this noble and highly respected character.

Drank Kerosene

The 18-months old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Gore drank about three ounces of kerosene Tuesday morning, and was in a dangerous condition when medical assistance was secured. As soon as the doctor applied the remedy, the little fellow rallied, and was soon out of danger.

The mother of the child was using kerosene to remove some chewing gum spots from the baby's clothing. The jar containing the kerosene was sitting on the wash bench. The little boy came up from behind his mother, and before she had seen him, he reached the jar and drank the contents, about three ounces of kerosene. The child is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Armstrong.

According to announcements being carried in the Chilton County News, the following are candidates for county offices in Chilton County in the Democratic primary to be held on August 12:

For Commissioner First District, B. M. Killingsworth.

For Tax Assessor, Arthur D. Martin, of Maplesville.

For Tax Collector, C. B. Cox, of Clanton.

Joe Tolbert, Tax Collector of DeKalb County, and Tom Millican, the auctioneer, were visitors to Clanton Tuesday. They were on their return to Fort Payne from a business trip to Montgomery.

DO YOU THINK OF RUNNING?

May the First, Next Thursday, Is the Last Day For Announcements

If there are any more folks in Chilton County who are inclined to get into politics, it is time they were making up their minds definitely about the matter.

May the first is the last day upon which candidates may announce and qualify to run in the Republican primary to be held on the 12th day of August. This is in accordance with provision made by the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County at its last meeting.

Everybody has a chance to get in if they want to. It makes no difference how you voted in 1928, you can run for any office you wish this year, provided, according to the ruling of the committee, you will make a sworn statement about how you voted in 1928. That ruling, according to the views of some, will not keep anybody from running, but it might keep somebody from being elected.

Anyway, that is politics. If you want to run, remember you must make your wishes known not later than Thursday, May the first.

Hon. J. O. Middleton, of Birmingham. was in Clanton Tuesday to represent M. F. Lett in his case in the Circuit Court. The case was not tried, but was continued to be heard by Judge Smoot in Wetumpka next Tuesday.

American Legion Will Have Picnic

Notice has been issued to all ex-service men, including those who are not members of the American Legion, by J. H. Plier, Adjutant of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, that on next Friday, April 25th, the local post will give a fish fry at or near the camp, near the home of R. F. Bates on the river.

Mr. Plier stated that it has been arranged to have plenty of fish, and all ex-service men are cordially invited to come and bring their frying pans, and plenty of bread. There will be no charges for this fun, as all expenses are to be paid out of the treasury of the Chilton County Post.

Peoples Telephones

Reed Mullins, president of the Peoples Telephone Company, was in Clanton Monday. Discussing the Peoples Telephone business, Mr. Mullins stated that the first half of the year, for which central fees have been paid, will be out on the first of May.

According to Mr. Mullins, the central fees that have been paid in will not quite pay the operating expenses up to the first of May, but if people will come along promptly and pay for the second half of the year, he says the business can continue operation.

This information is given in order that the matter may be brought to the attention of people over the county who are interested in having the Peoples Telephone Company continue in operation in the future.

Verbena's Singing Parson

A special attraction and one of the most enjoyable features of the Easter singing last Sunday and the afternoon singing at Coopers the first Sunday in this month was the splendid solos sung by Rev. W. H. Kamplain of Montgomery. As told by the preacher at both places, he spent several years on the stage as a theatrical performer, and the way that he performs now indicates that he has had quite a bit of experience in the art of entertaining.

The songs sung were mostly compositions of his and were of a deep and thoroughly religious nature. He does his own accompanying at the piano, and his renditions are always received by the audience with the profoundest appreciation.

But singing is not the half of it. Rev. Kamplain can preach too. The writer has heard him twice at the Baptist church of Verbena, and he preaches fully as well as he sings. His subject last Sunday night at the Verbena church was "Leprosy in Verbena." After painting a picture of the loathsomeness of the disease of leprosy, Rev. Kamplain likened it unto sin; and he proceeded to take up several forms of "leprosy" by name and told his hearers about how guilty they were and how such practices eat away the vitality and usefulness of one's life and soul. Some of the forms of "leprosy" discussed were: profanity, gambling, drunenness, tattling, breaking the Sabbath, etc. All of these phases were very ably discussed and condemned by the preacher.

In concluding he very feelingly and forcefully said: "Now, I would not leave you with this dark picture before you but will lead you further by offering a remedy for such awful situations which I have shown you. Jesus said 'Though your sins be as scarlet you may be made white as snow.' In this assertion of the Son of Man may be found the remedy for the conditions referred to in my previous discussions."

Rev. Kamplain lives in Montgomery and preaches at the Verbena Baptist church every first and third Sunday morning and evening in each month. He extends a special invitation to people in the surrounding communities to come and hear him.

The Melody Man

"The Melody Man", another peoduction along the line of Ted Lewis's "Is Everybody Happy" is the big gun at the Wadesonian Theatre this week end, beginning a three-day run on Wednesday night to last through Friday night. William Collier, Jr., and Alice Day are co-starred in this pictured. It is an all-talkie and is another to show the decided turn that has been made from the classics to jazz. If you like pictures like "The Music Master," "Is Everybody Happy?" and the like, you should see "The Melody Man."

CREAM STATION OPENS HERE 26TH

Farmers Can Bring Cream and Get Pay On the Spot

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, announces this week that he has made arrangements for receiving cream at the Farm Bureau office in Clanton. The station will be ready for receiving cream Saturday, April 26th.

Cream will be delivered at the station on Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week. The cream will be weighed and tested at the station, and checks will be issud for same immdiately.

To begin with the price for cream will be 1½ cents per pound of butter fat less than the Montgomery price. This 1½ cents is to take care of express and handling charges.

The Farm Bureau is co-operating with County Agent, Stapp, in giving this service to the producers of cream in this locality. It is believed that this service will prove a distinct advantage to producers.

Bennie Cooper Draws $1,000 Fine

Bennie Cooper, Clanton negro, who has been mixed up in a number of scrapes lately, struck a snag Tuesday that will hold him for quite a while. Upon a charge of resisting an officer, he plead guilty in Judge Smoot's court, and was given a fine og $1,000. He was sentenced to 34 days hard labor for the cost of the court and 265 days hard labor for the fine.

A few weeks ago while serving a sentence on the streets of Clanton for violating the prohibition law, Bennie Cooper got drunk and the street crew had to call the police to take charge of him.

On the way to jail he gave chief Bookholdt considerable trouble, resisting arrest, refusing to go to jail, and threatening to kill the police. It was upon the charge for this disturbance that Judge Smoot fined and sentenced him Tuesday.

Singing At Friendship Next Sunday

There will be singing at Friendshin church next Sunday afternoon, April 27th. It has been two months since a singing was held here, and it is expacted that a good crowd of singers and listeners will be present.

The directors promising to attend are: W. M. DeVaughn, O. L. DeVaughn, L. T. Grant, R. T. Grant, C. H. Robinson, R. M. Robinson, Jasper Oaks, Lorenzo Sanders, Jasper Robinson, I. D. Huett, J. W. Cagle, G. C. Powell, O. R. Robinson, S. V. Miller, S. L. Baker, A. M. Jones and Jesse Baker. Prof. Akins Collins promises to be present, provided he can beg off from the United Singing Society, which meets at Oak Hill. We feel sure that the United singers will let Prof. Collins off at least once. It is hoped that a class proportionate to the above list of directors will be present, and if so, it will be a first class singing.

The society of Poplar and Maple Springs as well as at Cane Creek have kindly agreed to call in their singings scheduled for next Sunday, and these classes will meet with the Friendship class. This is mighty kind of the neighboring singers, and we hope to be able to return the favor some future time.

Everybody has a cordial invitation to attend and take part in the singing. Visitors are always welcome. Bring your Showalter and Stamps books.

Sunday is regular preaching day at Friendship; Rev. A. L. Foshee, the pastor, will preach both morning and evening—at 11:00 and 7:30. All are invited to hear him.

FLORIDA TO HOLD TWO PRIMARIES UNDER NEW LAW

Republicans Will Participate For the First Time In State's History

Tallahassee, Fla., April 19.—Florida voters will go to the polls next June to nominate two justices of the state supreme court, a secretary of state, two railroad commissioners, four congressmen and candidates for divers county offices.

By virture of an act of the 1929 legislature repealing the so-called Bryan primary law which had been in effect for a number of years, this year the electorate will return to the old two-story system, the first primary to take place June 2 and the second June 24.

For the first time in the state's history, the Republican party will participate in the primaries. This resulted from the showing of the Republicans in the presidental election and governorship race of 1928, in which they polled more than 30 per cent of the votes cast, necessary under the law before a party is eligible for a primary in Florida.

Each Party Nominates

The Republicans and Democrats will vote in the same primaries, each party nominating its candidates for the general election which will follow next November.

Under the tow-primary system restored to the state by the 1929 lawmaking body, the practice of casting first and second choice votes will be discontinued. Instead, the voters of each of the two parties will vote first choice only for a candidate in the first primary, and unless a majority is polled by one of the candidates for office in that race, the two candidates of each party receiving the highest vote will go into the second primary. At the conclusion of that race, the candidate of the Democratic party with the highest vote will oppose the candidate of the Republican party with the highest vote in the general election, to be held in November.

Candidates Qualifying

In qualifying, candidates for both state and county offices must file oaths that they are eligible to run, and must pay the qualification fees. The fees include 3 per cent of the first year's salary to the state and 2 per cent to the state Democratic executive committee, as far as Democratic candidates for state offices are concerned, while candidates for county offices pay their fees to the circuit clerk and county Democratic executive committee, wherever the county committee imposes a fee. The money paid to the state and county committees is intended for use to defray the election expenses.

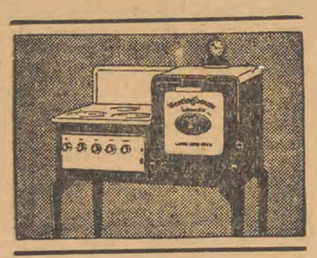
Fees for Republicans

As for the Republicans, their candidates for state offices must pay the 3 per cent to the state here, and their committee fees would have gone to committees of their party corresponding to those of the Democratic party had any been imposed, but it was stated by officials here that the time has expired for the levying of Republican committee fees, and that none had been levied.

Democrats and Republicans will cast their votes together, but the ballots will be distinguished by different colors. For instance, the Democrats may have white ballot tickets and the Republicans blue, or some other colors. The same ballot boxes will probably be used, but some counties have asked that the voting procession, at least, be separated by a rope or other petition, enabling the Democrats to cast their votes in separate procession from the Republican gathering.

The Republicans will qualify individually with the secretary of state and circuit clerks this year, instead of having their candidacies declared by convention resolution. Formerly, the Republican candidates were sent in to the secretary of state by list in time for the November general election, no primary having been held by that party.

Gulledge Back Here



Mr. J. W. E. Gulledge dropped into the Banner office Tuesday morning to let us know that he is back in Clanton to stay. Mr. Gulledge has been living in Union Springs, and says he likes that town fine. However, he says he finds that living in a place where he knows nearly every face he meets is worth lots to him, so he has decided to return to Clanton to live.

Frank P. James made a business trip to Birmingham Tuesday.

"What a Sale"

Lesson for April 27

GIVING UP ALL FOR THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 19:16-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving Jesus First Place.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Giving Jesus First Place.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Shall We Use Our Money?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Stewardship of Possessions.

The lesson title is likely to be misunderstood and the teaching misapplied. Christ did not directly, nor by implication teach that eternal life could be obtained by parting with possessions.

I. A Certain Young Man (v. 16).

For a full view of the characteristics of this man, see Mark 10:17-30 and Luke 18:18-30.

1. His virtues.

(1) Courageous (Mark 10:7). He was of high standing—a rich young ruler (Luke 18:18, 23). To come to Jesus at this time might mean ostracism, but with manly courage he came. (2) Earnest (Mark 10:17). He knelt before Jesus, thus showing earnestness and sincerity. (3) High aspirations (v. 16). He wanted eternal life. Though taken up with the things of his present life, he felt the need of preparing for a life beyond. (4) Pious and moral (v. 20). From his youth he had conformed to God's moral law. (5) He believed that Christ could inform him of the "good thing" to be done to inherit eternal life.

2. His errors.

(1) About Christ (v. 16). He esteemed Jesus to be good, but did not apprehend Him as God; otherwise he would have known Him not merely as one who did good, but as one who is essentially good; that is, God. (2) Concerning himself. He thought he was good and that he could do something good. (3) Concerning eternal life. He thought that it could be obtained by good works. He did not know that the only way to gain eternal life was to receive it as a gift from God (Rom. 6:23).

II. The Lord's Dealing With Him (vv. 17-22).

Jesus skillfully led the young man to see his errors.

1. His question—"Why callest thou me good?" (v. 17).

Before giving him a chance to answer He declared that only God was good, as if to say, "I am good, and therefore God." He was God manifest in the flesh, and repudiated the thought of being known merely as a good man.

2. Jesus' answer to the young man's question (vv. 17-20).

"If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments." Christ met him here on his own ground, namely, that of the law. He took the young man's level that the young man's real worth might be revealed (Rom. 3:19, 20).

3. Christ's command (vv. 21, 22).

Replying to Christ's citation of the commandments of the law, the young man asserted that he had kept them from his youth. Yet in his inner conscience he knew that there was something lacking. When he had to make the supreme decision between Jesus and his possessions, he chose wealth.

III. The Relationship of the Rich to the Kingdom (vv. 23-26).

This teaching concerning the peril of riches was most timely. Covetousness was fast taking hold of the people.

1. It is difficult for the rich to enter into the kingdom (vv. 23, 24). This difficulty lies not in the possession of riches, for a man may possess great riches and be an heir of the kingdom. Money in itself is essentially good. It will help the poor and help bring the gospel to the lost. The difficulty lies in trusting in riches.

2. Entrance into the kingdom, though difficult, is possible (vv. 25, 26).

(1) It is possible for the grace of God to sanctify riches, to open a man's eyes that he may see his downward course and repent, to change a man from self-seeking to self-sacrificing.

IV. Rewards for Following Christ (vv. 27-30).

Those who turn their backs upon their kindred and possessions for the sake of Christ shall receive an hundredfold in this life, and eternal life in the world to come.

Obedience

Obedience is the secret. Not slavish obedience, but sympathetic, loving eager obedience. "His delight is in the law of the Lord." May the law of holiness be to me welcome as the light, sweet as the flowers, more to be desired than much fine gold.—W. L. Watkinson.

In Company With Jesus

Get into sympathy with Jesus. Seek His presence, seek His help. And walking through the world in His company, you will be as balm in the bleakest weather, a benediction in the wildest scene.—James Hamilton.

The Duty of Friendship

The only duty of friendship is that we and our friends should live at our highest and best when together. Having achieved that, we have fulfilled the law.—Randolph Bourne.

Mr and Mrs. J. B. Wells of Selma, were here Sunday attending the singing at Popular Springs.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County. (S. E. Norton, Manager)

WILL ALABAMA MAKE RECORD APPLICATOIN OF FERTILIZER?

The year 1930 will be a year of very great application of fertilizer, according to W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the state department of agriculture, of Montgomery. To date of April the 19th, a total of 611,950 tons of fertilizer had been sold, according to tag sales of the department.

That is a vast amount of fertilizer is shown by the following figures. The total amount of fertilizer sold in 1926, the year of the greatest cotton crop, was 603,444 tons.

ALREADY YEAR OF HIGH SALES

In 1928, the total tonnage of fertilizer reached the highest record of all time, 692,213 tons being disposed of.

Last year the crop of 1929 consumed 675,350 tons of fertilizer. To-date of April 19th, the tonnage, according to tag sales has been 611,950 tons. Already this is the largest year of fertilizer application. The sale of 64,000 tons would be needed to make 1930 a year of second heaviest application.

FARMERS BELIEVE IN GUANO

The above impressive figures show that contrary to the public opinion farmers are using fertilizer and are using it heavily. They are well aware of the fact that cotton and many other crops can not be produced at a profit unless fertilizer is used and used heavily. The increasing tonnage of fertilizer used in the past five years is ample evidence of the heavy applications. It is in line with the general tendency of less acres and more per acre in Alabama.

HEAVY USE ALONE PROFITABLE

A heavy use of fertilizer is also more profitable than a light use and those farmers who plant less acres this year and who use heavily of fertilizer should reap greater profits.

LEADERS FORESEE FARM BOOK TRUCKS

Auburn, Ala., April 21.—Plans for promoting traveling libraries in Alabama were discussed here recently by Director L. N. Duncan of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Miss Julia Merrill of the Alabama Library Association, Miss Fannie Taber, field worker of the Alabama Library Association, and Miss Mary Martin, Auburn librarian and president of the Alabama Library Association.

They hope at some later date to see a system of library extension work in Alabama that would make available to people in rural communities adequate library facilities, including books and bulletins on agriculture. Trucks would be used to transport the books from central stations. Jefferson County has made a notable success with a traveling library.

The sale of motor fuel in the United States in 1929 amounted to 13,400,180,062 gallons and the government collected $431,636,454 in taxes on the sales. In Alabama 178,162,903 gallons were sold and $7,105,009 was collected in taxes. All states now levy a tax on gasoline.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive systems, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. The safe way to relieve constipation is with Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

AUBURN SAYS

Soil erosion takes away about 20 times as much plant food as crops. Save the soil.

Before new pillow ticking is used, iron it on the wrong side with a hot iron that has been rubbed over a piece of beeswax. The wax acts as a varnish and prevents feathers and down from working through the ticking.

Long staple cotton is commanding better prices than short staple and in the immediate future still greater differences will be paid for longer staple cotton, it is believed. The present need is better cotton, not more cotton.

"Present tendencies would indicate a time when cotton may be grown for weight rather than for length of fiber, and its cost of production decreased with the aid of machinery to the point where it will compete successfully with cellulose from wood."—H. E. Howe, of Washington.

The 10 diseases of poultry for which there are no adequate drug treatments are typhoid, cholera, coccidiosis, fowl pest, roup, diphtheria, chicken pox, diarrhea and gapes, and blackhead of turkeys. Some of these can be prevented by proper precautionary methods, but once contracted do not respond to drug treatment.

OVER A BILLION DEADLY GERMS IN A SINGLE DROP OF WATER

Germs are so small that there may be as many as one billion, seven hundred million of them in a drop of water. And just a few of these tiny germs, if they get into your blood through a cut in your skin, may make you so sick you will be in bed for weeks—may cause the loss of a limb through blood poisoning—may even infect you with that most dreadful and fatal disease, lockjaw.

Just because you can see no dirt in a cut does not mean that it is clean. You cannot see germs. The only safe and sane thing to do, is to thoroughly wash every cut, no matter how small, with Liquid Borozone, to kill the germs, and then dust it with Borozone Powder, to hasten the healing. Liquid Borozone costs 30 cents, 60 cents, $1.20 and $1.50; Boro zone Powder, 30 cents and 60 cents, and can be had at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

ORCHARDISTS WARNED AGAINST THE "QUACK"

Auburn, Ala., April 21.—Serums and inoculations are valueless in ridding tree plants of diseases and insects, said Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The horticulturist made this statement when his attention was called to the fact that such treatments are being recommended and sold to orchard owners by several men operating in Alabama.

"It is understood," Brown continued, "that these treatments are being given by boring a small hole into the trunks of trees and injecting the materials recommended for the control of insects and diseases. Several experiment stations have conducted experiments to determine the effect of materials so injested into a plant on the control or resistance to diseases and insects, and none of these results have indicated any degree of effectiveness. These treatments have been purported on grounds of the effectiveness of such treatments to animals or human beings, but the structure of plants is entirely different and, in the light of the present information, such materails of sufficient strength to be effective on plants would surely kill and destroy the plant tissues.

"It is understood that fertilizer and cultivation is also being recommended in conjunction with these treatments. Trees and plants will always respond favorably to such improved cultural practices, but money paid out for serums and inoculations for tree plants cannot be expected to give any returns to the farmer."

WINDMILLS PUMP WATER FOR FARMS

Auburn, Ala., April 21.—Many Alabama farmers have turned to the windmill to help pump water for their farms and outbuildings. They utilize storage tanks of 12,000 gallons or more in capacity over periods when there is not sufficient breeze for pumping.

More than 200 windmills were erected on Alabama farms in 1929, according to J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. County and home demonstration agents helped farm people with the installation. All of the state demonstration farms now in operation have been equipped with windmills and storage tanks adequate to their needs.

FORESTS HELP FARMERS

Montgomery, Ala., April 21—The cutting and marketing of wood products from their lands is carrying thousands of Alabama farmers through current period of depression, says the State Commission of Forestry. This has happened before and probably will happen repeatedly in the future. The farmer is not overlooking the fact that on the nonagricultural portions or his holdings timber grows quite rapidly if given a chance and that a comparatively few years will change the stand from scrubby and unmerchantable growth to sizeable and merchantable material.

Poles piling and railway crossties are the principal forest products that the farmers have been marketingdurng the past several months. Paper wood has also proved a life saver in some localities. With practically no cost to the landowner, yields of timber on acres not suitable for agricultural purposes are worthy of protection and care. If the woodlands are given decent treatment, the slight effort involved is repaid many times.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle were in Birmingham last Thursday on business.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Experiments in development of rubber-producing plants the last few months have led to the discovery of several shrubs that are much higher in rubber content than plants used in previous experiments, said Thomas A. Edison. "I feel encouraged over the results of recent experiments," Mr. Edison declared. "Of course we have a long way to go, but we are getting there."

The windmill provides a water that requires little attention and is economical to operate.

AN UNPLEASANT SUBJECT

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restlese sleep, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in thier children, can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that sure and harmless worm expellant, will make these symptoms disappear. You can get White's Cream Vermifuge for 35 cents per bottle from Upchurch Drug Company.

STATE CAPITOL News

Dr. J. N. Baker, prominent Montgomery physician, was elected state health officer of Alabama at the annual meeting of the Alabama Medical Association April 18. This action clears up the uncertain condition which has existed with reference to the leadership of the State Health Department since the death of Dr. S. W. Welch. Dr. Welch was regarded as one of the strong figures in public life in this state and his death caused a vacancy which was not easy to fill. Dr. Douglass L. Cannon, assistant state health, was first chosen for the post, but resigned after a brief period of service owing to ill health. The State Board of Censors then nominated Dr. J. J. Durrett, a native Alabamian and chief of the U. S. Division of pure foods and drug control, for state health officer. This action of the board was subject to ratification by the state medical association in annual convention, and when the association met it found that Dr. Durrett was not eligible by reason of not having held membership in the association for five years as required by the constitution. Dr. Baker was then nominated and elected.

The new state health officer is a native of Virginia, and a graduate of the University of Virginia; he took post graduate work at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, and the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston. He came to Montgomery in 1900. Dr. Baker is a World War veteran, having served as major in the medical corps, and organized the doctors of Alabama into a reserve corps. He was chief of surgical service at the base hospital at Camp McClellan, and was transferred from there to become commanding officer of the evacuation hospital at Fort Oglethorpe. Upon his discharge from the army he resumed private practice.

News of Dr. Baker's election has been received with general expressions of satisfaction. It is pointed out that he has already had experience as an executive which adds to his qualifications for the position. Under his leadership the work of the state health department is expected to continue with the effectiveness which has alrady placed Alabama at the top of the list of states in public health work.

In addition to the election of a state health officer, four members were elected on the board of censors: Dr. A. L. Harlan, Alexander City, Dr. Sam Gordon, Marion, Dr. M. Y. Dabney, Birmingham, and Dr. J. M. Watkins, Troy. Dr. W. G. Harrison, Birmingham, was elected president of the state medical association, and Dr. W. M. Salter, Anniston, was elected vice-president for the northeastern district.

The John H. Bankhead bridge over the Coosa at Riverside, named in honor of John H. Bankhead, Sr., who for a number of years was senator from Alabama, was dedicated with appropriate exercises April 18. The bridge is one of the fifteen toll bridges construction of which was authorized by the last legislature. The principal address at the dedication exercises was by Hugh Morrow of Birmingham. Pitt Tyson Maner, recording secretary to Governor Graves, represented the Governor at the exercises.

The fertilizer tonnage in Alabama this season, as indicated by sale of tags from the State Department of Agriculture, is less than for the two preceding years. From October 1, 1927 to April 19, 1928, the tonnage was 675,350; for a like period, 1928-29, 647,550; and for 1929-30, 611,-950 tons.

A. A. JACKSON WRITES

Dear Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me space in your valuable paper to thank my friends for the indorsement they gave me through the Union-Banner of recent date, to make the race for representative of our grand old Chilton County.

I realize that the office of representative is the most important office to be filled by the voters of our county. And, should the voters of the county see fit to elect me to this office I shall do my best to give them impartial service. "The Man on the Corner" seems to be a little afraid of my platform, as it is a farmer's platform. I think he fails to understand my position as to class legislation. I am opposed to class legislation and my contention is that class legislation is mostly responsible for many burdens that the farmers and laboring classes are now bearing. Why not shift the tax burdens from those less able to pay, to those more able to pay. I am informed that the farmer bears 75 per cent of the tax burden and has only 20 per cent of the wealth.

If such conditions wasn't brought about by class legislation I want some one to tell me what has caused such conditions to exist with the farmers and laboring clasess.

The farmer only wants an equal show with all other industries and professions. Is he getting it? He knows he is not.

It is my purpose to show during this campaign that the farmer and laboring classes are imposed upon more than ony other class of people on earth. The farmer and laboring people are the only source of all wealth. Are they possessors of wealth? We know they are not. But who are the possessors of the wealth of this great country of ours? The class that neither farm nor labor.

In conclusion I want to say that I shall conduct my campaign on a high plain. Taking facts, truth, and honesty as my guide. And if it takes any thing less than this to win then I want to be the loser.

I want to visit every community in the county between now and the primary in August and discuss with the farmers as to his right and considerations he should have.

Yours for the masses,
A. A. JACKSON.

LECTURE

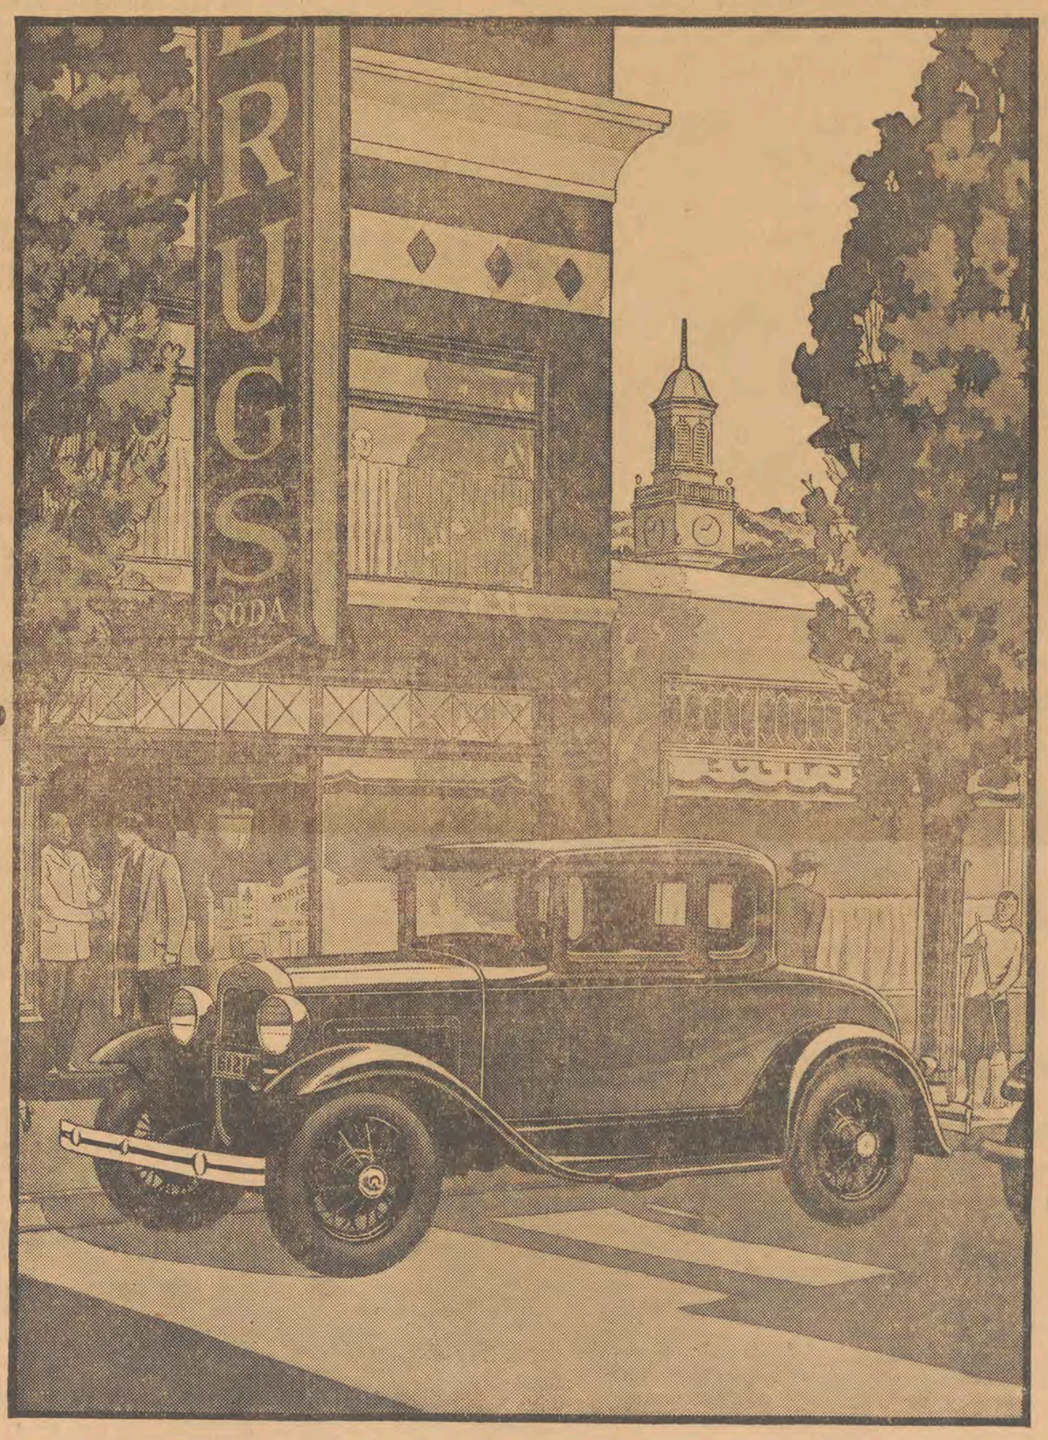
Mr. J. M. Cox, of Montgomery, Alabama, will give a lecture at Collins Chapell school house on next Saturday night at seven thirty p. m., April 26th, on the prophecy of the Bible, and the signs of the times. Assisted by J. H. Jackson of Clanton Route 1. Everybody invited to come and hear this lecture.

MARKED INCREASE IN PRODUCTION OF FORD TRUCKS

A marked increase in the use of light trucks in combination with trailers and semi-trailers is being reflected in the sales of Model AA truck chasses, according to officials of the Ford Motor Company. This is particularly true, they say, among large fleet owners.

Economy of operation, ability to maneuver in tight places and time saved by disconnecting the trailer unit while it is being loaded or unloaded are factors influencing the new trend in commercial transportation.

By using a semi-trailer on a light truck chassis, the major portion of the load can be balanced over the trailer axle with only enough weight over the rear axle of the truck to give good traction. Consequently, by taking advantage of the drawbar pull of the truck, three or four tons can be hauled easily by a one-and-one-half ton chassis.



Trailers and semi-trailers can be arranged to meet a wide range of transportation requirements. For heavy load dual wheels can be used on a semi-trailer unti and the rear of the truck. When time consumed in loading and unloading is an important factor two or more trailers or semi-trailers can be used in the operation of each truck, and, while one unit is being loaded, the truck can proceed with another. Thus one chassis, with the extra equipment, can perform the work of two or three trucks.

In some fleets different kinds of trailer units are used with the same truck chassis. For instance, one company uses a detachable tank semi-trailer and a stake-body trailer alternately with a single power unit.

Ford trucks with trailers or semi-trailers are being used extensively by gasoline and oil companies for the delivery of their products to service stations. By dairies, which use either tank trailers or trailer bodies to carry cans, moving and storage concerns, which utilize detachable trailer cars requiring a minimum of parking space, lumber companies and meat packers. With the introduction of dry ice and the consequent reduction in load carried, ice cream manufacturers are making use of the truck and trailer for deliveries to retailers. Many city governments are utilizing the light truck and trailer in street flushing, dumping operations and garbage and trash collection.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackmon of Birmingham spent last Sunday with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Cary Hubbard in Clanton.

Mr. Bernie Cobb, of Jemison was here one day this week.

ABOUT MT. VERNON

A bill has been passed in Congress providing for the acquisition by the federal government of Mount Vernon, the home and burial place of Washington. That Mount Vernon is the most perfectly restored and maintained historic shrine in the world is due to the efforts of patriotic women. Miss Parmelia Cunningham, before the Civil War, led the movement which resulted in the acquisition of the property—a stupendous enterprise for that time. During all the years since it has been guarded and developed by a Board of Regents, all women, and it has been a wonderful piece of work. The federal government refused to acquire the property when it was falling into decay and on the market, and it is rather late in the day to talk of changing the management. Moreover, under the deed for the property, it would revert to Virginia when given up by the society now cotrolling it. The complaint is made that an admission fee of twenty-five cents which provides the money necessary for the upkeep and care and development of the place, is charged, but in view of the fact that on account of the location of Mt. Vernon no one can get there from the nearest city for less than twice that sum, this does not seem important, and who would not be willing to pay the price of a cheap movie to see Mt. Vernon? It is also complained that the place is not kept open on Sunday. This is in accordance with the practice of Washington while he lived there. But what is more important, making Mount Vernon a free Sunday picnic grounds would attract crowds which would soon ruin the place—the lawns, the garden and the house itself, since these cannot safely stand the strain of dense crowds. There are many other historic spots, not now taken care of at all of which the government's money could better be provided than for Mounty Vernon, and it is certain that better care will be taken of the shrine by the devoted women who now hold it than by government office holders.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

It is the opinion among students of political affairs in Washington, generally expressed, that the nomination of Ruth McCormick by the Republicans of Illinois to succeed Senator Dineen, is a clean-cut expression of the decision of the people of Illinois on the World Court issue. Mrs. McCormick made the Root formula for adherence to the World Court the paramount issue of the campaign. Senator Dineen had voted for the World Court resolution when the matter was placed before the Senate in 1926 by President Coolidge. He defended this vote on the stump in the recent Illinois primary campaign and was defeated by a plurality of more than 200,000 votes.

Senator Dineen's record as a senator has been a good one. There was no special critism as to his ability to perform the duties of the dignified office of United States senator in an efficient way. The principal criticism directed against him in the primary campaign, by his opponents, was his support of the World Court. The prohibition issue did not enter into the contest because both Mrs. McCormick and Senator Dineen had the approval of the dry organizations.

Many political students at Washington have made the further point since the Illinois primary that political misfortune seems to follow a great many of the senators who have supported the World Court in the past. In the number are the names of the late Senator McKinley, of Illinois, and Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, who led the World Court forces when the resolution was passed by the Senate with reservations. Opponents of the World Court claim that the defeat of Senator Dineen indicates that despite the increasing interest which the people have shown in our international affairs, there has been no increasing support for the idea that we ought to be more closely asociated with the nations of Europe in a political way. The tradition of American aloofness dates back to George Washington's administration, and it seems to be almost impossible to break.

If Mrs. McCormick is successful in the fall she will be the first woman elected to the United States Senate. In 1922 the Governor of Georgia appointed Mrs. Rebecca Felton to fill an unexpired term of thirty-six days in the Senate. Twelve women have been members of the national House of Representatives.

Other interesting primaries are to come. Among those which will soon occupy the spotlight are the contests in North Carolina and Alabama, where Senator Simmons and Senator Heflin have strong opposition. The way the bitter fights have been developing in these two states is not very comforting to the Democratic national committee which had hoped that the old factional lines of 1928 were about obliterated. Only time can tell whether or not this hope is to be realized. Political conditions have not been more chaotic in a long time than they are today is a line of cleavage between the regular Republicans and Progressive Republicans, and the Democrats are still divided, too, on the prohibition question. The coming congressional campaign promises to be more than usually interesting.

THE BUTTER SURPLUS

The decline in butter prices has been attributed generally to increasing use of bittur substitutes, coupled with a larger butter output. Hoard's Dairyman, reviewing 1929 statistics, concludes that the major factor has been increasing unemployment since May, resulting in a decreased buying power at a time when butter prices were relatively high. This, of course, had the effect of turning many buyers from butter to the substitutes.

This farm paper does not see in the statistics any basis for the claim that the dairy industry is over-expanded. Though butter production increased last year, cheese production fell off, and the total milk used was almost the same in quantity. Oleomargarine consumption in 1929 was 331 million pounds, an increase of 37 million, while butter consumption fell off 25 million pounds.

The case is clear that there was some shift from butter to the substitute, but the dairy journal points out that this shift came just when unemployment began to make itself felt in the buying power of the consumer.—Minneapolis Journal.

DISARMAMENT BY PURCHASE

Mr. Melvin Traylor, one of the two American financiers who recently helped organize the international bank, suggests that the questions of disarmament and inter allied debts might well be discussed together at an international conference. He thinks that if the United States should offer to cancel the debts our former allies would agree to disarm on land and sea. It would be good business for them to do so, he says, because they would save not only the costs of military preparation but also the annuities paid to this country, and for our part, we should about break even because what we should lose from nonpayment of the debts would be balanced by the saving in our military expenditures.

This suggestion, of course, is not a new one. It has cropped up from tme to time since the war. It has never made much progress. Every time the proposal has been offered some one has asked why the nations of Europe have to be paid to disarm, and to that question no adequate reply has been made. Europe would save money if it reduced its armaments and it would save more money if it didn't have to pay its debts. The fact that the United States insists on payment is or ought to be an incentive to armament reduction do not despond to the incentive we may safely conclude that they do not want to disarm and do not intend to disarm for reasons of their own. Confirmation of this conclusion is to be found currently in London. We agree with Mr. Traylor that European budgets would be more readily balanced if the costs of armament were reduced, but if that is so why do not the nations of Europe proceed to disarm without putting a price on an action which is plainly in their own interest? Why must they be bribed to disarm.

Perhaps the reply will be that the victorious allies must maintain great military establishments only in order to exact those payments from Germany which the allies in turn transmit to Washington. This would establish a logical connection between the question of disarmament and the question of the war debts, but unfortunately the explanation does not accord with the facts. The size of the British navy, as everyone knows who has followed the London conference, is not determined by the strength of the German navy, but rather by the strength of the French, Italian, American, and Japanese navies. The size of the Italian army is not determined by Germany's military strength, but by France's; and if the French army were only as large as would be required to invade the Rurh again to force payments, French military costs could be cut in two and still leave a margin of safety.—Chicago Tribune.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Howdy, by gum! It's great to be livin' these good old sleepy springtime mornings, ain't it folks. After making it through a rough old winter like the one we had this year, then to feel the warm sunshine of a new spring makes one feel that maybe life is worth living after all. Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling, though.

The other day somebody asked the POTTER why we use "we" instead of "I" in giving our ideas, opinions and criticism. The reason for this is that—from time to time people are dropping in with good ideas which we use in making up the POT. Another reason is that the POTTER has an idea that as often as the pronoun must be used, that "I" would sound too egotistical, and we don't want to be considered "stuck up" in the least.

Looking back up this page, that reads like a punk beginning for the old POT this week. However, maybe "a bad beginning DOES make a good ending"—let's hope so. If that's true this POT will be a stem-winder in the sweet bye and bye. Let's find something to talk about this week, now.

In looking around over Clanton, one is impressed with the general spruceness of things. We just took a look around last Sunday (Easter) morning. All the paved streets had been washed up during the night. Everything was as fresh as a dew drop. No dust—no waste paper flying around—no nothing. As clean as a Dutch matron's floor.

Night Marshall Lowery had already been to all the business houses and asked those in charge to sweep out to the street before closing Saturday night, and after eleven o'clock the Town's clean-up crew "washed up" the Town. Made a good job of it, too. It was a fitting finish to "Clean-Up Week."

Bein' as everybody else has had a word to say about the new uniforms the police have donned lately, we'll do our bit, too. Quite a snappy looking bunch, if you ask us. Gives a nice touch to the general look of things to see the spick and span cops pacing their beats. No danger now of a stranger getting the police confused with the latest arrived member of the Hobo's Union.

And, too, nearly all the business houses evidently believe that "it pays to advertise." Judging by the show windows in Clanton, you couldn't tell you were out of some of the larger cities. Everything dressed up. They KEEP 'em that way, too. Pretty live bunch of business men here, anyway

The POTTER isn't exactly a globe-trotter, but neither is he a hermit or stay-at-home, and in our meanderings around we don't find so many towns the size of Clanton that surpass it in many ways. Te tell the truth, we believe we have one of the best towns in the state, RIGHT HERE.

Here's the way we figure it. The town is near enough like a large city for us to get "big town" service in nearly any line. Not many things you can't get immediate delivery on. Yet, Clanton is small enough for us to get the benefit of small town prices.

Here's an example. A certain line of shoes, recognized all over America as one of the leading brands, has a rpresentative in Clanton. They sell those shoes for $7.50 a pair, and you can't buy the same shoe in Montgomery or Birmingham for less than ten bucks. In fact, they are nationally advertised at $10.00 the pair.

Come to think of it, that's a pretty good slogan—"Big city service with little town accomodation and prices." That's no bunk, either. That's a fact. Lots of ways that slogan applys to our town, too. The fine water system "The Man on the Corner" told you about last week, and others.

Too, the town is surrounded by one of the livest farming sections to be found anywhere. We don't know of a better section of the country to live and work in than in or around Clanton. Transients are very favorably impressed with the up-to-dateness of the community as a whole. And now we wish to make a few suggestions.

Couldn't Clanton afford a "White Way"? Although Clanton looks mighty good in the day time, you can't tell how it looks at night—you can't see it. Several towns the size of Clanton have "White Ways." In fact, Clanton is one of the poorest lighted towns of its size to be found, although we are in the center of one of the greatest hydro-electric production states in the Union, and within a few miles of two of the greatest plants of the world. Why?

We expect to keep on kicking dust in somebody's eyes about this until somebody yells enough and does or says something about it. We believe the town can afford it as well as Sylacauga can. They have a dandy main street lighting system. We could have one, too.

Another thing officials of the town could do is to set up a fire station. The Town of Homewood, near Birmingham, has a cracker-jack fire station, although they keep a force of only three men on the job. However, we are informed that insurance rates are much lower in that town than here, just because they have a regular fire station. Time somebody investigated this a bit, isn't it.

If the town can spend a few hundreds of dollars in keeping a regular "Fire Department" and thereby save property owners thousands in insurance rates, its just nothing but good business for them to do it. Let's get some of the civic organizations interested in this and see what happens. It is a good line of investigation for the Kiwanis Club to undertake.

There are lots of things that maybe might be done to make our town a better one, but the two projects mentioned above are two which we believe are possibilities, and not just dreams. We could have them! Talk 'em up.

Every once in a while something bobs up to prove again that advertising IS read by pretty near everybody. Lots of 'em thought at a glance that the "Defender" —the "zep" the Goodyear people sent over—was the "Diefenderfer." Advertising again. Around Clanton, when people think of Goodyear they think of Diefenderfer.

That's nearly as good as the one we had happen to The Union-Banner on Monday morning. The "grape-vine" 'phone rang, and when it was answered, a voice on the other end of the wire wanted to know what time it was. Now, the Union-Banner office has been mistaken for nearly everything from the Courthouse to the Postoffice, but never before as an authority on time.

Well, it's "all-day singing season" now. The lid was prized off last Sunday with the annual Easter affair at Poplar Springs. That's the opening gun every year, you know. That makes it open season for candidates, too. Watch yo' step! Watch yo' step!—"JACK".

TOO MUCH SILLINESS IN SCHOOL

Now Mayor Curley of Boston has taken up the cudgels for the three R's, breaking over the long-established custom of Boston mayors not to meddle in school affairs. There is good reason to believe that public opinion is coming around to the belief that there are too many fads in the school system of the present day and that not only economy but the best interests of the boys and girls would be served by a contraction of the currimulum to a point where it would be possible for pupils to learn a few things thoroughly rather than to acquire a smattering of about everything.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

L. H. Bean, of Jemison, was in Clanton Monday. While he was here he got things all fixed up for making the race for member of the County School Board. For some years Mr. Bean has been keeping a weather eye on the school business of the county. Upon different occasions he has oiled up his typewriter and taken a few slants at the management of our school business. Even in the most recent effort of the school advocates to levy a one-mill school tax, Mr. Bean took up the opposition to the measure publicly expresing his anti-sihool tax sentiments freely. No doubt the defeat of the tax was a source of gratitude to him.

There are plenty of people in Chilton County who would hold views about the school business about the same as those of L. H. Bean. No doubt he plans to make his appeal for the support of the voters on the basis of his opposition to the County Super-Six, and the manner in which the school business has been run. Many will vote for him, and I would not be surprised to see him elected.

Strawberries moving right along now. First cars were shipped from Clanton and Thorsby last Friday. A nice rain in the vicinity of Clanton helped the berries out a bit last week. But it was not a general rain. Not enough to amount to much around Jemison. Strawberry money will be dribbling in before long. Hope some of it will get into our business channels and grease up the machinery a bit. A little bit of squeaking has been noticed here and there. Need some axle grease. They say that love makes the world go round; and so may it never cease. But please remember: Money is the axle grease.

Speaking of strawberries, reminds me of Dief. There are just a few things in which Dief is vitally interested. Strawberries and Goodyear Tires are a majority of them. Dief dresses up now and then.

The other day he was regaled in his best go-to- meetin outfit and standing around his place of business. A big car from Ohio rolled in for gas. The driver, a big wide-mouthed Yankee, got out to stretch his legs. Walking over to Dief, he said: Well, you are a minister, I suppose. Naw-sir-ee, said Dief. Well, I didn't know, said the man from Ohio; I see you are all dressed up and not doing anything.

Somebody wanted to know the other day why Luch Bean called Buford Lawrence the County Super-Six. I couldn't answer the question. Another fellow in the crowd suggested that it might be for the reason that Super-Six is easier to spell than Superintendent.

About the wisest candidate I have heard of is this Mr. L. J. Bugg, who is running for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. Received a little campaign pamphlet from Hugh Mallory Tuesday, with the usual urge in favor of Mr. Bugg. Closing his letter, Mr. Mallory said: "In order that you may know how he (Mr. Bugg) thinks the affairs of this State should be conducted, I enclose you a copy of his platform, and whenever any matter comes before him, you may be sure that his platform will be his guide." Having thus concluded the reading of Mr. Mallory's letter, I turned my attention to the platform of Mr. Bugg. Here is what I found: First page contains picture of Mr. Bugg. Pages two, three and four absolutely blank. That is a fine platform, just a blank. I think if I were going to be Lieutenant Governor, that is just the kind of a platform I would want to be elected on.

The case of Mr. Bugg reminds me of the negro soldier who was drafted into the army during the World War. When he was hailed before the personnel officers at training camp, the captain, sensing an opportunity to have some fun, asked the negro what kind of a job he wanted in the army. I want to be a major, said the negro. Why do you want to be a major? Asked the captain. Well, said the recruit: I don't want to be a lieutenant, because a lieutenant has to know everything and do everything. I don't want to be a captain, because a captain has to know everything and do nothing. I want to be a major, because a major don't have to know nothing, and don't have to do nothing. Perhaps Mr. Mallory and Mr. Bugg think the job of being Lieutenant Governor is about like the negro soldier's idea of being a major in the army.

It is announced in Washington dispatches that the Senate committee may investigate the Illinois primary. Well, it is only natural that a lot of senators coming up for re-election this year would want to know just how Mrs. McCormick did it.

Next Saturday night, April 26, at 7:45 at Thorsby Institute an operetta "China Silk" will be given. Admission for all except members of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be twenty cents.

The story of the operetta is as follows:

Rosemary, the daughter of a noted American artist, has just arrived in China, where she meets Wee Long whom she had known well in America when Wee Long was at school there.

Wee Long and her friends explain to Rosemary the Chinese customs and tell her of the feast of the goddess of silkworms—the Si Ling Chi. They tell her also of the approaching wedding of the princess.

As midnight strikes in the feast of Si Ling Chi, the great silk moths change into mischievous sprites, and punish Rosemary for her secret by turning her into a garden post. They are, however, a bit perturbed by her threat of what "Uncle Sam" may do to them. The princess, mistaken by the silkmoths for Rosemary, is turned into a huge stone, and is not to be found when the time comes to carry her to the home of her father-in-law for the wedding.

By the help of the flowers all is made right. The princess gets her wish and she and Rosemary have a wonderful time at the feast of Si Ling Chi.

The list of characters is:
Rosemary, Katherine Foss.
The Artist, Aubrey Taylor.
The Princess, Marie Eiland.
Wee Long, Edith Johnson.
Ow Ling, Margaret Peterson.
Ka Ki, Wilma Goodgame.
Lu Li, Lois Thompson.

The silkmoths, scroll bearers, lillies and poppeis are made up of Thorsby Institute girls and boys.

Although it has been many years since Thorsby Institute put on a Chinese "Operetta" we distinctly remember the joy and beauty of that "Feast of the Little Lanterns", if "China Silk" is as smooth and brilliant as its name implies, it will be worth going far to see.

(f. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra.)

LOCAL DEALER DESCRIBES IMPROVED FORD PHAETON

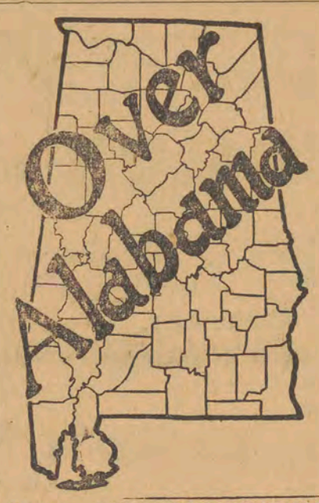
Long, low lines and flowing streamline effect emphasize the sport treatment incorporated in the new Ford Phaeton, according to Tom Littlejohn, local Ford dealer.

"The sides of this car are newly designed, coming down from the windshiled and on around the back of the car in an attractively curved line," Mr. Littlejohn said. "They are one and one-quarter inches higher than formerly, while the seats are lower so that occupants sit well down in the car, a characteristic of sport-car design.

"Moulding treatment is new. Running back from the radiator, the moulding joins the broad belt of the body at the cowl and accentuates the low lines of the car. The belt, wide along the sides, flows into a moulding around the rear quarter. A cowl finish strip of rustless steel separates the cowl and hood and adds to the beauty of the car.

"The top, of black rubber material, folds flat. It collapses quickly and may easily be handled by one person.

"The door and side curtains are of black pyroxlin coated material. The door curtains are supported on steel uprights and open with the doors, all of which are hinged at the front. Window openings of heavy celluliod provide ample vision. Curtains are stored flat in a special compartment under and back of the front seat.



"A feature of the phaeton is the new folding type windshield. For summer driving it can be folded flat forward with the windshiled wings folded over it. The windshield and wings are of shatter-proff glass.

"Another improvement in this car is its wider doors which permit easier access.

"Seat cushions are upholstered in dark two-tone artificial piped leather, at once attractive and comfortable. Heavy rubber mats are used for floor coverings. Embossed door panels add to the attractiveness of the interior."

STUDENTS TRAIN FOR BOLL WEEVIL WORK

Auburn, Ala., April 22.—A new course which promises to be of much practical value has been inaugurated by the college of agriculture of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. It is one for the training of students to serve as leaders or managers in boll weevil control. It was suggested by Dean M. J. Funchess and is being taught by six members of the faculty.

Fifty-two students enrolled, and are meeting four nights each week in order to qualify to do the work. Students who complete the course will be familiar with every problem involved in practical boll weevil control. The life and habits of the boll weevil are being studied along with the use of calcium arsenate and the operation of machinery used in applying it.

Dean Funchess said that farmers, bankers and business men have requested Auburn to furnish them men qualified as these young men will be qualified when they complete the course. They will be prepared to manage boll weevil control work during the months of June, July and August when weevils will be active and destructive if not controlled.

A plan similar to this was launched in South Carolina a year ago with remarkable results. Some of the students receiving this training were employed by farmers while the others were employed by bankers and business men. The success of the plan is revealed by the fact that one South Carolina bank which employed only one man last year to do boll weevil work on the farms of customers of the bank, will use 16 this year.

Auburn professors who are training this class are J. M. Robinson, F. S. Arant, and H. S. Swingle of the department of entomology; Mr. D. G. Sturie of the department of agronomy; John W. Randolph of the department of agricultural engineering; and Dr. J. L. Seal, of the department of botany.

"IT'S A MAN'S WORLD"

The old adage, "It's a man's world," is fast becoming obsolete even in Turkey where feminine rights, as such, have only recently begun to receive attention. There are few fields that seem less fitted for women even in the western world than that of taxi-driver yet in Constantinople a young convent-bred girl recently proclaimed her emancipation by taking a chauffeur's test and embarking on a career of taxi-driving.

Mouamer Hanoum was just eighteen years of age when she startled Constantinople by announcing her intention of taking a chauffeur's course. She subsequently passed the severe physical examination and, in a businss-like manner asserted that she was prepared to enter the driver's test. She displayed such unusual skill at the wheel that she completed her course in record time and captured highest honors.

As a full-fledged taxi-driver, Miss Mouamer's first consideration was the choice of her vehicle. She selected a Chevrolet six which has been specially equipped for taxi work. She is now happily employed driving passengers around the Turkish capital and enjoying the distinction of being the first woman to enter the chauffeur's profession in that country.

Don't buy tires on price alone

Low price doesn't necessarily mean a bargain. The most expensive tire you can buy is the low-priced one that expires at the end of a couple of thousand miles.
But some low-priced casings are just as good, in proportion to their cost, as more expensive tires. Buckeye tires, built and guaranteed by Kelley-Springfield, are good reliable tires that will give honest service. It is not possible to build and sell satisfactory tires for less money than we ask for a Buckeye. If it were possible, we'd sell them.
If you're looking for real value in a moderate-priced tire, come in and see us.

LITTLE IRENE LITTLETON

On Monday, April 14th the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Littleton of Gorgas, Ala., and took away their dear darling baby, to that home of rest. The little one was sick with pneumonia only four days.

Medical aid, loving hands and tender hearts did all they could for her, but all was in vain. We realize that she is not dead but just sleeping.

We want to express our thanks to the good people of Gorgas for their kindness and sympathy which was shown during the sickness and death of little Irene. We especially want to thank the nurse, Mrs. Galloway, for her help. She did all she could, but all was in vain.

We want to thank the people for their floral offerings. Little Irene leaves a father and mother and one sister. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Littleton and Lurline Littleton, and a host of relatives to mourn her loss.

The funeral services were held at New Salem Tuesday at 11:00 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Short of Gorgas.

May God's richest blessings rest with each and every one of you.—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cox and family.

FROM REFUGE

Services at this place both Sunday and Sunday night were fine. Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, but still there are some who do not attend. We are praying for them, for there isn't anyone so far along that should not attend Sunday school.

The purpose of this change is to cooperate with Collins Chapel, who sing the third Sunday in June. So let us look forward to the third Sunday in May. All singers and lovers of sacred music have a cordial invitation. —O. R. Robinson, Chairman; Rev. M. Lockhart, Secretary.

SARDIS SINGING REPORT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a little space in the paper to make the singing report from this place. The society was called to order Sunday afternoon by Prof. J. W. Lowery of the Liberty Hill community, who officiated in the absence of the society president, Mr. R. W. Kendrick. Prof. Lowery opened the service at 2:35 by singing that widely known hymn, "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms," after which prayer was offered by Bro. W. M. Headley. After prayer the following committee was appointed to make out a program for the afternoon: G. W. Sansom, W. M. Headley and W. L. Williams.

The following is a list of directors who were asked to sing two songs each: Miss Mae Sansom, Miss Arie Ratliff, Carson Williams, and Alonza Hayes. The organists were Miss Gertie Lowery and Prof. George Anderson.

The weather was fine, and there was a fairly good audience at the singing. There were quite a number of visitors from other communities. Everyone present seemed to enjoy the singing very much. After the program was completed Prof. Lowery sung that good old hymn, "God be with You till we Meet Again."

Our singing society meets the first Sunday afternoon of each month at Filgrims Rest, and the third Sunday afternoon at Sardis. We cordially invite the public to our singings. We need you, so remember everyone has a cordial welcome with us.

After the singing was over the society was dismissed in order with prayer by Bro. W. M. Headley, to meet at Pilgrims Rest the first Sunday afternoon in May.—George Anderson, Secretary.

"Nervous, Weak, Could Not Sleep at Night—Felt Wilted"

Mrs. Hyde

Montgomery, Ala. —"Following motherhood I never seemed to be able to regain my strength or get back to where I felt well. I was nervous and weak, could not sleep or rest at night, and felt wilted and all dragged out. Thru the advice of a friend I started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I have only taken it a short time and there is a marked improvement in my condition. I am much stronger, my nerves are much better and I can sleep." — Mrs. W. J. Hyde, 517 North Hull St.

JESSE BAKER WRITES ABOUT RACE FOR TAX ASSESSOR

To the voters of Chilton County:

When making up my mind to enter the race for Tax Assessor of Chilton County, I did so after long and careful consideration. I realize from my business experience that there is more than one point in qualification, in order to meet the demands of the public, and to give them the service which they are entitled to.

Qulification does not consist only in being able to keep records straight but the people who give public office have a right to be treated with courtesy, and should receive every accomodation possible. All this should be given willingly and in a pleasant manner.

Should the voters of Chilton County see fit to nominate and elect me as Tax Assessor, I assure you that you shall receive every accommodapossible for me to give you. Those who know me and have had business dealings with me for the past several years will bear me out in these statements.

I will make an effort later to see every voter in the county before the primary. As most people are busy with farming now, I do not deem it best to make any rounds to see them at this time. I have had lots of experience with candidates in the past. I always appreciate anyone soliciting my vote; but never like to be worried or insisted upon to pledge my vote to anyone. Therefore I shall try to treat everyone as I would like to be treated.

As for my opponents, I believe everyone of them to be high toned gentlemen and one hundred per cent Republicans. I think it commendation possible for me to give. Those good men from which to select their public officials.

As mentioned in my announcement my grandfather, old Uncle John Baker, as he was commonly known, was brave enough to walk up and vote the Republican ticket in Chilton County when no one else would do so. As he walked out of the courthouse they remarked to him: "John, you are a brave horse." He replied: "Yes, and I will stand without hitching. I will live to see the day when the Republican party will win." He lived to see his party in charge of the affairs of Chilton County for more than 20 years before he died.

I believe in the same principles for which he stood, and shall always stand in defense of them.

Now, I ask that the voters of the county give me careful consideration. I invite you to look into my public and business life, and if you can give me your support and influence in the Republican primary, August 12, I will greatly appreciate it.

Respectfully,
JESSE BAKER.

SERVICES AT OAK GROVE NEXT SUNDAY

Every body be sure to come, as we feel like the trip will be worth while. Rev. Vest is an able young preacher who is in Howard College preparing himself for the great work the Lord has given him to do. His subject for next Sunday will be: "Tell Mother I'll be There."

W. O. W. TO MEET

The regular meeting of Clanton Camp No. 322 W. O. W. will be held Monday night, April 28th. In addition to the routine and other business to be transacted, plans will be made to receive another large class of new members at the meeting to be held Monday night, May 12th at which time the officers and degree team from Camp No. 2 at Montgomery will be present and confer the degree work. The active membership campaign is now under way and has resulted in the addition of more than 75 members to the rolls of the local camp.

A. B. Baxley of Calera was in Clanton Wednesday on business.

THE EASTER SINGING

The annual Easter singing was held at Poplar Springs church on last Sunday, April 20th. The opening song was sung by Mr. W. F. Gilliland, and prayer was offered by Rev. W. H. Wilson.

Officers were selected for the day; W. M. Devaughn was elected chairman and he appointed the following committee: O. L. Devaughn, J. B. Hammond and I. D. Huett, to arrange the program for the day. J. L. Smith was appointed secretary.

Following is a list of the directors: A. O. Boswell, R. M. Brigance, J. B. Hammond, Edward Jones, N. A. Smith, A. M. Jones, Edward Taylor, C. F. Hull, E. L. Glasscock, W. M. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, Akins Collins, Ralph D. Grant, I. D. Huett, Jasper Oaks, F. I. Popwell, Lorenzo Sanders, Lee J. Grant, Jesse C. Jones, W. G. Culp, C. H. Robinson, T. E. Wyatt, Olin Williams, G. C. Powell, J. R. Robinson, and Archie Devaughn.

Pianists for the day were: Lee J. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Mrs. Grace Patterson, Ralph D. Grant, Mrs. Akins Collins, Miss Bertie Grant, Miss Genie Collins, W. G. Culp, C. H. Robinson and C. F. Hull.

We also had the famous Clanton Quartet with us, composed of W. G. Culp, Manager; Jesse C. Jones, Archie Devaughn, J. Renfroe Jones and Akins I. Collins; who gave us several splendid quartets, which were enjoyed to the fullest extent by all who heard them. It isn't any longer necessary to send off some place for a quartet when we have as good as can be found right here in Chilton County.

The class singing was just A-No.1 all day. It was said by many to be the best Easter singing that we have ever had, and we verily believe that it was.

Trusting that we may all live to see another Easter and enjoy another such day as this was.

J. L. SMITH, Secy.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

WHOM SAY YE THAT I, THE SON OF MAN, AM?

The time of this saying or this question, "But whom say ye that I, the son of man, am? found in the 16th chapter and 15th verse of Matthew's Gospel, was about six months before Christ's death on the cruel cross on Calvary, Golgotha, just outside the northern gate of Jerusalem.

Christ with his apostles came into the region of the Caeserea Philippi. That was a place of quietude away from the fisheries, away from the Pharisaic influences, away from the thronging multitudes. Christ was in a rush all the time like all of us, and He longed as we do for the quiet of a region, the quiet of Caesera Philippi near the northern boundary of Palestine. He went there with a heart beating rapidly and so far as human nature is concerned, failing.

He received the critisms, sneers, jeers, and contradictions of lots of people. And so far as we find Him saying to the apostles, "Whom do men say that I, the son of man, am?" They said, Some say that Thou art John the Baptist: others say that Thou art Elias; and others, Jeremias; and even others say that you are one of the prophets, meaning Enoch or Samuel. But in the 15th verse Christ said unto them in a pointed way, a very serious way with a heart that craved in their conversations with Him an expresion of confidence and their devotion. "But whom say ye that I, the son of man, am?"

It is not a question concerning Elijah or Jeremiah or some other of the old patriarchs and old prophets. But this direct, personal, pointed question is what is your opinion of Christ? What is your opinion of Me? Whom do you think that I am? This question we would never forget, was asked out of a heart that was soon to be broken with a world of sin, a heart almost crushed now with sin, a heart which was sorrowful as it patiently endured daily the most terrific strain, a heart which would have lovingly folded to it and have given peace and comfort to those who rejected it daily and would soon see it gladly ebb its last beating throb on Calvary, dark Calvary.

Simon Peter who no doubt loved Christ having been under Christ's walks, talks and always teachable, trustfull, venturesome, obedient, loving, truthful, and very impetuous answered Christ, "Thou art the Christ the son of the living God." "Upon this statement" says Christ, "I will build my house, the church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." In the rest of the inspiring narrative we see Christ carefully placing the work of the building up His kingdom on earth in the hands of His followers.

Christ asked you and me this same question "But whom say ye that I, the son of man, am? Who is Christ? Is He to me everything? Is He to me the chiefest among the ten thousand? the one altogether lovely? Is He to you and to me the Rose of Sharon? the Lily of the Valley? Is He to us the bright and morning star? Is He to you and to me, the friend of sinners? I wish I could look into Christ's heart when he spake those words. I imagine that His heart just craved to have somebody to confess Him as the Christ, the son of his father the living God, to have somebody confess His diety; and to have somebody say "I love you."

It was not a question from the selfish motive, but it was a cry out of a heart that needed an expression of love, that needed to have a disciple and an apostle to say who He was. They had never told him who he was. It is true that the early disciples in the wilderness of Judea after seeing Jesus went out among their loved ones and friends saying, "Come see a man who told me all things which ever I did. Is not this the Christ?" But nobody had ever said to this loving Jesus as he went about all Galilee and throughout Palestine doing good. "I know that thou art the Christ, the son of the living God." To know and to love such a friend as Christ had been to them throughout his three years of ministry required an expression of it. To know and love a friend is to express it because love expresses itself. We express our love to the one we love. Peter certainly express His love for Christ when he said, "Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God." Think of that statement in all its implications.

Jesus was walking calmly and quietly under the shodow of that painful, shameful, accursed, violent, vicarous cross; and no doubt looking toward Calvary, which would in six months time be crowned by Him. "Ye have followed me three years, have seen me heal the sick, make the deaf to hear and to make the blind to see, cleanse lepers and to cast out devils, feed the multitudes by working miricles, but the question now is: "Whom do you say that I am?"

Just leave this question off for a little while and think of another scene in the life of our Lord. When His enemies were hounding Him, (Are your enemies hounding you? and are my enemies hounding me?) Christ said, "What think ye of Christ Whose son is He? Then he said, "If He is the son of David, Why call David Lord? I ask you very kindly: "What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He? Do you love Him? Have you given Him your heart and life? If not, now is the time. Have you got the proper opinion of Christ? The right conception of this Christ, the son of the living God?

Notice that this question as spoken at Caeserea Philippi by Christ Himself is a pointed and personal and far reaching one: "But whom say ye that the son of man am?" You notice as you read it that Christ called himself the son of man. That is because he gets so near to man. Is he near you? Whom do you say Christ is? Do you just say that He is the greatest Jew who ever lived? Do you just say that he is the greatest man who ever lived? Do you just say that he is the greatest teacher that ever lived? Do you just say that He was and is a miracle worker? It is a fact that some people deny His virgin birth, making Him a bastard. How can men who read and think have such an opinion of Jesus Christ?

Christ just craved for a confession of love from the lips of his followers. They seemed to be backward. It might have been that they did not love him enough to make a confession as they ought to have done. I wish you to also think of an incident which took place during Christ's early ministry as recorded in the 21st chapter of the gospel according to John. A lecturer on the Mediterrenean Cruise which I sailed to the far east said that on the truthfullnes of this chapter and the veracity of the event which took place there the gospel either stands or falls. What he meant by that I am not able to say. But I think that he meant to say thatt this chapter ought to be so helpful and important to every Christian.

You remember that we are told that the disciples had fished all night and caught nothing. The next morning they looked out at the dawn across that burning Palestinian sky with its first warm rays of the sun, and saw Christ standing on the shore and they at once recognized him. One of them said that it is the Lord. He told us that he would meet us in Galilee and so He has because that is he. Jesus Himself prepared their breakfast on the shore. I would call it the "resurrection breakfast" on the shore of the historic shore of Galilee. Here he had spent two years of his public life.

Christ said to Peter after they had eaten the resurrection breakfast, "Simon, son of Jonas, Lovest thou me?" He knew that Peter loved him but His heart longed for such an expression of love. He longed for someone to tell Him that they loved Him. Do you ever long for someone to tell you that they love you? I think when we do not express our love to our friend it is because the love of God is not shed abroad in our hearts and lives. I walked up to dear friend, a police officer today and said, "When did anyone ever walk up to you on the streets and say, 'I know that you have a hard, trying time, I know that your life is in danger but I love you and pray for you?" Do we ever stop to tell Jesus that we love Him? Can we look up and say to him, "My Jesus I love thee. I know that thou art mine?" Remember there is no love without expression. There is no love without fruit of spirit: love, joy, peace, longsuffering, meekness, gentleness, faith, patience.

The milkweed, once thought to be a source of rubber, is now getting attention from another quarter. The cellulose industries, looking to annual plant to supply much of their needs, see attractive prospects in the former rubber possibility, the weed having been propagated to show an acre yield of 30 bushels of seed, 280 pounds of floss, and a ton of air-dried stems.

VITALITY!

"SURE! I can finish that today"

A strong, healthy body and mind always respond to the occasion. Employers appreciate and recognize unfailing freshness—always ready—cheerfully ready to carry on—minus that "tired feeling."

DON'T let a weakened body hold you back. Prolonged, it may result in so-called premature old age. Today's happiness and friends may be gone tomorrow.

Thousands of people have a low blood count—to this may be attributed skin troubles, "run-down" systems and even more serious ailments.

If you tire easily—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

When you get your red-blood-cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, lack of appetite, skin troubles disappear. You should get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

FOURSQUARE CHURCH PRESENTS EASTER PROGRAM

The Easter program given at the local Foursquare Church, under the supervision of Mrs. Minnie Pearl Mims proved to be a great success. Some forty children and young people participated in the exercises and did their parts in a way to reflect credit on the one who had so faithfully and patiently trained them for the past few weeks. Each of the songs and recitations were chosen with the one aim in view—of getting before the people the hope and joy that we have right here in this present life, because of the fact that "He is risen." Mrs. Mims deserves much appreciation for her patience and ability in instructing the children and young people in their beautiful program.

Sunday School, 10:00 o'clock.

Morning worship, 11:00 o'clock.

Crusaders meeting, 6:30 o'clock.

7:30, illustrated message, subject, "The Two Houses." Wednesday prayer meeting and Bible study at 7:30. Thursday cottage prayer meeting at the home of Jesse Rhodes. Saturday, 2 o'clock, Childrens Church. —H. B. Calentine, Pastor.

MRS. LUCY COFER

Mrs. Lucy Cofer died April 2 at the home of her daughter in Birmingham. She was about 80 years old, the wife of E. G. Cofer, and came to Alabama from Georgia 50 years ago. In all the 50 years we have known her we never heard anyone speak an evil word of Mrs. Cofer. Her life was harmless, indeed she was a Christian lady.

She was the mother of ten children, her grandchildren numbered 42. She had 51 greatlgrand children. Mrs. Cofer loved the truth and a short while before her passing she expressed herself as being ready to go and looking forward to her great reward in the sweet beyond with hope and sweet assurance.

Her remains were brought to Mars Hill cemetery and laid away in the presence of a large gathering of her friends and relatives. The floral offering was abundant and beautiful. She is survived by her husband and several children. Even though she attained a ripe old age her friends and loved ones will miss her very much. A poetic relative of the writer said on passing of his mother, "The world is not the same since mother died." She now sweetly sleeps in the death state. She is waiting the call of her Redemer to life in the resurrection of the just.

She has finished the work given her to do, and when the great clock of the ages points to the proper time she will return from the grave to life, amid all the grandeur and beauty of the coming heavenly kingdom. Her intellectual husdand and children may be cheered by the fact that hope spans her grave. That her return will be to—

"Verdant hills and mountains.
Where the golden sunbeams play,
Purling streams and Crystal fountain
Sparkle in the eternal day."

FORD TRUCKS

Model AA Ford trucks are now available in two gear ratios, the Ford Motor Company announced today. In addition to the 6.6 to 1 ratio, which has been the standard, the truck is being produced with a ratio of 5.14 to 1.

The new ratio increases the speed of the truck approximately 28 per cent, and is designed to meet transportation requirments in which speed is more of a factor than a power.

With production reaching unprecedented heights and experts achieving a record figure, the farm implements industry of the United States had its most successful year in 1929, the Department of Commerce announces. According to preliminary estimates, the total output for 1929 approximates $650,000,000, a record for all time, surpassing by some $125,000,000 the value of $525,000,000 recorded in 1928.

A GATHERING

Everything To Eat And Wear Can Be Bought From Us

Complete Merchandising Service Is Offered To Those Who Trade At Clanton Cash Store

This comprehensive statement from Jesse Baker gives one a good idea of the ambition which is back of the purpose of the Clanton Cash Store.

We aim to keep our store so completely stocked that we can fill the entire needs of our customers by selling them anything and everything they need to eat and wear at all times. notice that some of the filling stations advertise as one - stop service stations for automobiles. Ours is a one-stop store. When you come to town to get your supply of goods to eat and wear for a week, or month, or a season, you can get the whole business for every member of the family right here at one stop.

There are two main departments of the Clanton Cash Store. The dry goods department is in charge of Jesse Baker. Anything that anybody wants to wear can always be found in this department. Clothes for men to work in or to go to meeting in. Dresses for the ladies and girls, the kind that they want to wear around the house, or the finer ones to wear when they go to places. Everything for the children to wear on all sorts of occasions. Hats, caps, Overalls, Shoes, Slippers, piece goods and notions. The famous Red Goose Shoes for children is one of the long established specials of this store.

In the dry goods department Mr. Baker is ably assited by Mrs. A. L. Robinson. She makes a special study of things that interest women and girls, and is always prepared with just the proper suggestion to help solve feminine problems in wearing apparel and home decorations.

In the grocery department Mr. O. D. DeLoach is manager. While Mr. Baker and Mrs. Robinson on the dry goods side are engaged in fitting the customer out with something to wear, Mr. DeLoach and Jack Mims on the grocery side are figuring on something for him to eat. The grocery department of this store is a member of the I. G. A. system, an organization of Independent Grocers that reaches from one side of this country to the other. Through the I. G. A. connection, this store is able to avail itself of a tremendous buying advantage that can not be had otherwise. The secret of economical buying by the consumer is economical buying by the retailer. This advantage comes to the Clanton Cash Store through the I. G. A. system. They are able to buy groceries in a way that enables them to sell them in line with the low prices of the chain stores.

In addition to the Clanton Cash Store, Mr. Baker and Mr. DeLoach also own the Ideal Dry Goods Company, at Maplesville. This latter store has been in operation for about a year, under the management of Miss Cleo Broadhead. The owners of the business are proud of the showing that has been made by their store at Maplesville. They have had a most satisfactory response from the people of the western part of the county who trade at Maplesville.

The location of the Clanton Cash Store is on Main Street, next door below Marion Gore's corner. If you are not already acquainted with this store and the people who operate it,

JESSE BAKER and O. D. DeLOACH

The above is our cartoonist's conception of the two gentlemen who have joined their hands, hearts, and resources in the formation of the business known as the Clanton Cash Store. They are Jesse Baker and O. D. DeLoach. Their business connection was made in 1928, since which time the Clanton Cash store has become one of the leading stores in our city.

Jesse Baker is 48 years of age, a native of this community. He was born and reared in what is known as the Walnut Creek community, just a little more than a mile east of Clanton. He is a son of John Baker, Jr., and a grandson of "Grandpap" Baker, or "Uncle John," as he was familiarly and affectionately known to hundreds of people all over Chilton County.

Mr. Baker has been connected with business operations in Clanton for the past 20 years. When he was yet a young man, he left the farm and came here as a clerk in the store of B. E. Jones. For the past twelve years he has been in business for himself, in partnership with the Taylor boys before he and Mr. DeLoach went in together.

O. D. DeLoach is 37 years of age. He was born at Rockford, in Coosa County. He came to Chilton County in 1912, locating at Enterprise, where he was with his brother operating a store and farm. In 1921 he went to Coopers where he operated a store for 7 years.

Since 1928, when he went into partnership with Mr. Baker, he has been in charge of the grocery department of the Clanton Cash Store. Business is the hobby of Mr. DeLoach. He is at all times most interested in giving the public an honest deal and a complete service. His personal interest to this extent is expressed in every transaction that goes through his department, it makes no difference how big or how little the transaction is.

Mr. DeLoach takes great pride in the fact that the grocery department of the Clanton Cash Store is a member of the "I. G. A." system, an organization of independent grocers of America. Through this organization the independent grocers are able to avail themselves of a co-operative buying power of tremendous strength, enabling them to buy groceries and retail them to their customers at prices that are impossible for the individual merchant alone.

CREAM STATION FOR FARMERS IS OPENED UP HERE

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, announces that a total of 316.5 pounds of cleam was received at the Farm Bureau office in Clanton last Saturday, which was the first day designated for farmers to bring their cream to the new station for shipment.

The tests, according to Mr. Stapp, varied from 19 1-2 per cent to 52 per cent butterfat, with an average of 44 per cent for all cream graded on that day. The total was 120 lbs. of butterfat. Most of the cream that came in was in small quantities. Checks issued to the farmers for the cream brought on the day amounted to $42.02.

Mr. Stapp further states that, of course this is only a small amount of cream, compared to what farmers of this vicinity could save and sell. He is anxious for a large number of farmers to plant sufficient feed crops to take care of a few extra cows, because he knows it can be made a profitable side line for any farmer.

Each farmer should try to grow and save the following amounts of feed for each cow, according to a statement of Mr. Stapp: Two acres of permanent pasture; 1 1-2 tons of Otootan or Larado soy bean hay; 20 bushels of corn; 500 pounds of cottonseed meal; 500 pounds of velvet beans. Mr. Stapp further states that the above feeds can be profitably grown on the farms of Chilton County. Mixing should be in the following proportion: 300 pounds of crushed corn, 100 pounds of crushed velvet beans, 100 pounds of cottonseed mean; 5 pounds of salt. If two and a half pounds of same and plenty of good hay is fed for each gallon of milk, good cows will thus give a splendid market for the feed and good returns for labor.

More cows mean more fertile soil in Chilton County. More fertile soil in turn means more prosperous farmers.

UNCLE JIM MIMS IN RACE FOR COMMISSIONER

Uncle Jim Mims announces this week as a candidate for Commissioner of the Second District of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican primary to be held August 12. Mr. Mims states that he has been besieged by a great many people to get into the race, and has decided to do so, provided he can legally qualify for the place.

There is a question in regard to his qualifications for commissioner in the second district, on account of the fact that he has been residing in Clanton for the past year or more.

Prior to coming to Clanton a little more than a year ago, Mr. Mims lived in Beat 9, which is in the second district. Since he has been living in Clanton he has been out of the second district.

Mr. Mims served one term as a member of the Commissioners Court representing the second district. His record in the office was of such good repute that his friends are wanting him back in the place again. He will make the race, provided he finds out that he can legally do so in view of his living outside of the district for the past year or so.

Now, that the naval limitations conference is over, those "peace loving" nations of Europe might prove their sincerity by cutting down the size of their armies. A lot of countries over there no bigger than a Texas county has armies larger than the one possessed by Uncle Sam.

Census Figures Announced For Clanton

Mrs. Mary M. Graham, of Selma, supervisor of the Census for the district in which Chilton County is located, has announced the preliminary count of returns for the following places in Chilton County:

Clanton, 1,846. The population of Clanton in the 1920 census was 1,411. There were 21 farms enumerated in the Clanton area.

Jemison, 459. The population of Jemison in 1920 was 419. There were 31 farms enumerated in the Jemison territory.

Cane Creek, Beat 11, 328. The population of Beat 11 in 1920 was 641. There were 56 farms enumerated in Beat 11 territory.

Providence, Beat 16, 536. The population of Beat 16 in 1920 was 551. There were 93 farms enumerated in the Beat 16 territory.

Benson, Beat 3, 665. The population of Beat 3 in 1920 was 747. There were 121 farms enumerated in the Beat 3 territory.

CLANTON NOW HAS ONE OF THE NEW STYLE OIL WELLS

Clanton now has one of the new style oil wells, similar to the one that was discovered at Jemison about a year ago. Ours is located at the back of the Dixie Cafe. The discovery of oil in the well was made Tuesday.

The well had not been used for several years, during which time it had been closed at the top. Tuesday the folks who live in the house wanted some water to do some washing. Not having city water connection, the man decided to get water out of the well. When he drew a bucket of the water he found that it had oil in it. Experimenting further with his find, he struck a match to his rope to see if it would burn, and it did. His rope was burned up before he could get the fire put out.

This got the excitement started, and before it had subsided, several gallons of oil had been drawn from the well. It is a thin oil, appearing to be something between gasoline and kerosene. It will burn readily. Mr. L. D. Easterling, proprietor of The Dixie Cafe, brought a gallon of it to The Union-Banner office where it may be seen by anyone who wishes to look at it.

This well, like the one at Jemison last year, it not far from a gasoline filling station. The theory has been advanced that it is caused by leaks and seepage from the gasoline tanks which are buried in the ground nearby.

SLIGHT BLAZE AT HOME OF REV. CHILDS

Last Thursday afternoon the city fire department was called to the home of Rev. Ernest Childs, to look after a blaze that had started around a chimney on top of the house. The fire fighters responded promptly, and it was an easy matter to get control of the situation before any considerable damage had been done.

The house in which Rev. Childs lives is the Methodist Parsonage. It is the old home of the late E. A. Matthews, located in close proximity to the Methodist Church building. It was bought by the Methodist congregation some years ago, about the time the new church was completed.

Natural Gas Co. To Make Extension

Survey Of Additional Towns To Be Made, Clanton May Be Included

An appropriation of $15,000,000 for extensions to the existing transmission system of the Southern Natural Gas Corporation and associated companies, to be expended as rapidly as possible, and to be fully expended by October, was announced Wednesday by J. H. White, president of the company.

The expenditure will include the cost of sending natural gas through additional pipe lines to Montgomery, Mobile, Opelika, Auburn, Brickyard, and Selma, Ala., and to a number of towns in Georgia nd Mississippi.

In projecting lines to these points named, it is not improbable that the company, through its associated companies, will cause surveys to be made of other points not at this time in the list of plants to be built, and expand further its distribution system into points having no gas service at this time.

The expenditure authorized will bring the total investment of the corporation up to $40,000 in the 3 states through which the system has transmissions. The new work will result in the construction of about 800 miles of additional transmission line and will give the Southern and its associated companies a total system exceeding 1,700 miles, which will serve an estimated population of 1,300,000 persons.

Perhaps there is a possibility that in making the extensions outlined above, the Southern Natural Gas Company will give consideration to Clanton. The question has been discussed quite a bit in local circles. The Clanton district should be placed before officials of the company with a view to getting this locality included in the surveys that will likely be made in view of these extensions of service.

GET CREAM HERE BEFORE 3 O'CLOCK

Farmers who have cream to sell are requested to bring it before 3 o'clock p. m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays, to the cream station at the Farm Bureau office in Clanton, so that it may be shipped to Montgomery on the evening train the same day. This is important, and must be observed by those who bring cream.

COOKE PLAYERS SHOW NEXT WEEK

Showing In Maplesville This Week, Will Be In Thorsby Next Week

Mr. Harry M. Cooke of the Cooke Players, was in Clanton the first of this week, seeing after business matters in connection with his tent theatre which is showing in Maplesville this week and which will be in Thorsby every night next week, beginning May 5th.

The Cooke Players make Chilton County every spring and most every fall, and they have made lots of friends over the county. Mr. Cooke knows what kind of shows the better class of people appreciate, and he always caters to this kind of entertainment. For this reason the people of Chilton County are always glad to hear of his return engagements.

Mr. Cooke reports that Boob Brasfield is with his show again this season, after having played for the past several months with the Edith Ambler company at the Grand Theatre in Montgomery. The many people who have heretofore attended Mr. Cooke's shows remember Mr. Brasfield, and will be glad to see him again and hear his jokes and see his masterful facial expressions.

You will not be disappointed if you attend the Cooke Players at Maplesville this week and at Thorsby all next week.

Read Mr. Cooke's adv., and program for the week printed elsewhere in The Union-Banner.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Baker have moved from Birmingham back to their home in the Gowan Addition. Mr. Baker says he intends to go into business in Clanton if he can find an opening that suits him.

MILT TOLBERT HERE 1 NIGHT SATURDAY NIGHT, MAY 3RD

Billy Wagoner was a visitor in our office last week. He is in charge of the No. 2 bill car of the Milt Tolbert Chain Store Show, to be here one night only, Saturday, May 3rd.

Billy informed us that Roy E. Butler was again with the show, and is featured both in the big show and in the concert. Mr. Butler was with the Tolbert show in Clanton about five years ago. Since then he has been featured in big muscal comedy shows in New York and Chicago. He just recently closed a long engagement in New Orleans, to join the Tolbert show.

Don't fail to see "Chain Stores.'

FALLING OFF IN POLL TAX RECTS

Held To Indicate That Fewer Ballots Will Be Cast In 1930 Election

State poll tax receipts are considerably below those of 1928, although slightly in excess of those in 1926, according to figures from the state auditor's office based on reports from all Alabama counties.

Total poll tax receipts in 1930 were $283,304, as compared with $392,768.50 in 1928 and $281,047 in 1926.

While these receipts cannot be taken as a definite basis for determining number of voters in the entire state, there is some relation between the amount received and the vote. Total Receipts for 1930, therefore, would indicate the vote this year will be considerably less than in 1928, when the unusual national party situation brought out the record vote. The vote, however, should approximate that of 1926, the last gubernatorial year.

Only seven counties reported an increase in poll tax receipts. These were Calhoun, Chambers, Dallas, Fayette, Macon, Mobile and Wilcox. Mobile showed the largest increase, going from $12,220.50 in 1928 to $15,774 in 1930.

The figures for Chilton County are: For 1930, $4,476; and for 1928, $9,298.50.

According to the list of qualified voters published recently by the probate judge, in addition to the supplemental list being carried in The Union-Banner this week, there are now in Chalton County 5,301 qualified voters. This number is 141 more than were qualified last year.

VISITING DAY AT NEW CLANTON POST OFFICE

Next Saturday, May 3rd, will be visiting day at the new post office building in Clanton. Between the hours of 10:00 a.m., and 3:00 p.m., all who desire to do so can go inside the office work room and see the new fixtures and learn just how the mails for more than 7,500 people in Chilton County are handled. Thru the courtesy of Mr. Boyd, president of the Peoples Savings Bank, and the man who is principally responsible for such nice arrangement and fine fixtures, I have been authorized to give this invitation to the public.

After the office is moved from its present quarters to the new, the office work room will be STRICTLY closed to the public, as it is a violation of the postal laws and regulations to allow the public inside the work room of a post office building.

With the new fixtures, excellent lights, and as good building for an office as any town of the size of Clanton in the State, it is hoped that this office can be made the best in Alabama for a town o fthis size. I know that I may depend fully on the co-operation of the entire office force here to assist me in making the service at this office what it should be, and the co-operation of the public is asked, that the office may give the very best service possible to all.

Your humble servant,
W. M. BEAN, Postmaster.

Veterans Hospital Site to Be Chosen

General Hines And Surgeon Riggs Will Visit Alabama For Inspection

Washington, April 29.—General Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans bureau, and Admiral Charles E. Riggs, surgeon general of the navy, will leave for Alabama before the end of the week to select a site for the million dollar veteran's hospital.

They will be accompanied by engineers of the veterans bureau, who recently surveyed scores of sites in the state and narrowed down the competition for the hospital to about a dozen Alabama communities. The list of the sites still in the running has not been made public, but it was learned today that Montgomery is one of the cities to be visited by the government officials.

General Hines informed Senator Hugo Black that the federal hospital board intends to advertise for bids and complete other plans preliminary to commencing construction work as soon as the site is selected. The location will be announced shortly after he and Admiral Riggs return to Washington from Alabama, he added.

The inspection trip was slated to begin Wednesday, but General Hines will be detained in Washington for two or three days in order to appear before the senate finance committee in connection with veterans legislation recently passed by the house and sent to the senate. He hopes to conclude his testimony in time to leave Friday or Saturday.

MEMORIAL DAY AT NEW SALEM NEXT SUNDAY

The annual memorial day services will be held at New Salem Church next Sunday. The program of exercises will begin at ten oclock in the morning.

At eleven o'clock Rev. Z. Y. Appleton will preach the memoral sermon.

Decoration of the graves will begin at 12 o'clock, after which dinner will be served.

The United Singing Society will sing in the afternoon, their program beginning at two o'clock. It is hoped that the Clanton Quartet will be able to appear on the afternoon program.

Everybody is invited to this day's services, especially those who have friends and relatives buried in the New Salem grave yard.

Longer School Terms And Cash Basis Of Operation Is Aim Of Chilton County School Board

The County Board of Education at its meeting held Friday, April 25th, unanimously agreed that in view of the fact the Board is in debt that every possible fund should go into the length of the school term. We are working hard to get on a cash basis and in view of this the Board passed the following resolution

"Mr. Webb moved that the Board expresses its regret at not being able to provide the $696.25 necessary to secure the state appropriation of $1,392.50 and the $696.25 Rosenwald for the adult schools but that if the communities wishing opportunity schools will provide one-fourth the cost that the Board will be glad to cooperate with them in securing the other three-fourths from the State and Rosenwald Funds."

Mr. Yates seconded the motion.

Motion carried by unanimous vote.

One-fourth the cost of a white adult school is $25.00 and one-fourth the cost of a negro adult school is $16.25. Heretofore no negro adult schools have been operated but this year wherever they will provide the one-fourth cost they will be given a school. The other three-fourths cost of both white and negro schools will be paid by the State and Rosenwald Funds.

The increased attendance in the schools of our county is very encouraging and we are glad to say that our attendance has increased about one-third during the past four years. This increase in attendance has necessarily called for more teachers. This has increased our pay rolls every month and of course has a tendency to decrease the term as long as out funds remain constant. We feel that the children of the county should have as long term as it is possible and we trust that the people of the county will cooperate with us in our efforts to do this and that the public will take into account the fact that the Board is trying to get on a cash basis and will consider this as demands are made on the Board for service.

During the next year we will expect every teacher to carry the maximum teaching load. All appropriations to buildings and equipment will necessarily have to be discontinued and every community will be expected to provide the necessary buildings and equipment.

It seems that many people still think of the taxes revoted last winter as something new. At the time these elections were held we made it very clear that it was not a new tax we were voting but that we were simply revoting the taxes we had had in the years previous. The only thing we accomplished in the elections last winter was the matter of making it possible to equalize the apportionment of the district taxes. The Board has already agreed that this shall be apportioned to each school on a per-capita basis of attendance.

Another matter which does not seem to be understood is the questions of why this has not already been done. The reason for this is that the elections held did not apply to the year which is just closing but becomes operative at the beginning of the next scholastic year. Hence this year's program could not be effected.

Trusting that we may have the co-operation of every citizen of the county in our efforts to make the school monies go as far as possible and that while you see a maximum of seven months school in other counties that you are taking into account the fact that Chilton County has not voted the amount of taxes had in other counties and that not only is this true but that you will remember that $900,000 is being spent in the other counties of the state which Chilton County does not share in, and pledging you our very best services with the funds in hand, I am,

Yours for better school,
B. LAWRENCE,
County Supt, Education.

COURT UPHOLDS REPUBLICAN PRIMARY RULING

Candidates Must File Affidavit Of How They Voted In 1928

Action of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee in requiring all candidates to state under oath how they voted in the 1928 general election in order to get on the party primary ballot was sustained by Circuit Judge George Smoot at Wetumpka Tuesday. The matter was submitted on complaint of M. F. Lett, who sought a place on the ballot as a candidate for the county school board without complying with the committee rule.

A mandamus suit was filed at Clanton, and when the case was called here last Tuesday it was postponed until Tuesday of this week, when the hearing was held at Wetumpka on demurrers. Arthur Chilton, of Montgomery, and J. O. Middleton, of Birmingham, represented Mr. Lett. Omar Reynolds and Percy Pitts, of Clanton, represented the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County.

Judge Smoot held that the executive committee of the Republican party had the right to fix such qualification as it saw fit governing participation in the party primary as candidates; and that the rule requiring information as to how the prospective candidate voted in 1928 was proper information for the governing body of the party to know; and not in violation of the law respecting secrecy of the ballot.

The attorneys for Mr. Lett contended that, in view of the fact that no matter how the prospective candidate voted in 1928, he could not be barred from a place on the 1930 party primary ballot, and that the action of the executive committee was in violation of the law.

The action of the Republican Executive Committee, which was being attacked in the Lett case, opened the doors wide to both voters and candidates, but stipulated that persons who wished to receive party nomination must let the governing body of the party know his status as a Republican, and that his affidavit as to how he voted in 1928 must be published.

We understand that attorneys for Mr. Lett appealed their cases to the supreme court of Alabama after Judge Smoot rendered his decision against them.

INJURED NEGRO FOUND ON RAILROAD

Monday night a negro suffering injuries about the head was found in an unconscious condition on the railroad tracks at Clanton near the bridge on Fourth Avenue. The groans of the suffering man attracted the attention of someone passing nearby.

Clanton police officers were called. Their investigation of the case could not determine anything definite as to the manner in which the negro was injured. He was in an unconsious condition, and there was no indications as to his name, where he came from, or how he was hurt.

He was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital where the wounds were given medical treatment. When he had regained consciousness he gave his name to hospital authorities as Ralph Sledges, of Verbena.

It is supposed that he was injured by a train hitting him in some way; but the possibility is recognized that he may have been injured in some other way.

Ernest Williams Visitor Here Sunday

Mr. Ernest Williams, of Decatur, was a visitor in Clanton last weekend. He came down to get Mrs. Williams, who has been spending several days with her mother, Mrs. J. G. Wood.

Mrs. Wood has been seriously sick with pneumonia for two weeks. She is improving now, we are glad to say.

While in Clanton Mr. Williams took time to visit the Clanton Baptist Sunday School Sunday morning. This is in keeping with his custom. His visits to the Sunday School are always welcome by his many friends here.

For many years Mr. Williams has been holding a responsible position with the Morgan County National Bank at Decatur. It used to be New Decatur, and later Albany. Now it is just plain Decatur, since the citizens of that community have finally settled all their civic differences and gone together as one big, hustling, progressive city.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. SALLIE ROPER, WHO DIED APRIL 13

On Sunday, April 13th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. W. L. Roper and took his dear mother, Mrs. Sallie Roper, away to that home of eternal rest. She had been in ill health for some time, but bore her suffering with patience till God called her home, where she is sweetly resting, waiting for the resurrection morning.

All was done for her that loving hands and tender hearts could, but all was in vain. To know her was to love her. She was a true, loving mother, and was good and kind to every body. Weep not, dear children and friends, but live as she did and we will meet her again.

She leaves to mourn her loss a host of friends and relatives; three sons, and two daughters: Mr. Walter Roper of Autaugaville, Ala., Mr. Howard Roper of Birminghah, Mr. Keener Foper; Mrs. Henry Ratliff of Maplesville, Mrs. John Hayes of Sardis.

She was laid to rest in Mt. Nebo cemetery Monday. Rev. F. A. Gibson conducted the funeral service.

A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in out home
Which never can be filled.
We loved her, yes we loved her,
But angels loved her more;
And they have sweetly called her
To yonder shining shore.

One who loved her.—Mrs. Era Fox.

Husband: "If a man steals—no matter what—he will live to regret it."

Wife: "You used to steal kisses from me before me married."

"Well, you heard what I said," replied friend husband.

STATE CAPITOL News

The big increase in Confederate veterans' pensions voted by the legislature of 1927 has made it necessary to draw heavily on the general fund of the state to meet the increased pension payments. Figures from auditor's reports show that for two years of the Graves administration the general fund has been called on for more than two million dollars to pay Confederate pensions, this being the amount of such pensions over and above the revenue derived from the one-mill tax levied by the Constitution to go for pensions. Complete figures for the entire Graves administration are of course not yet available, but it is estimated that when the present governor goes out of office his administration will have paid, out of the general fund, in addition to the proceeds of the one-mill soldiers tax, approximately $3,000,000 in pensions. It will thus be seen that the heavy drain on the general fund of the state, which has been charged in some quarters to "extravagance" is in reality due to the tune of several million dollars at least, to the increased pensions for the heroes of the Confederacy and their widows. It is doubted whether anyone in Alabama would call this sort of expenditure "extravagance."

Under the Brandon administration Confederate vetertns and their widows received the following pensions: veterans, $75 per quarter; widows in class 1, $27.50; Class 2, $22.50; class 3, $18.50. The legislature of 1927 at the spring session first made provision for an increase in pensions on a sliding scale, the amount paid to veterans and their widows to undergo a dradual increase. At the summer session of the legislature, however, a movement was launched to give the veterans at once the maximum increase in pensions which they would have eventually received under the provisions of the bill enacted at the spring session. There was no one who would oppose an increase in renumeration for the men who had fought for Alabama and the South in the Sixties, even though it was realized that the fininces of the state would be hard hit by such increase. Accordingly, after it was though that the pension question had been disposed of by the increase provided at the spring session, after the budget had been made up and the revenue bill adopted, the new pension measure was passed and approved. This bill gave the veterans and their widows the following pensions. effective — ober 1, 1927: veterans, $150 per quarter; class 1 widows, $75; class 2, $45; class 3, $30.

The effect of this doubling of pensions is shown in the auditor's report for the first full fiscal year of the present administration. In order that the situation be properly understood, it should be again noted that there is a state tax of one mill to take care of pensions; but, when the proceeds of this tax are insufficient to pay the pensions voted by the legislature, the increase must be borne by the general fund. For the fiscal year ending September 30, 1926, the last full fiscal year of the Brandon administration, the one-mill soldier tax produced $989,455.95, and pension payments totaled $1,-399,374, to that there was a balance to be paid out of the general fund of $409,918.05. Compare this with the first full fiscal year of the Bibb Graves administration, ending September 30, 1928, the year in which the increased pensions went into effect. For this year, the one mill tax yielded $1,081,978.75, while pension payments jumped to $2,289,802.50, leaving the sum of $1,207,823.75, to be paid for pensions out of the general fund. It will be seen from these figures that the first year of the present administration hit the general fund for some $800,000 more for Confederate pensions than was paid from the general fund during the last year of the preceding administration.

For the second fiscal year of the present administration, ending September 30, 1929, there was naturally a decline in pension payments, as the number of pensioners decreased while the payments to each remained the same. The figures show, however, that during this year, the general fund was still called on to pay a huge sum in pensions, the figures being as follows: paid out for pensions, $1,992,149; one mill tax, $1,122,341.55; balance paid by general fund, $869,807.45.

In two years time, therefore, from October 1, 1927 through September 30, 1929, there has been paid for pensions out of the general fund, which is the amount paid in excess of the proceeds from the one-mill tax, the sum of $2,077,631.20. The present year will show a decline in pesion payments, as the number of pensioners decreases. The above figures, it will be noted however, embrace only two of the four years of the present administration. On the basis of these figures, it is estimated that for the full four years the payment of pensions from the general fund will equal or exceed $3,000,000. This is one way the money goes which has apparently escaped general observation and comment.

SOUTH CLANTON FOLKS ENJOY OUTING

Editor Union-Banner:

As you fellows hardly ever have anything to say about South Clanton, the garden spot of the world, thought I would just let you know what you missed last Friday evening.

Mr. Jesse Lee Popwell tendered his friends an old time genuine weiner roast. It was a success in every particular and the participants ate so much of the delicious roast that I doubt if they can hardly reconcile themselves to the hog and hominy of home life yet.

The party assembled at the home of Mr. Headley at 7:30 p. m., and from there they migrated to a lovely pine grove near Coopers where the festivities began at once. After roasting, eating, and frolicking to the late country hour of eleven, the cars were called, and by midnight all were home and dreaming of one more delightful event shelved away in the casket of memory.

EXPRESS SHIPMENTS OF POULTRY

Those who have friers weighing from 1½ to 2 pounds each, may bring them in Wednesday of each week for co-operative express shipments, according to announcements of the County Agent, C. E. Stapp.

These express shipments will not take the place of the car shipments which will be made again about the 22nd of May, but will give a good market for those who will have friers ready before the next car comes.

Remember, if you have friers which you want to get on the market before the next poultry car comes, bring them to the Farm Bureau office on Wednesdays of each week, and they will get in with the co-operative shipments

The Farm Bureau is co-operating with County Agent Stapp, in offering this service to the raisers of poultry in this vicinity It is a distinct advantage which should not be overlooked, as many doubtless have friers which ought to be marketed before May 22

FORDS WIN PRIZE FOR RELIABILITY IN ITALY

First prize for reliability in performance was won by a team of 12 Ford cars in the recent Brescia-Ponte di Legno contest in Italy, in which 220 automobiles participated.

The cars were required to run 119 kilometers, approximately 74 miles, at a speed as nearly uniform as possible over a course that included 19 kilometers of difficult mountain road with many hairpin turns and steep gradients.

The race was a gala event in Italy. Many of the participants entered the cars which they used in their business and carried their wives, children and friends as passengers. Some of the Fords had already run up more than 40,000 kilometers.

A loving cup was awarded the winning team by H. E. A. Turati, secretary of the Facist Party. The Ford with the most uniform speed was given a gold medal.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackmon of Birmingham were visitors in Clanton Sunday with Mrs. and Mrs. Cary Hubbard, parents of Mrs. Blackmon.

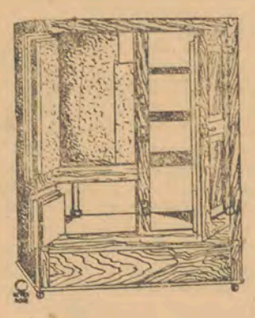
"I only weighed 85 pounds when I started taking Sargon. Six bottles of this wonderful medicine increased my weight fifteen younds, and I do not feel like the same woman.

"I suffered so much from stomach trouble that I even thought I would be better off dead. I was so weak I could hardly get about.



"Sargon Soft Mass Pills entirely rid me of constipation. I believe this wonderful treatment saved my life." — Mrs. Rebecca Walker, Elwood, Kansas.

Many who wisely put Sargon to the test express amazement at the speed and thoroughness with which it goes to the very source of their ailments.

OAK HILL

The United Singing Society met in regular session here Sunday afternoon with a full house, and did some more good singing, in spite of the fact that almost half of the society was at Friendship and elsewhere. We had the pleasure of listening to such able directors as Prof. W. G. Culp, Marion Cofer, G. W. Spivey, and J. F. Lowery. The society's regular directors present and taking part were: Prof. Appleton, A. H. Glasscock and E. L. Glasscock. IN MEMORY OF MRS. IDA BELLE DAVIS

On Saturday night, April 5th, Mrs. Ida Belle Davis died at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton. She wes the wife of Earnest Davis, who lives near Clanton, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Edwards of near Mt. Pisgah.

She was a loving wife and daughter, and was sick only one week. All that loving hands, doctors and nurses could do was done for her, but the good Lord needed her more than we did; so He called her home above where pain and sorrow are no more.

She was 17 years old—just in the bloom of life; and to know her was to love her. She was a member of Mt. Pisgah church, and always did her part toward church services. She would always meet everyone with a smile, and her smiles will be greatly missed by her many friends. She leaves a husband, mother and father, several sisters and brothers, and a host of relatives and friends. She had been married only about eighteen months. The remains were laid to rest at Mt. Pisgah cemetery on Sunday afternoon, April 6th, Rev. Limbrick officiating. Undertaker J. Mell Martin was in charge.

Weep not, dear husband, mother, father, and friends, for she is at rest. We know that to lose such an affectionate child and friend will bring a dark shadow; but remember that light will break thorugh sometimes, and there will be a glad and happy reunion in the great beyond. Her spirit will only wait a brief peirod when in sweetness and in love she will meet her dear husband, mother, father and friends, where there will be no more pains no sorrows.—One who loved her, Mrs. Myrtle Bowles.

Mrs. L. C. Duncan of Birmingham spent the past week end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Crumpton, in Clanton.

Patient: "Doctor, how are my chances?"

Doctor: "Oh, pretty good, but I wouldn't suggest that you start reading any continued stories."

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

THE EMPTY TOMB AT THE HOLY CITY

Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept, for as in Adam all die even so in Christ shall all be made alive. "He is risen, he is not here; behold the place where they laid him. behold I show you a mystery, we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So that when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, "Death is swallowed up in victory."

God our Father, my God gave to me, through my dear friends, not quite two years ago the greatest opportunity and the greatest privilege He ever gave to a montal man when I was permitted to see with mine own eyes and walk upon the very places that you and I sing about and read about, the places where Jesus Christ walked about in His mission of doing good. Of course, because of my experience there, it seems different to me, and is different to me. But in God's plan for my life you sent me there, and remember that God's plan is lined with love, mercy, and blessings and should be accepted with gratitude.

We are in Jerusalem to-day. It is Thursday late in the afternoon. Christ and the disciples are walking in from Jericho. He was longing for friendship just like you and I do, for an expression of love from those men He had slept with and walked with for three years. He turned and said to them, "With desire I have desired to eat the passover meal with you before I die tomorrow." He was the only person ever prophesied His own death stating the place, time, and mode. The disciples no doubt had this thought and expressed it: "What are you talking about since you have no money, no provisions, no place? Remember that you have had to sleep on Mt. Olivet. You have no room in Jerusalem for this meal." Christ had never stayed a night in Jerusalem, and as he was crucified the inhabitants lifted His feet up off the ground, would not let His feet touch the ground. That is just the way some people do Christ now. They do not want His feet to enter into their homes so they just crucify Him.

But Christ turned and said to them, "You will find a man carrying a pitcher of water along the south side of Olivet. You just follow that man." In all inspired history that is the only place a man is mentioned carrying a pitcher of water. I stood at Mary's fountain of Nazareth and watched about fifty women, filling water jugs and carrying them up the hill, an ancient custom existing along with the many other incident customs which one sees in Palestine today. Christ said: "You just follow that man." He carried them to a place which the Greeks call the Cornacular but we call it the upper room.

Think of that man's attitude toward Christ. He did not give Christ the coal house or the kitchen or the bed room. Instead he said, "Here I have a large upper room well furnished. It is the best room of my home, and it is surely at Christ's disposal any time He wishes to use it." So to this upper room Christ and the disciples assembled to commemorate His death the next day on Calvary. There was the bread, the wine and the bitter herbs. The bread and wine represented Christ's body and atoning blood on Calvary and the bitter herbs symbolized His agony in Gethsemane. I saw this place and I at once thought of this blessed Christ who brake the bread saying, "This is my body which is broken for you. Take, eat; and this do in remembrance of me." And when He handed the cup He said, "This cup is the new testament in my blood; for this do ye as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. Drink ye all of it; for this is my blood of the new testament which is shed for many for the remission of sins." Then I thought of it all pointing out to that painful, shameful, violent, accursed, voluntary, vicarious cross right out there on Calvary. That blood pointed to the blood from Christ's broken heart. O did you ever have your heart to seem broken? I have had mine seem that way many times. I often think it is hard to really look to this crucified Christ and trust Him without having had such a feeling. It brings us nearer to His loving heart which was broken on account of the weight of the world's sins.

We pass around the northern side of Jerusalem and we see Christ and His deciples leaving the upper room and walking quietly and calmly out to the Garden of Gethsemane. They look out on Mt. Olivet over which Christ has just ridden a donkey on His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. We hear the whoo whoo of an owl, the flutter of a mill, the coo coo of a dove, the song of the Katy-did as we gaze on Olivet. Then we pass over the brook, Cedron, over which they passed and we gaze on palm, olive, and fig trees. I walked across Mt. Olivet and visited Bethany where lived Jesus' intimate friends, Mary, Martha, and Lazarus who entertained Him in the most tender love.

There are seven Marys mentioned in the new testament but this Mary is the one who anointed Christ's body for burial with an alabaster box of precious ointment for which He said to her, "You have done the best you could, and wherever this gospel is preached I will have men tell this as a memorial unto thee. I will have that poor old preacher down there in Birmingham tell this as a memorial unto thee."

Just think of the appeals Christ made then, and the appeals He makes now. And if you cannot be man enough to line up for Jesus Christ I think you had better go back to nature's mint and be branded over. Eight of Christ's disciples stop at the gate of the garden and three go in with Christ to watch while Christ prays. Pretty soon they go to sleep. I see them over there lying behind some rocks fast asleep while Christ is on His knees by that rock agonizing in prayer. That afternoon I saw there some impelling influence carried me back that night. I looked up through those gnarled olive trees and saw the stars like silent sentinels playing hide and seek. To me they looked like three candle power electric globes endeavoring to kiss the sacred ground of this garden. I get near that rock and I prayed quietly and this thought come to me and it murmurs to me now that the church needs to be still. Perhaps if the church kept still in a prayerful attitude she would be full to overflowing when her doors for services were opened.

I hear Christ as he prays that conquering prayer, "Father, if it be possible let this cup pass from me, nevertheless not as I will but as thou wilt be done." Do you know what it is to pray that prayer? O father, help us to so pray as did thy beloved son. The first time he said "Father" in this attitude was on the Mt. of Beatitudes. O Lord just help us to pray "Our Father." Help us to talk quietly and submissively to thee. Really a man or woman who loves Christ will talk queitly.

Early Friday morning Christ is arrested and brought out of that garden and led to the house of Annas- Caiaphas where began the most illegal trial in all the history of the world. From here He is taken to Pontius Pilate's judgment hall where the coat which His mother has made is taken off and He is scourged. To prevent this, I hear old Pilate say, "I cannot find anything against this man. Behold, is He not your king?" But they are mad and they scourge him demanding punishment by crucifixion. Tradition has handed down different modes of the manner in which this scouraging was performed. Some say that His bare body was laid across poles suspended above the basement floor of Pilate's judgement hall and heavy wire whips were used to cut through His flesh. No doubt that the most cruel mode used to bring on nerve sickness which is the greatest suffering anyone can undergo.

Then under the weight of the cross and the load of the world's sins on His heart He starts to Calvary surrounded by that cruel mob which beat Him unmercifully as He staggers along. On Calvary the cross is uplifted with His bruised body nailed thereon. He dies. How do you know He died? We know He died because they broke the legs of the thieves but when they came to Christ they said, "Why He is dead already." Then a Gentile turns to a Roman soldier and says, "Give me that spear." He took it and thrust it into Christ's side and out of His heart flowed blood and water, a scientific proof of death as agreed by all medical science.

He was taken down from the cross by Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus. No doubt Joseph and Nicodemus got ashamed of themselves for being so quiet and silent during the trial and death of Christ. Now Joseph lived at Ramallah where his body rests to-day. He had purchased a new tomb in the garden near Jerusalem no doubt for his own burial place. But now he goes with Nicodemus to Pilate and begs the body of Christ to place in this new costly tomb. Only a wealthy man could possess such tombs. But now since Christ is dead he has nothing too good for Him. Men who do not stand up boldly and confess Christ ought to be ashamed of themselves.

Christ is taken down from the cross and His body prepared for burial. Surely this is one of the most pathetic scenes in inspired history as we look upon Mary of Magdala and Joanna, the wife of Chusa and other good women of Palestine anointing Christ's dead body for burial. Right down that hill to the left of Calvary is that Garden Tomb. I saw it. Christ's body was placed in that tomb, and the devil tried to keep Him there. The devil felt so triumphant that He said, "I am going to leave the world without light, hopeless. The devil's emmissaries said, "Go tell Pilate that we are not satisfied. He ought to have a shift of soldiers placed around the tomb because did not he and his followers say that he would rise the third day?"

So Pilate to make the tomb more secure and thus appease their futile efforts had the seal of the nation placed upon the tomb. This showed that the power of Rome, Jerusalem and all Palestine and the whole world stood behind that tomb to keep Christ's body therein. A watch of soldiers were set thereabouts. Angels ministered unto Christ when He was born. So now to the sleeping prisoner who awakes and arises in His own strength the angel comes and rolls away the great stone from the door of the tomb. No one could steal his body. He folded the napkin which was about his head and face and also the grave cloths and laid them to one side and quietly walked out. He is out, He is risen, the best witnessed fact in the history of the world. That is the reason we are here today. We know that He is risen from the dead.

The women find the tomb empty. I see Mary the most beautiful, the most patient, and the most obedient and serving women of which we read about in the life of Christ. Christ first appears to her but she did not at first recognize Him. But when He says, "Mary" she turns intuitively and answers, "Rabboni, Teacher, Lord, and Master." Do we recognize Christ when He speaks to us? Are we so preparing to advance and meet this risen Christ in a bright and blessed eternity? O my friends, are you acquainted with this Christ of the Garden Tomb? My heart is burdened with the responsibility of bringing to you the thought of our being faithful and loyal to the Christ of the Empty Tomb.

Kelleys do not cost any more

There are several good makes of tires on the market, but some are better than others. Among these better tires Kelly-Springfields hold an undisputed high place.

Kellys have always been built to give service. That is what has given them their reputation. This reputation has created an impression that Kellys cost more than the so-called "standard makes." As a matter of fact, they don't. You can buy a Kelly for the same price you would pay elsewhere for a tire with a lesser reputation.

Give us a call the next time you need a tire; you won't regret it. The Kellys of today are the toughest, longest-wearing and easiest-riding tires that ever came out of the Kelly plant—and the prices are the lowest in Kelly history.

County Farm Agent's Notes

CHILTON COUNTY DOES HONOR TO THE HEN

Chilton County farmers and poultrymen will cooperate with other counties throughout Alabama in the observance of "National Egg Week" May 1 to 7, according to C. E. Stapp, county agent, who said that a campaign will be launched in the county with a view to popularizing eggs on dining tables in homes, at hotels, in restaurants, cafes and other places where people eat.

Reviewing the importance of all observing national egg week, the farm agent stated that the poultry industry in Chilton County has made a rapid growth in the past few years, until last year farmers and poultrymen of the county sold and ate over $298,000 worth of poultry and eggs. "An increase in the consumption of eggs and poultry will stimulate growth in the Chilton County industry," the agent declared.

At the same time that Chilton County pays homage to the hen the entire state and nation will be doing the same. Ed. A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, and G. A. Trollope, head of the poultry department, Auburn, said that all citizens of the nation, including the student, the investigator, the educator, the poultry leader who organizes group activities, the poultry farmer, the distributor, the store keeper, and the consumer are being urged to assist in increasing egg consumption during the week of May 1-7.

Last year Alabama farmers and poultrymen ate and sold some $22,000,000 worth of poultry and eggs, and the value of poultry and eggs produced in the United States exceeded $1,250,000,000.

Few persons probably realize that in 1927 eggs and poultry furnished the second largest amount of cash to the Alabama farmer, says F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician. It ranked fourth in farm production value being excelled by only cotton, milk, and corn. It should be remembered that eggs and poultry rank high in cash income because a large percentage of the birds and eggs are sold by farmers whereas a larger percentage of the milk and butter is consumed by the farm families.

Statistics compiled by Mr. Gist show that 7,656,000 chickens with a value of $3,157,000 were sold and slaughtered in 1929. During the same year 55,223,000 dozen eggs were produced with a value of $17,671,000.

To promote the poultry industry of the state farmers each year market some $400,000 worth of poultry cooperatively through their farm bureau. They also store a large quantity of eggs cooperatively in the spring and hold for better prices in the fall. In addition to this a large number of them feed according to recommendations of the poultry department of Auburn by purchasing their feed cooperatively from their farm bureau. Thus farmers have a safe program in poultry production and marketing.

Despite the fact that the poultry industry has reached such a magnitude President O'Neal of the Alabama Farm Bureau, who is in charge of the cooperative storing of eggs, marketing poultry, and supplying ingredients for egg production in Alabama, stated that "the further growth and prosperity of the poultry industry, as well as the economical feeding and health of our people is dependent upon a continued increase in the consumption of eggs as food."

Increased consumption of eggs in Alabama during national egge week is being encouraged by a state wide committee of which Prof, Trollope is chairman. Serving with him are: S. P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, Montgomery; Mrs. L. W. Spratling, president Alabama Home Demonstration clubs, Waverly; Dr. J. S. Whittmier, chairman of state bankers committee on agriculture, Oneonta; E. A. O'Neal, president Farm Bureau Federation, president Alabama Farm Bureau Poultry Association, Montgomery; Dr. F. M. Jackson, market agent, Tenn. R. R. and Iron Company, Birmingham; S. A. Burns, chief of markets division, State Department of Agriculture, Montgomery; H. R. Bailey, Extension Poultryman, A. P. I., Auburn; and P. O. Davis, Director of Public Information, A. P., Auburn.

Reports from over the state indicate that farmers and poultrymen of each county are cooperating in creating interest in national egg week. County agents and home demonstration agents are serving jointly as chairmen of their respective counties, and in most cases appointed a committee to serve with them.

The ax is none too good for the hen that does not lay enough eggs to pay for what she eats.

Thin, Pale, Weak

"I HAD been through a bad spell of sickness which left me very weak," says Mrs. Virginia Spruce, of Stapleton, Va. "I was pale and felt lifeless, and my strength did not return.

"I spent most of my time on the bed. I was very nervous, and the least thing upset me. I did not have strength enough to lift a broom. At times I would have bad headaches, which would hurt me until I could hardly see.

"Someone asked me why I did not try Cardui. I had read of it, so I thought I would see what it would do for me. It was really remarkable how I came out. My strength returned, and my health was better than it had been in years. I gained in weight about ten pounds. My color was good, and I ceased to suffer from headaches. I have told my friends about Cardui because I was benefited after taking it."

FARMERS APPLYING GUANO VERY HEAVILY TO COTTON

Farmers of Alabama have doubled the tonnage of fertilizer during the past fifteen years, according to F. W. Gist, state and federal statistican with the state department of agriculture, who in his report said:

"From 1916 to 1922, inclusive, farmers used an average of 269,000 tons according to tag sales, for the seven year period. During the last 7 years from 1923 to 1929, inclusive, an average of 563,000 tons was applied."

"During the first seven year period. 90 per cent of all fertilizer was applied to cotton. Only 85 per cent of fertilizer was applied to cotton during the past 7 years, much being applied to truck crops.

Pounds per Acre Increased

"Farmers have increased the acreage application also. During the first period an average of only 184 pounds per acre was used. This was increased to an average of 277 lbs., during the past 7 years. In 1923 only 241 pounds of fertilizer per acre was used, during the past 2 years the average amount has been 318 pounds. This increase has been found profitable by farmers, on the whole, and has been gradual in amount.

This Year Third

"1928 saw the heaviest application of fertilizer in Alabama, a total of 692,318 tons being used. Last year stood second in amount with 675,350 tons. Already to date, April 25, a total of 630,950 tons has been sold. This year already stands third in amount of fertilizer sold, according to tag sales in the department of agriculture. There is possibility that this year may yet stand second in heavy use of fertilizer.

W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the department, reports that 19,000 tons were sold during the past week and that the peak of the movement has passed.

CONTROLS ARE GIVEN FOR GARDEN INSECTS

Auburn, Ala., April 28.—Voicing the hope that gardens of Alabama may be protected from the revages of insects, W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist, and Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, gave recommendations on the control of a few of the worst insects.

For the cucumbers beetle they recommend that a mixture of one pound calcium arsenate and 20 pounds land plaster or gypsum be apliepd as a dust while the plants are still small. This may be done with a duster or by shaking from a cheesecloth sack. In addition, they say that the seed should be planted thickly and thinned later in order to secure a perfect stand.

One of the worst insects is the Mexican bean beetle and they recommend spraying with a mixture of one pound magnesium arsenate and 50 gallons of water, or dusting with one pound calcium arsenate, one pound dusting sulphur, and four pounds hydrated lime. These materials should be applied onl yto the under sides of the leaves, they say.

The same materials used for the Mexican ban beetles are effective against the bean leaf betl and should b applied as the first leaves are being formed.

They also gave a spray and dust for aphids, or plant lice. The spray may be made by mixing one teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate, one inch cube of soap, and one gallon of water. The dust may be used as recommended by manufacturers or prepared at home by mixing thoroughly 8 ounces nicotine sulphate with 12 pounds hydrated lime. Cabbage and collard worms and the Colorado potato beetle may be controlled by the use of lead arsenate or calcium arsenate, one pound, with five pounds hydrated lime.

BEDFORD CORD USED IN FORD UPHOLSTERY

Bedford cord upholstery, used extensively in custom-built automobiles, is now available in four of the Ford body types, according to an announcement by the Ford Motor Company. It is used exclusively in the cabriolet and may be had without extra cost in the town sedan, de luxe sedan and de luxe coupe.

This material was chosen for use in the Ford, the announcement said, because of its beauty, durability and comfort.

The bedford cord used in Ford bodies is a mixture of wool and cotton woven with a cord effect. It has an all worsted face, found only in the finest bedford cords, and heavy woolen yarns under each cord. These yarns have cushion effect and impart resiliency to the cord. This aype of upholstery is soft yet cool in warm weather. Because of its smooth texture it is easily cleaned.

Tests show that watermelons of the Tom Watson variety are a good source of vitamin A, needed for growth and physical well being. It is believed that red-meated watermelons of other varieties contain the same vitamin.

"There is a good mill demand for cotton of 1 inch in staple, and it is reaesonable to suppose that an increased production of these lengths would return enhanced profits to many growers."

To make a head of lettuce crisp without using ice, cut a thin strip off the root and place the lettuce in a vessel with sufficient water to cover the end of the root. Cover the head with a slightly dampened cloth.

FARM BOYS JOIN 4-H CLUB RANKS

Auburn, Ala., April 28.—More Alabama boys will work under the 4-H banner this year than ever before, records in the office of T. A. Sims, state leader, reveal. Already 16,023 names have been received by Mr. Sims from the county agents and his estimate is that 500 more will be received within the next few days. This compared with a total of 13,885 for 1929 which exceeded former years.

Cullman County appears to be leading in enrollment with 904. Houston is second with 792, Etowah third with 664, and Dale fourth with 588. Practicully every county agent in the state reports an increase over 1929. C. H. Bedingfield is county agent in Cullman County; Henry Witherington in Houston; L. L. Self in Etowah; and G. W. Ray in Dale.

BUSINESS today requires that the successful man be physically fit and mentally alert. Men, especially, forget themselves physically. Their work demands practically all their time. They do not exercise enough. They get little or no sunshine. They are robbed of a good appetite . . . and when their red-blood-cells fall below normal their flesh becomes flabby, their nerves unsteady. Their strength must be reinforced.

Soundness of body and peace of mind depend upon the proper number of red-cells in the blood—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red-cell count remain below normal.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.

You will be pleased to know that S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

BOY IS FATHER OF MAN, SAYS WRITER

Boys are really fathers of their dads if the latter are conscientious parents according to Frederic Van de Water.

Fathers begin, he explains, by assuming a saintly attitude to impress the youth by example, but they soon find that the youngsters are catching them in the very things they preach against.

"As months march past I find myself dissembling less," says the writer. "Besides expurgating my speech and standing when women enter, I have acquired other virtures. I fold my napkin after each meal. I am polite over the telephone. I am dressed in time for breakfast. I hang up my overcoat and I wipe out the tub after my bath. My son does few of these things without prompting, but anyway he will not be able to say that he observed his father in similar offense.

"I have worked more diligently than usual at my writing today because I discovered this morning that my child was loafing—like me.

"By the time he is twenty he will be pretty much like other men of his age. I have no illusions in that direction. But I am certain of one thing: By the time he is twenty I shall be a well-bred, well-groomed, tolerant, diligent man and I shall have him to thank for it."

Gene Buck, prdoucer of a dozen follies spectacles, was one of the first theatrical men to hear Rudy Vallee try out his crooning songs. "Troubadour of the gum-chewers," was his approving verdict.—The Country Home.

Ancestors, in the eyes of the descendants, are nearly always perfect. And why not? They posed on pedestals for the sake of the example to their progency.—Woman's Home Companion.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Nearly everybody will agree that it has been a hard winter in more ways than one. The crash in the stock market in October and November brought enevitable slowing up in production and a great deal more than the seasonal increase in unemployment. Everything seemed to slump at once. And in keeping with the economic situation, the weather man gave most sections of the country the hardest winter in years. In many parts of the United States it was an all-time record breaker.

But we have the consolation of knowing that it is not as bad as it might have been and that the slump gives every evidence of clearing up sooner than most depressions have in the past. There are several reasons why this is true. The finances of the nation were in good condition and commodity prices were not inflated. Then again President Hoover, with wise forethought called a conference of the industrial, agricultural and labor heads of the country to map a program of business revival, This, coupled with the administration's wise recommendation for the reduction of income taxes, restored confidence and put everyone in a better frame of mind.

Now, with the coming of spring, there is every indication that things will soon be pointing upward again. Reports of the American Federation of Labor show that there has been a decrease in unemployment for the first time since August, 1929. Other surveys indicate that the peak of unemployment has passed. While the car loadings and bank clearings are still considerably under a year ago they give signs of picking up, and commodity prices have stiffened slightly in the past week or so. The signs are distinctly favorable and justify the prediction of President Hoover that business will soon be running along usual lines again.

Especially encouraging was the summary of conditions made public recently by Julius H. Barnes, as chairman of President Hoover's National Business Conference. Mr. Barnes pointed out that bank credits are erasing, even in the smaller centers and that bank loans are increasing showing that the money is being put into use. The enlarged construction programs promised by the public utilities several months ago are now beginning to see light of day, and the same is true of the railroad program. These programs called for heavy purchases of materials early in March and increased the general feeling of confidence.

Two other encouraging signs are the increase in the life insurance business in February and the increase in savings. Installment sales during the second month of the year were about the same as last year, indicating that the people themselves have confidence in the immediate future. Steel operations increasd rapidly in January and February and then slumped slightly in March. But the reaction did not go far and conditions in the great industry are stable once more with decidedly better prospcts for the future months.

Basd on the number of automobiles produced during February the total year's production in the United States would be 4,600,000 cars. This is less than in 1929 but about the same as the number in 1928, which was by no means a year of depression and idleness in the United States.

Best of all is the fact that the people of the United States have confidence in their own abilities and in their government. They know something about our great resources and our tremendous purchasing power. They know that Uncle Sam is never down and out. For that reason they are looking toward the immediate future with quiet confidence.

HOOVER, ROOSEVELT, COMPARED BY IRWIN

President Hoover is as forceful as Theodore Roosevelt, according to Will Irwin, writer, in The American Magazine.

"If the country does not perceive this parallel," Irwin says, "It is because of the wide difference in the surface characteristics of the two." He cites the first crisis that faced Hoover, barely three hours after his inauguration, as an instance of his decisiveness.

Insurgents in Mexico had started an armed revolution, hoping the new administration at Washington would favor them against President Calles. Hoover, says Irwin, walked to the window and looked out for a few minutes and then replied that the United States would furnish arms to the established government and place an embargo against arms for the rebels. Then he quietly went in to his first official dinner.

"The doughty Colonel," the writer continues, "dramatized everything he did and wrote the drama in smashing, hourly exclamations which passed at once into current Americanese. Had Roosevelt made that decision regarding Mexico, he would have shot it forth like a skyrocket, whereas Hoover let it come out quietly, almost as a matter of government routine. And if Hoover tried to dramatize himself like Roosevelt, the result would be as though John Barrymore tried to act like Charlie Chaplin, a curious, inept misfit."

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Well, folks, how did you like the ideas advanced in the POT last week? Really, now, those two little things would be big things for our town, wouldn't they? Just think of it—a nice Fire Station would look fine, be a real benefit to the town, and save property owners lots and lots of money in insurance.

The POTTER intends to look into this matter and find out JUST HOW MUCH it would save property owners. Maybe the figures would open folks' eyes to the possibilities better than anything else. It would be plenty though, you can be quite sure.

It wouldn't cost the town so much to do this little thing, either. We already have one of the finest fire-fighting units to be had. True, the volunteer squad practice regular enough, and the system as is makes things lots better than no fire equipment at all. But, at a cost of some $300.00 per month to the town, property owners would be saved many, many times this amount.

Think it over while we get all the dope on actual cost ready to present to you. Then, when the figures are published, you will know for a certainty whether to get on to your town councilmen about it or not. We feel sure the council would do anything in reason to help the property owners. The total cost for a year would be far less than the loss that would be sustained in one big fire.

Of course we don't average one big fire a year, but good business form necessitates the merchant's figuring for the worst that can happen to him all the time. Otherwise, if the worst comes to the worst, he has not arranged to protect himself and his interests.

And, now, the other project we mentioned, the "White Way," we would like to know what you thought of that, too. The POTTER has inquired of officials in Sylacauga, and have found that their street lights cost them $45.00 each installed. The town paid for lights on the business streets, and local owners paid for those further out. Sylacauga has a much higher rate for current than Clanton. We believe we can, in the end, have a nice "white way" for half the expense that the town of Sylacauga goes to.

If you believe these two projects would be good things for Clanton, and believe that Clanton could have them, how about speaking to your "pet" councilman about it. Everything must have a point of origin, and talking over the matter among ourselves is one of the best ways to get the old ball to rolling. Whoop it up! It's worth it.

We're mighty glad to have the strawberry season open up around Clanton. It means thousands of dollars to the community. But the biggest thing is that it shows that we have a bunch of wide awake farmers who have broken away from the old cotton-and-corn methods, partially, at any rate, and are using modern methods and ideas to place their farms and business interests on a paying basis instead of plodding on in the rut as of 50 years ago.

Another thing you'll notice, if you look around a little, is the great number of farmers who are taking on the poultry game as a side line. With some of them, if they keep on enlarging this division of their operations, pretty soon it'll be the cotton growing that'll be the side line. Lots of ways to choke a cat beside using butter.

If there is anything that makes this POTTER tired, it is to hear some disgruntled, disappointed belly-acher griping about "Hoover prosperity." They have forgotten that the biggest part of the unemployment is directly and absolutely due to the immigration laws which our country has, thanks to a bunch of high and mighty Democratic law-makers and their sympathizers.

And, too, of course it's the fault of Mr. Hoover and the Republican adminstration that more and more each year manufacturers are turning to machinery instead of using men and women in their manufacturing processes. Now-a-days, if a machine can be obtained to do a piece of work that always has been done by human hands, it is bought.

This is a machine age. Machines are replacing men in job after job every year. That machine that replaces a man just causes another unemployed man. From the whimperings and growlings of some, you'd think they had an idea that Mr. Hoover and the Republicans ought to get their heads together and pass a law to prohibit the building of machinery that would replace human labor.

Of course that is ridiculous, even to mention, but more than half the other grand and glorious advice our leaders get from the all-wise and militant minority is just as bad. The next guy you hear griping about how badly things are being handled, just take time to stop and ask him how HE would manage it. You'll get a good laugh.

We didn't intend to get on this line of stuff when we started out this morning, but after we started we couldn't help overhearing a conversation that so perfectly showed where all the curious and "funny" idas originate, and we just had to use it.

I haven't time to bother with the braying of a jack ass; and I am not the kind of a fish that swallows every bait that is poked at me. This little squib is appended for the special benefit of those who know what I have reference to.—"JACK".

FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS

Earnest men and women who want to push us into the League of Nations are referred without comment to this statement by Viscount Grey, Britain's wartime foreign minister, in the current number of "Foreign Affairs."

"The intrinsic strength and geographical position of the United States makes it independent of support of any other nation. This it is, I imagine, which makes the historic American warning against foreign entanglements as potent in America today as it was when first enunciated. And so, no doubt, it will remain, for every nation would gladly avoid foreign entanglements as long as it felt that it could safely do so."—Washington Times.

"I have said the White House is a glass house," says Will Irwin, "but under the present administration it will always have its opaque spots."

If more and better home training were given to youngsters between the ages of one and six, less responsibility and blame would be laid upon school teachers for giving them a "wrong start."

"If all women drivers in the United States were laid end to end," said the brutal statistician, "the traffic of the nation might be able to get somwhere."

Household scientists have now produced a dry cleaning machine of about one gallon capacity which may be operated safely in cleaning party frocks slippers, neckties and other articles.—Woman's Home Companion.

THORSBY GIRL IN SCHOOL OPERA

A copy of the Talladega Daily Home reached our desk during the past week, in which there was a marked review of an opera which was presented by students of the Institute for the blind. Quoting from the review, we read:

"The sightless young men and women, boys and girls executed their numbers with a rhythmic precision and grace that not for one minute revealed the handicap under which they performed, and were indeed a most wonderful tribute to the patience and efficiency of their instructors, as well as the perseverance of the participants, for endless hours of practice must have been required to attain such splendid results."

In the long list of characters given in the report of the opera, we notice the name of Elizabeth Williams, of Thorsby.

EX-SERVICE MEN HAVE FISH FRY

The American Legion post of Chilton County sponsored a fish fry which was quite a success at McKee Camp on Coosa River last Friday. The ex-service men, together with their families had quite a good "get together meeting." During the day many of the "Buddies" told various tales of their experiences during the World War, and all seemed to have a good time.

The good ladies carried baskets of food, besides frying pans and other necessities for preparing fish for table. The ex-soldiers and their friends consumed something like forty pounds of fish, besides other good eats provided.

It is reported that Johnnie Plier won the prize as "champion fish consumer," with Percy Pitts running him a close second.

The Chilton County American Legion Post is a live organization, and now boasts a membership of about 75 members. They are anxious to have every ex-service man in the county join the organization, which meets every second Monday night in each month at the court house in Clanton.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not.

Friends of Ernest Williams, of Decatur, were glad to see him on his visit to Clanton last week. Ernest is one of the members of the famous Williams Family, of Clanton. He is a banker. Most of the boys are preachers. And by the way, that reminds me that Clanton is well represented in Decatur. Mr. Williams is at the Morgan County National Bank, in an important position. Emmett Powell is at The Decatur Daily, as foreman of the mechanical department. Also at the Daily are Jimmie Lowe and Clyde Lowe, linotype operators.

Some of the Chilton County political experts went down to Wetumpka Tuesday afternoon to hear the case of M. F. Lett in Judge Smoot's Court. A politician who hasn't anything to do but meddle with such affairs as this Lett case is, in my opinion, just about out of soap. But I suppose Millard Fillmore thinks he is boring with a big auger. You ought to see his unctuous smile when one of those slick lawyers goes over and pats him on the back and shows him the day's issue of the Montgomery Journal with his name in it.

Don't forget to go to the new post office to get your mail next Sunday morning. The change from the old place to the new will be made between closing time Saturday night and opening time Sunday morning, with no interruption in service to patrons of the office.

I want to urge our farm readers to think seriously about the cream business. A shipping station has been established at the Farm Bureau office in Clanton. This means that if you have cream to sell, you can bring it in on Wednesdays and Saturdays. It will be tested and weighed at the station, and your check in payment for it will be issued on the spot. I think this is a business which the farmers of Chilton County may well afford to investigate.

The dry weather has cut the strawberry crop of Chilton County about half this year. Some indications of discouragement have been heard. I would advise those farmers who have berry acreage to sit steady in the boat. Don't become discouraged. Last year was a mighty good year in the berry business. It is merely the law of averages that causes a bad year now and then. Keep your strawberrry patches and take care of them. It won't cost you much, and when you do hit a good year, it is mighty nice to have the pick-up.

I was admiring the new post office building Tuesday when my attention was drawn to the building next to it. It seemed to me that the old sheet iron shed ought to come down. All the other buildings from the Highway to the railroad look neat and attractive. There are no sheds in front of them. Evan Parrish, who occupies the building where the old awning is ought to get after his landlord and see if he can't get something done about it.

Saturday will be visiting day at the new Clanton Post Office. This will be your opportunity to go through the whole plant and see how Uncle Sam is going to be fixed up to handle our mail business. But you must go on Saturday if you want to see it. After your Uncle takes charge of the place on Saturday night, he will not allow you to be poking around in his way. Beginning on next Sunday morning it will be strictly business at the new post office. All you will be expected to do is go in at the front door, transact your business, and out again. I guess, however, it will be all right to tell a few of the latest (or oldest) jokes while we wait for them to put up the mail.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

The Chinese operetta, "China Silk" given by the Helen Keller Literary Society, as their closing entertainment for this season at Helen Jenkins Hall last Saturday night, had little of plot or story. But offered nevertheless a splendid opportunity for an exhibition of unique costumes, stage settings and calesthinics, with some very effective choral and solo singing, which denoted a lot of work in preparation and training under direction of Misses Thoroman and Arthur of Thorsby Institute faculty.

The house was well filled and by the applause that greeted each act, were apparently well plased. About a dozen girls, nearly all about the same size, wore costumes to represent silk worm moths, with wings of gauze beautifully decorated in attractive colors, black and gold bands encircled their bodies, with striking effect, especially when in motion. One fature of their action, whether accidental or with studied purpose, created much merriment among the audience, when in a sort of leg action which was supposedly intended to be uniform, they apparently got somewhat tangled, and in disorder. It was really more funny than if it had gone off smoothly and in order.

The singing was of fine tone and quality and the attack splendid, one cannot well mention names, where all did their part so well. The only disappointnig feature of the entertainment was its brevity. People were expecting more when the curtain was closed on the last act. It may be on the principle that makes visitors always welcome "never stay until people wish you would go."

Mr. Clyde Sims of Talluloh, La., has arrived in Thorsby to spend a month with her mother, Mrs. English.

After two moves since Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cox have fitted up a room at the rear of their store, where it would seem they will be very snug and comfortable, as the place looks neat and cozy.

BROWN RECOMMENDS KEEP GARDEN BUSY

Auburn, Ala., April 28.—It is important to get the garden started early, but it is equally important to keep the garden occupied throughout the summer, said Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"So many cotton farmers plant a garden in the spring and after the early crops have gone the garden grows weeds until fall; then perhaps some late fall crops are planted," Brown explained. "There is absolutely no excuse for letting the garden run to weeds during the summer, because there are several crops that can be kept growing throughout the heated period. Among these are okra, corn, sweet potatoes, squashes, watermelons, muskmelons, swiss chard, tendergreen, beans, new Zealand spinach, pepper, crowder peas, tomatoes, egg plant, and cucumbers. As autumn approaches late plantings of cabbage, kale, lettuce, spinach, peas, beets, turnips, and carrots should be made."

FINE SINGING HELD AT FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY P.M.

One of the best afternoon singings of the season was held at Friendship last Sunday afternoon. Most all of the prominent singers of the central and southern parts of the county were there and took part in the service.

The service was called to order by T. E. Wyatt shortly past two o'clock and prayer was offered by Rev. A. L. Foshee. A committee consisting of the local chairman, J. D. Collins, and R. M. Robinson, W. T. Bean and S. M. Yates, was appointed to arrange the program. The following list of directors was turned in, who took their turn on the program: L. T. Grant, Amie Boswell, O. L. Devaughn, Jasper Oaks, C. H. Robinson, Akins Collins, Jasper Robinson, W. L. Sanders, Enoch Traywick, Ralph Grant, W. M. Devaughn, I. D. Huett, Willie Mims and S. V. Miller. J. W. Cagle was called upon to sing the closing song. There were five other singers—John Cleckler, Jesse Baker, Johnnie Miner, Uncle Riley Robinson and Zack Lowery, who customarily direct, but were excused for various reasons. There were still other directors present, but lack of time prevented their being used.

The house was filled to overflowing with listeners, nearly all of the standing room in the rear of the building being taken.

After a short and appropriate talk by the pastor, the benediction was very fittingly pronounced by Rev. T. J. Deason with prayer.

The people of Friendship church and community are mighty well pleased with the plan recently adopted of having their singing only once every two months. This enables the local singers to visit other places and avoids so much conflict with singings at other nearby places.

Other churches are thinking of adopting the same plan.

The Friendship class is very grateful for the splendid help from its neighbors, all of whom are assured of a hearty welcome any time they can come back.

EXPRESS THANKS

We wish to express our many heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors and relatives for what they did for us while we were so badly in need of help. They came with joyful hearts and helping hands to help us plant our crop, with mules and men.—Jim M. Foshee and Family.

BETHSALEM SINGING

We reorganized our Singing last Sunday afternoon; Mr. Clem Billingsley is president.

The directors for the afternoon were as follows: Clem Billingsley, Clarence Billingsley, Mable Wilkins, Marshall Burkhalter.

Everybody is invited to come out every fourth Sunday afternoon and help us in the song service.—Mable Wilkins.

FROM W. L. SANDERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County in regard to my candidacy for member of the county board of education.

I feel that it would be unjust to ask the voters of Chilton County to give me their support without first giving them the platform on which I stand and the things I shall contend for if elected to the Board.

It seems that some of the candidates keep silent as to how they stand on questions they will be concerned in if elected. I expect to make a fair and open race in this campaign, but I do not expect to keep silent as to how I stand on the school question. If the people of Chilton county see fit to elect me as a member of the Board, I shall not be silent as to the rights of the patrons and taxpayers of Chilton County. I shall be open in all transactions of the Board and shall endeavor to give satisfaction to the majority of the people.

I will now give my platform for your consideration, and it is as follows: (1). I believe the patrons of a school should have the authority to elect their trustees. (2). I believe the patrons, together with the trustees, should have the authority to elect their teachers. (3). I believe the teachers in Chilton County and elsewhere should have the right to apply for a school in any community they may choose. (4). I believe that so long as the board of education has the right to elect the county superintendent, they should in some way find out who the people want and let the people's choice be the board's choice. (5). I do not believe in consolidating the rural schools, unless two-thirds of the qualified voters vote in its favor. (6). I do not believe in two or more rural schools consolidating unless two-thirds of the qualified voters of said districts vote in its favor. (7). I believe the rural schools should have the seventh grade restored in them. (8). I believe the junior high school should have the tenth grade taught in them. (9). I believe the board of education should have as many grades taught in the rural and junior high schools as possible, that the transportation might be decreased instead of increased. (10). I believe each school bus should be inspected once each month, that it might be kept in perfect condition. (11). I believe the board of education should see that no bus is placed in the hands of a careless driver. (12). I believe the board of education should see that the patrons have no unreasonable incidental fees imposed upon them.

Now, dear voters, you see where I stand on the school question, and it is at your hands for consideration. You may also examine my past record, and after doing so, if you can give me your support, it will be greatly appeciated.—W. L. Sanders.

IN MEMORY OF LEUELL KEENER

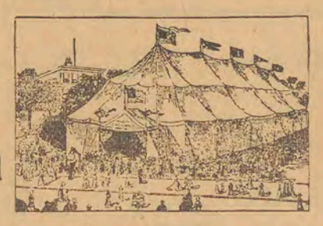
On Monday, about 12 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Keener of Alpine community, and bore the spirit of their beloved son, Lewell, to its home on the great beyond.

He was sick only a short while with stomach trouble. He died in the Baptist Hospital of Selma.

Lewell was a good and kind young man, He belonged to Alpine church. He always had a kind word and smile for everybody he met. He will be missed at home and every where he was known. He leaves to mourn his loss, father, mother, one sister and six brothers, besides a host of friends and relatives. It was hard to give him up, but God knew best and took his soul home for sweet rest.

Weep not friends and loved ones of the lost one, for he is standing at the golden gate with an outstretched hand, bidding us come and live with him in the promised land.

His body was laid to rest in Alpine Cemetery with Rev. J. E. Moore officiating with Brislin Brothers in charge.



Darling Leuell, he has left us. Left us, yes forever more. But we hope to meet our loved one on that bright and happy shore.—H. C. Gray.

The Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Located at Fort Worth, Tex.

Rev. Arthur Deloach, Former Pastor at Verbena, Writes Back Home from Seminary

Seminary Hill, Texas, April 7.
The Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala:

In complying with your request of some weeks ago, I am sending you an article on the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. My reason for this article is two-fold: First, I believe the people of Chilton County would like to know more about this school and what it is doing. Second, that our Christian people should know something of the work of an institution that is doing so much for the cause of Christ all over the world.

In a later article I shall tell something of my impression of Texas and give as clear idea as I can of life here in this State. I believe this also will be of interest to our people of Chilton County.

Anything that I might be able to do for the cause of good in our dear county I will be glad to try.—Fraternally, Arthur Deloach.

How did it come into existence? It happened on this wise. Dr. B. H. Carroll, then pastor of the First Baptist Church at Waco, Texas, had been giving biblical and theological instruction to the students of Baylor University. In 1901, a Theological Department of the University was organized with Dr. Carroll as dean. In 1905 it became evident that a fully equipped theological seminary should be organized. In 1907 it became an independent institution located temporarily at Waco. In 1907 the Baptists at Fort Worth came to the conclusion that it would be a very desirable thing to have the seminary in this city. The movement started and the Baptists of Fort Worth, under the leadership of Dr. L. R. Scarborough pledged within thirty days $100,000. At the same time some real estate men offered thirty acres for a campus and 250 acres of desirable land south of the city. Many other wonderful gifts have been presented from time to time. So came the wonderful institution into existence.

My readers will pardon me if I seem to preach in my discussion of the founder of this institution. Practically all I should say of B. H. Carroll who was the first president will be quoted from a chapter on his life by Dr. Jeff D. Ray, who lived in Dr. Carroll's home for a number of years and possibly knew him as no other man did. May I make plain my reason for these quotations. I do it for one reason only. That is, that it may be an inspiration and help to those young people of Chilton County who really want to be somebody. Yes, to many of my personal young friends who I know have an ambition for a great, useful life.

The first characteristic in Dr. Carroll's life that I shall mention is his consideration of men in low estate, his reverence for the average man. Dr. Ray gives many concrete examples, two of which I include, to illustrate that characteristic:

"An orphan boy who had no real claim on him fell sick in his home and for weeks hung between life and death with typhoid fever. The boy does not remember what took place during the delirum of the fever, although he has been told that during all that time this great, busy man would take his place by the bedside and minister to the friendless orphan as tenderly as if he had been his own son. But the boy does remember that when he was convalescent, but unable to stand on his feet, this princely man would drag a portable bath tub into the room, bathe him from head to foot, rub him down and put him back as gently as a mother. Do you wonder that for the intervening forty years that boy has loved him with all the passion of an ardent nature?

"Dr. L. R. Scarborough tells me that one day he said to him: 'Dr. Carroll, that was the greatest compliment you ever received?' After a moment's thought the good man said, 'When I was pastor I had a letter one Christmas from an old lady written in a very cramped hand, the grammar was poor and some words were misspelled, but in the letter she said, "You have been my pastor ten years. I have not been able to do anything for you but you have been a great blessing to me. I have no money with which to buy a Christmas present much as I would like to, so I am just sending you this letter to tell you that after ten years under your pastoral care I am convinced that you are a good minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ."' Then looking down upon his young preacher friend, he said: 'Lee, I fear I did not deserve it, but I guess that is the highest compliment I ever received.' How sincerely he prized the good will and approval of the lowly."

Another charming quality of his was the chastened delicacy and refined gentility of his conversation. "Only last night, a good woman in whose home he had ofter been a guest, was speaking to me of the ease and naturalness and delicacy with which he could pay a compliment where it was deserved and where it would help. After thirty years of the most intimate association with him, I can truthfully say that I never saw him rude, or indelicate or discourteous to any human being, and I never heard him spea kso much as one word that he could not have spoken with perfect propriety before his mother or daughter. He was indeed a man of clean lips. I have seen him deliberately get up and walk away from a group of men when one of them said, 'I'll tell you a good story. It is a little smutty, but there are no ladies present.' He was inherently so sensitive and refined that coarseness was unthinkable for himself and intolerable in others."

Still another quality of this matchless man was the rejuvenescence in his own person of all that was good in the knighthood and chivalry of the middle ages. Another quality of this great man is his passionate, sacrificial, devotion to struggling and ambitious youth.

Such was the founder and first president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

But we do not like to deal altogether with the past. The question will naturally arise, what of the man who is now president? As many doubtless know he is Dr. L. R. Scarborough, a man of altogether another type, but truly a great man.

Dr. Scarborough is preeminately an evangelist. I know of no man in the South who has done and is doing more sound and sensible work along this line than is Dr. Scarborough. They say, he is the greatest personal soul winner in the South. With all the responsibility of the Seminary upon him yet he has time to go with his fellow pastors in an effort to win one soul. Many business men of Fort Worth and other cities testify that it was Dr. Scarborough who led them in Christ.

I know of very few men who have a more humble spirit than our president. Mr. L. G. Paign who many of you know for he was for a time, pastor of Samaria Baptist Church, told me this incident some time ago. He said he was standing near the door of Fort Worth Hall on a rainy day. As he started to put on his coat Dr. Scarborough walked up and said, "Let me hold your coat, son." Mr. Paign explains that he hasn't yet quite recovered from the shock. Oh! yes that was just a small thing but many things of that kind, of which Dr. Scarborough thinks so little make him great to us because we believe he does it in the humanity of Jesus. One of the most impressive stories concerning our president's humility was told by him when he had returned from a trip, when he told how he had won an elavator boy to Christ. Then after telling the story he asked, "Is the winning of a negro boy to Christ below the dignity of a seminary president? No!" As long as we have a president like that there is no danger of the students loosing the touch and interest for the common people nor even the interest of other races.

I do not know of a Baptist worker in the South that has a heavier load than has Dr. Scarborough. The gifts for missions have fallen off all over the South which means that at present we are getting less than half the amount necessary to run the institution. How Dr. Scarborough has been able to pay bills up until now is a mystery to me. I do not mean to sound a pessimestic note, but we do need to know facts. Of course, if our churches in the Southern Baptist Convention do not rally to the support of all our causes it will mean that some of the work here, that is so important, will have to be discontinued.

Of course you would like to know something of the student life of the institution. We arrived here just at the beginning of the cold wave in January. With snow, ice and sleet all over the ground and the wind blowing at a terrific speed we were ushered into Forth Worth Hall. That first night many fine students came around to our room and gave us a royal welcome. Then I said in my heart, the old spirit of Southern hospitality hasn't died out yet. Yes, it was the real spirit of Christian fellowship and love. There is no interest where there is not friendship, there is no sympathy, there is no love that will compare with the love of a child of God for a brother in His kingdom.

By no means are all the students here preachers; we have boys and girls training for missionary work, religious educational work, music directors, and other types of religious work. It is a great pleasure to be acquainted with many returned missionaries from all over the world. Most of them are doing some extra work while at home on furloughs.

It his been my pleasure while here to attend the county and city jails and to help hold religious services for the prisoners. Also there is a Gospel Mission where our students hold services Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. Many of the students are doing a wonderful work in the Mexicon districts of the city also. Besides this type of work many of the students are working in the churches of Fort Worth and suburbs. Then most of the preachers have fourth time, half time, or full time churches some where in the West. So all the students have some kind of practical work to do. When a student leaves here he is not going out to do work upon theory but on practical experience.

The Southwestern Seminary is the center of Baptist religious life of Texas and its influence reaches out to all the world. Dr. Scarborough is president of the Texas Baptist Convention and most of the board meetings, conferences, and such like are held here at the Seminary. One of the most interesting so far was the Bible Study week when Dr. M. E. Dodd, of Shreveport, was the principal speaker. Having been here only since January I have had the privilege of hearing many of the leading Baptists of the South.

It might be of interest to you to know that there are students here from all over the South. A number from the North and occasionally a few from foreign countries. Alabama has now sixteen students here.

Of course, I have told you only a few things about the seminary; if there are questions that my friends would like to have answered concerning the seminary, I will be glad to give any information I can through the papers of your county, or personally if desired.

ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

Seldom has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.

Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drugstore.

Astro Wright's Soda Fount, Lunch Room, Ice Cream Parlor

To conduct a successful business a person or a firm or a corporation must have something that people want, and give satisfactory service.

Evidently these elements are embodied in the business conducted by Astro Wright at Thorsby, Alabama. Although Mr. Wright is one of the youngest men engaged in a mercantile business in Thorsby, he seems to have selected for his field of activities catering to an ever recurring want, which most people have always with them, at all seasons, in hard times and good times.

Wrights Soda Fount, lunch room, ict cream parlor, cigar store and drug sundries is capable of catering to a great variety of human needs and appetite, hence there is a constant stream of customers coming and going. Not all of the patrons of Wrights get into the small store, one often hears a toot, toot, at the curb, where a waiting auto driver or passengers have signaled for service, which they get quite as promptly as though they went inside.

Very few of the patrons of this store give any large order but small orders and cash payments if they come fast and for a twelve-hour day, makes a very satisfactory aggregate for each week or month. Where no one is neglected, prompt and courteous service, whether one spends a nickle or a dollar, where sympathetic interest is manifest, a spirit of "good will" is engendered, one of the biggest assets a man can have in his business, because it creates a wonderful force for drawing trade.

We are told that Mr. Wright has considerable patronage from the faculty of both Thorsby Institute and Thorsby Public School, which he greatly appreciates, because such people are apt to be discriminating, and will not patronize places where conditions are not pleasant, and most of all they require cheerful and efficient service.

Mr. Wright was born and grew up in Chilton County, his home was a few miles west of Jemison, he was a graduate at Jemison High School in 1926, then spent the summer on the farm, after which he took a position as clerk in the store of his uncle, D. L. Ward, in Thorsby, where he made many friends..

In November 1927 he bought from Mr. Jeffcoat a confectionery store located on the east side of the highway, near Jones Street, at Thorsby. Several people had previously attempted to conduct that kind of business at that point, but one after another gave it up. Mr. Wright took it as he found it, and soon established a paying business which has steadily increased from that day to this. He now employs his wife, Dewey Robinson, and Robert Ward, as assistants, and has added a new line until there seems no room for more.

On August 8th, 1928 he married Miss Ena Lee Shearer, of Lyerly, Georgia, who seems to fit into the scheme of things in Thorsby admirably.

Mrs. Wright was born at Lyerly, Georgia, just across the Alabama state line in Cherokee County. Her mother having been an Alabamian preferred to have her children educated in Alabama schools, so little Miss Shearer attended public school in Alabama, and when through there entered high school at Snead Seminary at Boaz, Alabama, where she graduated in 1924. Following it up with a course at Jacksonville Normal College.

Miss Shearer Graduated from the State Normal School at Jacksonville, Alabama, holds an "A grade certificate." Last winter when Thorsby public school needed another teacher, she was offered and accepted the position, which she so satisfactorily filled that she has been re-elected for the ensuing school year. When not engaged with school duties, she is of great assistance to her husband in conducting his business, she is a bright and very efficient young woman, who while maintaining a quiet dignity, has a friendly manner and greeting for everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright have a rom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ward, and take their meals in the store where Mrs. Wright superintends the cooking required for the meals and lunches served to their patrons, which is by no means a small port of the business.

There is no way of computing the value of a good woman in a business of this kind, she "Sets the House in order" she creates an air of cheerfulness, makes persons feel comfortable, understands the wants and needs of lady customers, often helps them with suggestions of value and in many ways promotes their good will.

A feature of Wrights place worth mentioning is its electric equipment of the kitchen, the stove, the barbecue oven, the toaster and the frigid air box, are all electrically operated, giving quick and controllable heat for cooking, roasting, baking or refrigerating as desired. With such an outfit in the hands of a competent woman, like Mrs. Wright, one can be assured of dainty cooking and the lunches and meals they serve are tasty and satisfying. They make a specialty of sandwiches, ham sandwiches, toasted, or barbecued meat sandwiches, give a home like dainty when served with choice country butter, or eggs, cheese, bacon, tomatoes, lettuce sandwiches, etc., are equal to any found between Birmingham and Montgomery. If one wants a full meal they are prepared to furnish it to order. Tea, coffee, milk or chocolate are served with lunches and no extra charge for the smile that comes with it.

ASTRO WRIGHT

Mr. Wright is a firm believer in the value of printed publicity. His business appeals to all classes of people, old or young. And the varied character of his stock is not often found in so small space. He really has a "Department Store" in miniature. His soda fountain serves cooling drinks in great variety and is the only one in Thorsby cooling the drinks and carbonating the water by Frigidaire, and of the best quality. When ice cream is mentioned he serves Kratzer's. None has a better reputation in this section. His frigidaire compartment holds plenty of stock in many flavors, to serve small or large orders, in the store, at the curb or delivered to homes in Thorsby in any quantity when wanted. Of other beverages, may be mentioned Welch's grape juice, than which none better can be had anywhere. The writer knows the section where the grapes are grown, and their superior quality, also has investigated their process of manufacture, and noted the care taken to have the fruit in prime condition and preserve all its flavor and richness, which has for a quarter of a century led all others in satisfying qualities. Wright also serves the usual brands of bottled soft drinks found in stores all over the land.

An important branch of the business is the candy department. Here one finds Nunnally's or Norris' famous candies. Chocolates and other brands, fresh from the factories. Also a good assortment of bulk candies, salted peanuts and chocolate bars of well known make.

Cosmetics are a prominent feature, they carry a full line of standard makes including tooth paste and tooth brushes. In drug sundries, one finds almost any of the popular patent and proprietary medicines. Tonics, ointments, salves, absorbent cotton, adhesive tape, antiseptic gauze, etc. A splendid line of Parker fountain pens, pencils and desk sets. They make lovely graduating gifts. There is a variety of inks, library paste, boxed stationery, correspondence cards, fancy stationery, pound paper and envelopes to match, business and inexpensive stationery. Ask for what you want. We have a complete line of Eastman kodaks and films of all sizes, we will also mail films and get negatives developed and prints from them for you. We also carry a good line of flash lights, bulbs and batteries. Bring in your flashlight to be re-fitted.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS

County Superintendents of Education, in session recetly, adopted rather significant resolutions, according to Supt. B. Lawrence, of this place. The resolutions follow:

Recagnizing the fact that the Educational progress in Alabama during the last four years has attracted the attention of the nation due to the provision of a seven months school term for counties qualified for the state aid, due to additional funds which partly met the tremendous public demand for better high school facilities, due to the special fund which encourages more complete and more regular school attendance, and due to the great improvement of college and university facilities for operation and maintenance.

Recognizing the facts that 11,000-000 more days of public school attendance are recorded in 1929 than in 1926, that 46 more accredited high high school attempt to bring secondary education to the rural youth than in 1926, that 132 more consolidated school have been developed to give modern, decent, training which approaches the standards of towns and cities that higher education is in a position to furnish the leadership which will literally put Alabama on the map and that the expenditure of the sate funds for education is more scientifically planned and more closely supervised than ever before in history.

Recogniziing and gladly acclaiming this progres.

Be it resolved by the County Superintendants of Education in convention assembled, immediately and personal representatives of 600,000 children in attendance upon our schools.

First that we express to our state executives, legislators, and other officials our appreciation of the confidence and progressive spirit which has translated the will of the people into effective action.

Second, that we recognize the gratitude the sound and forward-looking spirit of the Alabama people which broods no opposition or fears, no obstacle in providing a fair chance for every child in the state.

Third, that again we challenge our people with the tested truth that prosperity, good government, culture, industry and education are inseperable, and that nearly every civic treatment in the state, political, economic and social, and can readily be traced to a lack of the best in education.

Fourth, that as superintendants of the training of the rural children we clearly and urgently call attention to these three major needs of our 600,000 pupils.

1. A lengthened term for several rural centers in each county. A seven-months term suffices only for the parents whose poverty or lack of understanding cause them to agree to inferior schooling for their children; and at present hundreds of rural schools are pieced out to nine months by personal donations, a system which has definitely vicious aspects.

2. A fund for transportation of pupils to improved school centers. Alabama has never provided a dollar for transportation; and the burden of attempting to meet the demands for improved schools is embarassing every county board in the state by reducing the available income originally intended for teachers' salaries.

3. An increase in state aid for rural schoolhouses. The present pittance of $4,800.00 per year for each county will hardly pay for repairs and is merely an encouragement to local donations for buildings. Rural people have no special fund or form of taxation for school buildings which does not subtract directly from the operating money needed for the minimum school term.

Fifth.—That we urge every school administrator to give to the people the actual facts concerning conditions and needs of his school system and to call on the public for the needed changes and improvements.

Farm children who remain on the home farm more often remain single or marry later in life than do those who migrate to other farms, it is reported. Thus the more stable portion of the farm population is producing fewer children than the migratory element.

Lesson for May 4

PROMOTION IN THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 20:17-28.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Become Great.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Become Great.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Greatness Through Self-Denying Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ's Standard of Greatness.

I. The King Foretells His Death and Resurrection (vv. 17-19).

1. The King on His way to Jerusalem (v. 17).

This is His last journey to the beloved city. He took the twelve disciples aside from the traveling pilgrims to make known unto them what was before them. As they journeyed, he went ahead of the disciples. The courage thus shown by the Lord amazed the disciples who were following in fear (Mark 10:32).

2. The betrayal and death foretold (vv. 18, 19).

He went forward, fully conscious of the awful tragedy of the cross. He for the third time since the transfiguration tells the disciples of His approaching sufferings and death. But they are so filled with their ambitious schemes that they do not understand Him. The treachery of Judas, the fierce persecutions by the chief priests and scribes, the unjust judgment, the delivery to Pontius Pilate, the mockery, the scourging, the crown of thorns, the cross, the hanging between two malefactors, the nails, the spear—all were spread before His mind like a picture! Though He knew all this, He pressed on, not of necessity, but deliberately. The joyous outlook upon the victory which would be accomplished by the shedding of His blood led Him forward. He went courageously, for He knew the time had come for the accomplishment of His Father's will.

3. The resurrection foretold (v. 19).

Truly, this would have been a dark picture had the resurrection not been made known. The resurrection life beyond is always seen as the issue of the cross. The blessedness of the life beyond this "vale of tears" should induce us to press on. Christ is the grand example. (Heb. 12:2).

II. The Ambitious Request of James and John (vv. 20-23).

1. The request (vv. 20, 21).

This request was made by their mother. The request was for a place of prominence in the kingdom. It is not wrong for mothers to be ambitious for their boys, but they should know that life's pinnacles are exceedingly dangerous. It is desirable that parents should get places for their children near to Jesus, but the vain ambition of the world should not occupy their minds.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 22, 23).

He spoke directly to the men, not to their mother, declaring that they knew not what they were asking. He showed them that the way to this position of glory was through suffering. The cup which they were to drink was of great agony. The way to the places of glory in the kingdom of Christ is by the path of lowly and self-forgetting service.

III. How to Be Truly Exalted (vv. 24-28).

1. The angry disciples (v. 24).

When the ten heard of the request of James and John, they were filled with indignation against them. Their displeasure did not arise from the fact that they were free from the same selfish spirit, but that these two had thrust themselves to the front.

2. Greatness among the heathen (v. 25).

The rule of the world has always been by the strong hand. The standards have not been moral excellence, but worth, station, and power.

3. Greatness among Christ's disciples (vv. 26, 27).

The standard here is in sharp contrast. The way to the place of prominence in Christ's kingdom is the way of self-abasement. To give is greater than to receive. To be serving some one is much better than to be served. There will be degrees of rank in Christ's kingdom, but this rank will be character, not position, or authority. The spirit of Christ substitutes "the greatness of love for the love of greatness."

4. Christ is the supreme example of greatness (v. 28).

All who will be great should study and imitate Christ. Let them forget self and serve others, even to the giving of their lives.

Courage, Unspotted Life

Then said Mr. Holy-man, there are two things that they have need to possess who go on pilgrimage: courage and an unspotted life. If they have not courage, they can never hold on their way; and if their lives be loose, they will make the very name of a pilgrim stink.—John Bunyan.

WANT to cut car costs? Who doesn't, on occasions! We know how it is . . . so does Goodrich. That's why, working together, we've got something special to offer you right now.

Goodrich, you see, realizes that all of us like a bargain now and then. But they can't see why a bargain tire can't be a good tire.

So their engineers got together awhile back. Set out to build an outstanding tire at a sensationally low price. A tire that could carry the name Goodrich. A tire that would live up to Goodrich standards on the road.

Result . . . the Cavalier. Big and husky. Oversize in air cushion. Thicker and tougher in tread. Built to fight off rough roads and high speeds and take its own time about wearing out.

But—built to sell at prices that beat even ordinary tires for real savings.

We've got a full stock of Cavaliers on hand right now. All sizes . . . including a couple for trucks. And as our contribution to this money-saving party, we're offering them at special prices. Cutting the figures even lower than they usually are.

Come in . . . see what we've got . . . and you'll walk out with a nice saving in your pocket!

FIRE AT HOME OF MR. WHITE

Last Friday night the fire fighters were called to the home of Mr. White, on East Second Avenue, to extinguish a blaze which was discovered to be making headway on the roof of the building. Prompt action of the fire squad in using the city's fire fighting equipment soon had the situation in hand, and little damage was done.

The home of Mr. White is one of Marion Gore's buildings just east of the old Phillips home on Second Avenue. It is the place where Mr. Andrew Miner lived some years ago, and where Mr. Gore himself lived before he built his new bungalow further up Second Avenue towards the business section of th city.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL IS BOOMING

Attendance at the Clanton Baptist Sunday School has been on a boom for the past month or so. The number present each Sunday morning is keeping well above the 300 mark. Special attendance contests among a number of the classes and departments are working good.

The Men's Class last Sunday had about 75 present. The Young Men's Class reached the pleasing total of 35. The goal of the latter class is to have 50 present on Mother's Day.

The goal of the entire school for Mother's Day has been set at 500. We have tried for a long time to bring the attendance to 500. Heretofore we have never reached it, but our ambition for Mother's Day this year is to get there with the long looked for 500.

Rev. Z. Y. Appleton, of New Salem was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. He gave us the announcement of memorial day exercises to be held at New Salem Sunday. This is an annual affair at New Salem, and one that is always enjoyed by a great many folks. There are many hundreds of people in Chilton County who have friends and relatives buried at New Salem. All of them are invited to come to the memorial services.

AN UNPLEASANT SUBJECT

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restless sleep, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in their children, can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that a fow doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that sure and harmless worm expellant, will make these symptoms disappear. You can get White's Cream Vermifuge for 35 cents per bottle from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

PROF P. W. HODGES TO DELIVER GRADUATING ADDRESS

Those of you who have had the pleasure of listening to Prof. P. W. Hodges of the State Department of Education before, know already that he is one of the most pleasing speakers on the stage. In addition to his original Irish wit and humor, he possesses that happy faculty of unconsciously causing you to lean forward in your seat to grasp the next thought. We are indeed fortunate to secure his services. We cordially invite every body to come and be with us.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. The safe way to relieve constipation is with Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

BULL GAINS TWO POUNDS A DAY

The Angus bull bought by Mr. J. N. Dennis at the State Fair last fall has gained 330 pounds in weight. He weighed 630 pounds when Mr. Dennis bought him on the 17th day of last November. Saturday, April 26th, he weighed 960 pounds. This is a net gain of a little more than two pounds a day. He is now two years old.

James Dennis, a club boy, is attending to the bull, and expects to show him at the State Fair this fall.

OVER A BILLION DEADLY GERMS IN A SINGLE DROP OF WATER

Germs are so small that there may be as many as one billion, seven hundred million of them in a drop of water. And just a few of these tiny germs, if they get into your blood through a cut in your skin, may make you so sick you will be in bed for weeks—may cause the loss of a limb through bloo dpoisoning—may even infect you with that mist dreadful and fatal diseases, lockjaw.

Just because you can see no dirt in a cut does not mean that it is clean. You cannot see germs. The only safe and sane thing to do, is to thoroughly wash every cut, no matter how small, with Liquid Borozone, to kill the germs, and then dust it with Borozone Powder, to hasten the healing. Liquid Borozone costs 30 cents, 60 cents, $1.20 and $1.50; Borozone Powder, 30 cents and 60 cents, and can be had at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

DRISKILL CLAIMS $25,000.00 DAMAGES IN LAWSUIT

Ex-Cashier Seeks Recovery Against Bank Of Thorsby, Grimsley and Lucas

C. C. Driskill, former Cashier of The Bank of Thorsby, has filed suits in the Circuit Court of Chilton County, claiming damages in the sum of $25,000.00 each and against The Bank of Thorsby, A. M. Grimsley, chairman of the Board of Directors, and Chas. E. Lucas, President.

The suits filed on behalf of Mr. Driskill set out in their complaints that the plaintiff (C. C. Driskill) claims of each of the defendants $25,000.00 damages for maliciously and without probable cause therefor, causing the plaintiff (C. C. Driskill) to be arrested under an indictment returned by the grand jury of Chilton County, Alabama, on the 24th day of August, 1928, on a charge of making false entries on the books of The Bank of Thorsby, or in omitting to make material entries on said books, which charges, before the commencement of this action, have been judicially investigated, and said prosecution ended and plaintiff discharged.

The plaintiff, C. C. Driskill, was tried on two charges in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in April, in which he had been indicted for making false entries on the books of The Bank of Thorsby while he was cashier of the bank. He was acquitted by a jury in each of the two cases against him.

The criminal action against Mr. Driskill, of which charges he was acquitted, grew out of a loss by The Bank of Thorsby on cotton drafts in the fall of 1927. Growing out of this same transaction there has been other litigation in the Circuit Court of Jefferson County, in which J. D. Cleckler recently recovered a judgement for $1,000.00 against The Bank of Thorsby, in an action for libel.

EXTRA FINE STRAWBERRIES

A sample basket of strawberries was brought to The Union-Banner office last Wednesday afternoon by Mr. J. J. Hayes, who lives on the W. C. Robinson place on the old Thorsby Highway near Dr. Mastin's. The berries were unusually large. We thought there were no such fine berries in the county this year, owing to the extreme dry weather of the past month.

The berries brought to us were in one of the standard size quart cups used for shipping. Exactly 60 berries filled the cup.

Mr. Hayes told us that all of his berries this year have been extra fine, and have been rated above the average by the graders at the cars in Clanton.

ELI McKEE DIED FROM INJURIES

Eli McKee, farmer, of Coopers community, died at the Central Alabama Hospital last Friday night, following injuries received Friday afternoon at Coopers.

It was stated that Mr. McKee was on his way home late in the afternoon, traveling in a buggy. As he drew up on the highway crossing at Coopers, the buggy was struck by a Dodge automobile going at high speed. The opinion is expressed by some that Mr. McKee did not use the proper precaution in crossing the highway. It is understood from statements credited to the driver of the automobile that the buggy ran on to the highway in front of his car and that he was entirely unable to stop before he had hit it.

Mr. McKee was thrown from the buggy and lodged against a telephone pole with terrible impact. His skull was fractured. Martin's ambulance was hurried to the scene and brought the injured man to the hospital in Clanton, where he died in a few hours.

It is said that the man who was driving the automobile was from Birmingham. We understand that he stopped when the accident happened and gave his name to those who were at the place. Later in the evening as he returned this way, he is said to have stopped in Clanton and gave his name to the officers, and explained how the wreck happened.

The body of Mr. McKee was buried at Providence cemetery Saturday. He is survived by his wife and some children. The deceased was a son of Mart McKee.

WEOGUFKA SCHOOL BURNED LAST WEEK

Flames Discovered By Principal Quickly Consume Building

Weogufka, Ala., May 1.—The Weogufka High School, a frame structure, was destroyed by fire here late Thursday afternoon, when flames originating in the home economics department of the building spread quickly and consumed the entire structure.

The loss is estimated at $25,000 to $30,000, partly covered by insurance. The building was built and first used about three years ago.

Prof. Harmon, principal of the school, discovered the fire while making his final rounds about 5 p. m. prior to closing the building for the night.

He summoned aid and began to battle with the flames but lack of an adequate water supply hampered efforts of the hundreds of spectators who appeared to aid in quenching the fire.

The school was to have closed for the year Friday night. Part of the closing exercises had already been held.

Eight teachers were employed at the school which cared for nearly 400 pupils.

Jemison High School Commencement

The exercises will open Friday evening, May 16, when the grammar school will present a varied program of music, plays, etc.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday, May 18, at 11 o'clock in the school auditorium by Dr. Herman L. Turner, associate pastor Independent Presbyterian Church, Birmingham. May 19, the senior class play, "The Path Across the Hill," will be presented. May 20, Dr. Jas. S. Thomas, University, will deliver the baccalaureate address; J. A. Peterson, principal, will award diplomas, and achievement scholarships will be presented by B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

MUSIC PUPILS IN OPERETTA

The music pupils of Mrs. Barney Roberts in the Clanton Grammar School will render an operetta entitled "The Magic Spell," at the Chilton County High School Auditorium Thursday night of this week, beginning at eight o'clock. There will be no admission charge. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Bates, who has been here for some time with her sister, Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, has returned to her home at Vincent.

Requirements For Working Children

There are 5896 school children in Chilton County. Vacation time is approaching and some of the older boys and girls are no doubt planning to look for a vacation job. The State of Alabama requires that employees have certificates on file for all employees under 17 years of age. This applies to children who are working for their parents with or without compensation or who are working for tips only as well as those on pay rolls. Every boy and girl who is going to work this summer must secure a vacation certificate. These certificates may be secured at the office of Mrs. C. E. Stapp, Chilton County Welfare Superintendent. This office is open on Mondays and Saturdays and on Thursday mornings.

The following groups of children are eligible for certificates:

1. Boys, 12 years of age and over, may work 8 hours a day between 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. six days a week, in business offices, mercantile establishments, in and about dairies, or as caddies on golf links, provided they secure special employmen certificates.

2. Boys and girls 14 and 15 years of age may work 8 hours a day, between 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. six days a week in non-hazerdous occupations provided they secure vacation certificates.

3. Boys and girls 16 years of age may work provided they secure vacation certificates.

Parents and employees are held responsible for seeing these regulations are complied with. Every person employing a child under 17 years of age must first have him secure a certificate. Every parent whose son or daughter has a job should go with him or her to the child welfare office where they may obtain the necessary forms to be filled in before a certificate is granted. This is a State requirement for qualification and certification of every working child in Alabama.

MRS. RAY ENTERTAINED SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

On her sixty-ninth birthday Mrs. Carrie Ray entertained a number of the members of the Phillips Willing Workers Class of the Methodist Sunday School at her home in Clanton Monday afternoon. One of the ladies present gave us the report of the party, saying that it was a most delightful occasion for Mrs. Ray and her guests.

Those who were present were: Mrs. Bob Jones, Mrs. Kicker, Mrs. G. O. Foshee, Mrs. Marvin Carter, Mrs. J. R. Broadhead, Mrs. O. O. Roper, Mrs. G. L. Phillips, Mrs. J. E. Evans. Delightful refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

LAUNDRY PLANTS ARE COMBINED

Business Of Clanton Service Laundry Bought Out By Thompson

The expected has happened. It has been proven that there is not room for two laundry plants to operate at a profit in Clanton. Therefore, in the exercise of the best judgment and common sense, a consolidation has been effected, whereby the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Company, under the management of Leo Thompson, has bought out the business and plant of the Clanton Service Laundry, which has been operated for some months past by Felix Rhodes and V. Z. Taylor.

Announcement of the consolidation is made in an advertisement in this issue of the paper. The statement of Mr. Thompson is as follows:

"We take this means of announcing to the public the purchase of Clanton Service Laundry, operated by F. M. Rhodes and V. Z. Taylor, and that in the future all work will be handled in our plant on Sixth Street in front of The Union-Banner.

"It is not with an idea of monopoly that we take this move, but an effort to increase our capacity to better serve the public.

"We trust that the customers of Messrs. Rhodes and Taylor will see fit to continue patronage with us, and we assure them our fullest cooperation to serve their needs."

A signed statement by F. M. Rhodes and V. Z. Taylor, former operators of the Clanton Service Laundry, is as follows:

"We, F. M. Rhodes and V. Z. Taylor, owners and operators of the Clanton Service Laundry, wish to announce that we will no longer operate a laundry in Clanton, due to the fact that our entire business and equipment has been sold to the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Co., with F. L. Thompson, manager. We trust that our customers will give the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Company their co-operation, and patronize them in the future. We also thank you for your patronage of our business in the past.

"Mr. Thompson will make the calls and deliveries on the same days of the week, in the city and on the out-of-town routes heretofore worked by our truck. The prices will be the same as before. This change took effect Monday, May 5, 1930."

According to Mr. Leo Thompson, the plant purchased from Mr. Rhodes and Mr. Taylor will be dismantled at once. Some of the machinery will be brought to the plant on Sixth Street and used. The balance will be stored until it can be used as trade-in on new and better equipment.

Fire Destroyed Home Of C. W. White

In last week's paper we had a news item about the home of C. W. White being slightly damaged by fire. This week we have for you the news that the same house was almost completely destroyed by another fire which happened in less than a week from the first one.

The second fire happened last Wednesday night about 10 o'clock. It had gained a good start before the fire fighters got there, in fact before it was discovered. The fire crew got there without delay when the alarm was sounded.

As the blaze was between the ceiling and the roof, it was hard to get water to it until the roof fell in. After that it was quickly under control, but the house had already about burned down. Practically all of the household things were saved.

It is regarded as a very unusual occurrence that the same house should catch on fire two times in less than a week.

The house is owned by Marion Gore and is located on Second Avenue next east of the old Phillips place.

RECEIPTS AT CREAM STATION INCREASING

The following figures show the growth since opening on April 26:

April 26, 15 shippers, 120 pounds, $42.00

April 30, 22 shippers, 166 pounds, $58.10

May 3, 46 shippers, 256 pounds, $85.00.

Mr. Stapp thinks that more than 100 farmers will soon be saving cream and selling it. He is urging farmers to plant plenty of good soy bean hay this year.

SHERIFF BUSY IN LAST FEW DAYS

List Of Arrests Looks Like Court Docket Report

Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday were busy days with the Sheriff and his deputies over the county. As the Sheriff turned in his report to the Banner man, he said: "This looks like a court docket, but it is just the list of arrests of my office for the past few days."

On Friday, May 2nd, Dealos Roper of Mt. Nebo was arrested for having five gallons of home brew in his house. He was released on bond.

Clate Glasscock of Stumps Hills, who ran away from a still the latter part of 1928, was taken into custody by the officers Friday.

On Saturday, May 3rd, Arthur Mims, who lives near Pleasant Grove, west of Clanton, was arrested, a raid having revealed 18 bottles of home brew at his place. Also 63 bottles of home brew were found near the home of Moode Williams of the same community; however evidence was not sufficient to connect Williams with the home brew, officers report.

On the same day, Saturday, Vick Henley, carrying one half gallon of whiskey in his hand, was met in the road near Highland, by the officers. He was placed under arrest. The same day John Lee Jackson of Highland community, a negro, was arrested for having at his home one pint of whiskey.

On Sunday, Dewey Price of Lomax was arrested, 40 bottles of home brew having been found in his home. The same day, O. A. Price was arrested near New Salem church, charged with driving a motor car while intoxicated.

Monday of this week Henry Davis, negro at West End, was arrested, for having in his house one and one half pints of home brew. The same day another negro from Marbury by the name of Sam Cook, was arrested in Clanton, he having in his possession two gallons of whiskey.

Mrs. L. C. Warr and Miss Bernice Williams were visitors to Montgomery Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds of Waugh, Ala., spent last Sunday in Clanton with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pitts.

Large Class Ready For Initiation

An event of interest in local fraternal circles will be the large class initiation of new members in Clanton Camp No. 322, Woodmen of the World, to be held Monday night, May 12th. More than 100 members have been added to the camp during the present membership campaign which has been conducted under the direction of J. N. Cochran, state worker of Florence.

The degree work will be conferred by the officers and uniformed team from Montgomery under the direction of L. A. Ellington, Past Consul Commander, and Capt. Stephens in charge of the company. Accompanying the Montgomery delegation will be several prominent members of the order, among them being Judges Rice and Bricken of the State Court of Appeals, J. M. Moore, former Commissioner of Agriculture, and L. D. Holiway, state manager of the W. O. W., who organized the camp at Clanton more than 20 years ago.

The meeting Monday night will be held in Maddox's warehouse in order to accommodate the big number who will be in attendance and have room for the degree team to confer the work. In addition to those from Montgomery, many members will be in attendance from Thorsby, Collins Chappel, Jemison, Maplesville and other camps in this section. All members of the order are cordially invited.

TOM FRANK TEEL IS MAKING GOOD HERE

Young Man Manager Of Nettles Grocery Co. Here For Past Month

Tom Frank Teel, who assumed the responsible position of manager of Nettles Grocery Store in Clanton about a month ago, is apparantly headed for a successful career in the grocery store business. Since he took charge of the Nettles Store here, we understand that the business has constantly and steadily grown every week.

Young Teel is a Clanton boy who is just coming into the years of maturity, and his ability has already been proven in many ways. As a student in the Chilton County High School here, he was one of the brightest and most energetic members of the graduating class last year.

He was reared in Clanton and on a farm near Clanton. He is a son of the late Strawter Teel and Mrs. Callie Rogers Teel. His grandfather is Uncle Tom Teel, who has been a well-konwn citizen of this community since he came from Coosa County many years ago.

Tom Frank is delighted with his situation here with Nettles Grocery Company. His big ambition is to build the business to greater proportions. He has the right idea of building business on the plan of service and satisfaction to his customers.

He invites his friends throughout this community to come to see him when they need anything in the grocery line. The Nettles Store is located on Main Street, next door below Sartor's Fair Store.

Commencement Sermon Sunday, May 18

Clanton and surrounding communities will have the pleasure and privilege of hearing Dr. H. C. Threadgill of Tuskeegee deliver the commencment sermon at the Methodist Church, Sunday, May 18th.

Dr. Thradgill is one of the strongest ministers in the Southern Conference. He is a dynamic personality, and always pleases the public wherever he is called. We feel honored to have him accept our invitation at this time.

It will be recalled that union services were held at the Baptist Church last year, the commencement sermon being prached by Dr. C. C. Anderson of the Presbyterian Church of Montgomery. This year, both churches will meet at the methodist church with Dr. Threadgill in charge. The public is cordially invited to attend all our commencement programs.

Another Clinic For Crippled Children

The Alabama Society for Crippled Children, in its work which is carried on over the state through the State Department of Education under a program mapped out by the state and county Health Departments and Child Welfare, is holding a clinic again this year at Clanton on Thursday, May 29th.

The State tries to make it possible for every crippled child in the State of Alabama to be within 50 miles of a clinic where they might be examined at least once a year. This is done in order to make it possible for each child in Alabama to have an equal chance to become physically fit to work, play, etc., as any other child might have every available opportunity nearer at hand.

The following is a report of children's cases handled during 1928-29 by the Crippled Children's Clinic for Chilton County: Alabama Society for Crippled Children spent on these cases, $225.43; Kiwanis Club of Clanton raised for one case, $50.00; total spent in Chilton County, $275.43.

Ages: Pre-school, 6; 6 to 12, 9; 12 to 16, 9; over 16, 9; total, 33.

Sex: Female, 22; male 11; total, 33.

Race: White, 32, colored, 1; total 33.

Cause of disability: Infantile paralysis, 10; spastic paralysis, 4; club feet, 6; osteomyelitis, 3; trauma, 1; other causes, 9; total, 33.

Disposition of cases: Hospitalization provided, 3; hospitalization recommended, 11; appliance without treatment recommended, 1; clinic, 9; clinic after treatment, 2; question, feasibility of treatment, 1; hopeless, 4; mild, 2; total, 33.

These clinics are held for the benefit of every crippled child within a radius of 50 miles of Clanton regardless to their wealth or financial condition. Dr. J. D. Sherrill of Birmingham, who held the Clanton clinic last year will hold it again this year.

OLD MADDOX GIN DESTROYED BY MIDNIGHT FIRE

Other Nearby Property Saved By Effective Work Of Fire Truck

The old Maddox Gin on the Highway just north of Fourth Avenue was completely wiped out by fire about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. When it was discovered, the blaze had gained such a start that there was no such thing as stoppng it. The fire fighting crew of the town, headed by Macy Jones, reached the scene promptly with the city's fire fighting apparatus. They confined their attention to saving adjacent buildings, which they succeeded in doing very nicely, in spite of the fact that it was a temendously hot job.

The McSwain residence across the highway, which is occupied by the Plyler family, was perhaps in the greatest danger, but it was saved by the effective work of the hosemen and the fire truck. Other residences accross the highway, the residence of D. Y. Johnston, north of the old gin, the new gin next to the railroad cut, and the Maddox Warehouse south of the old gin, all would have been consumed, had it not been for the extra water pressure that was provided by the fire engine.

The gin plant which was destroyed was the oldest gin in Clanton. It was built about 30 years ago by Lee Stewart. A few years later the plant was acquired by Mr. Bud Maddox, father of Joe Maddox, present owner of the property. It was operated under the Maddox management until two years ago, when it was abandoned for the construction of an entirely new gin outfit on the back of the same lot next to the railroad cut.

Some of the main lines of the Alabama Power Company, strung close by the old gin along the highway were burned down, thus obstructing electric service. Much of the town was put in total darkness except from the flare of the burning building.

When the wires went down it cut off the power supply from the city waterworks plant, and it was impossible to pump more water into the high tank. Therefore, the fire fighters were ordered to use only the necessary water to save the adjacent houses from burning, and the old gin was allowed to go its way to complete destruction.

Mrs. W. M. Polk's Circle, No. 4, rendered a program Monday afternoon at Methodist Church. Several members and visitors were present, and were delighted with the fine program.

DAVIS IS GIVEN DEATH PENALTY

Andalusia, Ala., May 1.—Tillman E. Davis, insurance salesman of Florala, was this afternoon found guilty of first degree murder and given the death penalty for slaying his wife late last February. The case went to the jury in the Covington County circuit court at 3:30 p. m. today and the verdict was returned at 6:07 p. m.

Judge Emmett Thigpen sentenced Davis to die in the electric chair July 11.

The trial, one of the most sensational ever held in Covington County, began Monday.

The defense, represented by E. O. Baldwin and A. R. Powell, Andalusia attorneys, sought to prove that Davis was not guilty by reason of insanity. A number of witnesses, including the mother and father of the defendant, testified that in their opinion Davis was not sound of mind.

Against this, the State, represeneed by Solicitor Robert S. Reid, offered a number of witnesses in rebuttal, including Mrs. Carl Holt, of Crestview, Fla., a divorced wife of Davis.

Davis was charged with giving his wife a dose of poison in Opp and then wrecking their automobile while en route to Florala to make it appear that she was killed in an accident.

Soon after his wife's death, Davis was arrested, and is alleged to have signed a confession to slaying his wife. He was quoted as saying that an estrangement had been caused between them on account of difference in religious beliefs.

At the time of the arrest of Davis, feeling was running high against him at Florala and he was removed for safe-keeping to Kilby Prison for a few days.

FARM BUREAU ASSISTING FARMERS GET GOV'T AID

Answering the question "What is the farm bureau doing to help its members get the benefits offered farmers by the Federal Farm Board?" Mr. W. L. Popwell, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau today said:

"During the past season the cotton association cooperated with the Federal Farm Board and made it possible for the association to advance to its members 15.64 cents per pound despite the fact that cotton during much of this period sold on the local markets much below this price. During the season the cotton association received something over 155,000 bales of cotton.

"Recently the Farm Board cooperated with the Farm Bureau and Farm Bureau Cotton Association in setting up the Alabama Agricultural Credit Company. The purpose of this company is to advance production credit to Alabama cotton farmers. In order to obtain money thru this company the framer makes application to the credit company and if the loan is approved the farmer is advanced the credit. The Farm Board loaned the cotton association $50,000 which it invested in capital stock in the credit company making it possible for the Credit Corporation to increase its loans by some $200,000.

"At the present the farm bureau is making arrangements giving Alabama farmers the opportunity to pool their wool and draw 90 per cent of its value when it is delivered. The wool is then stored in the United Wool Growers Association warehouse in Baltimore, where it is graded, insured, and sold through the National Wool Growers Association, the central sales agency for all wool cooperatives of the United States. This will make it possible for Alabama wool growers to pool their wool and sell it along with the wool pooled with the other wool cooperatives of the country.

"At present a national livestock agency is being organized by the Federal Farm Board, and plans are being made by the Alabama Farm Bureau for livestock producers of the state to reap benefits of this national organization.

"As the farm board extends its services to the commodities produced by Alabama farmers the farm bureau, in cooperation with other agricultural agencies expects to bring these services to Alabama producers. Out of the eleven groups of farm products designated by the farm board as commodities, seven directly affect Alabama farmers. In this entire program the farmer will use his county farm bureau as a clearance for his needs as to production loans, facilities and marketing."

In addition to this the farm bureau is working with the department of agriculture, the agricultural college, the experiment station, the extension service, and other governmental agencies in helping farmers solve their problems. Members of the farm board have expressed their desires that this be done, Mr. O'Neal said.

APPRECIATION

We are taking this means of expressing our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends and Mr. Martin and Brother Jones, for their kindness and help during the accident and the death of our husband and father, Eli McKee. May God's richest blessings rest with each and every one.—The Family.

County Farm Agent's Notes

TWO 4-H CLUB BOYS WIN COVETED TRIP

Auburn, Ala., May 5.—Winning out over 13,000 Alabama farm boys who were engaged in 4-H club work in 1929, James Cooper of Echola, Tuscaloosa County, and Ray Evers of Repton, Conecuh County, have been awarded free trips to the fourth National Club Camp at Washington, D. C.., June 18-24. Announcement of this is made by T. A. Sims, state club leader, who said the boys won because of the excellence of their work.

Cooper began club work in 1925 and Evers in 1926. Both have enlarged and improved their work from year to year.

Starting with a lone pig in 1925 Cooper has grown pigs, corn, cotton, and calves under the direction of R. C. Lett, county agent. At the end of last year he had a bank account of $350 due to his 4-H club work. In addition, he had other property valued at $80.

Evers has carried both cotton and corn projects and grown pigs. An interesting fact about his success is that he has never fallen below a bale of cotton to the acre. On four acres cultivated over four years he made 2,307 pounds of lint cotton which is more than three times the average for the state.

Expenses for the Washington trip for the two boys and two girls will be paid by the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. This is an annual custom of this organization. The boys will be accompanied to Washington by Mr. Sims. Two girls will make the trip, they will be accompanied by Miss Bess Fleming, state leader for 4-H club girls.

SUMMER HAY CROPS NAMED AT AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., May 5.—Sudan grass, soybean, and cowpeas are three good summer hay crops that grow well in Alabama, according to the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Sudan grass should be broadcast between now and May 15 at the rate of 30 pounds seed per acre. As soon as the plants are up 200 pounds of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime should be applied.

The experiment station does not recommend the planting of soy beans on the broadcast plan but says they should be planted in rows. Laredo, Otootan, and mammoth yellow are named as the best varieties. A peck of Laredo and Otootan seed per acre and one-half bushel of mammoth yellow per acre is the recommendation. The authorities say that the thicker the seeding the finer the grade of hay produced.

The broadcasting of cowpeas after oats for hay is also recommended. As a fertilizer for soybeans and cow peas 400 pounds of super-phosphate or 400 pounds of basic slag is advised.

CHEVROLET HELPS FARMER IN INSECT CONTROL

Renewed vigor in the government's cooperative battle with the farmer against injurious crop insects was promised for this month with the delivery of a fleet of Chevrolet Sedan Deliveries to the Western division of the Department of Agriculture.

This particular fleet is to be used in the campaign against the corn borer and is to concentrate its work in West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Similar fleets, enlisted in the war against the fruit fly, boll wevil, etc., are in operation in all parts of the United States.

Every car in the fleet recently delivered is a standard Chevrolet six, with sedan delivery body, in which equipment essential to a successful pursuit of the government's war is transported. As the cars left the Flint plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company, they were paraded through the streets of that city with the national banner fluttering from either side of each car, as though mobilizing for the "war" in which they were soon to take part.

Selection of the Chevrolets for this work was made by the government because of their dependability and economy of operation in transferring activities from one "battle sector" to another, it was explained.

FARMERS SET FOR BIG COTTON CROP

Farmers have made all preparation for a good crop of cotton this year, in the opinion of Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, who says that farmers will apply the third largest amount of fertilizer ever used in Alabama. The value of fertilizers used this year will average over $100.00 per farmer. Farmers are now applying more fertilizer to less acres in accordance with the teachings of intensive farming.

RAIN HAMPERS EARLY CROPS

According to reports from Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, the lack of rains has diminished the strawberry crop, also the Irish potato crop in the Gulf Regions. There is yet time for rains to save a part of north Alabama berry crop. Cotton is now in need of rain to hasten germinantion and insure a better stand. May is normally a dry month and unless rains come at an early date, the crop may suffer a setback.

While exports of many American products have declined since the first of the year the export of electrical equipment has increased. For the first two months of this year customs records reveal that American electrical equipment exports were valued at $23,999,000, a gain of nearly 12 per cent over the $21,000,000 o flike materials exported in the same period last year.

POULTRY Tips By LEONARD L. BROWN

THE SECOND WEEK

The temperature of the brooder is to be reduced slowly and gradually, so that by the second week it can be down to 90 degrees, directly below the edge of the hover, and two inches off the floor The chicks want to be watched just as carefully as before to keep them comfortable, as evidelnced when they form a uniform ring near the edge of the hover. Keep the water fresh and clean.

As mentioned before, the chick starter mash given the first week is to be continued on through the second week and for some time after that, but now in addition a good scratch grain may also be fed. Your hatcheryman can supply you, or you can mix a good scratch on the following formula:

100 pounds wheat cracked grain.
50 pounds steel-cut oats.

About a pint of this scratch grain may be fed for each 500 chicks, each day, about noon. Feed in troughs with plenty of room for all the chicks to get their turn. As will be described in following issues of Poultry Tips, the amount of scratch grain fed will be increased from week to week. The purpose is to automatically increase the proportion of mash, which contains the protein. As the chicks become larger they are able to handle larger amounts of feed, and the grain gives them ample nourishment, at less feed cost and with better development of their digestive systems which, as we shall see later, is extremely important in the development of profitable flocks.

You should not expect to raise 100 per cent of your chicks. There is a natural mortality which cannot be avoided, but it should be your aim to hold the losses down to the lowest possible amount. If you will carefully watch the suggestions given so far you should not lose more than 5 per cent of your chicks during the critical first two week, however. If there is any one thing that causes more chick losses than any other (and there certainly is) it is failure to keep the brooder at the right temperature. The professional brooders of large quantities of chicks usually maintain a night man to watch the temperature of brooder every minute even during the night. The best of brooder stoves can go out for some reason or another or the night can turn suddenly warm or cold. Any of these changes, if not instantly compensated for by regulation of your brooder stoves, is liable to spell disaster for your entire brood of chicks. Chicks that have been sweated and smothered, or once chilled, may not show serious signs for a day or so, but will just naturally grow wead and die. Watch your brooder stoves!

FARMERS TO GET ELECTRIC CURRENT UNDER RULING OF UTILITIES BOARD

Thousands of farms in Alabama now using oil lamps and crude hand-power machinery may soon receive electricty where current is available in nearby territority under a plan proposed yesterday by the Public Service Commission.

The plan is contained in a statement and order of citation of the commission to all electric utilities in Alabama to appear on June 2 before the Commission in Montgomery and show cause why the commission should not put into effect certain uniform rules and practices for electric utilities in the construction and operation of rural extensions.

It provides briefly that electric service shall be made available to all farms "within economic reach of the existing lines of the various electric power utilities" within a given time when such service is requested by the farmers. It also will provide a maximum rate, above which the utility may not charge, but the rate structure will be subject to the approval of the Commission.

In advancing such a proposal, it was pointed out, many economic angles must necessarily enter into the consideration. The density of the farm population in a given number of miles from the nearest electric line, the cost of construction of the lines, and the cost in brief, of serving the farms. However, the Commission points out, there is need for more aggressive development and service to the rural terrotories than has been shown on the part of some utilities, and the plan of the commission is designed to speed such developments and service.

It was pointed out that despite the seemingly slow expansion of rural electric service that Alabama stands foremost in the South today in the number of farms served in proportion to the rural population.

The Story of Nehi

The story of Nehi began more than a score of years ago, when Mr. C. A. Hatcher, conducting his business as the Hatcher Grocery Company, in Columbus, Georgia, started a small bottling plant in the basement of his building. Comparing that small beginning with the present day expanse of Nehi business which covers all parts of the United States, one will, in a measure be able to grasp the wonderful business romance that has transpired around the Nehi trade mark in that comparatively short period of time.

The inception of Nehi came about after years of scientific and practical experiences in the making and marketing of beverages. Realizing the demand was for a branded line of popular priced beverages, Mr. Hatcher coined the word Nehi, and immediately set out to perfect plans and policies to develop it on a sound and practical basis.

After the standard of Nehi beverages had been established, the organization cast around for a brand name that would be as equally outstanding as the quality standard of the products to be merchandised under the brand. The word Nehi was coined and given its first meaning—a family brand of beverages—which has since become known and recognized as a symbol of quality standard.

A test market was first found in a small Georgia town late in 1924. In the years which have followed the business has grown until now Nehi beverages are to be had from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. Throughout the whole of this country there are hundreds of local plants manufacturing the Nehi line of drinks, and distributing them to the public in their given territories.

The Nehi Bottling Company of Clanton, owned and operated by Mr. Horsley White, is the organization through which the people of Central Alabama are able to obtain Nehi. The whole country, and this section of Alabama is no exception, is dotted with Nehi advertising signs, telling the thirsty that you can get a bottle of this delightful drink at practically every soft drink counter.

The fact that Mr. White has been able to meet the requirements exacted of the men who obtain and operate Nehi franchises is in itself a sufficient evidence that he is a business man of which the town and community may well be proud. It is the ambition of Nehi that every bottler and distributor of Nehi products will be an outstanding success in his trade territory. Before issuing a Nehi franchise, the bottler must meet rigid requirements as to his background of training, his financial responsibilities, and his fitness to operate a business requiring vision, forethought, executive ability, constant attention, continued effort, and personal application.

Business men with the ability to meet requirements are to be recognized without question as very much worth-while to any community in which they live and operate. By a close adherence to the filling of such requirements, Nehi, in a large sense, has contributed materially to the stability of business in the several localities where their franchises have been let out, while at the same time establishing the popularity and solidarity of Nehi success in a lasting manner.

The bottling plant is regarded as the heart and the dynamo of the Nehi business. Mr. White knows the value to himself and his business of a neat, clean, orderly, and well-kept plant. He has been ever alert to improve the appearance and convenience of his business home.

The heart of the bottling plant is the syrup room. From this room flows the stream of fine fruit flavored syrup that gives life to the thousands of bottles of Nehi that are turned out and sent to the public for consumption. The first requirement is of course that these drinks shall be altogether clean, wholesome, and sanitary. Guarding this important phase of his manufacturing process with zealous care, Mr. White has constructed a specially designed syrup room on top of his building. It is here that the syrups are mixed, and from whence they flow directly to the machine that fills the bottles. Not a particle of dust, not the smallest insect can gain entrance to this syrup room. Not a single touch of human hands is allowed to come in contact with the substances that go into the making of Nehi drinks. Everything is done with mechanical exactness, by machines that are themselves a perfection of the art of sanitation. This with perfect sterilization and washing of every bottle, makes sure that Nehi beverages are nothing short of the highest perfection.

Every Nehi drink is flavored with pure fruit extracts; but there are two special beverages which Mr. White finds are above the average in value and popularity. These are the Nehi Chocolate and Nehi Pure Orange. In addition to being one of the most delightful drinks, the Nehi Chocolate is of exceptional food value. In food value one bottle of Nehi Chocolate is equal to three eggs, or one-half pound of rice, or one-half pound of oatmeal, or three heads of cabbage, or one quart of oysters, or three pounds of asparagus. This drink may be served either hot or cold. It is regarded as one of the handiest household foods, especially for children.

The new Pure Orange drink is another valuable addition to the Nehi line. Pure orange juice is regarded as one of the very best fruit foods. You get it pure from the finest California oranges in the Nehi bottle.

Mr. White takes a commendable personal interest in the Nehi business which has been entrusted to him in this section of Alabama. But business is not his whole aim in life. He takes a fine interest in the welfare of his town and community. He and Mrs. White, with their two children constitute a very lovely family group. They have made friends by the hundreds since they came to Clanton two years ago. They are regular attendants at church and Sunday School, thus giving of their influence to the perpetuation of the best things in our community life.

HORSLEY WHITE
NEHI BOTTLING COMPANY

The Nehi Bottling Company, owned and operated by Horsley White, in Clanton, is the only soft drink bottling business in Chilton County. Mr. White has been operating the business since 1928, when he bought out G. D. Retherford's plant and business. Originally the business was established as the Chero Cola Bottling Company, by J. M. Potts, and operated by Mr. Potts and Mr. J. Martin Nix.

Since the business passed into the hands of Mr. White, and with the introduction of the popular Nehi line of drinks in the 9-oz. bottles, the business has experienced a phenomenal growth. This growth is accounted for by two principal factors: The industry and hustle of Mr. White in the operation of the plant and business, and the unprecedented popularity of the Nehi line of drinks.

Horsley White is a native of Chambers County. By way of parenthesis, we might say that he was raised in the country. Since coming to Clanton he has impressed us as a really hustling business man; and he knows his drinks. He has put Nehi over in his territory with a big success. Constantly increased production has been necessary for him to keep ahead of the demand.

From the plant in Clanton there are operated two trucks that distribute the product over a wide territory in Central Alabama. They carry the popular Nehi drinks to every town and cross roads in this section of the State.

The plant in which Nehi drinks are made in Clanton is a model of perfection. During the past two years Mr. White has introduced many new methods, and has installed new machinery by which he is able to bottle drinks according to the most improved formula, and using methods that are first of all, entirely sanitary.

In our interview with Mr. White for the purpose of this story we have obtained some interesting facts about him and his plant and his product, which are presented in the narrative on this page.

ADVICE WORTH CONSIDERING

In concluding his speech to the Daughters of the American Revolution at Washington recently President Hoover said:

"We have come to the belief that our contribution can best be made by our good officers and a helpfulness based upon independence from any combination pledged to the use of force. I believe it is clear that the United States can more effectively and wisely work for peace without commitments to use coercion to enforce settlements. Our position was made clear in a statement issued jointly by the prime minister of England and myself at the time of his memorable visit of good will to this country. We said:

" 'The part of each of our governments in the promotion of world peace will be different, as one will never consent to become entangled in European diplomacy and the other is resolved to pursue a policy of active cooperation with its European neighbors, but each of our governments will direct its thoughts and influence toward securing and maintaining the peace of the world.'

"Within these principles which are in full accord with the traditions we have from our forefathers, we should hold an open mind and engage in advancement of the methods by which the controversies in the world may find pacific settlement and by which we can cooperate in the prevention of war. For the American people want peace in the world, not alone as a matter of material interest to our prosperity and welfare, but because gains to the moral and spiritual forces of the world are made through peace and not through war."

Coming in the month of the anniversary of Thomas Jefferson, one of our first great nationalists who stood with President Washington in warning us against entangling alliances and dangerous foreign commitments should have double significance. Many problems of an international character confront us and the adminstration and the Senate will doubtless in dealing with them keep in mind the historical traditions of our foreign policy.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

The London conference for the limitation of naval armaments is over and while it did not accomplish as much in the way of reducing armaments as some people hoped that it might accomplish yet it is very likely that the result is about as generally satisfactory as could have been achieved in the present state of world opinion. The world is not yet ready to disarm, and perhaps will not get to that state of mind for considerable time yet. It is true that the race in naval armaments is slowing up, but when we begin to consider land armaments it must be admitted that the case is not more hopeful now than it was before the World War.

Since the world is not ready to disarm it is of course up to the United States to maintain a navy in keeping with our position as a world power, to protect our citizens at home and abroad and to assure the safety of our world trade. All real Americans feel that this requires a navy as good as the best and it has been with this standard in mind that our delegates have labored so long and earnestly at London. The result, according to most the naval experts, will eventually give us a parity in cruisers and smaller warships with Great Britain. It will be contended by many of the friends of the navy, and no one will dispute their patriotism and their interest in this important problem, that the agreement at London does not assure parity. This is something which it will be up to the United States Senate to determine. The treaty will soon be before the Senate and there is little doubt that it will be carefully examined and fervently debated there by the friends of the big navy as well as by those who are the opponents of the present navy standards. Before this debate is over and the agreement is finally acted upon the American people will doubtless know all that there is to konw on both sides of this important subject. In passing, it may be said, however, that if the treaty assures us parity it will have gained us something we have never had before. Great Britain has always had a fleet more powerful than ours, nor in the present state of opinion in Congress does there seem to be any likelihood of our catching up with her unless it is done by limitations agreement. We lost our big chance for parity in 1921. One thing that ought to be done by all means, of course, is to build up our merchant marine.

Naturally the pacifists are not satisfied with the treaty. That is one fact that should bring consolation to those who believe in American defense. The pacifists are dissatisfied not because they feel that we may fail of parity in the agreement, but because they are afraid we may build up to the point where we will obtain parity. What they would most desire, at least the more radical of them, would be to bring about a state of mind where Uncle Sam would acknowledge permanent naval inferiority and depend entirely on doubtful agreement, and sentiment for peace to keep us out of trouble. In the present state of world opinion, when Europe is an armed camp, no policy could be more foolish than this, and its adoption would indicate that Uncle Sam had at last arrived at the mental state where he needed a guardian.

At this time it would appear that the ratification of the naval limitations agreement will be the next big problem presented to the Senate. It will doubtless take precedence over the World Court problem with the Root formula attached, which may not come up for consideration for several months.

GOOD TIMES COMING

Business has turned the corner and is on the up-grade. That this was true was until recently only a hope—now it is an assured fact. That is good reason to believe that by the middle of this year business normalcy will have been restored, and it will not be surprising if 1930 will start out, as its close, as one of the prosperous years of the decade. The measure of this return of good times is the increase in employment. American prosperity is based on the size of the industrial pay-roll.

An endless chain operates in both the decline and the rise of business. Whenever, beginning last summer, ten thousand men were thrown out of jobs, it made much easier the separation of the next ten thousand from the pay-roll, for the men who ceased to be producers at the same time ceased to be hundred per cent customers, and their demand for the products of industry declined. When employment reached the low point, and began to increase, the same geometrical influence again set in, in the opposite direction, and today we are feeling the effect of this. When ten thousand men go back to work, it makes certain the employment of many more men, and so on, and so on.

During the period of depression millions of Americans have cut down their purchases. This has included the employed, through fear of the future, as well as the unemployed. With fear disappearing, the dammed-up demand for the products of the farm and factory will make itself felt. Indeed, the depression of the last few months has taught lessons to millions which will be of permanent value. There will be less speculation, less over-expansion, less over-production, than heretofore. People generally will take fewer chances, and hundreds of millions which have gone into speculative enterprises will be kept at home for safe and legitimate purposes.

Locally there are ways and means by which the restoration of prosperity can be hastened. Those who have jobs of painting, repairing, refurnishing, or building in mind can do good for themselves and the community by having this work done now. It can doubtless be done more cheaply at this time than it could be done a year or even six months hence. Moreover, this is a good time for making commodity purchases, prices being lower than they have been for some years, and lower than they are likely to be a little later. Purchases of clothing, furniture and food stuffs—indeed of all articles of both necessity and luxury—can be made to better advantage now than later. The release of this individual purchasing power will also contribute to the speeding up of American industry.

Better days are ahead. The recent depression came quickly—it is disappearing quickly, proving the fundamental soundness of American economic conditions. The new tariff law will help, despite the maledictions heaped upon it by those who prefer to buy foreign merchandise, made by cheapened labor, rather than help keep an American working man on the job at living wages. The calamity howlers have had a good time of it during the past few months, but they will soon be the only Americans out of a job.

Approximately one and one-half million men and women enroll for home study courses every year. That is about twice as many students as are enrolled in all of our colleges, universities and professional schools combined, according to findings of the Carnegie Corporation.

About 100 of the leading colleges, universities and technical schools of the country use technical text books published by leading correspondence schools. This s not surprrsng, according to the Natonal Home Study Council, in view of the fact that one such school has spent more than $4,000,000 in improving and keeping its texts up to date.

Enrollment of Europeans for home study instruction by American school has increased more than 300 per cent since 1928. Germany and the British Isles show the largest number of such enrollments.

More than 5,000 of the larger corporations in the United States have enrolled employees in vocational correspondence courses, the National Home Study Council announces. More than 300 railroads in the United States and Canada have arranged for instruction for their employees through correspondence methods.

A 30 per cent increase in enrollment of adults in educational institutions was noted last year, according to the National Home Study Council. A similar increase in the enrollment of home study students was recorded for the same period the Council says.

THE JACK POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

IMPRESSIONS

Monday morning. Blue Monday morning. The usual dark brown taste in the mouth. Everybody else looks like he feels about the same.

On top of that, the boss says grab the little bill satchel and pass around among the brethren to see if maybe there is a green-back here and there which is not fastened.

Imagine that! Collectinng on Monday! It's hard enough any other day—but on Monday—ugh! But green is good for the eyes, so here goes. We're on our way.

On our round, we can't help noticing things in general. A couple of farmers with long faces—dry weather got their strawberries.

Horsley White and Will Jones giving the town the once-over with their supply trucks. They're the livest people we see. But they're funny that way—lively.

The way those two fellows do swing pop bottles is a caution. We tried it once. Yep—we spilled the whole case. There's an art to it.

Leo Thompson, with a smile all wreathed 'round his face like the well known wave. Business picking up in his land of soap and suds. He's got a new title now, you know—"Clanton's King of the Suds."

Frank Mullins trying to open his new box at the post office. Lots of the boys in the same boat. Very few of the boxes open easily.

Bill Easterling with an armful of strawberries—leftovers. Bill says there'll be lots of wine made this year. Where's that Sheriff?

Marion Gore's "Loafers' bench" loaded to capacity. Gee, but that old sun is hot. Maybe that wasn't a snore we heard in passing, but it sounded like it.

Jess Baker trying to kill two birds with one stone—selling some guy a new straw lid, and anglin' for his vote—all at once. Going strong too.

Mayor Hart comes into Calloway's for his early morning drink. No, no—you're way ahead of us, and all wrong, to boot. It's only a "dope" he wants.

Some guy purchases a few bananas, and there goes a peeling on the sidewalk. If somebody steps on it—but they won't—he thought and threw it in the garbage can.

Tom Littlejohn with his arm around some fellow—another Ford. Nope! He says dry weather got his strawberries, too.

The bus. Dog-gone that bus whistle, any way. It makes us jump before we can think every time we hear it. Yep! Taking up half the street, as usual.

Glory be! Found a fellow at home and collected off him. Business picking up. Now for another one. Nope! Gone to the river—back in a day or two.

"Daddy" Fox going in the bank. Depend on your uncle "W. W." to get his share of the cash that's spent on Saturday—or any other time. Gee, what a wad.

"Chief" Boockhold dozing in the sun. Some folks have all the luck. Wrong again—he was trying to fool somebody. There goes his whistle.

Joe Higgins and another Ford prospect. Joe is certainly getting him told. Mr. Ford ought to have Joe for sales manager, judging from that spiel. Believe he's going to land him. Joe's good. Take it from us.

"Bob" Alred dishing out his curb service de luxe. Bob is proud of his rep and never misses a chance to make it better. Another hustler.

Otto Jones and Grady Heflin strolling over to start the financial ball to rolling. Grapes again. Wonder which one got stuck for the cigars this morning.

Oops! Almost jumped out of our skin. A big truck tire blew out right close. Now we'll get to see Morgan Pugh deliver some of that super-service we heard of. Gee, what a big tire. Wonder what one that size costs, any way.

Percy Pitts, with a rosebud on his coat. Looks fresh—the rose. Who's that he halted? Can't tell. It may be a client—or maybe a voter. Percy is in the race again, you know.

Johnnie Plier hurries past on his way to work. No. He was going to the post office—almost forgot it had moved, too.

Don't forget about the post office being moved. It makes one feel foolish to walk to the old post office building before he realizes it isn't there any more.

Evan Parrish with a big bunch of bananas. They look mighty good. Won't get a chance to swipe one, though. He turned through an alley.

Just sighted the boss across the street. Got a fresh cigar, too. On the look-out for an ad, or a good news story.

Golly-day! It's almost lunch time and we haven't collected anything to speak of yet. Oh, well. Who could expect to collect much on such a drowsy morning. Ain't it never going to rain?

"It Ain't Gonna Rain No More." That song came out too early. It ought to be in vogue now. More folks would believe it.

What's that we smell. Can't make it out, but it smells good. And whatever it is is right in the Dixie Cafe. Got to investigate that. Eats! Hoo-day!

So long, for a while any way. Right now we're interested in this layout of bread, beans and butter milk.—"JACK".

A stranger addressed the farmer's boy across the fence.

"Young man, your corn looks kind 'o yellow."

"Yes, that's the kind we planted."

"Don't look as if you would get more than half a crop."

"Don't expect to. The landlord gets the other half."

Then, after a pause, the man said:

"Boy, there isn't much difference between you and a fool."

"No," replied the boy, "only the fence."—Ex.

ALABAMA SCHOOL CHILDREN AND SCHOOLING OF PARENTS

In 1888 the average term was 3 months; in 1898, 3.6 months; in 1908, 6.2 months; in 1918, 6.6 months, and in 1928, 7.9 months. The 1928 term was 163 per cent longer than the term of 1888. However, the minimum length of eight months, set as the goal for Alabama schools as early as 1913 by Dr. H. J. Willingham, who was then state superintendent of education, has never been attained.

Interpreted in terms of the present generation of school children, this gain in the length of the school year means that the boys and girls of today go to school more than twice as long as did their parents, provided they take advantage of the opportunity for schooling provided by the state. Back in 1898, when the parents of today were school boys and girls, the school term was 72.76 days, or 3.6 months, as revealed by the report of State Superintendent John O. Turner. As stated above, the term for 1928 was 7.9 months.

The Man On The Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not.

In the lobby of the new post office Monday morning. Ernest Childs said it don't seem natural to come down here to the post office. Dr. Gragg allowed it seems every bit natural to us old citizens who came down in this part of town to get our mail for years and years.

I don't know the exact date when it was, but once upon a time the postoffice was located about the same spot where the new post office is. Later it went over across the street where Bill Arant's jewelry store is now, and remained there for a long time.

Then another move down to the Wade building on the railroad corner where the grocery store of Mack Culver and Bud Jones is now located. Here the business of Uncle Sam in Clanton was done during the "reigns" of Felix Dudley, J. E. Robinson, Barney Roberts, and J. J. Pickens.

When the post office was moved to the Hayes building ten years ago, it was then that everybody felt odd when they went after the mail. The post office was really in new territory then; now it merely seems that it has gotten back home.

Suggestions for the betterment of the service are always in order, even though not invited. Plenty of them volunteered Monday morning. First, that cushions be placed in the windows so it will be a more comfortable place to prop.

Mr. Sartor, whose mind is always a factory for business ideas, figured out what a nice place those new blackboards in the lobby would be for a daily advertisement of Bargains at The Fair. But don't mention that, he said. If I used one of them, Maurice Lande would get smart and put The Leader ad on the other one. So what's the use.

Postmaster Bean missed a lot of good pocket change by not charging a few cents to show folks how to open their new mail boxes. On the other hand, he saved himself a peck of trouble by having the little printed slips with full directions placed in each box.

How did they ever paint the steel furniture so as to make it look so much like oak? I refer that one to Posey Marcus. Posey perhaps don't know any more than I do about post offices, but he is a recognized authority on the painting subject. He is now the Warren Paint man at Calloway Drug Company.

Plenty of fires in Clanton here of late. Four in the past two weeks. Two of them were real fires. The obliteration of the old Maddox gin Monday night will help the looks of things considerably. It ought to have been torn down and put in the dump long ago. Standing there by the side of the highway, I guess lots of tourists thought it was the dump itself. It did look like it.

The old gin was a landmark. My goodness. Think of the cotton that has been ginned in that thing. It was built thirty years ago, and has been in operation every year since until last year it was allowed to remain idle after Joe Maddox built him a new one close by.

Score another one to the credit of the Clanton fire truck. That is proving to be about the most serviceable piece of machinery on the list of things accomplished for Clanton in recent years. Everyone who has witnessed the property-saving ability of the fire truck, as it was demonstrated Monday night, is ready to proclaim it a wise investment on the part of the town. I don't know whether the town has ever paid for it or not, but it paid for itself all right Monday night by saving three or four houses from burning.

It was a rather nervous time for a few minutes during the Maddox Gin fire Monday night. The electric wires went down and cut off the power from the pumps at the waterworks plant. That meant the only available water to fight the fire was that in the tank. And how that fire was raging. Several other houses ready to go up in smoke if the fire boys had dropped a single stitch. Fire Chief Macy Jones was on to the racket. He was cool as a cucumber inside his head while scorching hot on the outside. He kept every bit of the water in reserve to save the other houses, and let the old gin go her route.

Well, the dry weather has about queered the strawberry business in this neck of the woods. I guess it is too late if it were to rain ever so much. But a rain is still in order for the benefit of cotton and corn and spring gardens. The month of April in Alabama was drier than the State of Kansas in the Literary Digest poll.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

THE EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS

I wish you tho think and pray over verse 16 of the 1st chapter along with the outline of this inspired letter to the Romans. In this verse we read, "For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."

This letter was written to the Christians in Rome. Not only was it written to the Roman Christians but God through Paul wrote this letter to Christians throughout the world. He writes it to me and to you today. It is as much one man's privilege to have and read this bible as it is another's. A super - abundance of provision in God's plan has been made that the bible be given to all peoples everywhere. It is writtn to all and it meets the needs of human life for all.

This book was, perhaps, written along with the general letter to the Ephesians. These two letters are the most profound letters in the world. Just ponder that carefully. But we are to think of this letter to the Romans which was written along with Paul's inspired letter to the Galatian Christians, the only one written to a country or district congregation.

Come prayfully, thoughtfully, and believingly as we approach this study because from the teachings of this letter the church either rises or falls. John Calvin has written that the theme of the letter is justification of the sinner by the faith in the blood of Jesus Christ the only son of God. That is, I am not saved by the church by my attendance of her services, by my preachnig, by partaking of the Lord's supper, by reading the bible, by the good books that I read, by benevolent acts, by being kind and merciful. However these are tributes of a Christian, essentials he in life must have. But they alone do not save one. In fact it is absurd to think og being saved because of these. A man is saved as expressed in the theme which I hold, the theme of this book of the ages, which is salvation only through faith in the atoning blood of Jesus Christ, justification of the sinner through faith in this blood of God's only begotten Son. Someone has said that justification is the pardon of the sins plus acceptance in the sight of God.

To me justification is a legal act of God in pardoning my sins and treating me as though I had never sinned. And do not forget that the means of justification is in the faith in Christ. So Jesus said, "All things are possible to him that believeth," Justification does not mean that I will never sin, will never meet the temptations of the world. But being justified by faith we walk by faith, not by sight.

This letter was written A.D., 60, and is really the ninth book written in New Testament history. The gospel according to John was written last. It pays us to study this bible and learn more of the knowlege of God. Often when I tell you this I think of my mothers dying words: "Son, I have made no mistake in reading and believing the bible."What does your dear sweet mother think of it? Next, we think of the place from which the letter was written. On my recent pilgrimage the guide was unable, neither does anyone seem able to point out Corinth. We stopped at Thessalonica called Salonica. This letter was written in Corinth and sent to Rome, the metropolis city, by Phoebe, a friend in the faith of Paul, who lived in Cenchera, Corinth. She was a wonderful character of whom Paul writes in the 16th chapter: "I commend unto you Phoebe our sister, which is a servant of the church at Cenchrea: That ye receive her in the Lord as becometh the saints."

Also he says to her, "Be kind to her, assist her in whatsoever busines she hath need for you: for she truly helped many, and hath been exceedingly kind to me." This was written during Pauls third visit here. Now to say that Paul had never been to Rome, I myself would not be sure. How do you know that he had never been there? There were Christians who went there from Jerusalem during persecution times. If you read all this book you will find that Paul said he was going to Spain. Also in the 15th verse of the 1st chapter he says, "As much as in me is, I am ready to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also." That is he was ready to prech the gospel there inasmuch as the spirit gave him utterance. If a man loves God, he will hold up the Christ of Calivary to the world, even in hell.

The schofield reference bible gives the theme of this book as the "Gospel of God." It is the gospel of God because it is the gospel for the whole world. The key word is 'therefore.' In the third chapter and 23rd verse he writes, "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." So here he shows that all men are guilty before God. John also wrote that, and says that all are going to suffer the awful, direful, consequences of sin. But Paul in this letter shows his perfect trust in God to be led by him because he himself did not know which way to go. The trouble with so many of us today we try to plan our own lives and not look to God. Then when our own planned life does not suit us we complain of them.

In the 2nd chapter we are told that man is inexcusable in judging. That is, if a man in America lives in sin and dies in sin he is excusable for the judgement of God is according to truth against them which commits such things. In the 5th chapter he writes, "Therefore being justified by faith. we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ: By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in the glory of the Lord. The greatest sinner can come to Christ in faith even though he may be standing on the very brink of hell and there find peace and access to this grace, wherein we stand with joy in the hope of the glory of God.

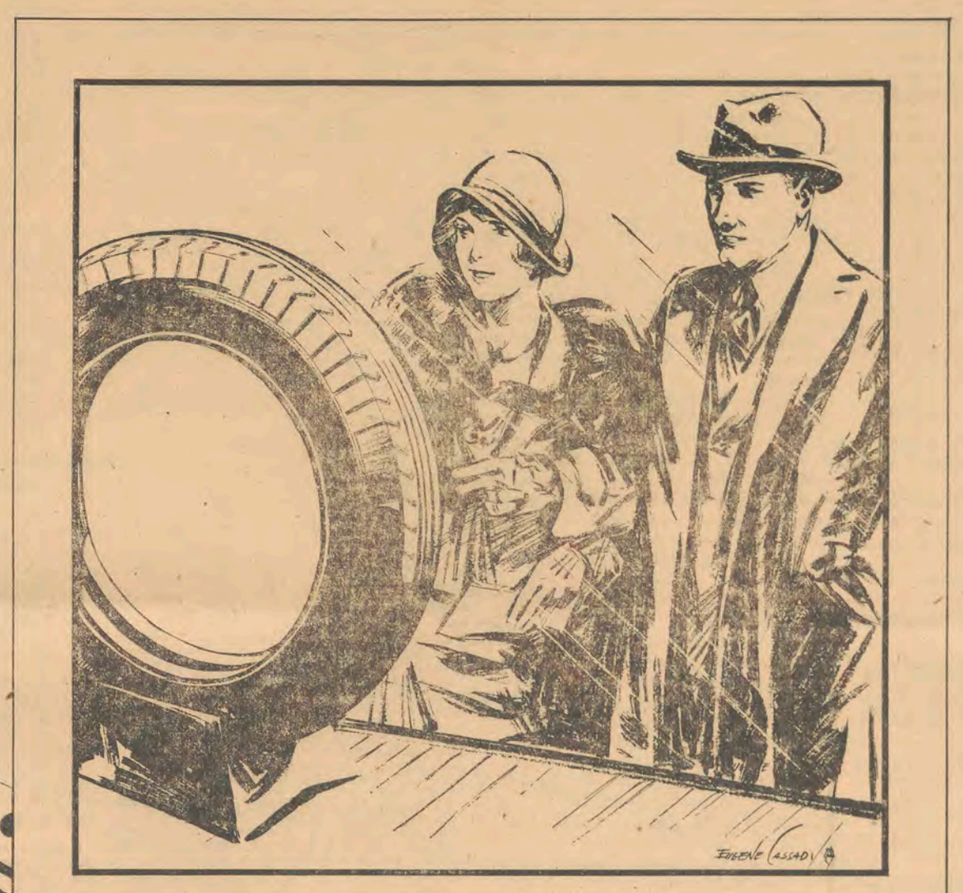
This bible teaches, "Therefore by one man's sin spiritual death enterinto the world." We fell with Adam in the first transgression. This bible also teaches that sin is any violation of God's law and that in Christ shall all be made alive. We must see sin in our lives. If I do not see sin I cannot preach this Gospel of Jesus Christ. A man who violates the laws of the Sabbath does not see sin and and its direful consequesces. We must see sin and lay it aside and put on the robe of rightousness. "They which receive abundance of grace and the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ. For he, Christ, was delivered for our offences and raised again for our justification."

He was led out to Calvary humbly and willingly as a lamb to the slaughter, and He opened not his mouth yet He could have summoned every angel from heaven to have delivered Him from his foes. He was nailed to that painful, shameful, accursed cross. I hear the click of the hammers driven into his sinless body by the world. We speak of it as Paul writes it as the sin inherited from Adam. What does this Christ of Calvary mean to me? What does he mean to you? As I stood on Calvary's hill on my pilgrimage I wrote in my diary; I did not come here especially to see Calvary but to find out more about Christ who died on Calvary's cross."

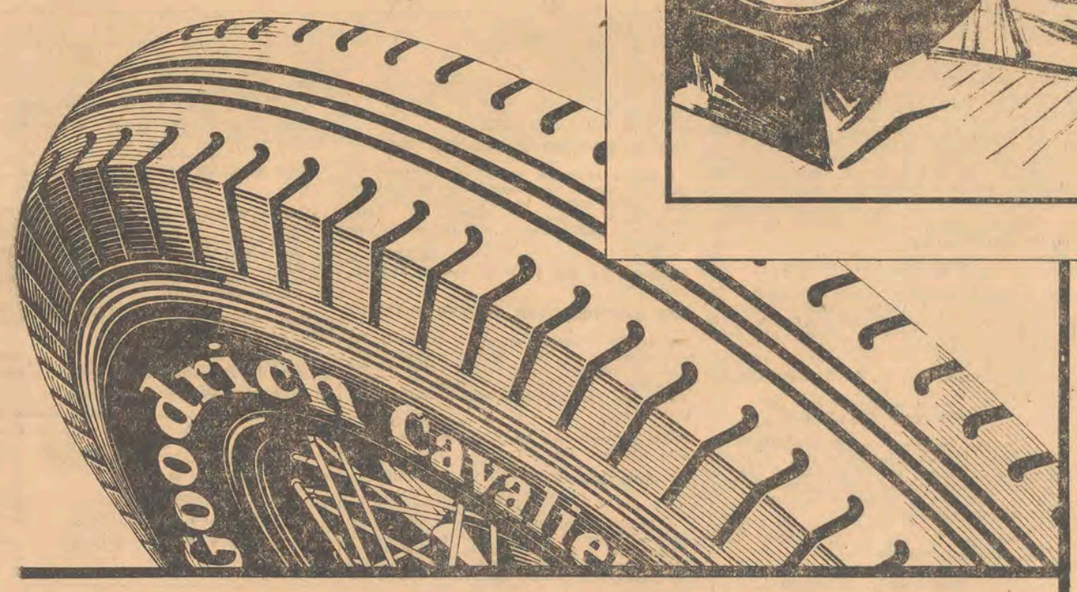
Paul writes, "Therefore being justified by the faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, and access by faith into this grace wherein we stand." You know so many people are so particular about their standing in the church and the lodge, and they grieve because they have not paid their dues and are a member in good standing. But my friends, how often do we think and grieve about our standing in Jesus Christ? Do we stop to carefully consider whether we love Jesus Christ fully as to whether our robes have been washed in the blood of Jesus Christ? Do we ever stop to carefully whether we love Jesus Christ as we should? Are we, as Paul persuaded that neither life nor death, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things being present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to seperate us from the love of God which is in Jesus Christ.

BEARINGS OF FORDS ARE BEING POLISHED FINER

Bearings of the Ford crankshaft are being polished to a much finer degree as the result of the development of machines that finish all seven main and connecting-rod bearings in a single operation.



After the crankshaft has received its final grinding and has been statically balanced it is placed in a specially built lapping machine which has seven arms—one for each bearing. Each arm holds six very fine lapping stones or hones which clamp around the bearings under heavy pressure. The shaft is rotated and also oscillated until no roughness from the grinding operations remains.



To insure an absolute smooth and bright finish, the shaft is then placed in a similar machine which holds an extra fine polishing paper instead of the lapping stones. Again it is rotated and oscillated after which the bearings are cleaned and inspected.

This process gives the bearings a mirror-like smoothness which reduces friction and makes easier the breaking-in period of the car. The polishing paper used in the second machine is fed automatically so that there is a fresh supply for each crankshaft. This, with the oscillating motion, permits a more uniform finish than was possible under the old method of polishing each bearing separately on a revolving wheel.

Who said good tires COST A LOT OF MONEY?

Just Get the Prices on CAVALIERS...and see!

DON'T let anyone tell you that good tires must be costly! For right here on our racks, we've got tires in your size that will surprise you on price and tickle you to death by their performance!

They're Goodrich Cavaliers . . . and real bargains if you ever saw one.

That name Goodrich tells you a lot. They have to be good to carry that name. They have to come up to the most rigid standards in the business . . . and that means that out on the road you can forget there ever was such a thing as a tire change.

But the thing you'll like best of all is the price.

Prices

30 x 3½	$5.30
29 x 4.40	6.30
29 x 4.50	6.90
30 x 4.50	7.00
28 x 4.75	8.20
31 x 5.25	10.95

Oversized, thicker through the tread, stouter in carcass and sidewall . . . you'd guess this tire was priced with the highest. Actually it's lower than even ordinary quality.

Right now, they're lower than usual . . . we've put special prices on them. Our stock is complete now but they're going to move fast. So come in right away! See what we've got! And bring the car . . . because you'll want some of these tires sure!

INSECT SPECIALS

To be successful in gardening we must not only plant and cultivate, but we must protect the plants from our insect enemies. This protection is perhaps most effective where winter plowing and the destruction of all old vegetable plants is practiced, but in most cases we have to resort to artificial means to perfect our control.

The following brief recommendations are being made with the hope that Alabama gardens may be protected from the ravages of some of our most common insects:

Cucumber Beetle, A Chewing Insect

Dust, Calcium arsenate, 1 pound, land plaster or gypsum, 20 pounds. Apply as a dust while plants are still very small by use of duster or by shaking from cheesecloth sack. In addition, the seed should be planted rather thickly and later thinned out to secure a perfect stand. Hydrated lime is sometimes used instead of land plaster or gypsum but it has been found to exert a stunting effect on melon plants.

Mexican Bean Beetle, A Chewing Insect

Spray, magnesium arsenate, 1 pound, water 50 gallons. Dust, calcium arsenate, 1 pound, dusting sulphur, 1 pound, hydrated lime, 4 pounds.

Apply these materials only to the undersides of the leaves.

Bean Leaf Beetle, A Chewing Insect

Use same materials as for Mexican bean beetle and apply as first leaves are being formed.

Cutworms

Keeping the soil thoroughly plowed throughout the year, particularly during the fall and winter, is the best means of controlling the cutworm. However, for those who have neglected this important phase, the following is being recommended:

Poison with a mixture of 2 pounds of bran, 2 ounces of Paris green, 1-4 cup of syrup, and 1 quart of water. This should be broadcast over infested areas late in the evening.

Aphids or Plant Lice, Sucking Insects and Cannot Be Poisoned

Nicotine spray, nicotine sulphate, 1 teaspoonful-10 ounces; soap, 1 inch cube-14 pounds; water, 1 gallon-50 gallons.

Nicotine dust, use as recommended by manufacturers or it may be prepared at home as follows:

Nicotine sulphate, 8 ounces; hydrated lime, 12 pounds.

Cabbage and Collard Worms

Lead arsenate or calcium arsenate, 1 pound; hydrated lime 5 pounds.

Apply as a dust when first worms appear and repeat as often as necessary.

Colorado Potato Beetle

Apply same materials as for control of cabbage and collard worms.

Harlequin Cabbage Bug, Calica Bug, Collard Bug, Fire Bug, A Sucking Insect and Cannot Be Poisoned

Practice clean cultivation. Do not leave old cabbage, collard, mustard, rape, or turnip plants standing in the garden after crop has been harvested. Plant a trap crop of mustard or rape. Practice hand picking in small gardens. Spray young bugs with strong nicotine soap spray.

Tomato Worms

For an early crop tomatoes plant sweet corn as a trap crop. Dust tomatoes once a week with a mixture of 1 pound of arsenate of lead and 4 pounds of hydrated lime.—W. A. Ruffin.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

JEMISON HIGH TOO MUCH FOR CHILTON HIGH

Jemison High School defeated Chilton County High School in a one-sided contest Tuesday evening. The score being 13 to 3. The Jemison boys were hard hitters, counting mostly for the large score. Jemison got eleven hits while the Clanton boys were able to gather only two.

Coach Green is to be congratulated on the field spirit of his boys. Although defeated by the Jemison baseball and basket ball teams, everyone cannot help from noticing the improvment in sportsmanship over that of last year. It is hoped that these schools can ever continue their friendly contest.—J. A. Peterson.

Vacation Motor Trips Routed Free by Standard Oil Touring Service

Thousands are making their plans to "See America First" this summer by motor

This is the time of year when the whole family begins to look forward in eager anticipation to the summer vacation. Whether to go to the mountains, the seashore, the West, the lakes of Wisconsin, Canada, New England, or the many splendid resorts of the South.

The annual family argument over "where to go" has to a large extent been obviated by the automobile and America's splendid net-work of good roads. Many motorists solve the problem by making a round-trip, taking in the mountains, the seashore, some of the large metropolitan cities, and in this way pleasing all the family.

Since last summer hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent on the construction of new concrete and asphalt highways, making it possible for the motorist to vacation where he will, with the assurance of excellent roads.

No country has as many or varied resorts to serve as summer playgrounds for its people as has the United States, nor as excellent facilities for reaching them. The South itself has many excellent beaches along the Atlantic Seaboard and the Gulf Coast, beautiful mountain resorts in Western North Carolina, North Georgia, and many points of national interest in Kentucky.

For those who wish to take a longer and more extended motor trip, there is the beautiful Pacific Coast, the wonders of Yellowstone Park and the other National Parks of the Great West; the sapphire lakes of Canada, Wisconsin and Minnesota; New England with its beaches, mountains and many points of historical interest; New York with its myriad entertainments; Atlantic City, Niagara Falls and other points too numerous to mention.

Wherever you plan to motor, the Standard Oil Touring Service will be glad to route the trip for you, sending you maps and up-to-date information on the best roads, and shortest route to take. Through State Highway Departments and other reliable sources of information, the Standard Oil Touring Service secures weekly reports on road conditions throughout the country, so that its road information is accurate and up-to-date.

Address a card or letter to Standard Oil Touring Service, 426 W. Bloom St., Louisville, Kentucky, stating destination of trip you plan to make, and routing will be sent you at once. There is no charge for this service.

VISITOR TO SAND MOUNTAIN

Mr. J. M. Glasscock of Jemison returned Tuesday from a visit with his brother, C. L. Glasscock, on Sand Mountain, near Chavies. He reports that dry weather prevails on the mountain and is hindering the progress of planting in about the same way as it is in Chilton County.

Alabama's New Crop Champions

Floyd Gibbs, Boaz, won first place in the 5-acre Cotton Contest with an average production of 830 pounds of lint per acre. In the 4-H Club Cotton Contest Walter Kirk, Heflin, produced 2686 pounds seed cotton on a one-acre plot. Newbern Barrenger, Coker, made 2000 pounds, Lucille Logan, Moulton, 1850 pounds, and Otis King, Greensboro, 1802 pounds.

ALABAMA farm boys and girls again have the chance to demonstrate their ability in economic crop production. A 4-H Club cotton growing contest has been recently announced in the State.

Application to enter this contest should be made at once, according to the announcement. The rules may be obtained from county agents or the agricultural extension service of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

"Through friendly rivalry, crop contests have proved an effective means for improving the farm practices in the State," says M. H. Pearson, Alabama Manager of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, which is cooperating in conducting the 4-H Club cotton contest. "The winning of the prizes is incidental to the bigger objective which, after all, is the increasing of the farm income by means of lower costs and larger acre-yields.

"As a result of contests in the past, hundreds of farmers," he declares, "have been thoroughly convinced of the advantages of pedigreed seed, liberal, fertilization, thorough cultivation, and disease and insect control methods. They have discovered that the practices employed in producing a high yield on a one or five-acre field may be profitably applied to the entire farm."

ALABAMA SHOE SHOP HAS IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

In a conversation with Jesse E. Teel, proprietor of the Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop of this place, a representative of The Union-Banner learned that within the next few weeks the shoe repair shop of this establishment will undergo some changes in the way of improvements. Mr. Teel stated that he had long felt the need for improvements in his shop, and intends to carry out his plans right away.

Mr. Teel has secured the services of Jack York, who is said to be an experienced shoe repair man, having been engaged in that line of business for something like thirteen years in Gulfport, Miss., where he operated his own shop. Mr. York assumed his duties with the Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop last Tuesday, and appears to be doing satisfactory work.

COOKE PLAYERS IN THORSBY

As per schedule, the Cooke Players were in Thorsby Monday, ready for their first performance there Monday night. They will play in Thorsby through Saturday night.

In conversation with Mr. Harry M. Cooke Tuesday he said that he was well pleased with the reception his show received in Maplesville last week and is receiving in Thorsby this week; although Mr. Cooke struck a rather blue note when he told about having a batch of money tied up in a bank failure in south Alabama recently. That's enough to make a fellow blue.

Miles was found guilty of shooting and killing Frank Barbaree, former town marshall at Union Springs. At the time of the fatal shooting, Miles, who is a negro, was accompanied by his brother, while the search for them was never permitted to lag. Eventually Roy Lee Miles was arrested in Chicago, Ill., and brought back to Alabama. His brother has never been apprehended.

CONVENTION AT MT. NEBO

Saturday and Sunday were great days at Mt. Nebo, the old-time singing convention being in semi-annual session at that time.

Saturday morning at 9:30 the convention was called to order by the chairman. Prayer by Rev. Hayes of Atlanta. The secretary being absent, Mrs. Winford Jackson of Jemison was appointed secretary pro-tem. The music of the day was sweet and inspiring. Some beautiful quartets were rendered in the afternoon.

The present officers were re-elected by acclamation.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the convention was opened by singing "Sweet Hour of Prayer," directed by T. C. Jackson of Sylacauga. Prayer by Rev. J. B. Price.

At 11 o'clock the convention adjourned, while Rev. Mr. Hayes of Atlanta delivered an inspiring sermon. Followed by some inspiring music by Prof. J. R. Scott. Then came a memorial service most beautifully directed by Prof. Sanders and J. W. Hayes, who were ably assisted by Mrs. Era Culver, Prof. J. R. Scott and others. We never saw that service more beautifully rendered.

All were glad to have Prof. Jackson of Sylacauga with us again.

Great crowds were in attendance. Dinners were rich and bountiful, and free to all.

We noted several prominent people present, viz: Hon. A. A. Jackson, Mr. Walter Gillespie, our well known circuit clerk, Hon. J. Z. Mims, Mr. B. L. Cobb, C. D. Foshee, Rev. J. D. Deason, Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, our efficient county treasurer, W. H. Conway, and others too numerous to mention.

Delegates were appointed to the state convention, as follows: Sacred Harp, A. A. Jackson, J. R. Scott, Winford Jackson and W. L. Sanders; Christian Harmony, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hodgens, Rev. J. N. Scott, J. H. Martin.

Vaughn's noted composition, "Do not Grieve your Mother," was beautifully sung more than once.

Closing song, "Jesus Died for Me," by W. L. Sanders. Benediction by Rev. J. D. Deason.

Judge L. H. Reynolds, H. G. Boyd, and Omar Reynolds are in Washington, D. C. this week on a business trip.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. W. T. JOHNSON

The subject of this sketch died on March 27th, in Birmingham, where she had been living since January 1st. Her health had not been good for several years. Her remains were carried to La Fayette, Alabama where she and Mr. Johnson grew to womanhood and manhood, and have a host of relatives.

Mrs. Johnson was a member of the Verbena Baptist church, in which community she had lived for about 20 years, and had reared a family, two boys and three girls. She was a regular attendant at her church as long as her health would permit. A kind and loving wife and mother which was reflected by the devotion of a husband and children. She was related to some of the best families of Chambers County.

She was cheerful and hopeful to the last, uncomplaining but submissive to the Divine will.

A goodly number of friends who read both county papers will learn with a feeling of regret of her death. —A friend.

IN MEMORY OF W. R. LATHAM

It was on last Thursday, at the close of the first beautiful May day, that the angel of death came into the home of W. R. Latham and took him away to that home of eternal rest. He had been ill only five days, with pneumonia, and bore his great suffering with patience, till God called him home where he is sweetly resting waiting for the resurrection morning. All was done for him that loving hands and Dr. Johnson could do.

To know him was to love him. He was a true loving husband and was kind and good to all he knew. He leaves to mourn his loss a faithful wife and many loving friends. He was laid to rest in Pleasant Grove cemetery Friday, Rev. R. M. Honeycutt conducting the funeral.

Weep not, Mrs. Latham and friends for our loss is heaven's gain.

A loved one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.
We loved his, yes we loved him,
But angels loved him more,
And they have sweetly called him
To yonder shining shore.
—A Friend.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to publicly express through the columns of The Union-Banner, my thanks to the people of Beat 15 for their kindness and efforts in helping me to obtain the information called for by the government while on the census enumeration. I found two men in the Beat who were not quite ready to stop plowing when I first went to them. Other than that the people showed their first interest in the call made by "Uncle Sam." I thank you all.—R. W. Kendrick.

Lesson for May 11

JESUS ACCLAIMED AS KING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:1-46.

GOLDEN TEXT—Hosanna to the son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Children's Praise Song.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Hailing Jesus as King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.

I. The Preparation (vv. 1-6).

1. The sending of the disciples for the ass (vv. 1-3).

Christ told them just where to go to find it and how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly Jesus knows our ways. The providing of the animal was not man's plan, but according to Christ's foreknowledge.

2. The fulfillment of prophecy (vv. 4, 5).

Some five hundred years before this, Zechariah had made this prediction (Zech. 9:9). Christ's coming in this way was in exact fulfillment of Zechariah's prediction. This is highly instructive to those who would understand as yet unfulfilled prophecy. If the predictions of His first coming were thus literally fulfilled, there is no alternative but to believe that those of His second coming will likewise be literally fulfilled.

3. The obedience of the disciples (v. 6).

The request may have seemed strange and unreasonable, but they obeyed.

II. The Entrance of the King (vv. 7-11).

1. The disciples put their garments upon the ass and set the Lord thereon (v. 7).

This act showed that they recognized Him as their King (II Kings 9:13).

2. The multitude (vv. 8, 9).

Some spread their garments in the way; others who had no garments to spare, cut down branches and did the same with them.

3. The city awakened (vv. 10, 11).

It was a stirring time, but a more stirring time is to come. This will be when the Lord comes in power and glory.

III. The King Rejected (vv. 12-16).

The immediate occasion of this rejection was the cleansing of the temple. To sell oxen and sheep and doves was legitimate, as well as to exchange money in doing it, but doing it for gain was wrong. As soon as the spirit of avarice enters, the house of prayer becomes a den of thieves.

IV. The Nation Rejected by the King (vv. 17-46).

Having shown their unwillingness to receive Christ as King when officially presented to them, Christ now turns from them and makes known their awful condition in the following parables:

1. The barren fig tree cursed (vv. 17-22).

It was on the morrow after his official presentation as He was returning from Jerusalem that Jesus observed the unfruitful fig tree. The barren fig tree is a type of Israel. With its leaves, it gave a show of life, but being destitute of fruit, it had no right to cumber the ground.

2. The parable of the two sons (vv. 28-32).

Both sons were told by the father to work in the vineyard. The one refused outright to obey, but afterwards repented and went. The other pretended a willingness to obey, but in reality did not. The first one represents the publicans and harlots. The second the proud and self-righteous Pharisees—priests and elders.

3. The parable of the householder (vv. 30-46).

(1) This was God Himself. (2) The vineyard. This means Israel (Isa. 5:1-7, Jer. 2:21, Ps. 80:9). The Lord went to particular pains to gather out this nation and make it separate, bestowing peculiar favors upon it. This vineyard so well kept and provided for, did not bear fruit. (3) The husbandmen. These were the spiritual guides—the rulers and teachers of Israel. (4) The servants were sent for the fruit of the vineyard. These were the various prophets whom God sent to the nation. They were beaten and killed. (5) The Lord Jesus Christ, God's only and beloved Son, came into their midst. They knew Him to be the Son, but did not show Him reverence. They not only rejected the kingdom, but the King who was the Son.

A Great Will

Look at a great life, and you will find a great will behind it. But it is not self-will; it is a will attuned to that of God. Therefore it goes forward on the road of victory.—Young People.

Believing in God

There is nothing, in fact, that you can undertake with so great hopefulness and assurance as a victory over yourselves if only you can believe in God.—Horace Bushnell.

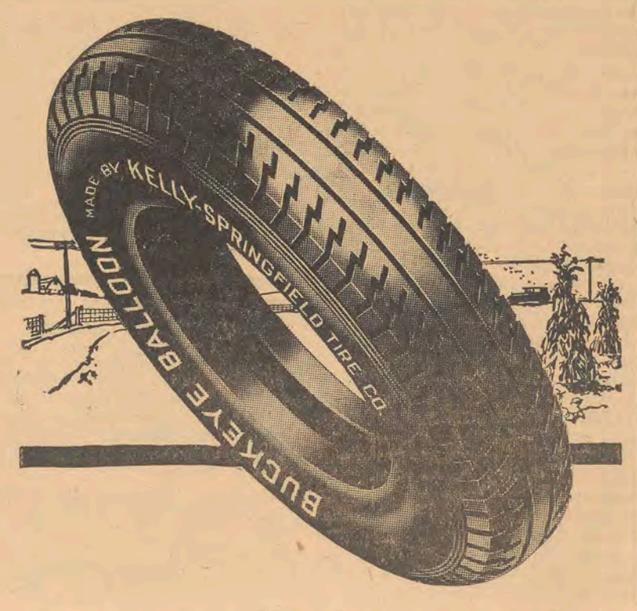
The Rainbow's End is within Your reach

DID you ever feel so desperate you wanted to jump out of a window? That's the wrong end of the rainbow.

Ill health is a burden on body, mind and friends. But Nature never fails to signal her dangers. Lack of appetite, flabby flesh, loss of strength and skin troubles is a warning from Nature. This is her way of pleading for help.

When S.S.S. is indicated you owe it to yourself to try it.



If you desire firm flesh, a glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessings of health you must keep your blood in good condition.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

a Monument to Alabama's Matchless Resources

Alabama Power Building
Birmingham, Alabama

This structure — home of Alabama Power Company in Birmingham — is an imposing monument to Alabama's matchless resources.

All the principal materials in this imposing structure, rated as one of the three most beautiful utility buildings in the world, came from Alabama — within a radius of sixty miles of the building site. Such required materials as were not made in Alabama, were bought thru firms maintaining sales offices in Alabama.

No other like area in the whole world* could have provided the complete array of building materials used in this structure. Here are some of them, all made from Alabama's own natural resources:

Structural Steel, Limestone, Marble, Brick, Building Tile, Cast Iron Pipe, Cement, Steam Radiators, Lime and Pine Lumber.

For years to come this building will exemplify the durability and beauty of the products of our state and stand as a silent challenge to all Alabamians to buy Alabama products and materials wherever possible.

Alabama's Butter Record Herd

The champion butter producing herd of Alabama is that owned by Loui Usry of Attalla. For the year ending last June, this herd of 19 pure-bred Jerseys averaged 7,848 pounds of milk and 385 pounds of butterfat, with a return above feed cost of $499.08 per cow. This record is all the more remarkable in that only four years ago Mr. Usry was just an average cotton planter whose entire dairy stock consisted of a single family cow.

Believing that a dairyman does better to first invest his money in good cows rather than in expensive buildings and equipment, Mr. Usry's own milking barn and milk room are of a type easily kept clean and sanitary but nothing elaborate, as can be seen from the picture. He is a milking machine enthusiast because he has found that by this method he can milk his cows in less than half the time required to do the job by hand. The cows prefer the machine methods of milking, he says, and it also enables him to produce a high grade of milk impossible under the old sy<

LECROY REUNION

The Lecroy family and relations met May 4th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lecroy at Jonestown near Isabella to celebrate their 50th anniversary.

The day was a very enjoyable one. All who could possibly come to this hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Lecroy were there to greet each other in hand shakes and loving words. I want to announce that there will be an all-day singing here Sunday, May 11, which is our regular annual singing. We will have a Mother's Day sermon at 11 o'clock. We invite everybody to come and be with us. The Clanton Quartet will be with us, so if you want to hear some good singing, you better not mis sthis one. Bring both Showalter and Stamps books.—Bill Coggins.

ADULTS CONTRACT CHILDREN'S DISEASES

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults —White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

Noted Planter Tells How He Side-Dresses Cotton

Every acre of cotton from East Texas to the Carolinas which did not receive 200 to 400 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer at planting will make a larger yield if it is side-dressed during the early growing season, says B. L. Moss, well-known farmer and agricultural writer of Soso, Miss.

Side-dressing cotton on Moss farm, Soso, Miss.

On his own farm, where as many as 750 acres are planted in Cotton, Moss side-dresses with 200 pounds of Chilean nitrate of soda, in addition to using about 100 pounds at planting time.

"The safest rule to follow in side-dressing," declares Mr. Moss, "is to make the application any time after the cotton is chopped out and put in a clean state of cultivation, but not later than the time the first blooms appear."

He scatters the material in a shallow furrow alongside the cotton row, on one side only, and lightly covers it by running a broad-sweep or heel-sweep once to each middle. The application is made by hand, and the nitrate dropped from 2 to 6 inches away from the plants. Following this system one man can side-dress about 8 acres a day.

MRS LAURA DAVIS DIED

Mrs. Laura Davis, age 70 years, died Monday morning at the Bryce Hospital in Tuscaloosa. The body was shipped to Maplesville Monday afternoon, where it was met by Martin's hearse and brought to Clanton.

Tuesday morning the body was carried by Martin to Mt. Pisgah and buried. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. S. Hand, assisted by Rev. Culp.

BEEF CATTLE ARE FEWER ON FARMS

Increase Seen as Prices for Meat Are Higher.

The beginning of this year found fewer beef cattle on farms and ranges in the United States than at any previous time for half a century. There were then only about 24,000,000 head in the country. Under the influence of higher prices for beef, the number is now beginning to increase, according to figures collected by C. R. Arnold of the rural economics department of the Ohio State university.

In summarizing the history of the beef cycle in the United States Arnold has found that in 1895 more than 40,000,000 beef cattle were on the farms and ranges of the country. This number declined to about 33,000,000 animals in 1904, and then started up again under the influence of strengthening prices. By 1907 the number had again risen to about 38,000,000 head. Low prices again caused a drop to about 27,000,000 head in 1914. War demands raised prices and the herds increased to a total of about 36,000,000 head in 1919. Sudden cessation of the war-time demand dropped the price, and numbers and prices declined together until they were exceptionally low from 1920 to 1926.

The beef cattle cycle extends over a long period of years, Arnold points out, because the number of cattle cannot be increased as rapidly as the number of hogs or sheep.

"It seems evident that we will have a larger number of cattle within the next few years, but it seems doubtful that we can expect low prices for beef cattle for at least two or three years, because the number which we have at the present time on ranges is so exceptionally low," says Arnold.

All Barns Need Plenty of Air and Sunlight

All barns should have an abundance of ventilation, sunlight and drainage. Beware of drainage toward or into the barn or yards from premises previously occupied by diseased animals of any kind. Old barns are more apt to be troublesome. Basement barns, particularly if built years ago, are likely to have floors at a level below that of the outside ground levels. This is dangerous, as it keeps such barns damp and full of bad air. Basements require a larger amount of drainage and ventilation than barns built wholly above ground and on high ground, with ample natural drainage of the surroundings. A low basement barn may easily drain an area of two or three hundred feet around it.

UNINTENTIONAL SUICIDE

Many people are slowly poisoning themselves just as surely as if they drank iodine every morning for breakfast. They are daily absorbing the toxins, or poisons, created by accumulated waste matter in their constipated digestive systems. Sooner or later disease will conquer their weakened bodies.

If you have dizzy spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, insomma, no appetite, bolious attacks or pains in the back and limbs, you are probably suffering from self poisoning caused by constipation. The surest and pleasantest relief for this condition is Herbine, the vegetable cathartic which acts in the natural way. Get a bottle today from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton.

A CORRECTION FROM CANE CREEK

We wish to correct the mistake that has been said about us moving our singing society to Refuge. We have not moved our singing. We just called our singing off last 4th Sunday afternoon for the class to go to Friendship and help them, and they have promised to come and help us whenever they can.

All of us who attended the singing at Friendship enjoyed the singing very much. We are willing to cooperate with other singing societies, and we want other societies to help us.

We will have our regular monthly singing the fourth Sunday afternoon in May, and we invite all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us, and feel welcome when you get here.—E. C. Traywick, Chairman; Lillie Mae Weldon, Secretary.

STATE CAPITOL News

Counties of Alabama are receiving road money from the proceeds of the two-cent gasoline tax of 1923 at the rate of over fifty thousand dollars each per annum, according to figures recently released by the gasoline tax division of the State Tax Commission. This revenue, which is in the nature of a windfall to the various counties, should, it is believed, be of material benefit to them in keeping up county roads.

Alabama has a gasoline tax of four cents per gallon, voted in two separate levies of two cents each. The proceeds of the second two-cent tax voted in 1927 goes to the state, for retiring the second road bond issue of $25,000,000, and for other road purposes. The 1923 tax of two cents, however, is divided equally among the 67 counties, with a provision that they shall use it in the maintenace and repair of roads and bridges. The amont which each county received from this tax does not depend upon the size of the county or the amont it pays to the tax. Jefferson and Choctaw share alike, each county getting one sixty-seventh of the revenue. This revenue is steadily increasing as gasoline consumption mounts. During 1927, each county received from this source $44,220.69; 1928, $49,259.81; and 1929, $52,775.56. This makes a total of $146,256.06 which each county has received during the three-year period, or a grand total of $9,799,-156.02 which has been divided among the 67 counties during the three years.

That the convict problem is still a problem is indicated by the protests voiced against employment of prison labor in various undertakings. For several years the question of removal of convicts from under lease in coal mines was an issue in Alabama, and was repeatedly promised, but never performed, until finally the present administration took them out. It has since developed that it is practically impossible to work convicts anywhere without running afoul of some one. If the prisoners are employed in growing strawberries, the berry producers of the state object; let them turn to the production of cucumbers and the wrath of the cucumber growers is voiced against such competition; labor objected to employment of convicts in industry and secured passage by Congress of an act prohibiting interstate shipment of convict-made goods, and in at least one county of Alabama objection has been voiced to working convicts on the roads, a delegation from that county contending that the work should be given to free labor in need of a job.

It is, of course, only natural for any and all classes of producers to object to being brought into competition with convict labor, but this objection does not dispose of the question of what to do with the convicts. Someone has facetiously suggested that the question could be solved by discontinuing the working of convicts altogether, but it is believed that the establishment of the criminal population of the state as a privileged leisure class would probably bring on still more adverse comment from the taxpayers.

Incidently, it is to be noted that the state's prison system provides means for consuming a far greater amount of cotton than is produced on state farms. The annual production of cotton on prison farms now being around 1,800 bales, while the consumption is 10,000 bales. This consumption has been largely increased in the last three years by employment of additional men in prison mills, increasing the hours of their operation.

Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, has called a conference of the 52 county health officers of Alabama to be held in Montgomery May 19-20. Dr. Baker, who was recently elected state health officer, wishes to establish personal contact with his field associations and map out a program of work.

AUSTRALIAN FORESTER VISITS ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., May 5.—Mr. A. D. Lindsay, a research official of the Australian federal forestry bureau, arrived at Montgomery May 2 to spend some time in the state inspecting the work of the Alabama Commission of Forestry with particular reference to the growing of southern pines. On the first day of his visit Mr. Lindsay viewed a considerable part of the state from the air in the plane assigned to the Commission of Forestry. He will visit the State Forestry Nursery during the period of his stay.

The Australian Forestry Bureau is considering the introduction of southern pines into the Island Continent. There is a great abundance of valuable hardwoods in Australia, but softwoods are in great demand. Experiments are being made to determie which species of pines will be most adaptable to the needs and growing conditions in that country. The pines of Alabama particularly the longleaf pine, thus far have made a very favorable impression.

SIX-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS AT LOW COST

FERTILIZER AND POISON ARE "CO-OPERATORS" IN OUR COTTON GROWING

Although the cotton farmer is accustomed to getting returns of from three to six dollars' worth of crop from each dollar's worth of fertilizer used, he can still afford to consider the adoption of any practice which will further increase the efficiency of the added plant food. Such a practice is poisoning to control the boll weevil, for sections in which it is or may become a serious menace.

That poisoning adds to the effectiveness of fertilizer is shown by the results of an interesting experiment conducted by the Alabama Experiment Station for the past six years. In this work comparisons have been made of the yields from different rates of fertilizer, with and without poison treatment. The six-year average yields without fertilizer are 115 pounds of seed cotton without poison and 158 pounds with poison. Below are shown the increases in seed cotton, with and without poison, for the different rates of fertilizer application. The fertilizer used was approximately a 15-5-5 grade.

Increase In Seed Cotton Per Acre

Fertilizer	Without Poison	With Poison	Incr
500 lbs.	321	453	132
1000 lbs.	632	909	277
1500 lbs.	838	1121	283
2000 lbs.	966	1238	272

The increases for the poison treatment indicate the extent to which the practice was profitable for the different rates of fertilizer treatment. It appears that the effect of the poison remains about the same after rates of 1000 pounds of fertilizer per acre are reached.

The effects of increasing amounts of fertilizer also are significant. It will be noted that 1000 pounds gave almost exactly twice as large increases as 500 pounds of fertilizer, both with and without poison.

"These results show in a conclusive manner that fertilizer and poison are strong 'allies' in the fight against low yields and high costs," according to county agent Stapp. The use of one of them in no way lessens the need for the other.

Farmers of Chilton County have made their investment in fertilizer under the cotton. Poisoning is one way of protecting that investment, or of increasing the returns from it.

CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH

Sunday May 4th, was our regular preaching day. We had two wonderful sermons preached by Bro. Homer Carroll. Our pastor could not be with us on account of sickness.

The singing society met in the afternoon, with a large crowd. After the opening song by the chairman, L. T. Grant, new officers for the society were elected. Mr. I. D. Huett was elected chairman; Mr. S. M. Yates, assistant chairman; Louanna Calloway, secretary. Directors for the afternoon were as follows: L.T. Grant, W. M. Gilliland, R. T. Grant, Lee Grant, I. D. Huett, S. M. Yates, Ralph D. Grant, two songs each. A solo was sung by Mr. Ralph Grant, which was enjoyed by all. Pianists for the afternoon were: Ralph Grant, Lee Grant and Bertie Grant. Everybody present seemed to enjoy the singing fine.

You are invited back with us next first Sunday afternoon; bring someone with you. The Clanton Quartet has promised to be with us some time in the near future; we hope it will be next first Sunday afternoon. We are always glad to have other societies with us.

Don't forget Mothers Day program Sunday night, May 11th, by Mrs. Mollie Miner. Everybody invited.—Louanna Calloway, secretary.

FARMERS FIGHT LOW YIELDS WITH BIG TONNAGE FERTILIZER

Alabama farmers have bought to date of May 3, 637,759 tons of fertilizer, according to figures released by W. B. Graffin, chief clerk of the department of agriculture at Montgomery. This year, therefor eranks third in the tonnage of fertilizers, according to tag sales from the department.

"While the season is practically over with, the sale of a few thousand tons more is expected," said Mr. Griffin. It is not expected that the high record of 692,318 tons in 1928 can be surpassed. Neither the second high record of 675,350 tons made in 1929.

"When it is considered that farmers were not considered financially able to buy large amounts of fertilizer, this tonnage, which is the third largest of record, comes as a tribute to the skill and foresight of Alabama cotton producers.

"Farmers know full well that cotton cannot be produced at a profit unless fertilizer is applied heavily. Appearance indicate that a very heavy application per acre will be made on cotton this year. Only 4,600 tons were sold the past week, and it is known that but little more will be moved."

Conversation between passengers on an express train clicking over the rails at 70 miles per hour and persons in Ottowa, Washington, and London, April 27, marked the inauguration of the Canadian National Railway's new telephone communication system.

Constipation Troubles

"I HAVE used Black-Draught as a family medicine for a good many years," says Mrs. Sallie Laughrun, of Huntdale, N. C. "I have found it an excellent remedy for constipation and the troubles that follow it. I have suffered frequently from gas pains, and when I am bothered that way I begin at once to take Black-Draught. Relief follows quickly.

"I give Black-Draught to the children when they are constipated, and it is not long until they are running around again."

A Monument To Alabama Products

This imposing structure, the home office of Alabama Power Company, located in Birmingham, is verily a monument to Alabama's natural resources. The principal materials used in the construction of this building, including structural steel, limestone, marble, brick, building tile, cast iron pipe, cement, steam radiators, lime and pine lumber, came from within sixty miles of the site on which the building stands, a feat that cannot be duplicated anywhere else in the world.

It has been pronounced by a London Daily newspaper as one of the three most beautiful public utility buildings in the world. It is a silent challenge to all Alabamians to buy Alabama materials whenever and wherever possible.

DEASON REUNION

On Sunday morning, May 4th, the children of Rev. T. J. Deason gathered at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Tan Powell, to celebrate his 68 birthday. The day was enjoyed by all present, and at the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served on the table which was prepared out in the yard in the beautiful shades. In the afternoon we had a home service conducted by Rev. Grady Williams, and we all enjoyed it very much. After the service pictures were made of father, children and grand children. There are 12 children in this union, 10 of whom were present; there are 28 grand children, 25 of whom were present; two of the seven great grand children were present.

Those enjoying this glorious privilege were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Wyatt and children of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dobbs and children of Clanton, Mrs. Ben Deason and children of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Deason and children of Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Powell and children of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Elbie Deason of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Sherley Pierce and children of Sipsy, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. William Deason and little daughter of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Till Deason and little daughter of Birmingham, and Miss Beulah Deason of Clanton. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Baker and children of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mims of Clanton.

We all went home feeling good that we had spent one more birthday with father and grand father, and we all hope to spend many more with him. May God help each and every one that we may live the life he has lived before us. Written by his grand daughter, Dessie Wyatt.

NEW EXECUTIVE OFFICERS NAMED BY POWER COMPANY

The election of Perry W. Turner as executive vice-president, a director and a member of the executive committee, Wells M. Stanley and George H. Middlemiss as vice-presidents, and E. P. Cummings as a director of Alabama Power Company was announced by Thomas W. Martin, president, following Tuesday's annual meeting of the board of directors.

Mr. Turner is a native Alabamian, having been born and reared in Cherokee, Colbert County, Alabama. Graduating from Washington and Lee, and of the University of Alabama law school, he practiced his profession in Birmingham from 1908 to 1915, when he was appointed Assistant Attorney General of the State serving until 1918. He then became a member of the legal staff of Alabama Power Company, and has served in various capacities, including that of assistant to the president and as a member of the firm of Martin, Thompson, Turner and McWhoter.

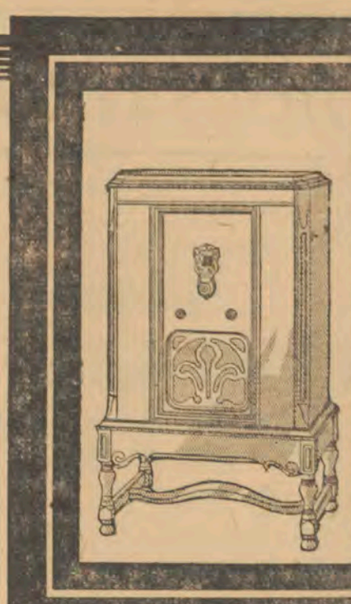
Mr. Stanley came up from the ranks, entering the service in 1909 of the utility company serving Huntsville and serving successively as manager at Attalla and Huntsville, manager of the Power Company's Northern Division, general manager of Gulf Power Company at Pensacola, and manager of sales at Birmingham.

Entering the Power Company's service in 1917 as superintendent of maintenance, Mr. Middlemiss's ability earned for him early promotion to superintendent of distribution and later to vice-president of Southeastern Engineering Company.

Vice-presidents, E. A. Yates, O. G. Thurlow, W. E. Mitchell and W. J. Henderson, who have taken up other activities, presented their resignations to the board.

Messrs. Yates and Thurlow also resigned as directors at the annual meeting of the stockholders on Monday, and Messrs. Turner and F. P. Cummings, the latter of New York, were elected in their stead.

Other transactions of the board were of a routine nature, Mr. Martin said.



APPLE BLOSSOM TIME

The senior class of Isabella High School presents its play "Apple Blossom Time" Thursday evening, May 15 at eight o'clock. This promises to be the best play ever produced at Isabella or even in this county. If you wish to see a whirlwind of a girl completely captivate her young guardian, Bob Matthews, who is played by Houston DeRamus, then see Myrtle Durbin as Betty Ann Stewart. Oliver Manning as Charlie Lawrence, who is "some little fixer" is excellent. Cal Pickens, the village constable, played by Herman Lecroy, affords barrels of laughter, and Oswald Mims as Mickey McGuire, will make you laugh until your sides really crack. If you doubt it, come and see him, if you don't, come any way. The other characters are equally as good. The complete cast of characters are as follows:

Bob Matthews, an unwilling visitor at the crossroads. Houston DeRamus, Charlie Lawrence, his go-getter friend, Oliver Manning, Spud McClosky, from the Sunshine Alley, Claude Conaway. Mickey McGuire, also from Sunshine Alley, Oswald Mims. Cal Pickens, the village constable, Herman Lecroy. Betty Ann Stewart, a human whirlwind, Myrtle Durbin.

Nancy Prescott, a pretty neighbor, Jewell Foshee. Loretta Harris, the prettiest girl in the village, Esther Ray. Polly Biddle, caretaker of tad Forrestt's home, Audrey Johnson. Malvina Kurtz, whose ambition is to have a beau, Avoleen Webb. Mrs. Forrestt, sister-in-law of Tad Forrestt, Etta Mae Mullins. Annabel Spriggins, the village old maid, Ethel Mullins.

TOP-DRESSING WILL INCREASE THE YIELD

Auburn, Ala., May 5.—For increasing yields top-dressing of cotton and corn with a good nitrogen fertilizer is recommended by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Based upon extensive experimental data the recommendation is made that farmers using the Auburn maximum side-dressing after chopping with 150 pounds nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime and that farmers following the Auburn minimum recommendations side-dress with 75 pounds of either of the same materials.

The Experiment Station also says that 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda or ntrate of lime applied 40 days after planting will increase the yield of corn under nearly all conditions.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Commencement day (meaning the day some folks finish) at Thorsby Institute will be Friday, May 30th. The first sprinkle of the shower of doings in connection with the event is recorded as follows:

Last Saturday night the senior class of Thorsby Institute, their class adviser, Miss Stoddard, Miss Jenkins, principal, and Mr. Maddox, registrar, were delightfully entertained by the Juniors and their class adviser, Miss Klingelhoefer at the home of Miss Kathryn Foss. Various games were played on the lawn and delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raybon, who have been spending two weeks with their parents in Thorsby, helping with strawberries, returned to their home in Birmingham last Sunday.

Miss Maud Brantley of Free Springs, who has been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rayburn, returned to her home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Manly Smith have as their guest their grand daughter, Miss Dovey Jones, of Baker Hill.

We are requested to announce that there will be no Baptist Ladies Aid social this week.

Mr. Olaf Schieve is not well for several days past; we hope he will soon be better, after he learns to eat again.

Mothers Day will be observed at the Congregational church next Sunday morning. Rev. Each will have a sermon specially prepared for the occasion, and there will be special music. We particularly invite all of the mothers of Thorsby and vicinity to be present, unless they feel called to attend similar services elsewhere. Don't fail to come; you will be welcome.

Last Sunday morning Rev. Each preached a fine sermon from the text found in Proverbs 8:36: "If any man sin against me, he wrongs his own soul." He dwelt strongly on the fact that persistence in known sin injures the sinner most of all, and unfits him for minding the interests of his own soul.

Next week, Wednesday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m., the usual monthly union prayer meeting will be held in the new Baptist church. Please note the time and place.

Circle No. 2, formerly the Y. W. A. will hold a social meeting at the home of Mrs. S. C. Wood, Tuesday afternoon, May 13th.

The Y. W. A. will meet with their leader, Mrs. Sidney Davenport, at 4:00 p.m., Friday, May 9th. All young girls over fifteen years of age are invited to come and join.

Strawberries

The strawberry season is practically closed at Thorsby. No more cars will be loaded this year. Thirty car loads have been shipped during the past three weeks, also about two car loads have been sent out by express, making all told upwards of 10,000 crates of 24 quarts each, which sold at an average of just about $3.00 per crate. Twenty-five car loads were sold on track at Thorsby and five were shipped on consignment.

Considering the acreage, the number of growers, and quality of the fruit, this has been one of the poorest seasons in the history of the industry at Thorsby. Excessive rains and unusual cold weather all through March injured the plants, and there was but one good rain all during the picking season, Many thousands of crates were left in the hands of the growers, and it is doubtful if any got enough for their crop this year to pay expenses. However, most of the invested capital has been saved in the fields of plants that with proper care will be ready to bear an abundant crop next season. On the basis that "Misery loves company," Thorsby growers can console themselves with the fact that the same conditions have prevailed over a wide area of strawberry growing sections of the South. There is no legitimate business we know of that does not have its lean years; and those who stick are those who win in the long run.

Mrs. F. R. Merchant had as her guests last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Milstead, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lucas and Miss Green, all of Wilton.

R. A. Maddox and Cecil Each made a business trip to Birmingham last Friday.

J. R. Martin and son, Erschel, have bought the Thorsby Meat Market from D. H. Gentry.

Miss Mabel Howard returned from a Birmingham hospital Monday evening; she is at home and seems to be doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate had as their guests last Sunday, Lester Pate, Hollis Pate, and wife of Wetumpka, and a brother and sister of Mrs. Hollis Pate, of Brewton, Ala.

Mrs. C. S. Howard and daughter, Ella, with Miss Lucille Howard, motored to St. Elmo, Ala., last Saturday, where they will visit Mrs. Howard's mother, Mrs. Husby, for about ten days.

Mrs. Willis, her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Davenport, went to Pletcher on Tuesday to visit a brother of Mrs. Willis, who is ill.

We want to call your attention to next Sunday. It is a day that has been set aside as Mothers Day. We urge everyone who can to be with us in our Mothers Day service at the Thorsby Baptist Church, Sunday, May 11th. We give the parents a cordial invitation to visit our B. Y. P. U. during the month of May.

Come!

Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane of Birmingham were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

David Crosley of Albany, Ga., spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. E. N. Bentley spent last week in Birmingham.

PASTOR'S COURSE CLOSES IN NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., May 2.—School is out! And 365 country preachers are leaving their temporary schoolroom for the pulpit again, ready to give 365 country communities the benefit of their pastor's two weeks in school.

For the fourth consecutive year, the Vanderbilt Rural Church School here was held "commencement" exercises for its pastorial pupils, who journeyed this year from 24 states, and left pulpits of 28 denominations, to learn how to be better rural ministers.

Two weeks ago on April 21, several hundred individuals of separate faiths arrived on the campus of Vanderbilt University, to find out how to fulfil better their various obligations to the communities in which they lived; and at noon today these same men, amalgated into a student body unit, with a real "school spirit" packed up their books, accepted their certificates, received their honors, and entrained for home, all hoping to come again next year.

DISTRICT S. S. CONVENTION

The April meeting at Chestnut Creek, Coopers, was attended by over a hundred delegates, and very successful. Yet there are schools in this district that have not been represented this year.

WEST CHILTON

Weather very dry. Gardens suffering for rain.

Last Thursday evening Walter Latham passed away. He was sick only a few days. Pneumonia caused his death.

Roy Waldrop and family visited their father at Jemison Sunday.

H. L. Smith of Randolph attended the burial of Mr. Latham Friday afternoon.

We read with interest Mr. W. L. Sander's platform in last week's Banner. The central truth of the entire article seemed to be, "Let the people control the Schools," and "Not destroy the Rural Schools."

John S. Waldrop and Homer Atchison attended the burial at Pleasant Grove Friday.

Several of our people went to Mt. Nebo Saturday to the Singing Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crumpton of Free Springs were among their friends here last week.

The candidates were liberally represented at Mt. Nebo Saturday and Sunday. A. A. Jackson, Mr. Willis, Joseph E. Cobb, W. L. Sanders, J. H. Martin, Mr. Billingsley, Walter Gillespie.

Miss Cofield's Class Guests of Womans College

On last Saturday Miss Edna Coefield took several of her girls, who are members of the physical education class in school, to Montgomery as the guests of Womans College in the "Play Day" exercises. All reported a very nice time, and were overjoyed with the splendid hospitality and courteous treatment received at the hands of those in charge of the day's program. They took part in the plays and games and then a swim in the pool. Most of all was a good dinner free to all.

Senior III Gift To C. C. H. S. Completed

The Senior III memorial has been completed, and now stands as a silent reminder of the days spent in dear old Chilton County High School. The tablet bearing the inscription: Chilton County High School, Class of 1930, is chiseled out of solid marble. This marble is white as snow without a blemish. Samuel Martin, and J. C. Maddox went over to Sylacauga to the marble factory, and personally saw that they were getting the real material. This tablet is now imbedded in the brick column. The other classes are already discussing what they would like to present to their alma mater.

Three Interesting Visitors

We were very glad to have with us again, Miss Jessie Garrison, from the State Department of Education. She made a most splendid talk on "Making your self necessary." We become lop-sided, the speaker said. We need a well-rounded education, she emphasized.

Another guest was Mr. A. C. Shelton, of the Extension Department of Jacksonville State Teachers College. He came in the interest of soliciting students to enter college there next September.

Our third guest of the school was Miss Robbie Sawyer, one of our former teachers, but now connected with the First Baptist Church of Montgomery in some type of clerical work. We were all very glad to see Miss Sawyer, as evidenced by the entire student body.

MISS MABEL HOWARD RETURNS HOME

We notice an item in Thorsby news says Miss Mabel Howard returned to her home Monday afternoon from a Birmingham hospital. The many friends of Miss Howard in Clanton hope that she will soon be able to get back to her shop here.

MULLIN'S CEMETERY

All that have an interest in the Mullins and Jones Cemetery please meet Friday morning, May 9th for the purpose of cleaning of the graves. Please bring tools. Gertie M. Brand

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lowe of Montgomery spent Sunday in Clanton with Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee.

He held her to his manly breast
And murmured, "How I love thee!"
He had no time to tell the rest—
His roadster climbed an elm tree.

SINGING AT COURT HOUSE TUESDAY NIGHT SUCCESS

"Better than ever," was the general expression of people at the big all day singing at the court house in Clanton Tuesday night of this week. There were more people present than before, and the singing was better also. In fact the singing was just about as good as could be under any circumstances.

Singers from all over the county were present, and they did not fail to "put out," as the saying sometimes goes.

Z. Y. Appleton, of the United Singing society, was selected to preside, and the service was opened with prayer by J. Z. Mims. About a dozen directors occupied the floor, and several quartets were sung by the local quartet singers. After a number of announcements, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Malcolm Lockhart.

DR. J. B. WILLIAMS LOCATES IN CLANTON

Greetings to the people of Clanton and Chilton County: I have just recently taken up residence in your town and county. I did not come here without solicitation; if I may not do you any good, I trust that I may not harm anyone.

I am a Douglas Practitioner; I mean by that, I do not prescribe nor give drugs in any practice. And too, why should I give drugs, since you have several able-looking M. D.'s at your service? And you are not all well yet.

What about your health? Is your condition as good as it is possible to make it? Have drugs restored your health, or do you need an operation? You know that is the slogan now; but before you submit to an operation, come to see me, will you? I've been practicing for several years and the first patient is yet to appear that has had to be operated upon, though several had plans made to go for an operation.

Now, don't understand me to claim that there is not ever a time when operations are necessary to prolong life or to make one more comfortable afterwards. I make no such claim. What I do say, and I say it with all emphasis possible, that there are far too many operations needlessly performed. Many surgeons say so too. I will say that not over one-tenth would be necessary with the proper treatment.

I came to Clanton to help sick folks get well. I often say that there are only two classes that I can't help—one class are the dead ones, the other are those who won't let me. There is only one disease—INFLAMATION, and there is only one cure—ELIMINATION. Oh, you may have this and that name applied to your symptoms, but you trace them back and you will find that inflamation was first. Then to get a cure you have to have elimination. Now, the best methods to do that is the crux of the whole game of healing. My method is to stimulate natural functions by working on nerve centers in the spinal column, which can be done by chiropractic, by galvanic and sinusoidal currents applied at the proper place; by vibration and concussion and by hydrotheropy — applications of water.

If you have ailments that have baffled the skill of your physician, and nothing bettered, give me a trial. I seldom fail when I can have the co-operation of the patient (and his money—ha).

My office is over Upchurch Drug Company. Hours 9 a.m., to 6 p.m. Free consultation. You are cordially invited.

J. B. WILLIAMS, D.C., N.D.

Lett Case Before the Supreme Court

Validity of Committee's Action to be Passed upon by Highest Judges in Alabama

The case of M. F. Lett against the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, was submitted in the Supreme Court of Alabama Tuesday. Attorneys Percy Pitts and Omar Reynolds were in Montgomery to represent the committee.

Some weeks ago this case was heard in Judge Smoot's court at Wetumpka. Judge Smoot sustained demurrers filed by Attorneys Pitts and Reynolds, thus holding that the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County had a legal right to require candidates to make an affidavit of how they voted in 1928.

Petitioner Lett, through his attorneys, J. O. Middleton and Arthur Chilton, thereupon dismissed the petition and gave notice of appeal to the Supreme Court. Appeal bond was furnished by M. F. Lett, with W. A. Calloway and J. H. Jackson as sureties for the payment of the court costs.

The case was called in the Supreme Court Tuesday. By agreement of the attorneys, same was submitted upon briefs. No oral argument was held in the matter.

Lett claims to be trying to get on the Republican ticket as a candidate for the school board without complying with the resolution of the executive committee which says that Republican candidates shall make an affidavit of how they voted in 1928.

ANNUAL SESSION K. OF P. MEETS AT MONTGOMERY

The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of Alabama, will meet in 58th annual sesion in the city of Montgomery on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 20th and 21st, and this promises to be one of the most constructive sessions ever held by this body in the Grand Domain of Alabama. The meeting will be presided over by the Grand Chancellor, Tully A. Goodwin of Florala, and recorded by Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, Joe King Stanley of Montgomery.

HARVEY FOSHEE TAKES JOB AT KILBY PRISON

J.H. Foshee has gone to Kilby Prison at Montgomery, where he has accepted a position as guard of convicts. He states that he will be located at Kilby permanently in the future, and will remove his family to Montgomery as soon as he can secure a house to live in.

As an officer of the law, Mr. Foshee is widely known throughout Chilton County. For several years past he has been serving in different capacities as deputy sheriff and as a member of the State law enforcement squad.

N. A. MARSHALL HERE IN REGARD TO McKEE DEATH

Mr. N. A. Marshall of 4002 Oak Street, Birmingham, was in Clanton a while Thursday of last week attending to some matters relating to the death of Eli McKee at Coopers on May 2nd. Mr. Marshall was driving the automobile which unavoidably struck Mr. McKee's buggy and caused his death about an hour later. There was no charge placed against Mr. Marshall, because all evidence went to prove that he was not at all to blame for the accident.

Mr. Marshall and other eye witnesses say that Mr. McKee drove on to the highway at the main crossing at Coopers and was going south at a lively pace. Mr. Marshall was also going south at around 30 miles an hour. The buggy seems to have been well on the right side of the highway when the car started to pass, but as the car got in about 30 feet of him he pulled his horse right square in front of the car, this being only a few feet south of Smith's garage and about even with Mr. Vance's front yard. Mr. McKee, reports say, gave no signal or sign of his intention to turh. The car went into the side of the buggy at the front, shoving buggy and horse into an electric pole. The pole tore the horse loost from the buggy, threw Mr. McKee out and knocked the horse on top of Mr. McKee. The horse falling on him is said to have caused his death. Sign on the post showed where the buggy shaves struck as well as where the bumpers on the car struck.

Mr. Marsall stopped and helped out all he could in getting Mr. McKee to the hospital in Clanton. He gave his name and address to the people who saw the accident, and stopped in Clanton on his return from Montgomery, and explained the details of the accident to the officers of the law. He was cleared of all blame for the accident.

Mr. Marshall paid the bill at the undestakers, Martin, who had the burial in charge.

CHILTON COUNTY LEADS DISTRICT IN BUREAU MEMBERSHIP

Miss Zora Guy, assistant secretary Chilton County Farm Bureau, states that Chilton County Farm Bureau now leads the twenty-one counties of this district in Farm Bureau membership. Chilton County has been second place until last week when she took the lead over Randolph County by five members.

Miss Guy states that the membership rating is based on the insurance applications that go in to the Montgomery office, and that there are some thirty or more members in the county who have paid their dues but have not filled out the application cards for insurance. If you have not received your insurance policy, see Miss Guy at the Farm Bureau office and get your insurance card filled out so Chilton County can keep the lead on the other twenty counties of our district.

Miss Guy further states that there are many good farmers of the county who seem to appreciate the service the Farm Bureau office is trying to give in making it possible for the farmers to get poultry and dairy feeds, seeds, etc., as recommended by the Alabama Experiment Station, at wholesale prices, providing good markets for their chickens, cream and other farm products, and the numerous other services the Farm Bureau is trying to render Chilton County.

BEAUTIFUL THEME SONG IN WILD ANIMAL SERIAL HERE

The disappearance of the famous explorer, Stanley, in darkest Africa, years ago, and his rescue by Livingston, is one of the great epic stories of modern times. This story, "The King of the Kongo," beginning at the Wadesonian next week, tells a similar tale. A government secret service man, on a special mission to Cambodia, disappears. Tren, another secret service man, is sent to find him. There he joins forces with a beautiful white girl who sacrifices her father, whom she has never seen but who is said to be living in the ancient ruins of the temple of Nuhalla, deep in the forbidding forests of little-known Cambodia.

This story is of extreme heroism, of suffering and courage, of battles with wild beasts and with Nature who fights to keep her dark secrets hidden far from the sight of white man. It will thrill, it will grip your nerves and set them vibrating with the fever of adventure; it will make every man, woman, child who sees the first episode, follow through the entire serial at the Wadesonian with the faithfulness of a worshipper.

This is Nat Levine's finest serial production in his long history of successes. Always a pioneer, he is launching the first wild animal talking serial, complete with sound and a wonderful musical accompaniment and a beautiful theme song that will soon be the king of Tin-Pan Alley.

This is a picture you can't afford to pass up. See the first episode at the Wadesonian Theatre next week.

BIG INCREASE MADE IN SHIPPERS OF CREAM

County Agent Stapp announces that sixty-nine cream shippers sould cream through the cream station Saturday. Saturday was the biggest day since the opening. The report shows that on Saturday, May 3rd, forty-six farmers shipped 256 pounds of butterfat for which they received little more than $85.00. Last Saturday, sixty-nine farmers received $98.36.

Mr. Stapp is still urging farmers to improve their pastures and grow plenty of grain and soy bean hay.

OVER THOUSAND LAMBS SOLD IN MONTGOMERY THURSDAY

That Montgomery has developed into a leading livestock market and farmers of the Black Belt section of Alabama have learned that it pays to produce quality livestock, was determined last Thursday when sheep growers of the Black Belt sold 1,137 lambs at the Farm Bureau co-op sale held at the Union Stock Yards, reported J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialists of the extension service upon making a final check upon the sale in the farm bureau office this morning. Top ewe and weather lambs sold for 10.75 and top buck lambs sold for 10 cents per pound, despite the fact that the market is very much depressed over the entire country.

"This year's lambs proved to be the best fitted lambs offered on this market since the introduction of the industry some years ago," Mr. Moore said. The depressed lamb market over the country is a hard stroke for the thrifty lamb producers to have to encounter, but it was the "outspoken intention of the best sheepmen who attended the sale here in Montgomery to continue to produce the best."

To show that the present slump in the lamb market offers an opportunity for the Black Belt lamb producers to increase the quality of their lambs, Mr. Moore commented: "It gives them a good opportunity to hold back the best ewe lambs as a means of developing strong flocks of better bred ewes in order to be ready for the good years in lamb prices. The low sheep and lamb prices over the entire country is causing large numbers of good flocks in the West to be discontinued.

Therefore, this periodical slump should give us an opportunity to improve our breeding flocks and come back with the production of a better lamb from year to year."

F. W. Burns, livestock specialist, R. G. Arnold, district agent of the southeastern part of Alabama and county agents are working continuously to develop the livestock industry in the Black Belt. The lambs which were sold at the sale last week came from Montgomery, Hale, Perry, Marengo, Autauga, Dallas, Wilcox, Lowndes and Geneva counties. The county agents in these counties who cooperated with the lamb producers in conducting the sale are: Dem Edmonson, Montgomery; L. C. Rew, Prattville; R. S. Parker, Hayneville; J. P. Robinson, Marion; John Blake and A. C. Allen, Selma; J. L. Lawson, Greensboro; R. D. Winch, Linden; W. A. Cammack, Camden; and H. B. Helms, Geneva.

Announcement was made this a.m. at the farm bureau office that the second cooperative lamb sale will be held on May 29th, with the final clean-up sale the latter part of June.

METHODIST WOMEN BASEBALL GAME BETWEEN FATS & LEANS PROVES INTERESTING EVENT

The Methodist ladies introduced one of the most amusing innovations last Friday afternoon when they arrayed fats against the leans in a thrilling game of baseball at the High School Park. When the smoke had cleared away and the players and spectators had recovered from exhauston, it was found that the fats had made 27 scores and the leans 25.

It was hard to tell which crowd was the most outdone when the game was over. The players were completely outdone from their efforts at carrying through the performance. The spectators had laughed until they were in as bad a fix as the players.

Pitchers for the fats were Mrs. Percy Pitts and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson. Mrs. Virginia Alred Polk went the whole route for the leans.

Miss Madeolyn Orr accomplished an unheard-of feat in modern baseball when she made a home-run on a bunt. She was aided in this stunt by three errors on the part of fielders who threw wild to first, second, and third base successively. It was protested by the opposing team that Miss Orr failed to touch the bags as she went around; but base umpire, Dewey Rockett dismissed the argument and ruled in favor if Miss Orr.

Izora Callen Alred was a "sight" in her exhibition as first base for the leans. She wore a uniform labeled Broadus Connatser. Miss Madelyn Orr wore the uniform of Babe Ruth. That is doubtless the reason why she made such a thundering trip around the diamond.

Miss Peggy Sartor was an outstanding event, if a man of sixty all dressed up and painted, masquerading as a woman in a baseball game might be properly called an event.

The following is the lineup of the fats:

Miss Bess Thomas, first base; Mrs. Warr, second base; Miss Naemi Turnquist, third base; Mrs. Myrtle Pitts and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, pitchers; "Miss Peggy" Sartor, shortstop; Mrs. W. M. Polk and Mrs. Norman Robers, outfield; Miss Madge Scarborough, Catcher.

Ernest Childs was official score keeper. Macy Jones, Vick Heard, and L. C. Ross were official rooters.

The reporter of this article did not see the game. Our efforts at securing the facts from which to make the story met with very poor success, because we could not get in touch with the right party at the right time. However, we have discovered the secret of how come the fats to win. Along in the last half of the game they became so exhausted that they could not run around the bases. Whereupon, they hired school children to do the running for them.

W. O. W. HAS BIG MEETING IN CLANTON MONDAY NIGHT

Clanton Camp No. 322, Woodmen of the World, held its regular meeting Monday night. On account of the overflow in attendance of members of this and visiting camps, it was necessay to have a larger place for the meeting than the regular hall. Therefore, the Maddox Warehouse was secured, so that there would be ample room to accomodate everyone.

It is estimated that the total attendance was more than 200. There were visitors from Montgomery, Marbury, Mt. Creek, Verbena, Thorsby, Maplesville, Selma, and Plantersville.

The main business of the meeting was the initiation of a large class of new members. Forty-two candidates were introduced into the mysteries of woodcraft, the degree work being put on by a class of experts from Magnolia Camp, of Montgomery.

POULTRY SPECIALIST FROM AUBURN WILL BE HERE JUNE 2ND

Mr. Stapp announces that Mr. Bailey, poultry specialist from Auburn, and one of the most practical and best informed poultry men he knows, will be in the county for two meetings June 2nd.

Mr. Stapp is anxious for every one in the county who is interested in more and better chickens to meet and talk with Mr. Bailey. Mr. Stapp is arranging for one meeting to be held at the Farm Bureau office in Clanton at 10 o'clock Monday morning, June 2nd, and a meeting at the Jemison High School building Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Stapp asks that all who are interested in raising chickens profitably, to please help advertise these two meetings, because he thinks Mr. Bailey's visit to the county will be worth thousands of dollars to the poultry raisers if they attend these meetings and let Mr. Bailey answer the many questions they may have in mind.

Singing-Mothers Day Services at Walnut

The expression of many was that it was as good as they had ever attended. All who were present at the eleven o'clock hour seemed to enjoy the Mothers Day sermon by Rev. F. A. Gibson. Every boy and girl should have heard this serman. Our young people fail in a large measure to honor father and mother as they should. The Bible says, "Honor thy father and mother, that thy days may be long upon the earth."

The service was greatly enjoyed throughout the day. The singing in the afternoon was excellent. Those who directed before noon were T. L. Mims, Marion Easterling, J. E. Miner, S. V. Miller and Willie Mims. Afternoon directors were: J.Z. Mims, Rev. M. Lockhart, Dr. J.B. Williams, E. L. Glasscock, O. L. DeVaughn, H. W. Lowery, Jesse Jones, Akins Collins, Amie Boswell, A. H. Glasscock, Jasper Oaks. At this time Mr. J. R. Robinson and daughter, Flora Mae, sang a duet, the title of the song being "Somewhere." Following this R. M. Robinson and Archie Devaughn directed one song each.

Several quartets were rendered by the Clanton quartet, composed of Jesse Jones, Akins Collins, Archie Devaughn and Renfroe Jones. They can do that what you call singing quartets.

Pianists for the day were: Marion Eesterling, Edna Wyatt, Mrs. Renfroe Jones, W. G. Culp, Amie Boswell. The closing song was sung by the Clanton Quartet, "Where We'll never Grow Old. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. M. Lockhart. Everyone went home, feeling that the day had been well spent.—T. L. Mims, Chm.

MORE GOOD CATTLE COMING TO CHILTON COUNTY

County Agent Stapp, Ralph Mims and James Dennis, Secretary of the Chilton County Jersey Calf Club, went to Tupelo, Mississippi, last week and bought some nice Jersey heifers and bulls for the club boys. Mr. Stapp states that most of the calves bought were being prepared for a show at Tupelo, Friday, May 16th, and the owners wanted to keep them until after the show. Mr. Stapp and several of the club boys and interested farmers are planning to attend the show at which time they will posibly buy more calves.

Ala. Republicans Call on Mr. Hoover

Judge Reynolds Chosen to Present Claims Before Chief Executive

A delegation of about sixteen of the leading Republicans of Alabama, headed by Dr. Swann, of Mobile, State Chairman, were in Washington last week. These men were at the national capital in the interest of the appointment of Hon. O. D. Street to succeed the late Judge Clayton, as judge of the Federal Court at Montgomery.

At a conference of the Alabama Republicans who were in Washington on this misison, Judge L. H. Reynolds was selected as the one to make the speech before President Hoover. An interview with the President at the White House was granted them last Wednesday.

Judge Reynolds made a very forceful appeal to the President on behalf of Mr. Street and the delegation which he represented, and pleaded with President Hoover in the interest of the entire Republican party in Alabama.

At the conclusion of the interview President Hoover assured Judge Reynolds and the delegation of Alabama Republicans that he would appoint a Republican to the judgeship to succeed Judge Clayton.

MARVIN LOWERY WITH SCHOOL SUPPLY CO. IN COLUMBIA, S. C.

Marvin Lowery, known among his many young friends as "Cricket," is in Columbia, South Carolina, with the Southeastern School Supply Co. This company was founded a few weeks ago by Howard L. Foshee of Montgomery, owner of the Alabama School Supply Company.

Mr. Lowery, son of Zack Lowery of Liberty Hill, has been working with Mr. Foshee since last July, in Montgomery, so when Mr. Foshee established his business in Columbia, he saw fit to send Marvin Lowery over there to work in that place.

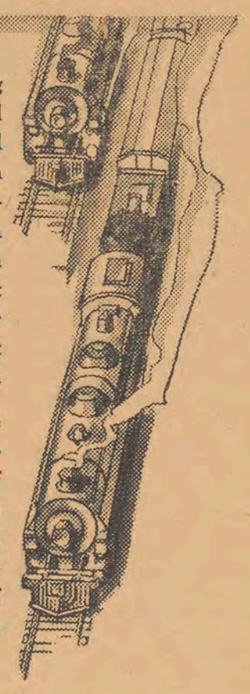
Young Lowery's many friends in Chilton county will be glad to learn of his promotion, and will wish him lots of success in his new place.

He wrote his dad and ordered him to have The Union-Banner sent to Columbia, so that he can hear of what is going on around Chilton County. His Address is 1120, Lady Street, Columbia, S. C. He will be glad to have his friends write to him occasionally.

DIEF'S NEW ELECTRIC SIGN

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, proprietor of Dief's Service Station, and one of the livest business men in Clanton, is also one of Clanton's best advertisers. Dief never misses a chance to put the name of "Goodyear" in the eyes of those who pass his station, and travel the nearby highways. That's just another reason why Dief is considered one of our best business men. He appreciates the value of advertising, and accepts the old saying, "it pays to advertise," for all it is worth.

Dief's latest is a new sign on the corner of his filling station, and it is really one to "hit 'em in the eye." It is an electric sign, with the name "Goodyear" in flaming red letters, and you can't help but notice it. In fact, you can't help but notice it first when you come in sight of Clanton, no matter if you're going north or south on the highway. Our first urge was to turn in the fire alarm when we hove into view early Monday night, when the new sign was switched on for the first time.



Dief's new sign is the best one displayed in Clanton up to this time, and after a few people have time to see just how effective it is, we wouldn't be surprised to see quite a few of its type erected in Clanton.

Dief is proud of his sign. He says it is a "rip-snorter," whatever that is. However that is only as it should be, for Dief is fully as up-to-date in his business methods, and the big new sign just goes to prove it all over again.

. . . . Quick Delivery of Merchandise Helps Make Your Dollars Go Further

One of the major merchandising developments of the post-war period has been the increasing stress placed upon rapid turnover of goods. In practically every line of business today, stocks are being purchased in smaller amounts than was the case a decade ago. Result: more efficient distribution, larger profit per dollar of invested capital, and, in most trades, lower prices to the consumer.

But rapid turnover of merchandise is necessarily based upon prompt, dependable, and regular delivery of shipments. The stream of goods must pass from manufacturer to wholesaler, to dealer and public, swiftly and freely. Here the railroads of America have contributed much to modern business.

The fact that the railroads last year attained 99.99% efficiency in the delivery of freight cars to shippers, and moved freight at a higher speed than ever before, stands as a real tribute to modern management. They also made 11 other new records of efficiency.

Each year the railroads have responded to the Nation's growing transportation needs with huge investments in trackage, rolling stock, and in bettering the service. Yet, while the rest of the country has been benefitted by the improved service, the railroads themselves have seen the return on their investments decline from 5.2% in 1926 to 4.9% in 1929—the year in which they handled more freight and rendered better service than in any previous year. The explanation lies in the growing burden of taxation, higher operating costs, and other conditions over which the railroads have no control.

L. & N. passenger representatives will consider it a privilege and a pleasure to assist you in the planning of your vacation or business trips. They will gladly quote fares, provide resort literature, give reliable information as to train schedules, and, if you desire, make advance Pullman reservations, arrange for tickets, and assist in various ways in formulating travel plans.

A. A. JACKSON ANSWERS CHARGES AGAINST HIM

Mr. A. A. Jackson of Lomax hands us the following for publication, for information to the voters of the County:

Status of the B. F. White Sacred Harp Musical Society of Alabama

There recently appeared a rather strange pamphlet purporting to be the "Proceedings of the B. F. White Sacred Harp Musical Society of Alabama, Called Convention, April 8th, 1922, Birmingham, Ala." The fact that this so-called convention was called by Messrs. J. C. Brown, W. P. Gilbert and W. J. Sloan and that their names appear on this wonderful document makes the matter entirely understandable to us who know what the 'proceedings' of these gentlemen have been during the last eight or ten months. But there are perhaps a number of Sacred Harp singers in the state who have not been so situated as to be able to keep in touch with the events leading up to the publication of this pamphlet. For the benefit of such, this statement has been prepared.

Some time ago erroneous reports began to be circulated over the state to the effect that the funds belonging to the society have been misspent. Of course the circulation of such reports was detrimental to our cause, and our president, A. A. Jackson, requested Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan, as trustees, to come to his home and audit the society's book. They failed to do so. President Jackson then appointed a number of other competent persons to examine the books. This committee found the books had been accurately kept. they also went to the banks and found our money was there. IT HAD NOT BEEN STOLEN. Still, Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan were not satisfied. They met our worthy president on one of the streets of Birmingham and demanded that the typewriter and books belonging to our organization be turned over to Mr. Sloan, who claimed to be assistant secretary. About the same time, or a little later, they issued a call for a meeting to convene in Birmingham on the 28th and 29th of December, 1921. At this meeting J. D. McClesky of Gadsden acted as chairman and J. H. Shirley, then of Shelby county, served as chaplain. In repsonse to a question from president Jackson, these men both admitted they did not know the cause of the trouble they had come to help settle. It was clear though that the purpose of the meeting was to cast discredit upon our patient and faithful president, A. A. Jackson and his worthy daughter, Miss Elizabeth Jackson. However they could not substantiate any of the charges against Mr. Jackson and his daughter; they did nothing that was constructive and everything they attempted to do was destructive. They repeated the demand that the books of the society's accounts be turned over to them, or to a committee appointed by them. Of course, either Mr. Jackson as president, or his daughter as secretary, is naturally and properly the custodian of the society's books, typewriter' etc. But in addition to this, a state convention had been called a short while prior to this time and this convention had definitely and unanimously instructed Mr. Jackson to retain possession of those things. Therefore, he did not surrender them to these gentlemen, and their meeting adjourned without accomplishing anything definite or worth while.

In the meantime the real friends of the B. F. White Sacred Harp Musical Society had not been asleep. They saw that Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan had refused to function as trustees and they began to circulate a petition calling upon Mr. Jackson to call a state convention for the specific purpose of relieving Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan from their very arduous duties as trustees. About forty enrolled members of the society signed the petition and the meeting was called by President Jackson to meet in Birmingham February 4th, 1922. The call was made over a month in advance and was broadly advertised in the press and otherwise. When February 4th came, Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan and their attorney, Mr. Samuels, were at the meeting. The three gentlemen were given an opportunity to speak in their own behalf and each one made a short talk. Their attorney, Mr. Samuels, wanted to talk for them, but President Jackson had decided to allow no one to talk who was not a member of our society and therefore would not consent for Mr. Samuels to make a speech. We had no lawyer to make a speech against these gentlemen. Why should they have one to speak in their defense? Mr. Samuels, however, was persistent and had to be forced to sit down. This done, a vote was taken and the convention voted 37 to 9 in favor of discharging Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan as trustees.

Pretty soon after this, these deposed gentlemen, through their attorney, Mr. Samuels, filed a petition in chancery court to have our corporation dissolved, and in their petition brought many false charges against Mr. Jackson and our secretary-treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Jackson. Evidently the court thought the charges were false, for a decision was made against the gentlemen and sustaining Mr. Jackson and his daughter.

Failing to disrupt our organization, having been removed from their positions as trustees, and having failed in everything they had attempted, they next decided to call a meeting and claim that they and their little crowd constituted the B. F. White Sacred Harp Musical Society of Alabama. We thus see how this little pamphlet of "Proceedings" came into being. The thoughtful and fair-minded reader needs but little more explanation, and we shall point out only a few of the inconsistencies contained in their pamphlet of "Proceedings.'

They make the claim that Mr. Jackson and his daughter, Miss Elizabeth, were not legally elected in August, 1921. Now, the fact is, no one else was even nominated for president and secretary. Mr. Jackson and his daughter had been serving us so faithfully and well that it seemed to be generally understood that they would be retained in office. If the visitors present were allowed to vote, the convention itself, and not Mr. Jackson, accorded them the privilege of voting. Nobody objected to extending this courtesy to them. Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan might have objected if they had wished to do so.

Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan themselves have been recognizing Mr. Jackson as president. They recognized him as such when on February 4th they not only attended the convention called by Mr. Jackson, but spoke in their own defense and also had their attorney there to speak for them. We have already told how hard he tried to speak. Surely he would not have done this at a meeting he considered illegal. Even in their pamphlet of "Proceedings," they refer to Mr. Jackson as being president, for on page one they speak of "The convention between the majority of the board and its president."

On page 7 of the "proceedings" Mr. Shirley is wrongly quoted, as we suppose he himself would testify. In substance, Mr. Shirley said that he had previously stated that Shelby County had donated more money than it had been given credit for, and that upon investigation he had found that the county had not given as much as he had previously stated it had, and that inasmuch as his previous statement had been made publicly he wanted to correct it publicly.

There are many other erroneous and really ridiculous statements in the pamphlet of "Proceedings," but surely we have said enough.

In conclusion, let us ask if Mr. Jackson and his daughter were not legally elected in 1921, why have Messrs. Brown, Gilbert and Sloan, aided by their two attorneys, been so long in discovering it? It seems that they could not make this discovery until they had been deposed as trustees, and had failed in the court, in everything else they attempted; and, now, like a drowning man grabbing at a straw in their desperation, they are making the claim that Mr. Jackson and his daughter are not legally elected officers. Of course, the claim is as absurd as anything can be.

This article has been voluntarily prepared by members of the B. F. White Sacred Harp Musical Society of Alabama, and, incidentally, we are also members of the Birmingham class. In preparing this we have not been actuated by any feeling of ill-will toward any individual. We are only working for the welfare of our great organization and we invite all lovers of Sacred Harp singing to aid us.

We, whose names appear below, are members of the Birmingham class and of our state organization. We endorse this entire paper.

It cannot be assumed, in the face of the details of the answer, that the misconduct charged against the respondents in the handling of the funds belonging to the order are true, or that irreparable injury will attend, or even has attended, the reception by respondents of funds drawn from the membership under the rules of the association."

The judgment of the circuit court, in equity, is affirmed.

Note.—The foregoing opinion was prepared by Justice McClellan before his resignation, and is adopted by the Court.

Helena, Ala., April 2nd, 1930.
Elbert Taylor, Clanton, Ala:

My dear Brother:

I saw a letter in the paper with the names of you and some of your neighbors. Let me advise you as a brother in Christ and for the good name of Chilton county. Tell them to come to Birmingham and learn something about this man; ask some who know things that have been done.

What went with the poor girl that he first adopted before he moved from Birmingham to Chilton county? He taken this poor orphan girl with him and when it was over she was a ruined girl. Whatd id he do with her? He sent her away and she has never been seen in Birmingham since. And his wife thought more of the girl than she did him and so she left this old man and went to take care of this orphan girl that he ruined. And in a few days he then up with the woman he is now living with and it has been reported they were not married when they moved to Chilton County.

This is a dangerous man. Tell the good people what they have done. But don't let him get hold of nothing as he will do somebody dirt. You ask him to tell you what de did with the money that was gathered up for that big singing hall that was to be built in Jefferson county.

Let me beg you to reconsider and tell the good people in Chilton county to vote this man down as he is not needed in a public office.

When I see you I can tell you more than I can write.—Your brother in Christ.

In regard to the charges contained in the letter addressed to Elbert Taylor and signed "your brother in Christ:" The status of the B. F. White Sacred arp Musical Society of Alabama, and part of the decree handed down from the state supreme court and signed by four of the judges is sufficient proof for any sane person to know that the charges are without foundation and are false.

I want to say in regard to the letter addressed to Mr. Elbert Taylor, when Mr. Taylor gave me the letter he called my attention to where the edge of the envelope was turned down to prevent the name of the post office to show when the letter was postmarked. That caused me to suspician the postmaster of writing the letter. To satisfy my mind I got a friend to write the postmaster a business letter and ask for a return answer. The next day my friend came to me with the answer, and the answer had the signature of R. E. L. Ward.

My friend and myself compared the two letters, and we decided they were written by the same person. I had some parties in Clanton who are supposed to be experts on handwriting, and they said their judgment was that the same person wrote both letters. I went to Birmingham and had the two letters compared and they said the same person wrote both.

In regard to the slanderous charges contained in the letter addressed to Elbert Taylor and signed your brother in Christ. The charges are libelous and came from the pen of a liar. These two letters are in the hands of the post office department. I shall look to the laws of my country for protection.

In conclusion, I want to say the blackmail letter was designed to injure me in making the race for representative of our county. I assure my friends throughout the county that I am abundantly able to defend any charge that may come against my characted. And I also want to say to those who are helping this fellowman liar out in spreading his lies to be careful.

Yours for truth, honesty and righteousness.—A. A. Jackson.

HONORS TO MOTHER

What a friend we have in mother!
All our troubles she will share;
But my heart is sad and lonely
When I see her vacant chair.

Oh, how I long to hear her voice
And to see her face once more;
But she has gone up to heaven,
I'll meet her on that golden shore.

It's hard to know her tongue is silent
And her heart will beat no more;
But I know that I can meet her
Over on that golden shore.

There we'll hear the angels singing
Over on that golden shore,
In that land with dear old mother;
There we'll never part no more.

My mind goes back to dear mother,
But she has passed away.
No one can cheer my heart as mother
No not one, no not one.

FOOD VALUE of Chocolate NEHI

Report of Chemical Analysis

WESTFIELD TESTING AND RESEARCH LABS.
WESTFIELD, MASS.

Lewis B. Allyn, Director

November 8, 1927.

Nehi Incorporated.
Columbus, Ga.

Gentlemen:

Examination of several bottles of Nehi Chocolate Beverage shows that each 9-ounce bottle contains on an average:

249 calories.

The total sour matter in the Nehi Chocolate Beverage, consisting of cocoa and milk solids, is 20.88 per cent. A good quality of milk average approximately 14 per cent total solids.

In addition to the comparatively high calory value of Nehi, its ash or mineral content is of an alkaline nature which tends to reduce acid conditions. As you are doubtless aware, for purposes of the most effective nutrition, the child must eat some food which gives an acid reaction, such as meat or cereals, and other foods which give the opposite or alkaline reaction, for example, fresh vegetables, milk, and the like. Nehi belongs to the alkaline producing foods which play an important role in our daily well being.

Compared with ordinary carbonated soft drinks, Nehi Chocolate Beverage contains 2 to 3 times as much solid food material.

Respectfully submitted,

L. B. ALLYN.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

NEWS OF SHILOH

Farmers of this community are almost up with their work, and are waiting for a good rain; it is very dry around here.

On last Sunday Miss Minnie Bice together with her friends and relatives enjoyed a bountiful birthday dinner at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bice.

Last Thursday Miss Vera Vance and the little daughter of Mr. John Yeargan of Enterprise visited Mrs. Clyde Pierce and family.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the supervision of Mr. J. I. Bice.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Guy Nelson has saved from his vetch crop a wonderful supply of hay, which he did not get to turn under on account of the dry weather.
